S. S. Gibbs, of Lakewood Nurseries, Inc., was runner-up in the July tournament of the West End Golf Club, receiving a handsome driver as a prize. Mr. Gibbs believes that he will win the August tournament with his new club.

J. P. Russell & Sons are building a new addition to their present range of houses, 25x110 feet. Mr. and Mrs. Russell and their son, Joseph, Jr., are on a vacation trip to the southern Georgia and Florida shore resorts. The building program is in charge of Reginald Russell, who has recently returned from Columbus, O., after spending two years in the north studying among the large growers.

August Borg, of Weinstock's Flower Shop, sailed for Stockholm, Sweden, on the steamer Stockholm. He will not return until the middle of October.

The store of the Joy Floral Co., 548 Peachtree street, is undergoing many improvements, and on completion will be one of the handsomest stores in the southeast. This store will have many features for the convenience of the employees that have heretofore been neglected.

H. G. Hastings & Co. are mailing out their summer catalogue of 300,000 copies. This company reports that the daily business is increasing rapidly and for the last two weeks the increase over last year is averaging from thirty-five to forty per cent.

Local conditions were quite erratic last week. Outside of funeral work and a number of hospital orders, there is absolutely no business being done. Continuous rains have created an overabundance of outside stock and everyone who has anything planted is getting fine results.

Gladioli are most abundant, and fine stock in any variety can be had. Roses are plentiful at $2 to $4 per hundred for the best. Russell and Columbia are leaders. Asters in every color and size are arriving. Although stock is fine, retailers are cautious in their purchases.

Some of the finest Easter lilies of the season are on the market. Zinnias are plentiful.

Various Notes.

John H. Bath returned home last week after enjoying a most pleasant two weeks in the Rocky mountains.

The Sunday closing of all retail stores seems effective and is proving a success to trade and stores.

Several Omaha florists and families are planning to attend the S. A. F. convention, at Kansas City. T. E. E.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

There is a great surplus of all kinds of cut flowers, with the exception of roses. Roses of good quality are not plentiful. Ophelia, Columbia and Premier are the best varieties. Gladioli are overabundant and the price is low. Carnations are small and poor. Lily of the valley is scarce and high in price. The summer supply of cattleyas is light, but it fills the demand. Asters are getting more plentiful and are improving in quality.

Various Notes.

George T. Boucher has a new Buick delivery truck. Pineapple plants in full fruitage are a novelty here. Mr. Boucher is spending part of his vacation at Niagara Falls.

William L. Keller and family are spending their vacation at Cranberry lake, in the Adirondack mountains.

Miss Eva Neun is spending a month's vacation in the Catskills.

Harry C. Davis, of the Buena Vista Gardens, Culver road, has on exhibit at the G. T. Boucher store choice named varieties of gladioli. Among these are American Beauty, Madame Morrel Selby, Mauve Queen and L'Immaculee.

Felix Alberts is disposing of surplus asters and gladioli by running special sales. E. C. A.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Every amateur gardener in this section seems to be growing gladioli this season. One retail florist had offers of stock from six different farmers in a week. The farmers or their wives had grown gladioli and could not sell them at any price. The wholesale houses disposed of some of their stock for $20 per thousand.

The surplus will be out of the way soon and prices will be better. Home-grown asters are good. Business was such the first few days of last week that a good deal of stock was used. Orders fell off the latter part of the week and stock piled up again.

Various Notes.

William L. Rock received a letter from W. E. Groves, president of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, inviting him to the twenty-fifth annual convention of the association, at Montreal, this week.

Henry Kusik was the first exclusive wholesale florist in Kansas City. He came here about twelve years ago from Minneapolis, Minn., where he had been a partner in a wholesale flower and supply business.

G. A. Harrison, of the Muehlebach Flower Shop, has returned from a vacation.

E. D. Lacey died at his home at Moran, Kan., Friday, July 28. He was 86 years old. E. C. Lacey, a son, is with H. Kusik & Co., wholesale florists.

J. F. Ammann was in the city Wednesday, August 2, on his way to the Kansas State Florists' convention in Fredonia, Kan. Mr. Ammann has held twenty conferences for the F.T.D. since May 1. After the Kansas conference he went to St. Louis and thence to his home at Edwardsville, Ill. He will attend the S.A.F. convention here.

W. J. Barnes, L. R. Bohannon, Hugo Neff, Robert Fields and Joseph Griffis attended the Kansas State Florists' Association convention in Fredonia, Kan., August 3 and 4. Mr. Neff made up several baskets and bouquets for the delegates the second day of the convention. This was an interesting part

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held in Pembroke hall, Glen Cove, N. Y., July 10. President Milstead occupied the chair. Two applications for active membership in the society were received. The president appointed A. Andrews, James McCarthy and Benjamin Southerland to judge the exhibits, and the following awards were made:

Six tomatoes—William Milstead, first.
Twenty-five string beans—Peter Stobie, first; T. Twigg, second.
Eight vases snapdragons—William Milstead, honorable mention.
Two cucumbers—T. Twigg, cultural certificate.
One vase of gladioli—T. Twigg, honorable mention.
Three vases of gladioli—William Noonan, honorable mention.

William Noonan, the dahlia specialist, gave $50 towards the support of the dahlia show.

An essay on "Old Gardeners" was read by Thomas Twigg.

The picnic of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held August 10, according to announcement.

The exhibits for the meeting in August will consist of six ears of sweet corn, one outdoor melon, twelve mixed

DAVIS HYBRIDIZES GLADIOLI.

Because it so faithfully describes typical developments in gladiolus raising, the following interview with one of the flower's enthusiasts, John C. Davis, in the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle, July 30, is quoted here for Review readers:

"Among flower lovers the old-fashioned gladiolus has come to hold front rank," began the article, "and it is quite the thing to encourage, if not actively to engage in, efforts to improve the blooms. These efforts have so far succeeded that the flowers of this kind of the present day have little in common with those of the gardens of fifty years ago, save the name.

"An enthusiast in the development of the gladiolus is John C. Davis, 1804 Culver road, who, unknown to any except a few intimate friends, maintains and works over a garden of about six acres in which he has growing nearly 400 named varieties of gladioli and also thousands of seedlings, no two alike. There are here many varieties it would be difficult to find elsewhere and Mr. Davis is always pleased to welcome visitors, whether attracted by the beauty and rarity of the blooms or interested in seeing the different stages of the work done to produce new varieties.

"'Did you ever stop to consider the vast amount of work the growers and hybridizers have done in the past fifty years to bring this flower up to its present state of beauty, size and perfection?' inquired Mr. Davis of an interested visitor yesterday afternoon.

"'From the sword lily, as it was known to the ancients, originating and growing as a wild flower in South Africa, it was imported into more civilized countries and the work of improving its size, shape and coloring began. This work is still in its infancy, as each year brings forth some new variety excelling in all qualities anything that has previously been introduced.

"'This work is slow, requiring about three years from the time of planting the seed until a flower is produced at its best. Thousands of hybridized seeds may be sown and taken care of for three years, and then the grower may find that from all his work and effort nothing has been produced that will excel varieties already in existence, and again he may find even one, two or three flowers differing from any others heretofore known and the joy of finding such flowers and knowing that he has given to the world something new and grand in floriculture fills the grower's heart with pride.

"'The hybridizer is generally jealous of his new creations until such time as he has propagated a sufficient quantity of bulbs to sell. This keeps the new varieties in the background for several years and then the public is suddenly shown one of the new varieties in all its glory and from that time it becomes an article of commerce and a new variety in gladioli.'"

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

The supply of outdoor flowers is large, and its disposal has become a burden rather than a pleasure. The season has been extremely variable and a great many persons who do not usually grow flowers for marketing purposes are doing so this year. Gladioli and asters are the principal flowers and the trading is fairly active, although the supply far exceeds each day's requirements.

Roses have shortened up a little, although there are plenty for the demand. Columbia, Butterfly, White Killarney and Premier continue to be the foremost of the summer crop. There are some fine American Beauties in the market, which are in demand at certain times. Lilies have also been much in demand the latter part of the week, as well as valley. There are still a few carnations, but the asters are gradually pushing them aside; the latter are getting to be of a much better quality. Business, as a whole, has just about held its own with that of last year, so there is hardly any room for complaint.

Various Notes.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

NARCISSUS FLY.

We have mailed you specimens of our daffodil bulbs, which have been grown in the locality of San Leandro and which were practically exterminated by either worms or bugs. The grower of these bulbs would like to know what the name of these bugs is and how they can be exterminated. A. J. S.—Cal.

The bulbs sent were of a good size and of good quality, but had evidently been ruined by the larvæ of the narcissus fly. The fly is quite large and the resultant maggot, when hatched and matured, measures one-half to three-quarters of an inch in length, and immediately proceeds to devour the bulbs. It is a serious pest to narcissi and control methods have so far not proved satisfactory. All harvested bulbs which seem in any way affected should be burned. Usually the dormant bulbs can safely be placed in water for a few days after digging and any maggots will be drowned or will leave the bulbs.

For growing plants, if your area is not too large, you might get considerable relief by treating the ground with carbon bisulphide. This liquid comes in 1-pound cans and is volatile; therefore it should not be opened until you are ready to use the liquid. Holes are bored in the ground four to five inches deep, a foot apart each way, and a teaspoonful of carbon bisulphide is poured in each hole. The hole should be immediately closed and the soil well firmed over it. The gas from the carbon is penetrating and will suffocate all worms and larvæ. Do not use any naked lights near the carbon, as it is quite explosive. It is better to apply this liquid when the soil is rather moist, as it is then more penetrating and deadly. It will not harm the narcissi. C. W.

GROWING COCOS PLUMOSA.

Kindly give me cultural directions on Cocos plumosa grown outdoors. I have transplanted about 4,000 of these, which were 3 years old when set out and which have large stalks. I have cut them back well to give them a good root action, and they are coming along nicely. The soil into which they are transplanted is a sort of decomposed granite, mixed with a sandy loam in spots, and has not been cultivated for about three years. The plot was plowed and disked twice. Will it be well to mulch the soil with fertilizer as soon as the plants show the first set of leaves? What can be added to bring out the best green in the plants? J. L.—Cal.

In plowing and disking the land for Cocos plumosa, you have given the soil the best possible preparation. Cutting back the plants is only advisable when the heads are so large that the wind would sway them, but as they are coming along nicely, evidently no harm has been done. A mulch of fertilizer would be a good thing, as it would help to keep the color of the plants up to normal. Anything conducive to the good health of the plant will help the color, but unfortunately the cold winters of late years have damaged the color of cocos considerably. This is, of course, different from the yellow, starved foliage that comes from neglect. The writer has grown and sold thousands of Cocos plumosa in Los Angeles county and never had the least bit of trouble in keeping their color good, except as noted above, in cold winters. With the mulch above suggested, nothing else in the way of fertilizer should be needed, but an abundance of water must be given the plants at all times. Should the foliage begin to look a little pale, an application of blood meal or other nitrogenous fertilizer would be an advantage. Regular and careful cultivation is, of course, an absolute necessity for good culture. The decomposed granite and sand make one of the best soils for cocos, provided that the moisture requirements of the plants are not neglected. H. R. R.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

A decidedly stronger tone was noted in the market last week and stock cleared well. Wholesalers are still complaining about long-distance shipping business, but the cities and towns within a couple of hundred miles of the city are all calling for more stock. In other cities within daily driving distances of Los Angeles retailers save express by driving in and taking out their flowers, while considerable business is done by motor stage routes which reach practically every city and town in California.

Roses are still arriving from the San Francisco market, but they have a rather worn appearance by the time they get here and do not compare with the best local stock. Flowers from the young plants are coming in and, although the stems are only of medium length, the flowers are good. Carnations from the field are of fair quality only and dahlias are not first-rate, except the pompons, which are excellent. Gladioli and asters hold the center of the stage for good shipping stock and high-class retail work. Small flowers generally are poor. Zinnias are improving daily, though the season has not been favorable generally to this heat-loving flower.

Various Notes.

The two new houses at Groen's Nursery, Montebello, Cal., are about com-

"Ain't The War Over Yet?"

Yesterday we heard a fellow ask this question in this way. He wanted to know, too. He was very much in earnest about it. Fact is, he was hopping mad.

Someone was trying to charge him an extra price on some stuff that was bought in war time, and paid for every month since.

We rather sympathized with him. We had been having some experiences ourselves. A party of us rented a launch to go out deep-sea fishing. It was to be ready at 6 a. m. sharp, accent on the "sharp." Sure now! Absolutely! If we were half a minute late we would miss the boat. We were there at 5:30 a. m. At 6:30 the man who owned the boat showed up. At 7 a. m. the man who runs the boat arrived. At 8 o'clock we had our bait aboard and were ready to start. In the meantime we had kicked some, and kicked hard. The skipper was all apologies. It was all on account of the war. He never, in all his life, missed an engagement—before the war.

We wish to echo the inquiry of our friend as quoted above—"Ain't the war over yet?"

We are perfectly willing to pay our taxes, but the war as an excuse for broken engagements, delayed shipments, indifferent or discourteous employees, mislabeled plants, poor seeds, adulterated fertilizers, and so on, has about played out. The war will affect our business just so long as we allow it to do so, and no longer. We think it's about time to get some different reason for everything that happens, from the horse having the heaves, to the baby's milk turning sour.

We are right after our business in all its details. There is one place that's going to try to do business this year in the before-the-war way. Good stock, fairly priced, properly packed, promptly shipped.

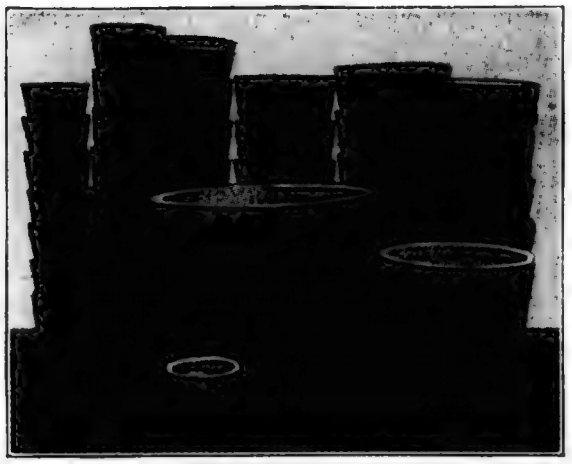
And that place is plete and they are certainly a credit to Mr. Groen, to Mr. Huss, who has personally superintended their erection, and to all others concerned. They are 30x300, high at the eaves and in every way up-to-date. In the one to be devoted to carnations, Mr. Groen has already got the stock planted and growing and, as soon as ready, the other is to be planted to baby roses for winter cutting. In one of the older houses is a fine batch of the new fern, Adiantum Wrightii, doing splendidly, and, although the stock is young, it is already showing the characteristic long and vigorous fronds. Speaking of this fern calls to mind that T. H. Wright, of Wright's Flower Shop, last week received the silver medal awarded to cut fronds of this superb fern shipped by him from Los Angeles to Indianapolis, to the national flower show last spring.

Anton Then, the veteran greenhouse grower of Chicago, was among our visitors last week.

J. Lockhard, of the store of Walter Armacost & Co., returned from his vacation, spent in the San Bernardino mountains, in time to see Mr. Williamson before he started.



Robert Armstrong, of the Montecito Nurseries, at Santa Barbara, Cal., has been in the city looking up old friends and buying stock. He had the misfortune to hurt his knee, which did not tend to enhance the pleasures of his trip, but it takes more than this to make him anything but cheerful.

Mr. Aldrich, of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, was calling on the trade last week.

Owing to the amazing development of the business on the Pacific coast from British Columbia down to San Diego, it has been the feeling here that the trade ought to be represented on the board of directors of the S. A. F. One of the most prominent men connected with the florists' as well as the nursery end is Roy F. Wilcox. Approached on the subject by other men of note in the trade, he has agreed to accept nomination for director and it is hoped by all that he will be elected. Mr. Wilcox is taking a carload of boxwoods and other ornamental stock to the convention at Kansas City, probably the largest consignment that has ever been made to the east from the coast for purely exhibition purposes. He leaves here August 8, as he has business to do at Council Bluffs on his way to Kansas City. The writer happened to be in Mr. Wilcox's office on pay night last week, and the number of pay checks showed that sixty-five men are now on the pay roll here. When it is figured that this is only one of many fine establishments, it is no wonder that the trade on the coast is looking for recognition from the national society. Incidentally, new boilers are being installed at the greenhouse range here.

This magnificent fern is now so well known that no description is necessary. We sold out completely this spring and those who were disappointed in obtaining stock have now their opportunity.

For cutting it is absolutely the best variety in cultivation. Fronds sent from Los Angeles to Indianapolis on the occasion of the National Flower Show were awarded a Silver Medal. This speaks volumes for its keeping qualities and it is the freest grower of all Adiantums, the fronds frequently attaining a length of 24 inches under ordinary cultivation.

The Southern California Dahlia Society will hold its annual show at the Ambassador hotel here, September 14 to 16. C. Archer, of Alhambra, is president of the society and C. Gutting, of the Superior Dahlia Gardens, is vice-president.

H. N. Gage has returned from a motor trip to British Columbia and reports the best kind of a time.

Joe Perotti returned from his vacation, bringing with him a bride.

Now that most of the staff have returned from their vacations, Manager Harry Friend, of Wright's Flower Shop, is talking of his.

Andrew Bruce, who has been associated with George Eischen at the Alexandria Florist, has been made manager in his place and J. Hardy, recently of the Dostal-Wolters and O. C. Saake staffs, has also joined that of Mr. Barron.

Polder Bros. are in with excellent zinnias now, probably the best in the market thus far.

B. Bakker, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, has been buying a considerable number of bulbs here. H. R. R.

The Market.

Last week the market contained plenty of gladioli, asters and dahlias. Good roses were scarce and more could have been used if they had been obtainable. Baby roses were an exception, for these were plentiful. The first yellow chrysanthemums were more numerous, but they were not of satisfactory shipping quality, on account of the earliness of the season. Butterfly orchids were plentiful, and as these are well adapted for decorative purposes, they sold excellently. The usual summer stock was in good shape and came in more abundantly than was warranted by the demand. This included larkspur, gillyflowers, Shasta daisies, a great assortment of French marigolds, scabiosa, red-hot poker, in red and yellow, zinnias mignonette, etc. Rubrum lilies were plentiful and good and there were some Easter lilies. ready been in Egypt and is expected to stop in Italy en route home to visit relatives of Mrs. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Axell have an attractive bridal chamber prepared for E. F. Axell and his recently acquired wife, whom he is bringing from Minnesota. They are expected daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reith, florists of New Orleans, have left for home after passing several weeks in San Francisco and Vallejo, Cal. Mr. Reith brought his father, who is 75 years of age, to visit the latter's sister, Mrs. Frank Englehardt, of Vallejo, who is 72 years of age. It was the first time the brother and sister had met in 50 years. The Reiths are much pleased with California and are considering the purchase of a prune ranch near Vacaville.

E. C. Amling, of Los Angeles, has been in San Francisco calling on the trade.

The Olympic Flower Store is to open in a new building, now in the process of erection, at Post and Taylor streets. This is near the Olympic Club, the leading athletic organization of the city.

The Art Floral Co., Powell street near Geary, is to move two doors south, on Powell street. Mose Gunst, proprietor of the building in which the firm is now located, has offered those tenants with leases liberal inducements to move, as a large candy firm is to occupy the main floor. The lease of the Art Floral Co. has almost expired.

Enomoto & Co. are shipping asters as far east as Kansas, and S. Enomoto states that so far the shipments have experienced no delay or difficulty on account of the railroad strike. It appears as though the express companies were working on schedule time, as the asters are reported to be arriving in good condition.

The place of business of Domoto Bros., on Bush and St. Anne streets, looks like a big lily show, so large is the crop of fine rubrum lilies the firm is cutting.

H. K. Tanaka is now acting manager for the United Flower & Supply Co., I. Inoue having decided to prolong his stay in Japan for some months. Mr. Tanaka was for four years with Domoto Bros. at their nurseries across the bay. He stated that his firm is specializing more and more in dried flowers.

E. W. McLellan stated that the strike situation has not interfered in the least with shipments of asters. This has been the best rose season for ten years, according to Mr. McLellan, who attributes the unusually fine and hardy rose crops to the cool weather and fogs that have prevailed in the vicinity of San Francisco. There have only been two or three really warm days all summer. The McLellan nurseries are still cutting summer crops of roses. Mr. McLellan regards the railroad strike situation as highly important to the florists' industry in this territory. It will be a bad lookout for California chrysanthemum growers if express shipments are tied up about the time that chrysanthemums are ready for shipment. However, we are hoping that both sides will show tact in the threatened railroad strike.

Mrs. J. A. Axell has been showing Chinatown and other points of interest to Miss A. V. Amundsen, proprietress of the Annavee Flower Shop, of Yakima, Wash. Miss Amundsen, who is a much-traveled and delightful woman, went to Yakima as a Y. W. C. A. secretary and, giving a little time to aiding the proprietor of the flower store there, eventually bought it and is making a success of her venture.

George P. Wagner, head decorator of Joseph's, when starting with his family on his vacation trip at 3 a.m., was held up by a masked man at a lonely spot. Stepping on the gas, Mr. Wagner swerved to the right to avoid running down the man. Friends, following in another auto, almost ran the man down when they, too, speeded up. The running boards of both cars were so packed with baggage that it was impossible to jump on either, and to this Mr. Wagner attributes their escape. He has returned full of enthusiasm for the rapid growth of Los Angeles.

Podesta & Baldocchi report business good for the season. The staff of this firm is still waiting for a bowling challenge from other florists.

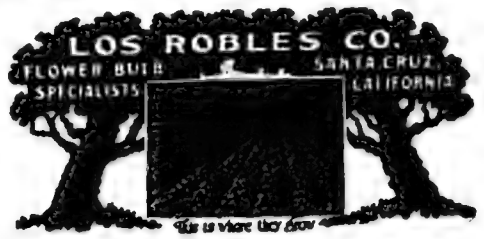
Pelicano, Rossi & Co. continue to show dahlias grown by Frank D. Pelicano, that arouse great admiration for size, coloring and general beauty. Some of them are so fine that strangers have to touch and examine them before they can realize that each is but a single flower. This firm has been busy with funeral work.

Shellgrain & Ritter are finding orders good in bon voyage baskets and funeral orders have come in well recently.

Albert O. Stein has advance orders for a number of September weddings, which make a busy month certain. Mr. Stein is using tiny bottles of French perfume in corsage bouquets, etc. The bottles, imported from France, are coming in a great variety of sizes and colors. He is also featuring some attractive Della Robia pottery, imported from Italy. These baskets, vases, etc., are used for expensive table decorations.

F. C. Jaeger & Son had three automobiles full of floral offerings for the funeral of the late John Reid, father-in-law of Mayor James Rolph. F. C. Jaeger, Sr., is leaving for a vacation in the south. He will visit Los Angeles and Phoenix, Ariz., and call on florist friends in a number of cities. Herman Stelling, of Jaeger's, is vacationing on an ark, in Marin county, and is sending a mess of catfish now and then to his friends.

Darbee's is drying large stocks of strawflowers. Mrs. Gooch is especially successful with her method of drying these, in retaining the colors.



Brown & Kennedy have been busy with funeral work. The Reid funeral

ZVOLANEK'S COMMANDMENTS.

A. Zvolanek, of Lompoc, Cal., has compiled a decalogue for sweet pea growers. Here are his ten commandments on sweet pea culture:

1. Any soil is good except heavy clay or too much sand for sweet peas.
2. Work the soil at least eighteen inches deep—two feet is better—with plenty of rotten stable manure. Cow manure is the best. Use some lime and crushed bone.
3. Tramp the soil down firm; never plant in loose soil.
4. Take the hose and water down well to the base. Let stand a few days until moderately moist. Never put the seed in too wet soil.
5. Rake off the surface smoothly, make rows, and drop seed not over two inches deep and two inches apart. Rake off again. Do not water until all the seed is up, at least half an inch out of the soil. Nine-tenths of the failures are caused by watering too soon. When the seed is all up, give a good soaking about once a week. It is better to keep moisture below than on top. Do not plant sweet pea seed when the weather is too hot; shade the glass first.
6. When all seed is up, thin out to at least six inches apart. If outdoors, cover the rows with old strips of wire netting, to protect the young plants from birds. All birds like the tender sweet pea shoots when just out of the ground.
7. Look from the start for green aphis. They are the greatest enemy. When you discover any, take the spray gun at once, load it with one part of forty per cent nicotine and 400 parts of water, if young sweet peas are outdoors; in the greenhouse one to 600 will do if you spray them in time. Shoot any blackbirds that are around your peas. They do not pick on the aphis, as many people think, but they feed almost exclusively on the lady bugs, who are the greatest exterminators of aphis. Protect all frogs; they feed only on insects. Build them little water ponds where they will propagate quickly, and they will keep your garden free of insects.
8. Give the young plants good, substantial supports, so they can climb from the start and have a chance to produce nice, long, straight flowering stems. Crooked-stemmed flowers are worthless.
9. When the plants begin to bloom give them liquid manure often. It will produce 100 per cent better flowers. Cow manure or a weak sheep manure solution is the best.
10. Pick daily, even the poorest flowers; it will lengthen the flowering season. Always keep the surface earth loose to about two inches. Never allow any crust on top.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Business continues good for the summer season. There is a great plenty of roses, asters and gladioli, which are bringing good, normal prices. The demand for gladoli this season has shown an astonishing increase, the new light colors being especially popular. They bring $1.50 to $3.50 per dozen spikes, at retail.

Various Notes.

Charles Smith, of the Eastern Wreath Mfg. Co., of this city, has left to attend the S. A. F. convention, at Kansas City.

John Johnston, of Johnston Bros., was a business visitor in Boston and vicinity last week.

James W. Nye, superintendent of the Gregory estate and farm near Wyoming village, was married July 26 to Mrs. M. Burche, of Norwich, Conn.

Harry Oatley has gone to Worcester, Mass., where he is going to manage the flower stand in a large department store.

Mastodon Pansies

1922 PRICES:

MASTODON PANSIES

Mastodon Miracle Mixed—Our initial offering of a super mixture containing all the finest types of all our strains, and including ruffled flowers and many of our new sunburst pansies, smoky rims, henna shades, with fine long stems; in fact, an up-to-the-minute strain that will delight the pansy fan who is looking for something BETTER in the pansy world. Fine for forcing. (O. K. outside.)

Price: 1/16 oz., $0.85; 1/8 oz., $1.50; 1/4 oz., $2.75; 1/2 oz., $5.25; 1 oz., $10.00; 2 oz., $19.00.

Steele's Greenhouse Special Mixed—(O. K. outside). A wonderful market strain and a fine forcer.

Steele's Mastodon Private Stock Mixed. (Unequaled for the price.)

Price: 1/16 oz., $0.65; 1/8 oz., $0.75; 1/4 oz., $1.50; 1/2 oz., $2.75; 1 oz., $5.00; 3 oz., $13.50; 4 oz., $17.50.

Mlle. Irene—New. A henna red. A wonderful Pansy. A fine forcer. Price: 1/16 oz., $1.00; 1/8 oz., $1.75; 1/4 oz., $3.25; 1/2 oz., $6.25.

Steele's Mlle. Isabelle—Our novelty. A ruffled bronze, a few are yellow.

Steele's Improved Vulcano—New. A rich, velvety Burgundy red. Very large. Long stems.

The price of each of three varieties named above is the same as Miracle Mixed.

Introducing Steele's Improved Orchidea—A mixture of unique sorts, ranging in color from creamy white to shell pink, and of the most delicate orchid shades. A beautiful variety. Price: 400 seeds, 50c; 1/16 oz., $1.00.

Panama-Pacific Yellow. Those wonderful Exposition Pansies.

Parisian Yellow. A pure yellow of marvelous size.

Bronze Mastodon. The most popular strain we have.

White Mastodon. Dark center, the largest pansies we have ever seen.

Grand Duke Michel. The premier large, all white pansy.

Madame Pérret. Rose and red shades.

Meteor. A wine-red—a profuse bloomer.

Black Mastodon. Huge in size.

Madame Steele, Elk's Purple. Extra fine. Very large.

Prince Henry. The largest dark blue in existence.

Mastodon Beaconsfield. Purple, upper petals tinged with lavender. Extra large.

Mastodon Adonis. Light blue, baby blue and lavender shades. Our most popular blue.

The price of each of the twelve varieties named above is: 1/16 oz., $0.65; 1/8 oz., $0.75; 1/4 oz., $1.50; 1/2 oz., $2.75; 1 oz., $5.00; 3 oz., $14.50; 4 oz., $19.00.

STEELE'S PANSY GARDENS, PORTLAND, OREGON

Greenhouses, is spending the summer with his family at Point Pudith.

Morris Koppelman, who is associated with his uncle, Joseph E. Koppelman, has returned from a two weeks' vacation with relatives in Boston.

Joseph E. Koppelman, who was painfully injured last week when knocked down by an automobile, is able to be about again, although limping badly.

Herbert Leach, of M. J. Leach & Sons, Pawtucket, has returned from a vacation automobile trip to Canada.

Fred B. Luther and family are at their country home, at Norton, Mass., for the summer.

The Misses Kinsley, of Pawtucket, are on an extended automobile trip through the White and Green mountains and the Berkshires.

Robert Burns, of the Burns Rose Co., has just purchased a new touring car and is spending his leisure driving about New England.

John Burke, of the former firm of Burke & Burns, has returned from Denver, where he has been for the past couple of years.

Fred Dietz, of French street, has just purchased a new touring car and spends all his spare time visiting the greenhouses throughout this section.

Olney H. Williams is making extensive additions to his range on Hartford avenue, Johnston. He is erecting a new greenhouse, 28x100 feet; a new garage and a new office building.

Miss Annie Peckham, of Carpenter street, has returned from an automobile vacation trip through the Berkshires.

William Cohen, of Cohen Bros., announced the advent of a charming daughter in his family circle last week.

The Colonial Flower Shoppe, on lower Westminster street, has completely rearranged the interior of the store, repainted and changed the entire appearance. W. H. M.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Alexander Forbes, Newark, N. J.; secretary, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE Vegetable Growers of America will meet at Indianapolis August 22 to 25, with headquarters at the Claypool hotel.

SEVERAL jobbers are seeking additional quantities of freesias, deliveries on growing orders having been insufficient to meet their requirements.

WEATHER conditions indicate excellent quality and a large crop of gladiolus bulbs in the middle west, where the bulk of the crop now is grown.

ANNUALLY the United States consumes about 600,000 pounds of watermelon seed. For one pound of seed eight to eleven melons are required. Generally speaking, about forty varieties are planted.

H. G. HASTINGS & Co., Atlanta, Ga., report that business the last two weeks has shown an increase of thirty-five to forty per cent over a year ago. The summer catalogue has just been mailed. Its edition consisted of 300,000 copies.

THE Truckers' Seed Co., 4011-13 Milwaukee avenue, Chicago, is successor to the Everette R. Peacock Co. It was reported in these columns July 13 that the assets of the latter concern had been sold by the receiver to Everette R. Peacock and Peter Peerbolte.

TWO SHIPS BRING NARCISSI.

The first considerable quantity of Paper Whites arrived on the steamer Providence, which reached New York from Marseilles July 29. This shipment was, nevertheless, not large, comprising only 733 cases. The consignments were:

Consignee:	Cases
Ashton & Co., J. W.	70
Stumpp & Walter Co.	88
International Forwarding Co.	96
Downing & Co., R. F.	125
On order	354
Total	733

On the Canada, which reached New York from Marseilles, August 2, were nearly 5,000 cases, but still the number of French bulbs so far received falls a long way short of the same date last year. The consignments on the Canada were as follows:

Consignee:	Cases
Equitable Trust Co.	200
Hempstead & Sons, O. G.	115
Michell Co., Henry F.	2,609
On order	1,983
Total	4,907

The steamer Britannia sailed from Marseilles July 26, also carrying a considerable quantity of Paper Whites. It is due at New York August 11.

BULBS FROM ROTTERDAM.

Early consignments of Holland bulbs arrived August 1, from Rotterdam, on the steamer Westerdyk, which arrived at the port of New York, August 1. The consignments were as follows:

Consignee:	Cases
American Railway Express	2
Bernard, Judae & Co.	4
Vaughan's Seed Store	26
Lang, R. F.	4
Downing & Co., R. F.	44
Total	80

This shipment reached these shores at about the date the first arrivals of Dutch bulbs have come in the past, though customarily a greater number of

HOPMAN & SONS REINSTATED.

The federal horticultural board has announced that it has received satisfactory assurance from Peter Hopman & Sons, of Hillegom, Holland, that they will comply hereafter with the quarantines and regulations governing the importation of plants into the United States.

The action of the board expressed in circular letter HB-139 is, therefore, revoked. Permits for importations from this firm will be issued in accordance with the quarantines and regulations.

SEEDS FROM AUSTRALIA.

The steamer Canadian Constructor arrived from Australia last week at the port of New York. On the manifest, filed July 29, were listed several large consignments of grass seed. Among them were 600 sacks of fescue seed for Carter's Tested Seeds, Inc., and 559 sacks of fescue on order. Thirty-two sacks of dog's-tail grass were consigned to the Nungesser-Dickinson Co. and seventy-five sacks to J. Loewith, Inc. There were also 100 sacks of fescue consigned to the Bankers' Trust Co. and twenty-three sacks of grass seed to Peter Henderson & Co.

PROPOSE SEED REGISTRATION.

A seed registration law, under which the Department of Agriculture would exercise the same supervision over all seeds as is now held over grass seeds, has been proposed in a bill introduced in the Senate August 2, by Senator Capper, of Kansas. In addition to the examination of seed purchased in the open market and the publication of the names of persons offering such seed for sale and a rating of the seed, the department would fix standards of quality and purity and would register specific lots of seed meeting such requirements, which registration could be used for advertising purposes by the possessor of the seed.

Section 3 of the bill authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture "to investigate the production of seeds and to devise and promote methods for their improvement; to determine the quality and varietal purity of any seed offered for sale in the United States, and to publish the results of such findings together with the name of the person offering such seed for sale, and to fix, establish and promulgate standards and requirements for the quality and varietal purity of seed, and to alter or modify such standards and requirements whenever necessary, in accordance with which seed may be represented or indicated as registered seed; and such standards and requirements shall be known as the 'Federal Standards and Requirements for Registered Seed.'"

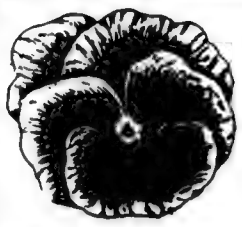
Section 4 reads: "After the Secretary of Agriculture has fixed and established such standards and requirements for seed, any person may apply to him for the registration of any specific lot of seed. Upon a finding by said secretary that such specific lot of seed conforms to such standards and complies with such requirements, he may approve such application. Upon approval of such application such person may represent or indicate such specific lot of seed as 'Registered under the Federal Seed Registration Act.'"

Misrepresentation as registered seed of stock not conforming to the requirements and standards of the government and not, in fact, registered would be punishable by a fine of not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both, and the seed so misrepresented will be liable to seizure by order of the courts. No person will be prosecuted, however, who can establish a guaranty signed by the grower, wholesaler, jobber or other party residing in the United States, from whom he purchased such seed, to the effect that the same conforms to the standards or complies with the requirements of the act or is registered.

The importation of seed misrepresented as complying with the department's standards or as registered is also prohibited and, unless reëxported within three months from the date of notice of refusal of admission, will be seized and destroyed.



The measure has been referred to the Senate committee on agriculture.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

"All in," commented G. H. Hunkel, of the G. H. Hunkel Seed Co., Milwaukee, Wis., referring to the receipt of seed display cases, which have developed into a most effective form of publicity. The building here comprises 25,000 square feet of floor space. There are three stories and basement, with modern equipment. Mr. Hunkel is related to the partner of the same name in the Holten & Hunkel Co. The grand outdoor flowers at the commission house are from seed furnished by his house.

W. E. Dallwig, Milwaukee, Wis., has a unique method of showing a full line of color plates of Dutch bulbs arranged on a counter covered with glass. Fall sales are hoped to equal or exceed the seed volume, which was good.

"The man behind the gun can do telling work upon bugs," observed N. R. Buckley, of the L. L. Olds Seed Co., Madison, Wis. "In other words, the salesman back of the counter, by intelligently explaining the merits of various insecticides, can relieve the anxiety of the planter and aid in the war upon bugs. The situation is becoming more acute each year and our experience in coping with it is undoubtedly the primary reason for the increasing business. This season was a topper."

"Best season ever," commented M. Raymond Shumway, of the R. H. Shumway establishment, Rockford, Ill. The grand old man, founder of this flourishing concern, celebrated the passing of the eightieth milestone and the fifty-third year of the business July 6. Though described as being in the golden ear stage, he delights in presiding over the composing room and setting type for the catalogue, which annually interests thousands of readers and patrons.

The Currie Bros. Co., Milwaukee, Wis., as usual with seed houses that handle many bulbs, has taken inventory, cleaned up stocks and found the figures satisfactory. William Currie, Jr., gives personal attention to this branch, since William, Sr., accompanied by Mrs. Currie, has gone to sojourn for a while near the Bay of Fundy. Robert Currie has charge of the flower department. Team work is seen in the harmonious working of the two departments in the one building. W. M.

THE WALLER SEED CO.

The L. D. Waller Seed Co., Guadaloupe, Cal., has developed a reputation in its line not only locally but universally also. As a result the company has received and is receiving a considerable amount of publicity, such as a 2-column write-up in a local newspaper, the Santa Maria Vidette, under date of July 21.

In 1913 L. D. Waller and Dr. J. H. Franklin started their seed farm at Guadaloupe, beginning with thirty acres. The start was not wholly an experiment, as Mr. Waller has spent a good share of his life in the seed business and Dr. Franklin was an expert seedsman. The thirty acres have increased to 500 acres at Guadaloupe and 500 acres in smaller lots between Casmalia and Morro, Cal. Sixty persons are employed and the annual pay roll amounts to more than $50,000.

The growing of sweet peas is a specialty of the Waller farms. There are more than 300 varieties on the big place. Threshing begins in August and continues for two months. As rapidly as the seeds are threshed they are taken to the warehouse on the ranch, where they are recleaned by modern machinery. The recleaned seeds are then packed and shipped. The first shipment of the season's seeds this year was made Tuesday, July 18.

Quantity production is not the only aim of this place. There is an experimental side to the enterprise. Fifty acres have been set aside for this work, which is under the personal supervision of Dr. Franklin. This department has originated ten new varieties of the California poppy, among other introductions. Into this experimental farm go 200 varieties of flowers annually, all of which are planted in 200-foot rows and carefully observed. Just now antirrhinums are being produced. The firm is ever on the watch for new varieties with which to experiment.

Arlington, Mass.—Walter L. Teele is making a start in the florists' trade.

SNAPDRAGON

BE WISE and have a big supply of Snapdragon the coming winter. There's a reason. Coal will be scarce and high; carnation plants are of poor quality and scarce, and bulb stock, particularly Paper Whites, will be high. Get busy and have a lot of seedling snapdragons ready to fill all empty space. Seed may be sown any time. Plants should be ready to bench in from 60 to 75 days.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE Southern Nurserymen's Association will meet, September 6 and 7, at Lexington, Ky.

THE boom in building is expected to make the coming autumn especially good for nurserymen in urban centers.

A MONTHLY periodical which describes itself as an exponent of the nursery trade, scolds nurserymen for reading the florists' weeklies. Yet can it blame them, when most of the news in its columns is gleaned from those journals?

THE annual meeting of the Southwestern Association of Nurserymen will be held at Dallas, Tex., September 27 and 28. A large attendance is expected from the section included in the association, the five states of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico and Louisiana. The secretary is George F. Verhalen, Scottsville, Tex.

CEMETERY MEN TO OMAHA.

The annual convention of the Association of Cemetery Superintendents will be held at Omaha, Neb., September 18 to 21. The headquarters of the association during the convention will be at the Hotel Fontenelle.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, W. S. Pirie, Milwaukee, Wis.; vice-president, George E. Troup, Buffalo, N. Y.; secretary and treasurer, W. B. Jones, Pittsburgh, Pa. The executive committee is made up of the following: W. H. Atkinson, Trenton, N. J.; H. S. Adams, Jamaica Plain, Mass.; F. H. Rutherford, Hamilton, Ont., Canada. The convention committee is as follows: H. S. Mann, Omaha, Neb.; J. Y. Craig, Omaha; N. P. Dodge, Omaha; George H. Brewer, Omaha; Frank L. Weaver, Omaha; Frank J. Burkley, Omaha; Robert R. Strehlow, Omaha; Henry B. Shook, Omaha; Theodore Laskowski, Council Bluffs, Ia.

PAINESVILLE, O.

E. B. George, assistant manager and superintendent of greenhouses, will represent the Storrs & Harrison Co. at the S. A. F. convention in Kansas City, August 15.

C. S. Barto, of Stark Bros. Co., Louisiana, Mo., and family are spending their vacation with Mr. Barto's parents here.

The office force of the Storrs & Harrison Co. is taking its annual two weeks' vacation.

The Donewell Nurseries have taken a contract for a large landscape job in Cleveland, which will require several thousand shrubs, evergreens, etc.

Henry Kohankie & Son are building a new packing house and storage cellar.

Julius Kohankie, together with his family, left this week for Toronto, Canada, where they will spend their vacation.

John Horvat, in charge of the packing department in the greenhouses of the Storrs & Harrison Co., is rapidly gaining reputation as a ball player. His marvelous work behind the bat for the company team has caused some of the big league scouts to take notice. His batting is also of the top-notch variety.

W. B. Cole is putting in cement driveways all through his trial grounds, packing houses, cellars, greenhouses, etc. Visitors are always welcome.

The Joseph F. Martin nurseries have branched out considerably this year and there are now about thirty-five acres under cultivation.

R. A. Cawley has a beautiful display of choice and new varieties of gladioli. Mr. Cawley specializes in novelties, bulbs and plants.

Widgren Bros. have finished budding their large field of roses. Roses will be their specialty.

C. C. Hallinan intends to branch out into the nursery business and has added several acres of land to his range.

The Wayside Gardens Co. has a beautiful display of hardy phlox in bloom and its nurseries throughout are looking fine.

James York—not his father, Henry York, as reported in this column some weeks ago—has started in the nursery business. He has about ten acres of land. His partner is Grayton Sweet, who is growing perennials. Many roses are also being grown.

The nurseries of Fred Endress & Son have caused no little comment among the local nurserymen here. Starting with a small acreage and a little stock, this firm has advanced steadily, increasing the acreage and stock annually. The progress of this firm is remarkable and today it has over 100 acres under cultivation.

The R. E. Huntington Co. nurseries, Mentor, O., are in the pink of condition. The large fields of perennials now in bloom make a picturesque scene.

Rychlik's Floral Gardens have again carried away the honors for their gladioli. About twenty acres of choice gladioli are in bloom here and make a beautiful sight.

The George Martin nurseries are well stocked with a fine lot of perennials. Mr. Martin says that orders for fall delivery are coming in steadily.

T. R. Norman & Sons have an exceptionally fine stock of perennials and shrubs this year. T. J. M

HOW GOVERNMENT HELPS US.

Department of Agriculture's Work.

The development of horticultural and pomological activities of the United States Department of Agriculture rests on the foresight and work of two men: William Saunders, appointed horticulturist in the department in 1862, and Prof. H. E. Van Damin, appointed as special agent in pomology in the department in 1885.

From small beginnings, the work has grown to cover not only the cultural problems of fruit and vegetable production, but includes the investigation of the diseases as well as the insect enevegetables which constitute our American industries.

In fact, separate divisions of work under the name of bureaus have been built up in the Department of Agriculture for the purpose of handling various problems growing out of the production of agricultural crops, including fruits and vegetables.

There are large and important economic problems resting back on the fundamental question of an adequate production in each territory to meet sufficiently the needs of the markets and yet not in such quantity as to prove harmful, either to the producer or to the consumer. For production which interferes with or depresses the market below a reasonable point always reacts to the disadvantage of not only the producer, but the consumer as well.

What Strains Exist?

A critical study of existing varieties of fruits and vegetables is desirable for the purpose of determining whether or not there exist strains capable of supplying the needs of the industries, in order to make their operations continuous where gaps now appear in the variety list. We have found also that a horticultural as well as economical phase of the variety problem rests back upon the relative productivity of strains of given varieties of fruits and vegetables.

The result of the bud selection work carried on in connection with the citrous industry of California has demonstrated the fact that there are, among the citrous tree population of California, individual plants which produce large quantities of highly desirable fruits annually. It has as clearly and as emphatically been demonstrated that there are trees which grow vigorously and are in reality the most attractive trees in the orchard, but which bear sparingly fruits of inferior quality and appearance. A method of tree records has been devised which enables growers in an inexpensive and simple way to determine which of the trees in any given population belong to the productive or the non-productive class; and with the modern methods of plant propagation, it is an easy matter to amputate the heads of the non-productive individuals and replace them, not with boneheads, but heads of a productive and profitable nature. The influence of this work on the citrous industry has been marked and it has enlisted the attention of growers of other types of fruit to such an extent that the department is now planning to extend such studies to fruits other than the orange and lemon.

The pecan industry has relied for its guidance chiefly upon the studies of the department for the variety list which is now used as the basis of the industry, for the methods of grading which are now employed, and for the general cultural practices which are followed.

Errors of Growers.

A number of years ago the fruit producers of the Pacific coast were picking, washing, polishing, sizing, wrapping and packing their oranges and apples according to what they considered to be the latest up-to-date methods of handling; and, as a result, they were getting, at the end of the journey from the field of production to the great eastern markets, about twenty per cent of spoilage in their product. This was clearly a case of negligence on the part of the transportation companies. In fact, the transportation companies were paying the bill in the form of claims. Becoming weary of this, the transportation companies, as well as the growers, appealed to the Department of Agriculture for help, with the idea that possibly some means might be devised by which these heavy losses in transit could be avoided. The fact is that the department devised a plan by which it could determine the temperature to which fruits in various parts of the carload were exposed during the period of the journey from one side of the continent to the other. Through this device it was found that while the load was not uniform in temperature throughout and most of the spoilage took place on the top layers, yet the railway company could not be held responsible for all of the losses. A careful study was projected into the industry with the idea of possibly locating the factors which contributed to the spoilage of the fruits in transit. The question was, in what process in the handling of the fruit from the tree to the market did it receive such treatment as to make possible the entrance of blue mold spores? In the first place, it was found that picking boxes sometimes had slivers or nails projecting in such a manner as to scar or break the skin of the fruits; that if the fruits were cut from the trees with long stems, in dropping them into picking sacks and pouring them into the lug boxes, these stems would break the skin of the oranges or lemons with which they came in contact. It was also found that the long stems of fruits caused bruises and abrasions during the various processes of scrubbing and sizing. It was therefore apparent that the fruits should be picked in such a way as to avoid the long stems—in other words, the stems must be cut close to the buttons. It was also found that the majority of the clippers used in the cutting of the fruits from the trees had sharp points, and that frequently the pickers pierce the skin of the fruit with these instruments. It was found that long fingernails of the pickers were detrimental to the keeping of the fruit.

Investigates Plant Propagation.

For many years the department has been interested in various phases of the problem of plant propagation. This problem was emphatically brought onto the horizon by the appearance of phylloxera in the vineyards of California. As you know, the grape industry of the Pacific coast is projected on the European varieties of grapes. These are not indigenous to America and are not resistant to phylloxera. The spread of the trouble in California is bound in time to accomplish the same results that it did when introduced into France, probably not as quickly, because America has a greater area of new land on which to transplant its grape activities as old vineyards go out through infestation. Ultimately we shall reach our limit, and if we are to continue in the production of vinifera grapes on our Pacific coast, we shall have to resort to the use of resistant stocks for the propagation and maintenance of our industry. The department has for a number of years concerned itself with the introduction, testing and determination of the adaptability and congeniality of these resistant stocks. In fact, this experience forms the background for some of the important investigations which it is now undertaking in its study of the question of the adaptability, congeniality and commercial possibilities of fruit trees and ornamental stocks.

It has long been recognized that one of the great weaknesses of the commercial orchards of the country at the present time is the lack of uniformity in the stocks used for propagation purposes. Every orchard which one visits which has attained any considerable age clearly shows the lack of uniformity in the stocks used, through the vacancies which occur from place to place in the orchard, and through dwarf trees with low productive capacity in one block and strong, vigorous, desirable trees in others. This lack of uniformity both in the yearly growth and in the longevity of the trees is, it is believed, largely due to the variation in the stocks employed. There is not sufficient variation in the soil to account for the marked differences observed in the individual trees. The background, therefore, of the department's activity in connection with fruit tree stocks is to develop, if possible, those which are well adapted to the various production regions and which will give uniformity of product in the shape of an orchard tree population.

One of the interesting suggestions in this field is in the line of vegetative propagation—in other words, the use of cuttings of either the top or the root for the purpose of securing propagating material of the desired vigor and uniformity, to replace the miscellaneous collection of seedlings which now form the background for the propagation of our apples, our pears, our peaches and our plums.

But after we have given consideration to all of the varied phases of the problems of production we yet need an attractive place in which to locate our habitation. The horticultural and pomological activities of the department do not neglect the surroundings of the rural home in their project schemes. We are endeavoring, through the development of simple plans and the use of inexpensive material, to develop a real taste for home beautification throughout the length and breadth of our land. We do not feel that in doing this we are competing with the commercial landscape architect, but we are really developing a sense of the beautiful and a desire to make home surroundings more attractive, which will, without doubt, later reflect itself in increased work for the landscape architect, and through the increased demand for trees and shrubs, will surely contribute to the coffers of the nurserymen.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

TRACING DEFECTS.

We have mailed you a plan of our heating system. It is our contention that there is something wrong with this heating plant, as it does not heat the range properly. The south house is heated with two 2-inch overhead flows, emptying into thirteen 2-inch returns and finally into a 3-inch main return, carrying the water back to the boiler. The center house is fed with one 2-inch flow, which runs into eleven 2-inch coils, with a 2-inch return. We have little trouble with this house. The north house has ground beds and it is fed by one 2½-inch flow and nine 2-inch returns. The first house is 21x92 feet, while the other two are 16x76 feet.

M. G.—Ia.

We regret that the data are not more complete, since, without knowing the amount of exposed glass, as well as the temperature to be maintained and the minimum outside temperature, it is impossible to judge accurately regarding the capacity of the plant, and we can only offer suggestions which may aid you in securing a better circulation in the heating system.

With the data at hand, it is only possible to consider that the amount of radiation and the capacity of the boiler are such as will maintain the temperatures desired in the houses, provided the flows, returns and connecting pipes are properly adjusted, so far as the sizes are concerned.

It is probable that several serious mistakes have been made along the lines last mentioned. If the returns are at a level above the top of the boiler, the suggested changes will largely correct the difficulty.

It is noted that in the south house the two 2-inch flow pipes supply, respectively, six and seven 2-inch returns, which appear to be nearly ninety feet in length. This means that these 2-inch flow pipes must each supply 400 to 450 square feet of radiation. This is much more than should be required, even under pressure, and considerably more than twice as much as is desirable with an open-tank system. Supposing that the total amount of radiation in this house is correct, it would be advisable to change two of the returns to flow pipes, so that there would be four 2-inch flow pipes and eleven 2-inch returns, although it would be even more satisfactory with three 2½-inch flow pipes.

It is surprising to note that in the center house there is little trouble with the heating, although one 2-inch flow pipe is used for eleven 2-inch returns. This, perhaps, may be accounted for by the fact that neither of the side walls of this house is exposed and it is considerably protected from high winds

This gives you a fine look at the lap-over-lap which joins the twins with a nipple and holds them snug and tight with short tie bolts.

Another Burnham This Time It's A Twin Section

It's the daddy of them all, when it comes to cast iron boilers.
It's so big that the sections are twin.
The fire box is so wide that the grates are also twins.
Each twin is 24 inches wide.
The complete fire box width is 50 inches.
The twin sections, all except the front and rear ones, are all interchangeable.
No rights and lefts.
When it's a left, it's also a right.

It has the same Burnham fire travel that makes the short coal bills.

If you want a big heavy duty cast iron boiler, here is one that will surely suit you. Its hot water rating is from 12,600 feet to 17,300 feet of 2-inch pipe.

If you want high pressure work, of course the Burnham Tubular is the one.
Those who have them certainly do swear by them.

by the houses on either side. For this house it is suggested that you use three 2-inch flow pipes and nine 2-inch returns, although it should be possible to heat the house to 60 degrees with seven or eight returns. In the north house, the suggestion is made that the present 2½-inch flow pipe be used to supply the four 2-inch returns on the exposed wall. Of the other pipes, use two 2-inch as flows and the remaining four pipes as returns. The above suggestions are offered with the idea of making as few changes as possible.

There is one other point in the arrangement of the coils which, undoubtedly, accounts in part for the trouble with the system in the past and which, unless changed, will make it impossible to obtain the best results from the arrangement suggested above. We note on the diagram, at both ends of the coils, the words "one and one-fourth inch," from which it is inferred that each of the coils is connected with the main flow pipe by means of a 1¼-inch pipe and that at the other end of each coil a pipe of the same size also connects each coil with the main return. The connection with each coil should be by means of a pipe at least 2 inches in diameter and it should be 2½-inch in the case of either a flow or return pipe of that size. Care should also be taken that, when the return pipes from one house are connected with the main return pipe, this pipe also is gradually enlarged so that it will not impede the circulation of the water.

HEATING HOUSE AND OFFICE.

We are building a greenhouse, 32x125 feet, with 6-foot side walls, containing three feet of glass. The temperature to be maintained is 60 degress when the outside temperature is at 10 degrees below zero. The boiler is to be located at the rear of the house, which will run east and west. How low should the boiler be in the pit? State size and arrangement of pipes. Will it be necessary to use an expansion tank? How large should the smokestack be? The house will have five benches. The office of the building is to be heated by means of radiators. D. C. H.—Mich.

The greenhouse proper will require about 1,800 square feet of hot water radiation. For the office use 100 square feet of radiation, in addition to one square foot of radiation for each square foot of exposed glass in the office. This would probably make the total radiation in the greenhouse and office approximately 2,000 square feet. To supply this amount the boiler should have a rating of at least 3,000 square feet. For such a boiler, the smokestack should be about sixteen inches square inside. The smoke flue should be fourteen inches in diameter. If there are no high trees or buildings to interfere with the draft, the chimney need not be more than thirty-five feet high above the point where the smoke pipe enters. It is preferable to have the top of the boiler two feet below the returns in the greenhouse. Two 4-inch main flow pipes with two main returns of the same size will suffice, and these flows should be used to supply six 2½-inch overhead flow or supply pipes. Carry one flow on each side wall plate, one on the purlin posts about halfway between the ridge and the plates and the other two three feet under the ridge. Use one of the ridge flows to supply the radiation for the office and each of the remaining five flows to feed a coil of three 2-inch returns. Place a coil under each of the benches.

Give the flows a slope away from the boiler and run them with a fall of one inch in twenty feet. The expansion tank should hold about thirty gallons. Locate it as high as is convenient and connect it with each main flow pipe at its highest point by means of a 1-inch pipe, which should be united and run as a 1¼-inch pipe to the boiler.

If radiators with fifty to sixty square feet of surface are used in the office, connect each of them to the system by means of 1¼-inch flows and returns.

CHANGING SYSTEM.

Kindly suggest a heating arrangement for two greenhouses, 15x50 feet, running north and south. The boiler house is located at the north end of the houses and shields both of them from the north winds. The side walls are four feet high and the ridge is eleven feet high. The houses are connected, with no wall between them. The west wall is built solidly of brick, while the east wall has two feet of glass. The south ends are glazed. We desire to heat the range with hot water, and have been using a William H. Page boiler, rated at 1,400 square feet. The houses were new last year and are now piped, but the present system is unsatisfactory. Each house at present has a 2½-inch flow pipe eighteen inches below the ridge. The west house has five 2-inch returns and the east house has three 2-inch returns under the side benches. Kindly suggest an arrangement which will not necessitate changing the present system any more than is absolutely required. J. A. W.—Pa.

It is noted that each house has one 2½-inch flow pipe and that there are five 2-inch returns in the west house and three 2-inch returns under the side benches in the east house. Since it is the east house that has glass in its exposed wall, we judge that in the east house there are two coils, each containing three 2-inch returns, under the side benches, or six 2-inch returns in this house.

The boiler has a rating fully fifty per cent larger than is required for two houses of this size, and although we have had no experience with it, the boiler is, doubtless, amply large.

In the main we have no serious criticism to offer, and if the radiation is properly installed, we do not see why it will not heat the two houses fairly well. There are two points in which the radiation can be improved—the addition of a little more radiation and the use of it for flow pipes rather than in the coils. Although the aggregate radiation is no more than can be carried by a 2½-inch flow pipe, we do not like to use more than four 2-inch returns on a 2½-inch flow and in long houses it would be advisable to reduce the number of returns to three or even two.

If an additional 2½-inch flow pipe is added to the radiation in each house, it will correct the difficulty in both respects. Carry a flow pipe on each side wall of the houses and connect each of the flow pipes with a coil of three returns, except along the west side of the west house, which should only have two returns. Use two 2½-inch main returns from each house.

Run all pipes downhill and connect the highest point in the system with the expansion tank. If possible, locate the boiler so that the top will be two feet below the lowest part of the returns.

ENLARGING RANGE.

I have one greenhouse, 21x100 feet, with three feet of glass in the side walls, which I wish to heat to 50 or 52 degrees when the outside temperature is at zero. There is also a house, 10x50 feet, with two feet of glass in one side wall and seven feet of glass in the other, which I wish to heat to 55 degrees. I have one No. 7-24 Lord & Burnham square sectional boiler. How much additional greenhouse space would this boiler heat? Would it heat another 20x100-foot house? I have 3-inch and 3½-inch pipe on hand which I should like to use for flows and 1½-inch and 2-inch pipe for the returns.

E. A. M.—N. Y.

From the above description it is inferred that the lean-to house has its high wall exposed. If built against a service house, or some other structure which is heated, this will make a considerable difference in the amount of radiation required. This house appears to connect the boiler house with the 21x100-foot house and hence the flow and return piping leading to the latter can be considered as furnishing fully 100 square feet of radiation.

In addition to the above, you could run a 3-inch flow pipe near the ridge of the 10x50-foot house and connect this with a coil of six 1½-inch pipes.

For the other house, run one 3½-inch flow pipe on the back wall of the narrow house and, after it enters the wide house, break it up into three 3-inch flow pipes. Carry one of these on the right-hand side of the house along the wall plate. Carry another two or three feet below the ridge. The main flow pipe will enter this house some fifteen feet from the end and you can carry the third flow pipe to the end of the house, thence to the corner and along the outer wall. Connect each of these three flow pipes with a coil of three 2-inch return pipes running back to the farther end of the house. Carry the back coil across the end of the house as far as the door and by means of either a 3-inch or a 2½-inch pipe connect each of these coils with a 3½-inch main return leading through the narrow house back to the boiler.

If the boiler has a grate of more than 800 square inches, or is rated for more than 2,000 square feet of hot water radiation, it should be able to take care of additional radiation. A boiler with 1,100 to 1,200 square inches of grate surface and with a rating of 3,000 square feet of radiation, would heat a third house, 20x100 feet, to 50 degrees, and probably even to 60 degrees.

A brick chimney should be about twelve inches square inside, and thirty feet or more in height, depending upon the height of the buildings or trees nearby. This would mean a chimney about twenty-eight inches square outside. The upper twelve feet could be of one row of bricks, provided a 12x12-inch chimney flue is used and all openings are carefully filled with mortar.

SUCCESS GREETS McCARRON.

No one knows how much the guiding influences of women have assisted in crowning the achievements of men with success. There are women, however, who prefer, not through selfishness, to blaze their own trail in the business world and to achieve success through their own abilities and personal efforts. Such a woman is Miss Julia McCarron, of Lynchburg, Va. Miss McCarron was not left a business to run. Her achievements and success are due to her own native ability, her pleasing personality, her untiring zeal and ambition and her admirable character.

Miss McCarron's first attempts in the business world were made at Lynchburg, Va., where she entered the trade in a small way, but her business has expanded to the extent that she now points with pride to a flower store in Raleigh, N. C., and one in Durham. In the old greenhouse at 1715 Liberty street, Lynchburg, Va., Miss McCarron specializes in miscellaneous potted plants. In the new range, erected by the Lord & Burnham Co., located at 2000 Memorial avenue, roses, carnations, snapdragons, lilies, forget-me-nots, sweet peas, calendulas and swainsonas are seen, while in outdoor culture she is now cutting gladioli, asters, summer lilacs, phlox and dahlias. Miss McCarron is also planning further expansion of her business.

FOR SPRAYING, NOT SMOKING.

A tobacco plant containing about ten per cent of nicotine is being developed by Otto Olson, county agent of Clinton county, Pennsylvania. It is said that this new variety contains nearly twenty times the percentage of nicotine found in the average grade of tobacco. Mr. Olson says that the discovery cannot be used for smoking purposes, but is intended for commercial purposes solely, and especially for spraying fruit trees, flowers and vegetables. The new plant differs considerably from the Havana, or broad-leaved. The leaf seems to be more wrinkled, broader and grayish-green in color. Tests indicate that a high percentage of nicotine is found in the stems and leaves, and the experimenters believe that practically all of the plant can be made use of.

E. F. R.

Albuquerque, N. Mex.—The business of the late Byron Henry Ives, located at 912 South Fourth street, has been purchased by S. Weiller, S. Benjamin and August Seis. These men will take over the management of the greenhouses September 1. Extensive improvements are planned by the new owners.

The Market.

The cut flower market throughout last week was in a wretched condition. An oversupply and a weak demand always are characteristics of the August season, but there are many who assert that the market never was in such poor condition as at the present time. This is largely due to the immense supply of asters and gladioli now coming in. It would seem as though the growers of these commodities had doubled in number in the last season or two. The finest asters, of splendid quality, brought as much as 20 cents per bunch, mainly whites; and super-grade gladioli, such as Schwaben, brought from 20 cents to 30 cents per dozen, but there was not much of this class of stock. A few flowers from gladiolus novelties, such as Ruby, a magnificent crimson, color of the Hadley rose, under pressure brought 40 cents to 50 cents per bunch, about the cost of an individual bulb.

The supply of roses is increasing, but the market takes care of arrivals fairly well at the prevailing low prices. American Beauty is more plentiful, and sales are slow at 15 cents to 40 cents each for special grades. Hybrid teas move fairly well, although the assortment is not large and much open stock is seen. Ophelia holds up its reputation as a good summer rose, and sells, perhaps, better than any other.

Carnations seem to be entirely out of the market, after a season somewhat longer than usual. The same may be said of sweet peas.

Cattleyas are in small supply and the demand is equally small; consequently, prices are not materially changed. A few gardenias are arriving, the best of which bring $3 per dozen.

The supply of Easter lilies is shorter than for some time; such as arrive move rather slowly at $12 to $15 per hundred. Speciosums are plentiful, both L. album and L. rubrum, and bring $5 to $8 per hundred. Lily of the valley is in small supply, although it is ample for the demand.

The supply of outdoor flowers, other than asters and gladioli, is large and, with few exceptions, clearances are difficult. Among the items available are scabiosa, blue lace flowers, bouvardia, stephanotis, montbretia, delphiniums, zinnias in great quantity, tuberoses, statice, buddleia, veronica, gaillardias, rudbeckias, cornflowers, candytuft, calendulas, African marigolds, coreopsis, dahlias, gypsophila, Hydrangea paniculata, strawflowers, tritomas and celosias.

THE PULVERIZED MANURE CO., 33 Union Stock Yards, CHICAGO

Rigo is chairman, expects to fill two cars on the trip to the Kansas City convention of the S. A. F. A number of those going will take the special excursion through the Great Lakes, the whole trip to occupy twelve days. Many in the party are out-of-town florists, the number from Greater New York being rather small.

Roman J. Irwin, 43 West Eighteenth street, left Monday of last week for Montreal, where he planned to attend the convention of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, which opened August 8, returning in time to join the party going to Kansas City.

Sol Hanfling, of the Hanfling Co., 131 West Twenty-eighth street, who recently returned from Europe, where he visited the various markets for florists' supplies, says there is nothing cheap in the offerings to be found there, prices being remarkably high.

The Henshaw Floral Co., in its supply department at the Eighteenth street flower market, is showing some exhibition stands of great merit. They are of metal, and adapted to the display of flowers on an exhibition table in such a way as to eliminate the bareness and inartistic appearance of flowers usually staged in vases. There are special stands to use in connection with the larger ones, in which are extra containers, so that both long and short-stemmed flowers may be displayed.

Francis D. Gallatin, park commissioner, in his preliminary budget, to be presented to the board of estimate for next year, will recommend an increase in the staff of employed gardeners to sixty or more. At present there are only thirty-two; this force is inadequate for the work to be done. For some time the Shakespeare garden, near Eighty-first street and Central park, west, an object of interest not only to New Yorkers, but visitors from far and near, has suffered for want of attention; indeed, were it not for outside aid, it might have vanished altogether. The present force of gardeners is ridiculously small to care for Central park, the greenhouses and the smaller parks, to say nothing of the extensive planting of trees falling under the park management. J. H. P.

Harry Bayersdorfer and Mrs. Bayersdorfer recently made a Pierce-Arrow hotel to hotel speed record from Boston to New York.

Last week there arrived on the steamer Westerdyk, from Rotterdam, a consignment of four cases of prepared foliages and other specialties for S. H. Russin.

Another Reed & Keller Invention.

In the fifty years since the business of Reed & Keller, Inc., was established William N. Reed and Samuel Keller have fathered countless inventions making for the progress of the florists' trade. Many of these have been along the lines of wirework, as is their latest, a collapsible table on which to make casket covers. Application for a patent is pending. The casket table has a frame top consisting of three longitudinal rods and nine crosspieces; the material on which the flowers are to be sewed is spread on the table and any part of the under side is within easy reach without lifting. The table top is twenty-one inches wide and six feet long, so that the blanket lies on it in the same position as on a casket. Several hands can work on the job at the same time without being in each other's way. When the blanket is finished the table can be placed in the car and carried to the place where the cover is to be

King GREENHOUSES

¶ The business man who gets the most for his money bases his judgment of an article not only on the purchase price but on what that article will save and produce for him over a period of ten or twenty years. That is why the grower who buys a King Greenhouse forgets about the purchase price. He knows that it is no more than the price of an ordinary house and that it will be more than offset by the low cost of maintenance and operation and by extra long life.

¶ The grower knows also that King Greenhouses pay a larger margin of profit on the investment by growing more and better flowers than can be grown in the ordinary house of the same size. The scientific design and construction that lets in all the sunlight is the reason.

When you think of good greenhouses, think of KING.

OLDEST SASSAFRAS TREE CUT.

An ancient sassafras tree, said to be considerably over 200 years old, was recently cut down in the city of Harrisburg, Pa. According to J. S. Illick, of the state forestry department, this tree was the oldest of its kind in the United States. It measured thirteen feet in circumference, was fifty-six feet high, and the rings indicated that the monarch was from 210 to 215 years old. An effort was made by an expert tree surgeon to preserve the old landmark, but an examination showed that the heart of the tree was practically gone and that many of the branches were decayed. Safety demanded its removal. E. F. R.

"Malco" Paints and Economy go hand in hand

Don't buy paint with the idea that "paint is paint." It isn't. There is a distinction between "Malco" Greenhouse Paint and ordinary kinds. "Malco" Exterior possesses wearing qualities superior to the average, being made from only the finest and most lasting pigments, 80 per cent Linseed Oil. It works easily, covers well, holds its luster and is decidedly economical.

"Malco" Interior is an equally high-grade coating, as washable as it is wearable. Doesn't crack or craze, doesn't fade, doesn't cost more than inferior brands.

Puttium IN BLACK OR GRAY

When you think of glazing think of Puttium—the new McCallum-backed product that has already proved its mettle. There is no tar in Puttium—it will not crack, peel or break, it expands and contracts with every extreme of temperature, it never becomes brittle and is easy to remove when necessary. Gray Puttium, especially, is ideally suited to all kinds of glazing work and for bedding glass in particular. Avoid needless glazing trouble and expense—ask for Puttium.

Hammond's Thrip Juice

Registered

A Concentrated Liquid Insecticide for use against many Sucking Insects on Plants, Trees, Vines.

IN USE SINCE 1883 BY FLORISTS.

SOME SUCKING INSECTS MAGNIFIED THRIP

This is a contact insecticide. It was first used in 1883 for the Vine Hopper (or Thrip) on Grape Vines, the Aphis or Lice, Thrip, some Caterpillars, Soft Scale, and certain other insects of this class, on Roses, Carnations, Chrysanthemums, Grapes, Cherry Trees and Apple Trees.

DIRECTIONS—Shake Well Before Taking From Can—The generally accepted strength for use is one part Thrip Juice to forty of soft water, well stirred. Spray or syringe.

Gentlemen:
In regard to your letter of Nov. 23, 1921, and information as to the use of Thrip Juice, I will say that I bought it for cyclamen to prevent red spider or thrips. I might have had red spider or thrips, I don't know, but I have none on the cyclamen today. I have used this about once a week as a preventive.
Yours truly,
Louis Kirch.

The Market.

There was a heavy supply of stock in the market last week. The supply of outdoor flowers never was so heavy as at the present time and the quality is good. Varieties consist mostly of gladioli, larkspur, gypsophilas, zinnias, snapdragons, candytuft and several others. The market was pretty well overstocked, and prices on this class of flowers ruled low, much of it going to waste. Gladioli are unusually plentiful this year and the prices realized are below the cost of the bulbs. Carnations are out of the market entirely, and the supply of roses holds out in good shape, with the demand about equal to supply.

Various Notes.

The Florists Club held its monthly meeting Thursday, August 3, and it was well attended. The meeting was again held at the residence of H. Locker & Sons, and was much enjoyed by those present. The weather was ideal for an outdoor meeting.

The premium list of the Wisconsin state fair has been issued, and the amount of premiums in the professional floral department totals $1,450. A number of new entries have been added this year, and some of the premiums have been advanced, making it worth while to exhibitors. No doubt, there will be considerable competition in most of the classes. This exhibit takes place at the state fair grounds in Milwaukee, August 28 to September 2, and all florists in the state are invited to compete.

There will probably be about ten members of the trade from Milwaukee attending the convention at Kansas City. P.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams, of Plandome, L. I., who have been the guests of Mrs. Joseph Leikens here, have returned home.

Mrs. John T. Allan and Mrs. Carl Jurgens are members of the committee on the fair for the benefit of the Newport hospital.

Wenham the Florist has been busy, especially with table decorations among the summer residents. He had a special sale last week on snapdragons, at 50 cents per dozen. W. H. M.

Kokomo, Ind.—Mrs. Josephine S. Bitler, proprietor of Bitler's Flower House, has sold her interests in the store to W. D. and C. L. Bruner. Mrs. Bitler is leaving the trade on account of ill health.

GARLANITE

A PUTTY COLOR GLAZING COMPOUND

EASILY APPLIED

GARLANITE, the New Putty-Colored Glazing Compound, is the result of years of experience and untiring effort to produce a PERFECT Glazing Cement.

GARLANITE, made in putty consistency for bedding and semi-liquid consistency for bulbing over the top, assures you of the utmost in Glazing Service. The beautiful Putty color, its elasticity and the ease with which it can be applied or removed when necessary to replace broken glass makes GARLANITE the most desirable of all glazing materials for both new and old work.

PERMANITE, of course, still leads the field of black materials.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

LARGE SUPPLY. QUALITY GUARANTEED.

A 1 stock of the best commercial varieties. No drawn up hard cuttings. No midge. Circular "How We Keep Our Plants Clean of Midge" for the asking. Descriptive price-list on request.

OUR GUARANTEE.

We deliver Mum rooted cuttings parcel post free of charge up to the 6th zone, or 1400 miles from Geneva, and guarantee safe delivery. Stock not satisfactory when received may be returned at once and money refunded, or slight difficulties will be adjusted and you keep the stock. Outside this territory stock travels at buyer's risk and expense.

If we are short any varieties ordered will use our best judgment in supplying kinds just as good unless you state, "Do not substitute" or give second choice.

The quality of our stock is best shown by the fact that all our this season's business has gone out under the above guarantee and we have had to replace less than 100 plants.

CYCLAMEN PLANTS
READY NOW.

We can emphatically recommend them as a superior grade of plants, inasmuch as we have specialized On CYCLAMEN for years and have constantly improved our strain and methods of growing.

Through the use of a specially prepared compost, we have produced wonderful root action and a fine foliage, in fact we have never produced a finer lot of plants of the very best known varieties.

We have broken all records this year in the sale of plants and seedlings and have even shipped in full carload lots to eastern points.

Our plants positively have no trace or sign of the mite or any other diseases CYCLAMEN are subject to.

HORTICULTURAL BOOKS

"PLANT CULTURE."
FOURTH EDITION—444 pages.
By George W. Oliver.
A working handbook of everyday practice for the florist and gardener. This work covers practically all the known plants cultivated in the garden and home grounds, together with those of the greenhouse and conservatory, and with still more thoroughness those grown for everyday commercial purposes. The treatment includes a thorough elucidation of all the main points having to do with plant culture, such as budding, grafting, potting, soils, watering, seed sowing, hybridization and cultivation. Insect pests and plant diseases are taken care of in a special chapter.

CARNATION SEEDLINGS.

I should like to know whether or not carnations grown from seed will be larger and more double if they are kept a second season? B. G. C.—Colo.

It is well known among plant breeders that seedling varieties frequently change a great deal in the first year or two. There is no set rule, the changes being toward improvement or the reverse without any indication beforehand. Three years of testing are considered necessary to establish the characteristics of a new variety and even then a variety may develop faults or merits which were hidden before. If your seedlings look good to you, propagate a few of each variety and try them out until you are satisfied as to their value.

The 50x150 foot house, for which we furnished materials for Mr. Joseph Neus

Where Joseph Neus Found We Stood When We Took a Stand

Joseph Neus lives at Blue Point, L. I., the so-called "carnation center."

In the spring of 1920, he dropped into our New York Office with a mutual friend, who was an old customer of ours.
Mr. Neus wanted a figure on the materials for an Iron Frame house 50x150 feet.

In comparing our figures with others, he found they were not the lowest.
But when he carefully compared our houses, and equally carefully considered our reputation for sound practice and pleasant dealing, he gave us the order.

Evidently, he found both our house and our dealings lived up to their reputation; as this year he gave us an order for materials for a 150 foot addition.

Mr. Neus has told his friends that the price he paid for his house, was the price we first asked for it. That our first price was also our last one.
He seems to have felt that it was some satisfaction to know that anyone could get the materials at the same price, but no one could get them for less.

We are not out to get all the business there is to be had, on a pure price basis.
For over sixty years we have found that there is always a large number of growers who like our steady, solid as a rock way of doing business, and want our houses.

What others pay for their houses, doesn't seem to be all there is to it, for them.
They have satisfied themselves that every dollar they pay us, brings back its full dollar's worth.

One of our oldest customers summed it up years ago, when he said: "I always can depend on depending on Hitchings."

If you are considering a dependable house built by a firm, and for a price, you can depend on, then let's have a talk together.
You know we go anywhere for business. Or to talk business.

WE DO NOT TELL

an automobile manufacturer how to construct motor cars, nor a sea captain how to navigate his ship.

Our business is to manufacture and build first-class greenhouses. If a greenhouse, or the like, should come within your needs, our services will be worth your while.

Knowing your own needs, to accomplish what you would prepare for yourself, had you at your hand the experience and technical knowledge, is our aim.

We design, manufacture and build greenhouses in their entirety, including the heating system.

An inquiry from you, before placing your next greenhouse requirements, would enable us to offer suggestions which we are sure would be to your benefit.

We want to be of service to you—we have the men, the facilities, the ability and the desire—all we lack is the opportunity, and it is to secure this that we approach you.

Send us your inquiry.

A JOURNAL for FLORISTS, SEEDSMEN and NURSERYMEN

CONVENTION NUMBER

Exterior of first house of Terry Bros., Clarkson, Ontario.

What This Canadian Thinks About His Lord & Burnham House

For several years we have each season shown, at the big Toronto Industrial Exhibition, one of our complete erected greenhouses.
Each time, along has come someone who wanted it and bought it.
One of these were Terry Bros. of Clarkson, Ontario.
They wanted to try their hand at tomato growing.
Of course they knew that from a house only 25 feet wide and 50 feet long, a lot of money could not be made.
But it was their plan to cut their teeth, so to speak, on a little house and then if convinced they could make money by greenhouse growing, to then build a larger one.

They have convinced themselves the first season.

We are not saying they are going to build at once, but our new Number Two Construction looks decidedly good to them.
We tell you all this just to show you that we are very much interested in the man who is just starting and who wants only a small house.
He will get from us just as much sincere consideration and attention as if it was going to be one covering an acre or more, like those we put up for the Dale Estate at Brampton, Ontario.

In an early issue we will show you another of these small houses bought at the Exhibition.
In the meantime, watch out for all we have to say and show about the Number Two Construction.

A Visit to Our Store Will Be Appreciated

Your Interest In Our Factories

As a general rule we hesitate to bore our customers with details about our Manufacturing Plants but at this time it might be opportune to call your attention to the facilities we have for manufacturing products which you purchase from us. Several years ago we established at Paterson, N. J., a Plant, which at the time was conceded to be the first ribbon plant manufacturing principally for the floral trade. The growth of this plant was rapid and the increase of our business necessitated the establishment two years ago of a branch plant at Bath, Pa., which was first established in a small brick building, since which time three new buildings have been added, the most recent one, just completed, being conceded to be the most modern and complete plant of its kind in the State of Pennsylvania.

Chiffon Manufacturing: We have been manufacturing chiffons for many months. Our American made merchandise on the counters of America's best florists will attest to the quality and value of our products. Having the organization and the facilities to produce our merchandise economically and the financial stability to carry large accommodation stocks, this business occupies a unique position. There is no other business just like it in the country.

We solicit your continued patronage, based on past performances.

REFRIGERATORS for ALL PURPOSES

The Shop of George C. Shaffer, Washington, D. C.

THE exacting needs of the florist, whose profits are so largely dependent upon efficient refrigeration, are met in every detail by the McCray. In appearance, the McCray harmonizes with the most artistic surroundings; it lends an air of distinction to an exclusive shop like that of George Shaffer, in Washington, pictured above.

But the quality of the McCray refrigerator goes far deeper than appearance. The McCray patented cooling system provides a constant circulation of cold, dry air through every compartment, thus assuring thorough refrigeration. The best of all materials and the skill developed in a third of a century of refrigerator building guarantees lasting service.

Various styles and sizes of florists' refrigerators are carried in stock for prompt shipment. Besides, we build equipment to order; send us a rough sketch of your requirements and our service department will prepare plans to meet your particular needs, without obligation to you.

SEND FOR YOUR FREE BOOK. In it the refrigeration needs of the florist are thoroughly discussed, the complete McCray line is illustrated and described. No obligation; drop us a card today.

The Shop of George C. Shaffer, Washington, D. C.

THE exacting needs of the florist, whose profits are so largely dependent upon efficient refrigeration, are met in every detail by the McCray. In appearance, the McCray harmonizes with the most artistic surroundings; it lends an air of distinction to an exclusive shop like that of George Shaffer, in Washington, pictured above.

But the quality of the McCray refrigerator goes far deeper than appearance. The McCray patented cooling system provides a constant circulation of cold, dry air through every compartment, thus assuring thorough refrigeration. The best of all materials and the skill developed in a third of a century of refrigerator building guarantees lasting service.

Various styles and sizes of florists' refrigerators are carried in stock for prompt shipment. Besides, we build equipment to order; send us a rough sketch of your requirements and our service department will prepare plans to meet your particular needs, without obligation to you.

SEND FOR YOUR FREE BOOK. In it the refrigeration needs of the florist are thoroughly discussed, the complete McCray line is illustrated and described. No obligation; drop us a card today.

DUTCH BULBS Grown in America

Narcissi :: Jonquils :: Daffodils

It will be to your advantage to order of me these Holland Bulbs, grown by me, at Gardenville, from Holland stock—

BECAUSE—You get fresh, sound, solid bulbs, full of vitality, right from the soil in which bulbs love to grow.

BECAUSE—You are taking no chances as to when your bulbs will arrive, nor as to their having been heated en route.

BECAUSE—Prices are F. O. B. at Tacoma or Seattle, and you are not wondering about the freight, the duty, the cartage and boxes or packing charges.

BECAUSE—You KNOW you will get what you order when you want it. You set the time you want your bulbs to arrive; I get them there on time.

BECAUSE—I am here on American soil, where you can get at me if things don't go right. Note the terms.

BECAUSE—It's an economic and patriotic duty for Americans to use the product of our own soil and build up our own country, so that in times of war we are not dependent on crossing an ocean to get our supplies.

BECAUSE—My bulbs make good! Read this: "Your bulbs that we had last season were the finest we have ever had."—Kalispell Gardens, Florists and Hot House Vegetables, Kalispell, Mont., June 30, 1922.

BECAUSE—My terms are liberal.

BECAUSE—You may choose from over a million bulbs—all Narcissi—growing right here on Puget Sound in tide land soil. There are beautiful varieties you have not used. Try a few Sir Watkin this year. You will not regret it.

A display Refrigerator THAT WILL BRING STEADY CUSTOMERS TO YOU

At the National Flower Show at Indianapolis we exhibited a 10-ft. box of this type and were awarded a CERTIFICATE OF MERIT. The Refrigerator was purchased by Harold T. Coffman of Huntington, W. Va. Mr. Coffman came to Chicago and gave us an order for a 12-ft. box just like it for his new store at Portsmouth, Ohio. He also ordered a complete outfit of other fixtures.

Another proud owner of a 12-ft. Buchbinder Refrigerator of this type is John Michal, Chicago, who has it installed in his new store at 6708 Stony Island Ave., which makes the third outfit we have put in for him.

Many of the most successful business men in the trade had little schooling—but they practically all are readers—they read The Review each week and they buy books frequently. Such men are self-educated—theirs is knowledge gleaned by reading.

It is the mission of The Review to assist its subscribers in every way to improve their knowledge of the trade and their knowledge in other fields of human interest. As a measure of co-operation The Review has added to its services to subscribers a book purchasing service. This department, of course, specializes on books pertaining to the business of florists, nurserymen and seedsmen, but in addition will secure for subscribers, without charge for its service, any book they want, of any nature.

If you want a book of any given title, The Review will get it for you. Or if you want a book on any certain subject, The Review will send you the titles, with prices, of all the books on that subject.

Look over the list in the appended coupon. Most of these are standard books by well known authors. Order the one which seems, from its title, most nearly to concern your special interests. When you have read it carefully, order another.

Put a cross opposite the books you want. Clip the coupon and send it to us with a check to cover cost. Books will be forwarded, postpaid, without delay.

3-inch pots, $35 per 100.
4-inch pots, $50 per 100.

Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this fall and winter. We know our stock will please you and your customer.

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table, and funeral work. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year.

Very highly colored sprays at 50c each; cut leaves, $5 per 100.

When you have orders for funeral or table work, "out of the ordinary," order Craig's Cut Crotons.

DRACAENAS

There is no variety of foliage plant so attractive as the highly colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Christmas baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in the country.

DRACAENA GODSEFFIANA

Green and white leaf, very hardy, fine for baskets.

2½-inch pots, $20 per 100; 3-inch pots, $35 per 100; 4-inch pots, $60 per 100.

KANSAS CITY GIVES S. A. F. WARM WELCOME

Those who read the temperature reports may think the heading applies to the weather convention week. Those more charitable may condemn it as a pun. While it may be, nevertheless it primarily describes the cordial greeting S. A. F. visitors received at Kansas City this week.

NO UNDUE stretch of the imagination is required to realize, if one is at Kansas City this week, that the absence of a railroad strike — or strikes, as seems more accurate— would have meant a record convention at the "Heart of the Nation." A few more exhibits would crowd Convention hall to capacity; it is comfortably filled as it is. But fear that shipments might be dangerously delayed in transit led to curtailment on the part of some exhibitors. And, as well, if transportation had been without impediment, many who changed their minds about the trip at the eleventh hour, would have been present, swelling the attendance at least a couple of hundred— just how many, no one can say.

But, instead of unprofitably discussing what might have been, the convention is worth the statement of what is, for one should not get the impression, from the above paragraph, that those who did go to Kansas City were disappointed—far from it. Only when it is considered that the weather man favored us with a moderate temperature (for Kansas City) and the Kansas City florists and their allies in the Chamber of Commerce had worked so indefatigably and facilities were so completely and efficiently provided, it seems sheer perversity of fate that the local trade should not have had its reward—a record convention, instead of nearly one.

Arrangements.

The organization among the Kansas City florists was a well knit one and operated smoothly and effectively. The leadership of William L. Rock is declared to have been invaluable and the counsel of the veterans, Vice-president Samuel Murray and W. J. Barnes, afforded great help. To give credit down the list would be to speak of all the chairmen of committees and their members, and they have already appeared in these columns. The decorations, of which more is said elsewhere; the hotel accommodations, the entertainment and the sports—not to mention those matters involving much work and little to show for it—all were of a high order and elicited frequent praise from the visitors.

Convention Hall.

The coöperation between the Chamber of Commerce and the florists put at the latters' command the services of the convention bureau, probably as fine a one as there is in the country. Frank M. Robinson, the secretary, and W. M. Symon, publicity director, were untiring in their help.

Kansas City's Convention hall, a famous structure, was amply large for the S. A. F. trade display, though not quite what the exhibitors all would like. Primarily, the hall is intended to seat large audiences; as many as 20,000, it is said. But seating space is not so much in demand at our conventions as floor space for exhibition purposes. The center of this hall affords a wide area, in which most of the exhibits could be erected. Probably it would have held any S. A. F. convention, save that at Chicago, up to the last two or three. But exhibitors are now so numerous and their space requirements are so large that the hall is exceptional which can accommodate them all.

Here at Kansas City an overflow of more than a score of exhibits lined the corridors that ran around the outside of the main hall. These locations were not looked upon with satisfaction by those who held them, but the visitors seemed to give them much attention and order books were in evidence just the same.

The business sessions were held in anterooms alongside the entrance, where the small number—compared with the great number of visitors—of those who attended were accommodated. A board of directors whose decisions and actions obtain perfect confidence and a trade press whose reports furnish complete information have led to less attention to the business sessions of the society at the annual conventions—a natural, but not altogether desirable result from the viewpoint of the organization's officers.

Program.

This year's program, however, was well arranged and contained a number of features of notable interest. The symposium on refrigeration at the Wednesday morning session, the usual publicity session, the discussions on floricultural training and a standard accounting system for florists, and the presentation of the society's gold medal to George Asmus for his service to the organization—these drew good audiences.

Entertainment was arranged so as not to conflict much with these sessions. The customary president's reception was held at the Hotel Muehlebach Tuesday evening and the Ladies' S. A. F. ball at the same place the following night. This was in competition with a session of the society and with the men's bowling, both the same night. But, in actuality, there was not great conflict here, because the visitors were numerous enough to make all three well attended and the interest of each drew its separate crowd.

The golf contest required early rising of its participants Wednesday morning, for W. L. Rock, the enthusiastic promoter, was urgent that they return to the

Balloting at Kansas City

There is a contest for the presidency of the S. A. F. in progress at Kansas City, between the friends of C. C. Pollworth, of Milwaukee, and Irwin Bertermann, of Indianapolis.

For director, Roy F. Wilcox, of Montebello, Cal., Max Schling, of New York, and Paul R. Klingsporn, of Chicago, have been nominated, two to be elected and serve three years.

Wallace R. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn., is the only nominee for vice-president.

Secretary John Young and Treasurer J. J. Hess will succeed themselves.

city in time for the morning session.

At the completion of business Thursday afternoon was scheduled a drive about the city and to the celebrated points of interest about it, for which an ample supply of automobiles was forthcoming. That evening a general jollification was scheduled at Electric park.

Opening Session.

When the first session of the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Society of American Florists opened, at 2 p. m., August 15, Vice-president Samuel Murray summoned all the past-presidents to the platform. There assembled Thomas Roland, E. G. Hill, Philip Breitmeyer, F. H. Traendly, George Asmus, A. L. Miller, J. F. Ammann, R. C. Kerr, J. C. Vaughan. In addition were the present officers of the society, President S. S. Pennock, Vice-president Samuel Murray, Treasurer J. J. Hess and Secretary John Young, and T. J. Noll, president of the Kansas City Florists' Club, Mayor Frank H. Cromwell and the Rev. E. J. Craft.

Under the leadership of A. B. ("Sandy") Sinclair, the audience sang "America" and novel variations of "Smiles." These were followed with this tribute to the president, to the tune of "Maryland":

Our president, our president,
You bet your life he is some gent.
Sam Pennock's his name—and great's his fame—
We'll stick with him through sun and rain.
From Quaker Town this man does come,
And this association he does run;
So we're for Sam—he makes things hum—
The best President beneath the sun.

This was followed by a verse in honor of Treasurer Hess, to the tune of "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" one to Vice-president Samuel Murray, to the tune of "Roamin' in the Gloamin'," one to Philip Breitmeyer, to the tune of "Maryland," and one in combined honor of Thomas Roland, J. C. Vaughan and J. F. Ammann, to the tune of "John Brown's Body." Other improvised events on the program put the audience in a happy mood.

Routine Ceremonies.

The invocation of the Rev. E. J. Craft opened the ceremonies. The mayor of Kansas City, Frank H. Cromwell, gave a felicitous address of welcome, supported by that of T. J. Noll, president of the Kansas City Florists' Club, who spoke ably. The Hon. Philip Breitmeyer, ex-mayor of Detroit, fittingly replied. Vice-president Murray pronounced it the proudest day of his life when he introduced the president, Samuel S. Pennock, who expressed pride in the showing made in the convention, and then presented his official address, which appears in full on another page of this issue.

Since the minutes of executive board had been printed, it was voted that they be approved without being read.

Telegrams were read from H. J. Eddy, secretary of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association; from William F. Gude, who hoped his absence would be alleviated by the presence of four children of his; Charles H. Totty, who said he was present in spirit, and Herman P. Knoble.

Secretary Young presented his report, as it is printed on another page. In moving its adoption, Mr. Breitmeyer expressed the society's thanks to Mr. Young. Treasurer Hess presented the same figures that appear in the secretary's summary of the finances. This was likewise received with the approval of the society, upon motion of Irwin Bertermann, seconded by L. E. Hitz.

The president appointed on the committee to consider the recommendations in his address George Asmus, chairman; A. L. Miller, J. C. Vaughan, Thomas Roland and F. H. Traendly.

As councilor representing the S. A. F. in the United States Chamber of Commerce, J. C. Vaughan explained the importance of that body and touched upon its various departments whose activities affected the trade's interests. He recommended that a committee of not less than three be appointed, of which the councilor be a member, to draw up resolutions on trade matters to be presented to the United States Chamber of Commerce preceding its annual meeting. The report and recommendation were accepted.

Benjamin Hammond spoke on the benefits of the school gardens promoted by the S. A. F. committee. His report was received with much applause, indicating the appreciation of the work Mr. Hammond has done.

As chairman of the committee on revision of the by-laws, Thomas Roland spoke of the importance of the amendments offered for vote.

Identifying the Bugs.

J. F. Ammann said, reporting for the committee to which was referred the index of insects of greenhouse and garden plants prepared by J. J. Davis:

"While your committee believes that the indices of insects, host plants and the bibliography as arranged by Mr. Davis is certainly a very valuable accumulation of insect information, yet it does not contain, in the opinion of your committee, what seems to be most important for florists and horticulturists; at least, not as it is now arranged.

"In order that it may be identified with a reasonable degree of accuracy by the amateur without making an extended study of entomology, a short popular description should follow the subjects mentioned therein. It is also true that additional material would greatly increase the size of the publication, but your committee would not feel justified in recommending the publishing of the index without this additional material.

"Hence, while your committee admits that this would be scientifically a valuable publication and that J. J. Davis should be highly commended for his time and efforts put into the gathering of this data, your committee does not feel that it could be made of much value to greenhouse men in its present form and would, therefore, not recommend it as the proper treatise for our society to publish at this time."

It was moved that the committee be continued to confer further with Mr. Davis, and the motion prevailed.

Affiliation of College Students.

The report of the committee on the possible affiliation of college students in horticulture with the S. A. F. was presented by J. F. Ammann, as chairman. In it he said:

"With the coöperation of Prof. H. B. Dorner, of the University of Illinois, we have succeeded in getting an opinion from the professors in floriculture in the following states: Illinois, Iowa, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Maryland.

"Each of these has heartily endorsed a movement that would tend to bring the floricultural students into an affiliation with the S. A. F. in some manner. The students in floriculture at the present time, as representatives from the above named states, would number approximately 100.

"There is no question in the opinion of the committee but what this number will be greatly augmented in the near future, when other colleges will be giving courses in floriculture. Hence, we, too, appreciate the importance of having these young men and women in some manner connected up with the national society of their chosen profession.

"In order to bring this about and in order to encourage the students in floriculture throughout the country in their chosen work, your committee would recommend that, as a recognition of them, this society amend its constitution and by-laws, providing for an additional class of membership, which shall be known as a student membership, making all students in floriculture in the various state colleges throughout the country eligible to this membership at a membership dues of $1 per year, this to include the initiation fee, said student members to have the same rights and privileges as any other member of the society.

"This amendment should contain a provision that this student membership should cease upon the graduation of the student from the college, and in order to further retain a membersip in the S. A. F., such student upon graduation shall pay an additional $4 in order to become a full-fledged member of the S. A. F., and thereafter shall each year pay the regular annual dues as provided for in the by-laws for all annual members of the S. A. F."

Irwin Bertermann urged that such action be taken by the board of directors. It was voted to refer the report to the board of directors for action.

Hartford Next Year.

When invitations were invited for the next place of meeting, Wallace R. Pierson presented the plea of the Hartford florists for the 1923 convention. The lack of other proposals led to the unanimous vote of the society to go to Hartford in 1923, the ballot to be cast by the secretary at the president's reception Tuesday evening.

Secretary Young read a letter from the secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce asking that the S. A. F. consider Los Angeles as the convention city of 1924. This was reinforced by a strong plea by Roy F. Wilcox. C. C. Pollworth spoke up for Milwaukee.

Quarantine and Coal.

At the Wednesday morning session the committee reports held over from the previous day were read. Discussion followed the report of the committee on tariff and legislation, begun by E. G. Hill and taken up by Joseph Manda, W. R. Pierson, Roy Wilcox and Peter Pearson. The discussion finally was laid over until the next session for determination of the society's position on the matters presented.

The discussion of the coal situation was led by W. A. Johnson, who took the place of the president of the Southwestern Coal Operators' Association. Mr. Johnson is a director.

Nomination of Officers.

On account of the late hour, nominations for officers were called for. Wallace R. Pierson placed in nomination for the presidency the name of C. C. Pollworth, of Milwaukee. Joseph Manda seconded it. Philip Breitmeyer nominated Irwin Bertermann, of Indianapolis, and Max Schling and Edward Sceery seconded it. Mr. Breitmeyer then moved that the nominations be closed.

Wallace R. Pierson was nominated for vice-president by E. G. Hill.

George Asmus treated himself to his annual pleasure by nominating John Young for secretary, which was seconded by R. Vincent, Jr., Wallace R. Pierson and Philip Breitmeyer. Peter Pearson nominated J. F. Ammann for secretary, but Mr. Ammann withdrew his name.

L. E. Hitz, of Madison, Ind., nominated J. J. Hess for treasurer.

J. F. Ammann nominated Roy F. Wilcox for director. E. G. Hill and Otto Lang seconded it. R. Vincent, Jr., nominated Max Schling. Philip Breitmeyer seconded it. Wallace R. Pierson nominated Paul R. Klingsporn to succeed himself as director. Peter Pearson seconded it.

President's Reception.

In the receiving line at the president's reception were T. J. Noll, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Pennock, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Murray, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hess, John Young, Thomas Roland, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vaughan and E. G. Hill.

The ballroom at the Muehlebach was elaborately decorated with flowers. Augusta Oberg, daughter of Walter Oberg, of the W. L. Rock Flower Co., sang, followed by Mrs. Katherine Moseley Beaman, who also sang. Robert Bohannon, accompanied at the piano by his father, L. R. Bohannon, rendered vocal selections. For the dancing, Arthur Mohr, of the W. L. Rock Flower Co., led his orchestra.

Ladies' S. A. F.

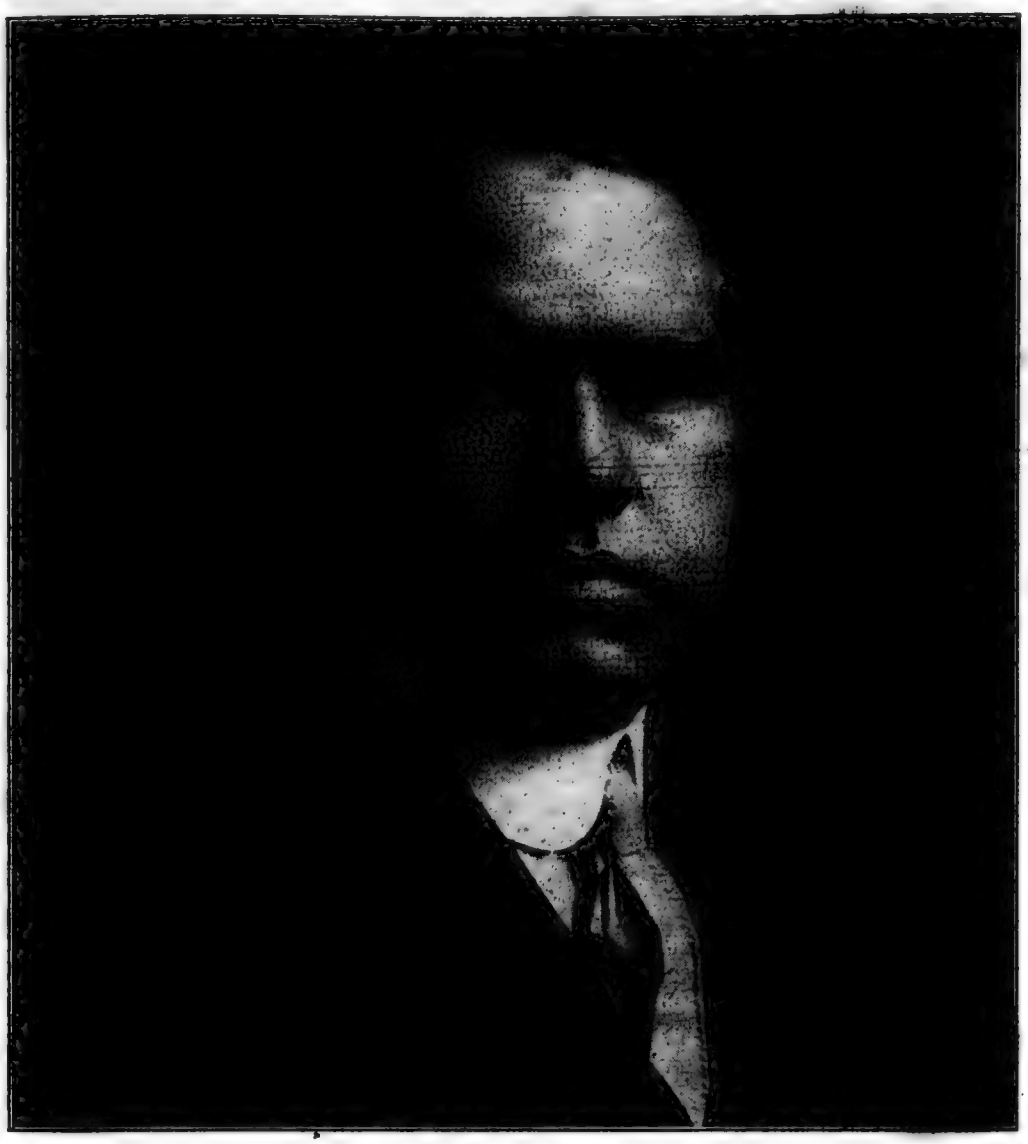
The Ladies' S. A. F. held its meeting Wednesday morning and elected the following officers:

President, Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, Milwaukee, Wis.

Vice-president, Mrs. Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.

Second vice-president, Mrs. Jacob Hess, Omaha, Neb.

Treasurer, Miss Perle B. Fulmer, Des Moines, Ia.



Secretary, Mrs. Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa.

FLORISTS' HAIL ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Report.

The Hail Association reëlected all its officers at the Kansas City meeting.

The report of Secretary John G. Esler showed the Florists' Hail Association to be in a still stronger position than it has been before. The insurance held by members of the association August 1, 1922, amounted to 2,500,000 square feet of glass more than was insured on the same date a year ago. The total now insured is equivalent to 54,309,391 square feet of glass. This is divided as follows: Single thick glass, 3,480,324; double thick glass, 31,774,935; single thick glass, extra one-half, 284,220; double thick glass, extra one-half, 2,573,516; single thick glass, extra whole, 1,400,893; double thick glass, extra whole, 16,224,371.

Wallace R. Pierson.

(Vice-president for 1923, Society of American Florists.)

Losses during the year from August 1, 1921, to August 1, 1922, were paid to the amount of $49,924.66, about two-thirds as much as was paid in the preceding twelve months. More than two-thirds of this sum was paid to florists in three states, Colorado, Iowa and Kansas, Iowa leading with losses of $14,395.18. In the states of Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio and Pennsylvania, losses of more than $2,000 were paid. With the exception of Indiana and Illinois, where losses totaled in the neighborhood of $1,000 in each case, the total paid in any other state was less than $700.

In his report Secretary Esler included the following illuminating paragraphs:

"The number of members at date of closing this report is 1,690.

"The total receipts for the year ending August 1, 1922, and including last year's balance, as per treasurer's report were $68,811.40.

"The total expenditures, as per treasurer's report, for the year ending August 1, 1922, have been $62,277.36.

"The cash balance on hand is $6,534.04, of which $1,189.70 belongs to the reserve fund.

"The reserve fund now amounts to $59,189.70, of which $58,000 is invested in Liberty and municipal bonds, together with $1,189.70 in the hands of the treasurer.

"The amount of interest collected on bank deposits for the year is $401.67.

"The amount of interest collected on reserve fund investments is $2,445.00.

"Three thousand two hundred losses have been adjusted since the organization of the F. H. A., involving a total expenditure of over $612,000.00.

"An equivalent of 147,213 square feet of single thick glass was broken by hail during the last year, for which the association paid $7,360.66. An equivalent of 607,914 square feet of double thick glass was broken, which cost the association $42,554.00.

"The only liabilities of the association are a few losses in process of adjustment.

"Hail storms have been prevalent in all sections of the country, and severe storms have occurred in states where owners of glass considered themselves immnue. The old axiom of 'locking the door after the horse is stolen' being applied at the present time."

Treasurer's Report.

The report of Treasurer James W. Heacock contained a tabulation of the expenses of the association, of its income, of the losses paid and of the reserve funds invested. The recapitulation of these was as follows:

RECEIPTS.
To balance on hand July 29, 1921	$11,910.6
Total receipts, July 29, 1921, to July 31, 1922	56,900.7

The insurance held by members of the association August 1, 1922, amounted to 2,500,000 square feet of glass more than was insured on the same date a year ago. The total now insured is equivalent to 54,309,391 square feet of glass. This is divided as follows: Single thick glass, 3,480,324; double thick glass, 31,774,935; single thick glass, extra one-half, 284,220; double thick glass, extra one-half, 2,573,516; single thick glass, extra whole, 1,400,893; double thick glass, extra whole, 16,224,371.

Wallace R. Pierson.

Vice-president for 1923, Society of American Florists

Losses during the year from August 1, 1921, to August 1, 1922, were paid to the amount of $49,924.66, about two-thirds as much as was paid in the preceding twelve months. More than two-thirds of this sum was paid to florists in three states, Colorado, Iowa and Kansas, Iowa leading with losses of $14,395.18. In the states of Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio and Pennsylvania, losses of more than $2,000 were paid. With the exception of Indiana and Illinois, where losses totaled in the neighborhood of $1,000 in each case, the total paid in any other state was less than $700.

In his report Secretary Esler included the following illuminating paragraphs:

"The number of members at date of closing this report is 1,690.

"The total receipts for the year ending August 1, 1922, and including last year's balance, as per treasurer's report were $68,811.40.

"The total expenditures, as per treasurer's report, for the year ending August 1, 1922, have been $62,277.36.

"The cash balance on hand is $6,534.04, of which $1,189.70 belongs to the reserve fund.

"The reserve fund now amounts to $59,189.70, of which $58,000 is invested in Liberty and municipal bonds, together with $1,189.70 in the hands of the treasurer.

"The amount of interest collected on bank deposits for the year is $401.67.

"The amount of interest collected on reserve fund investments is $2,445.00.

"Three thousand two hundred losses have been adjusted since the organization of the F. H. A., involving a total expenditure of over $612,000.00.

"An equivalent of 147,213 square feet of single thick glass was broken by hail during the last year, for which the association paid $7,360.66. An equivalent of 607,914 square feet of double thick glass was broken, which cost the association $42,554.00.

"The only liabilities of the association are a few losses in process of adjustment.

"Hail storms have been prevalent in all sections of the country, and severe storms have occurred in states where owners of glass considered themselves immune. The old axiom of 'locking the door after the horse is stolen' being applied at the present time."

Treasurer's Report.

The report of Treasurer James W. Heacock contained a tabulation of the expenses of the association, of its income, of the losses paid and of the reserve funds invested. The recapitulation of these was as follows:

By checks on hand	63.24

AMONG THOSE PRESENT

RUMORS were current of canceled trips to Kansas City for the convention, on account of the railroad situation. Few instances could be cited, nevertheless, and the crowds registered at a rapid rate on the opening day. While too early to say how the attendance compares with preceding years, it is certain to be far from disappointing. Those whose presence was noted on the opening day of the convention were:

THE TRADE'S DISPLAY

REGARDLESS of the railroad strike, it will be noted that, with the exception of two eastern firms, every house which appears in the list of exhibitors on the convention program staged its display. "Cancellitis" seems not to have afflicted this trade. Doubtless exhibits were restricted in scope in some cases, but the extensive showings of the supply houses indicate that those who wanted to spread themselves found no insurmountable obstacle.

The hall is not the type most desired for such a display. Everyone wants to be in the main hall. But everyone can't be in this case. So those who, making late reservations, got space in the corridors think business might have been better in more favorable locations.

The retailers' supplies are becoming the most prominent part of the S. A. F. trade display. Greenhouses are few and plants are not so numerous as in years gone by. But everybody who comes finds much of interest. What they saw is detailed in the following individual descriptions, necessarily brief because the staging was scarcely done as these notes had to be hurried to press:

American Bulb Co., Chicago.

The background of the exhibit of the American Bulb Co. was a painting depicting the house's supply of Dutch bulbs, across the Atlantic, and of Japanese lily bulbs, across the Pacific. The foreground—meaning several tables—was occupied by the bulbs themselves, as well as florists' supplies in the way of rainbow rubber mats, wreaths, bulb bowls, insecticides, ribbons, etc. Some small kentias and some aspidistras were shown. A. Miller was present with several salesmen; I. Rosnosky, Guy French, and M. Momblatt.

American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago.

Inside a section of a 40-foot steel-frame greenhouse, towering above everything else in the hall, were two sections of an 18-foot curved-eave show house, illustrating two types of Agmco construction. The benches were filled from Rock's Greenhouses. A service room for S. A. F. members afforded unlimited telephone service and a stenographer. President P. L. McKee was assisted by R. E. Kurowski, W. S. Dolan, E. M. Bauernfeind, F. J. Impey, H. A. McKee and W. H. Evans.

E. C. Amling Co., Chicago.

An assortment of cut flowers, such as form the retailer's stock at this season, was shipped from Chicago by the E. C. Amling Co. George Mohn represented the company.

W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago.

Newly arrived Dutch and French bulbs were shown by the W. W. Barnard Co., as well as a few florists' staples, such as thread, sheet moss and the like. President R. B. Howe attended, as did the firm's southern representative, H. A. Bertoli. Gladiolus blooms grown at Waterloo, Ia., graced the tables.

Basket Shop, Bellefonte, Pa.

The two-tone baskets made at Bellefonte, Pa., have been shown before, but new styles and shadings were to be seen at Kansas City. John A. Lane, Jr., was in charge of the display.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

Many imported novelties were seen in the exhibit of H. Bayersdorfer & Co.—Parisian baskets, German lanterns, wreaths, artificial flowers, porcelain roses, Imperial china garden sets, butterfly boxes, etc. The American Legion design wreaths and the two-tone wreaths of the firm's own manufacture were also prominent. Charles Henry Fox's bridal muff and his pillow basket were articles of interest. Christmas novelties were many; candle baskets were noteworthy. Of course, there was a wide variety of other supplies, as well as ribbons, chiffons and the like. I. M. Bayersdorfer, Howard S. Royer and Charles Liebeck were present.

Boyer Mfg. Co., Winona, Ind.

The Boyer Mfg. Co., Winona, Ind., showed cemetery vases.

Brandau Art Flower Co., Chicago.

While feather flowers and such other artificial flowers as the tinseled and cloth items made up a large part of the display of the Brandau Art Flower Co., fancy baskets, metal wreaths and the like were conspicuous. Illuminated feather flowers were a novelty.

Brunswick-Kroeschell Co., Chicago.

The customary Kroeschell boiler was planned, but restricted floor space and the railroad strike caused its shipment direct to the customer and the display of photographs and plans instead. This company now sells an ammonia ice machine, the Brunswick, and a carbon dioxide machine, the Kroeschell, which have proved popular with florists. These, as well as the famous boiler, Fred Lautenschlager expounded.

Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia.

How extensive is the line of staple baskets made at Burlington, Ia., was never so well shown as at Kansas City. The genial Robert Newcomb met his numerous friends. At this booth a basket-maker demonstrated his methods, producing small souvenirs for the ladies. Easels of the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co. were shown also in this space.

Chesmore Seed Co., St. Joseph, Mo.

The Osborn Christmas tree holder was demonstrated in the booth of the Chesmore Seed Co. The three wooden feet fold together. For use it is unfolded, a nail driven into the base of the tree, through the stand, and a wire support placed from each foot to the side of the tree. Present were C. R. and A. R. Chesmore and W. G. Fuller.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia.

The choice collection of foliage plants displayed by the Robert Craig Co. contained much worth inspection. One table held a collection of dracænas comprising about fifteen different varieties. Ferns were splendid; these are grown in 4-inch pots to 6-inch size, so that the customer saves the cost of repotting and the freight, something evidently appreciated by the Craig customers, from the demand. Made-up tubs of Areca lutescens, to be sold at half the cost of a kentia in same size, showed retailers a way to economy. The aspidistras and Sansevieria Laurentii grown in Porto Rico are not plentiful enough. Of course, Ficus utilis, Pandanus Veitchii, crotons in variety and cyclamens were of the customary Craig standard. Some splendid specimens of Otaheite oranges had thirty fruits set. Gardenias were shown with buds already set. Robert A. Craig discoursed regarding the display with pardonable pride.

Cohen & Hiller, New York.

The Cohen & Hiller line of ribbons and chiffons was displayed in its usual variety and choice.

"Silvertone" ribbons and "Glimaree" corsage ribbons were features in the choice exhibit of Lion & Co. American-made chiffon, in 6-inch and 8-inch widths, was shown. J. A. Lewis was the representative.

Lord & Burnham Co., Chicago.

A section of an iron-frame commercial house, 17x18 feet, was erected by the Lord & Burnham Co. It had on one side double ventilation, with a galvanized angle-iron, ice-clearing eave plate, and on the other a cast-iron gutter. The ventilators were operated by an encased, self-oiling, chain-operated ventilating machine. A fence enclosed space for the company's office and reception room. W. R. Cobb, vice-president; M. C. Wright, head of the Chicago office, and H. M. Berner were present.

W. A. Manda, Inc., So. Orange, N. J.

The Manda collection of plants was of its usual high interest. It included a dozen out of the Manda collection of more than thirty ivies. Billbergia Liboniana was shown in bloom. Polypodium Mandaianum was shown, as well as Antherieum Mandaianum and hybridum, ferns, Begonia Rex, Ficus repens and numerous others. Mr. Manda was present in person.

Master Mfg. Co., Chicago.

The Master glazing cement was shown, together with apparatus for its use, by the Master Mfg. Co., represented by M. R. Jones.

McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The display of the McCallum Co. was, like Caesar's Gaul, in three parts. One comprised the plant stands, presided over by M. Wagner. Another contained greenhouse supplies of all sorts and particularly Puttium, the firm's gray glazing compound, in the charge of H. G. Frey. In the large showing of retailers' supplies were baskets, ribbons, chiffons, candles of novel finish, glazed ware and tinted bouquet holders for colonial bouquets. An assortment of twenty-nine small bowls, in boxes bearing an appropriate verse and design, will be supplied retailers with the Paper Whites therein; they should prove an easily salable item. Charles Edgar and W. L. Cooper took orders for these and other retailers' needs.

E. W. McLellan Co., San Francisco.

The first chrysanthemums most visitors have seen this season were staged by the E. W. McLellan Co. The variety was Chrysolora.

Missouri Pottery, Kansas City, Mo.

The red pots of the Missouri Pottery, in many sizes, were on display. F. W. Johnson was with them.

Model Adjustable Display Fixture Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Adjustable plant stands, both of cast iron and of nickel-plated brass—an exceedingly useful piece for retailers—were shown by the Model Adjustable Display Fixture Co. The firm was represented by L. J. Warshauer, the brother of Mrs. A. Hamburger, the inventor of the stands, who showed them at Indianapolis.

John C. Moninger Co., Chicago.

Photographs and literature filled the exhibit of the John C. Moninger Co. M. G. Kill and W. E. Peterson were in charge.

Morehead Mfg. Co., Detroit, Mich.

The well known Morehead back-to-boiler system was demonstrated by steam traps set up by the company. Those troubled with corns received a "Razornife" with which to seek relief. W. M. Acker, of Detroit, and Lawrence Kjerulff, of Kansas City, were with the exhibit.

Morris Paper Mills, Chicago.

The staples in florists' boxes were shown in various colors by the Morris Paper Mills. Heavy pasteboard shipping boxes were also on display. Sam Freund and A. F. Weber were with the exhibit.

Nebel Mfg. Co., Cleveland, O.

The Nebel glazing cement and greenhouse paint were shown, as at previous conventions. A new device was a faucet so that a glazing gun might be filled direct from the drum. E. A. Nebel was present in person.

Jos. G. Neidinger Co., Philadelphia.

Christmas novelties, in wreaths and candle holders, were prominent in the display of the Jos. G. Neidinger Co. In addition there were the usual handsome wreaths of various types, and baskets, ruscus in colors, waterproof paper wreath bases and other items. Joseph G. Neidinger, H. S. Price and Harry Crawford were in attendance.

T. J. Noll Floral Co., Kansas City.

The Dazey flower holder is an article florists will want; its variety makes it useful in many sorts of vessels. In addition to this, the T. J. Noll Floral Co. showed greeting cards, bulb bowls, artificial flowers and a general line of retail supplies. T. J. Noll and his son presided.

Orchard Paper Co., St. Louis, Mo.

The "Say It with Flowers" watermarked wrapping paper appeals to florists, and it made still more friends at the booth of the Orchard Paper Co. Here also were specimens of another popular item, the printed tape to tie packages, made by the Chicago Printed String Co., for which the above firm is St. Louis agent. C. P. Orchard and Harry E. Coffin were present.

Park Floral Co., Denver, Colo.

The renowned Primula obconica of the Park Floral Co. were exhibited by Robert Newcomb.

S. S. Pennock Co., Philadelphia.

The exhibit of the S. S. Pennock Co. contained those standard supplies, such as baskets, ribbons, chiffons and the like, which are most in demand. E. J. Fancourt, J. E. Morichard and Robert Greenlaw were there, as, of course, was President Pennock.

J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati, O.

A table was filled with begonias and geraniums in small pots, from J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati. Clarence Peterson was present.

F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y.

The exhibit of nephrolepis ferns annually made by the F. R. Pierson Co. always brings delight to those who see it. The specimens are splendid. They include such varieties as muscosa, elegantissima and elegantissima compacta. Jas. T. Trevillian was with the exhibit.

Pinehurst Floral Co., Pleasant Hill, Mo.

That well colored and prolific double petunia, Isherwood's Royal Purple, formed the bright center of a group of foliage and flowering plants displayed by the Pinehurst Floral Co. William Day accompanied them.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago.

One exhibit was not large enough to hold the wares of Poehlmann Bros. Co. An extensive display contained supplies, including metallic oak leaves, in one and two tones; the P. B. Co. baskets, a pleasing design; wreaths, grasses, ribbons and a full line of other supplies. The color scheme, gold and white, made the exhibit particularly attractive. With it were Marshall N. Tyler, manager of the supplies department; Gus Martial and O. C. Johns.

Another large space was filled with plants. At the back were fine specimen kentias and in the foreground a variety of foliage plants, including ferns, pandanus, crotons and dracænas, as well as begonias and cyclamens. E. C. Pruner was in charge of this exhibit.

C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

About anything a florist wants, he can get from C. C. Pollworth Co. That statement was prompted by the exceedingly great variety of items shown in the big space taken, and it was admitted to be the fact. No matter whether for the grower or the retailer, whether a pin or a pump, it was there, or so it seemed. It was indeed comprehensive and worth seeing if only to note the number of things such a house is called upon to supply. Three Pollworths—C. C., Lawrence and August R.—were present, and also Philip W. Weil.

Charles Pommert, Amelia, O.

Charles Pommert had blooms of the white gladiolus, Purity, which he displayed at Washington last year. Those he brought from Amelia, O., were supplemented by splendid flowers from Rock's Gardens. Mr. Pommert was with the gladioli.

Quincy Art Willow Ware Co., Quincy, Ill.

The all-willow baskets made at Quincy, Ill., are in a number of pleasing styles and colorings, as shown at Kansas City. J. A. Gulbrandsen and J. A. Noehrn were with the exhibit.

Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago.

The staple styles of baskets, in a wide variety of colors, were shown by the Raedlein Basket Co. T. Raedlein and E. Kasang were with the exhibit.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

A large space housed a most comprehensive exhibit staged by the A. L. Randall Co. The wicker ferneries, floor lamps, standards, bird cages and fountains were conspicuous. Of baskets there was a varied line. Black glassware, bronze and terra-cotta pieces were recent importations. The hospital vase recently introduced by this company interested many retailers. Artificial flowers, wreaths, ribbons, chiffons and other supplies were there to meet the widest needs. The Randall worktable and the icebox, in two sizes, were of exceeding interest. F. M. Johnson had in his corps of assistants A. M. Hanson, F. W. Tredup, A. F. Billings, J. H. McVea, R. J. Mohr, J. M. McKeown, William Trillow and W. Abrahamson.

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia.

A setting of blue and white latticed columns connected by valances overhead lent distinction to the space of the M. Rice Co. This was made in the factory at Philadelphia and set up here. The firm's line of 250 different styles of baskets was well represented, particularly the newer styles, in gray and black, blue and black, and green bronze. Large decorative pieces were particularly handsome, especially some lamp stands and baskets of the firm's multicolor ware. A combination wicker lamp and standing desk for a retail store was a pleasing piece, and a fernery-aquarium-bird cage merits its popularity. There were novelty imported electric lamps, too. Among the extensive showing of retailers' supplies were metalline cloth, metal and silk ribbon of open weave, and similar novelties that attracted progressive-minded florists. The firm was represented by Raymond Brunswick, A. Zirkman, H. Heilemann and Earl Aldrich.

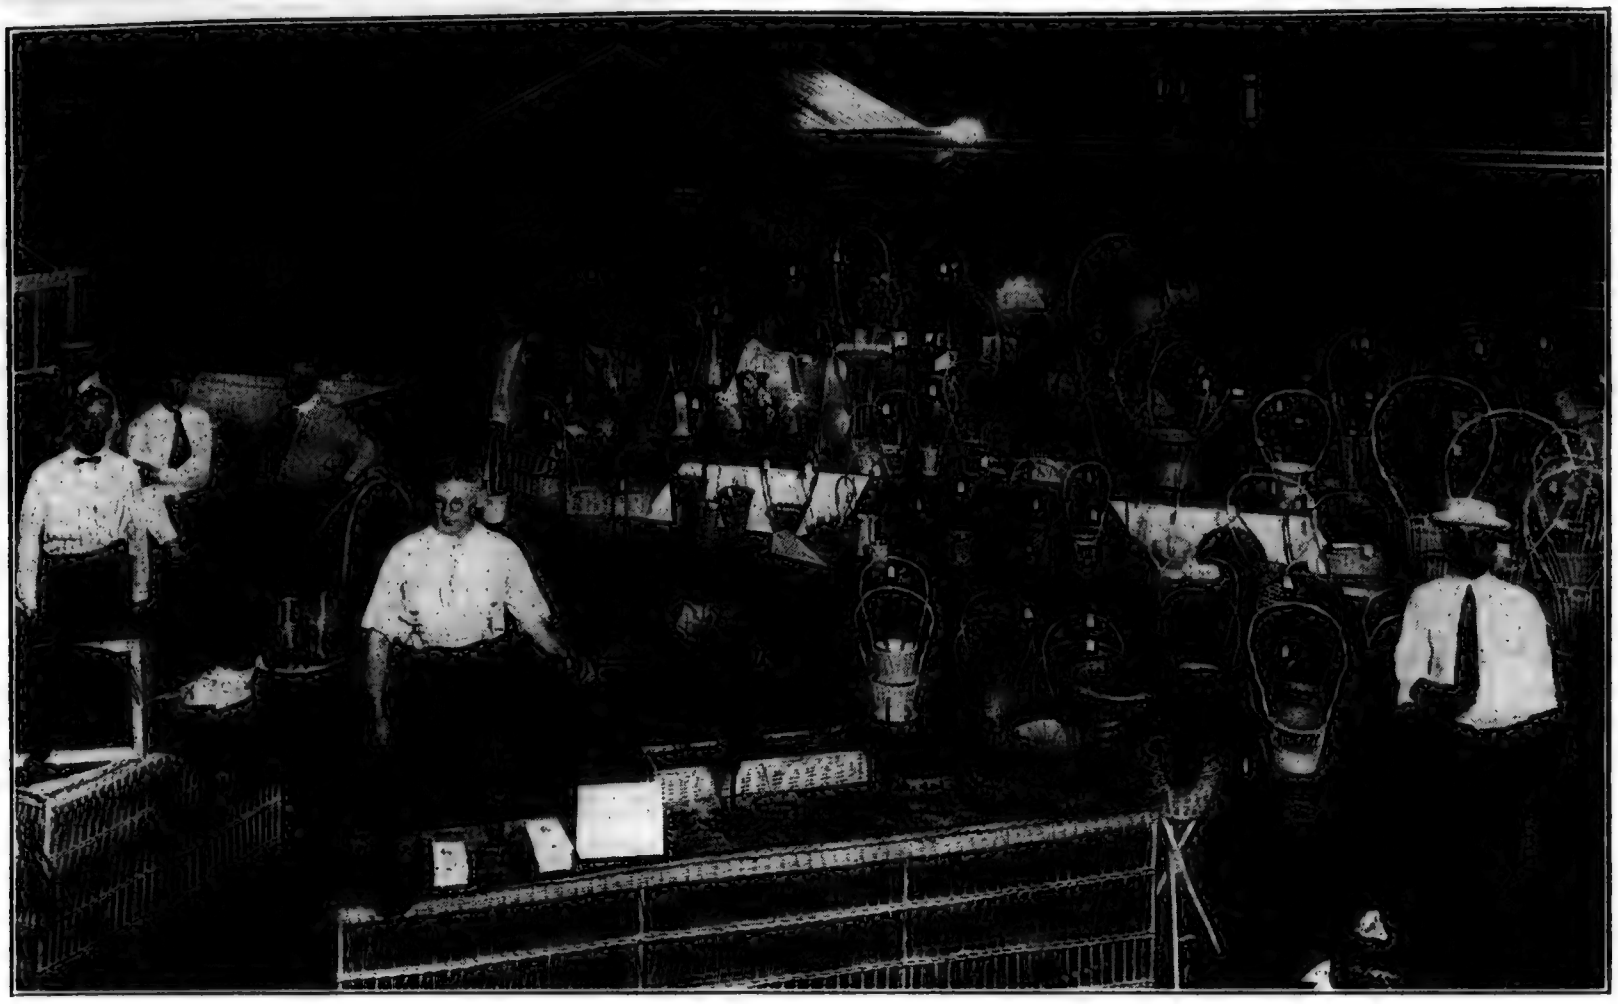
Rock's Flower Garden, Independence, Mo.

A display of valley and adiantum was made by the concern of which W. L. Rock is the head.

J. K. Rugowski, Manitowoc, Wis.

The Rugowski asters, whose size has won them wide note, made a fine showing, despite their delay on the railroad en route. There were twenty-three varieties, chief among which was Royalty, a deep pink, close to a chrysanthemum in appearance. There were twenty gladiolus seedlings on display, also; of these Mr. Rugowski has ardent expectations. He and his daughter were present.

Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., New York.



In the tastefully arranged exhibit of ribbons and chiffons of Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., were several novelties: Novelty gauze ribbon, extra quality double-face satin ribbon, gold and silver tinsel ribbon and ribbon inscriptions to be used instead of gummed letters. George Taffel represented the firm.

Skinner Irrigation Co., Troy, O.

A short section of the Skinner Irrigation Co. was set up for the benefit of the few who know not yet the merits of the Skinner system. R. D. Conn was with the exhibit.

Steelcraft Co., Detroit, Mich.

All-metal ferneries, plant stands and taborets were shown by the Steelcraft Co. They were finished in imitations of mahogany and walnut, and in ivory, French gray and conservatory green. A false bottom provides drainage and an outlet for surplus water is at the bottom of the plant receptacle. Eugene Greenfield represented the company.

Irving Stein Co., Chicago.

In addition to the galvanized iron vases of the S. & S. Tin Specialty Co., Irving Stein showed painted wall pockets of metal, easels, painted American Beauty vases, chiffons, ribbons and baskets, among the last a style called the "Chicago," an attractive one.

Hugh Stephens Printing Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Catalogues of leading western seed, nursery and florists' concerns showed the handiwork of the Hugh Stephens Printing Co. W. A. Garrabrant was in charge.

St. Joseph Paper Box Co., St. Joseph, Mo.

Staple sizes and the most useful styles of florists' boxes were shown by the St. Joseph Paper Box Co.

L. C. Stroh & Sons, Batavia, N. Y.

The soil shredder of L. C. Stroh & Sons continues to make friends where it is seen by members of the trade, and the small size did so at Kansas City.

The large type of machine was shipped to the convention but had not arrived on the opening day. N. J. Kemp was with the exhibit.

Stuppy Supply Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Its wares were shown by the Stuppy Supply Co., in the form of roses and gladioli in cut flowers, and, in supplies, wreaths, chenille, foliages and other items. Manager Glenn K. Parker was present.

H. V. Swenson Co., Chicago.

Illustrations of the color printing on the booklet, "Fleurette," to be distributed to customers by retailers, were shown by the H. V. Swenson Co., as well as other publicity literature. With Mr. Swenson were Frank Suttle, S. Whalen, H. E. Larsen and Dave Suttle.

W. T. Usinger, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Candles that may be used to advantage in table decorations were demonstrated in that way by W. T. Usinger. His line of holders and of glassware drew much notice. Art novelties, such as bowl ornaments, were attractive. W. T. Usinger himself was present.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago.

Dutch and French bulbs, formosum and Harrisii lilies, callas and freesias represented Vaughan's bulb line, while an assortment of foliage plants came from the greenhouses. Vases of standard varieties of gladioli, and some seedlings, were sent from the farm at Ovid, Mich. Some interesting photographs from the same place attracted visitors. J. C. Vaughan, W. S. Puffer, M. A. Fierstein, E. H. Goldenstein, H. G. Price, John Tomczak and A. Erickson were present.

Wertheimer Bros., New York.

Among the wide variety of ribbons shown by Wertheimer Bros. were, notably, the novelty corsage ribbons, the ombre metallines for basket work and other basket weaves. The "Vanity Fair" corsage shield increases in popularity. Saul M. Rosenfeld and Julius Dilloff were with the exhibit.

Weller Nurseries, Holland, Mich.

The Weller Nurseries Co. had a table of perennials and perennial blooms.

Roy F. Wilcox & Co., Montebello, Cal.

The car containing the shipment from Roy F. Wilcox & Co. was located at Omaha the day before the convention opened. Many expressed gratification that the exhibition had not been deprived of this display by the railroad tie-up in the west. Four kentias twelve feet high and a 6-foot phœnix were the high points among splendid specimens of pyramidal and globular boxwoods, with heather at the edges.

George Wittbold Co., Chicago.

Latanias and kentias were representative of the Wittbold stock of palms. Foliage plants in variety were displayed as well as some cyclamens. H. A. Ceci represented the company.

Woerner Wire Works, Omaha, Neb.

William H. Woerner brought a selection of wire designs from his stock to show the florists. Two special pieces were particularly worthy of note, an "S. A. F. Booster Car," an automobile frame about three feet long ready for flowers, and a lamp stand frame, ready to be covered with flowers and greens.

W. M. Woodruff's Son & Co., Lowgap, N. C.

A good-sized line of decorative greens and prepared foliages was displayed by W. M. Woodruff's Son & Co., including prepared green and bronze galax, oak Specimens of Adiantum Wrightii, the variety produced by Tom Wright and increasingly appreciated by the trade, were shown by Robert Newcomb.

Zane Pottery Co., So. Zanesville, O.

Vases finished in "shadow gloss" and "shadow black" were conspicuous novelties in the exhibit of the Zane Pottery Co. Bulb bowls in green and yellow, red pots and jardinieres were also shown. F. L. Tignor was in charge.

YOUNG'S YEAR

IT IS my pleasure again to report a most successful year in the work of our society. Never in its history has our organization shown such strength and solidity as it does today; that is, as regards its sustained membership and its administrative powers. I need say nothing as to its financial strength, the permanent fund furnishing mute evidence of prosperity. Owing to the membership drive which was a feature in our affairs during 1921 and which resulted in a large addition to our membership roll, the influx of new members so far during the present year has not been particularly large; still it has been quite satisfactory. There have been rather more than the usual number of lapses, perhaps not an unusual condition with any organization after a recruiting season during which enthusiasm runs high and the work is strenuous. The drive is generally conceded to have been wonderfully successful, and those who took part in it are well worthy of the society's commendation. Notable in this connection is the work of twenty-six members of our board of directors, who each undertook to bring in ten new members, 260 in all, and almost all of these members fulfilled their pledges. Since August 1, 1921, the date up to which membership was last reported, we have taken in 323 new annual members and sixteen life members. Our total membership August 1 of this year was 4,022, of which 1,579 are life members. As heretofore, the list of annual members from which our total is taken contains the names of a number who have not yet paid their 1922 dues, but there is no reason to believe other than that a large majority of these will discharge their obligations and thus maintain their memberships. Indeed, taken as a whole, the percentage of lapses is much less than in former years.

Administration.

The budget system of controlling the society's expenditures, as inaugurated by our board of directors, has operated to good advantage, and, as will be seen from the minutes of the board, is continued.

The work in our administration office was quite heavy during the year just passed, taxing our resources to the utmost. It was, however, carried on at the minimum of expense, and I hope at the maximum of efficiency. The many details of the society's work entail a vast amount of correspondence, as may be well judged. The new system of bookkeeping installed last year has worked admirably, and each month there is rendered to the president and to the chairman of the finance committee a financial report showing transactions and balances.

Financial Report.

Below is the secretary's financial statement, for the period January 1 to August 1, 1922, supplementary to the statement presented to the board of directors at their annual meeting, last March, which appears in the minutes of the board duly printed and presented at this session. The receipts were:

The details of this report will appear in the report of the auditors.

Trade Exhibitions.

The trade exhibitions of the society form an important part of our administrative work. At our convention and at our national flower shows they seem to bring all branches of the trade together and in themselves are expositions of the advancement of our industry. A great deal of effort is necessary properly to stage one of these trade exhibitions, but the society is to be congratulated upon the fact that every one so far attempted has proved a success and yielded a handsome profit. The trade exhibition in Kansas City this year is no exception, being successful from every point of view. As will have been noticed in the official program for the convention, a morning business session on the first day was abandoned in order that additional time might be afforded for inspection of the various exhibits in the trade exhibition.

Fifth National Flower Show.

The fifth national flower show, held in Indianapolis last March, went down into history as another great success for the society. In spite of difficulties, which at one time appeared to be insurmountable, and eventually, within a few weeks of the date fixed for the opening, necessitated the changing of location from Cleveland to Indianapolis, the show was staged to advantage, with the result we all know. A full report on the show will be forthcoming at a later session, so I need not go further into details.

Publicity Campaign.

The publicity campaign has been in active progress throughout the year, and spring saw a resumption of the magazine advertising, which has been instrumental in putting the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," before the public in such a way as to make its establishment of a permanent character as long as the florists do their part in the way of furnishing the funds necessary for this attainment. I believe that many florists are willing to continue their pledges indefinitely with this end in view and it is hoped that all others will look at the campaign in the same light and support it to the best of their ability. A detailed report of the publicity committee's work will be presented at a subsequent session of the convention.

Plant Registrations.

The following new plants have been registered with the society since the last convention:

Coleus Harding, by Louis Hahn & Sons, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Geranium Alice May, by Tong & Weeks Floral Co., Ashtabula, O.

Cattleya Memoria Roehrs-Lowe and Laeliocattleya Mount Brilliant, by Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J.

Service of Trade Papers.

Again your secretary must acknowledge the good aid rendered him in his work by the trade papers. In the twelve months just passed they have given many columns of valuable space to our announcements and publicity matter, a courtesy for which every one of us should feel indebted and for which, I am sure, they have the hearty thanks of the society.

Newfield, N. J.—William C. Smith expects to build another greenhouse early in the fall.

Norristown, Pa.—The greenhouses of Lewis E. Taubel, at Lafayette street and Hartranft avenue, have been purchased by Paul Catanese, the well known florist. The greenhouses extend 150 feet on Hartranft avenue and 212 feet on Lafayette street. The attorney representing the purchaser was Maxwell Strawbridge.

Report of John Young, secretary of the S. A. F., presented at the Kansas City Convention, August 15.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Address of S. S. Pennock, president of the S. A. F., at the Kansas City convention, August 15.

THE Society of American Florists, in invading your fair city for the first time, considers it an honor to be here as your guests. Each and every one attending the convention feel they owe you a debt of gratitude, not only from a business standpoint, but in a social way as well.

One of my early impressions of Kansas City was in 1901, when all the country was talking about your flower show held that fall in Convention hall. What an unheard-of attendance, enthusiasm and wonderful show you had! It was a success that was only achieved by coöperation. When I heard last summer that Kansas City was going to be the next place for our convention, I had no doubt about its being a success, as the Kansas City florists stand together for progress in every sense of the word.

One of the first conventions I attended was in 1892, in Washington. There was a good representation of all the florists. The business sessions seemed to be of minor importance to most of the members. At least, that was my impression. A group of us on bicycles visited everything that was worth while in Washington. Riding a bicycle then was all right, but not so today. From a bicycle to an automobile illustrates quite definitely the progress of the Society of American Florists in its field of work. Today we come together with one main object in view, to improve our minds and benefit by our meetings in order to elevate and improve the business. Business first; then pleasure afterwards.

Unappreciated.

I believe a great many of our members do not realize what wonderful work and splendid progress the society has made and the opportunity it is presenting its members in the way of help and offering better business methods.

Further, I do not believe it is fully realized that the S. A. F. has made all the other branches possible—the F. T. D., the Hail Association, the Rose Society, the Carnation Society and many others. All these organizations, as well as the national publicity campaign and the national flower shows, have helped our business wonderfully, and during this past time of depression, our business, compared to others, has been phenomenal. I believe this continuous prosperity is due primarily to the efforts of these various branches backed by the S. A. F.

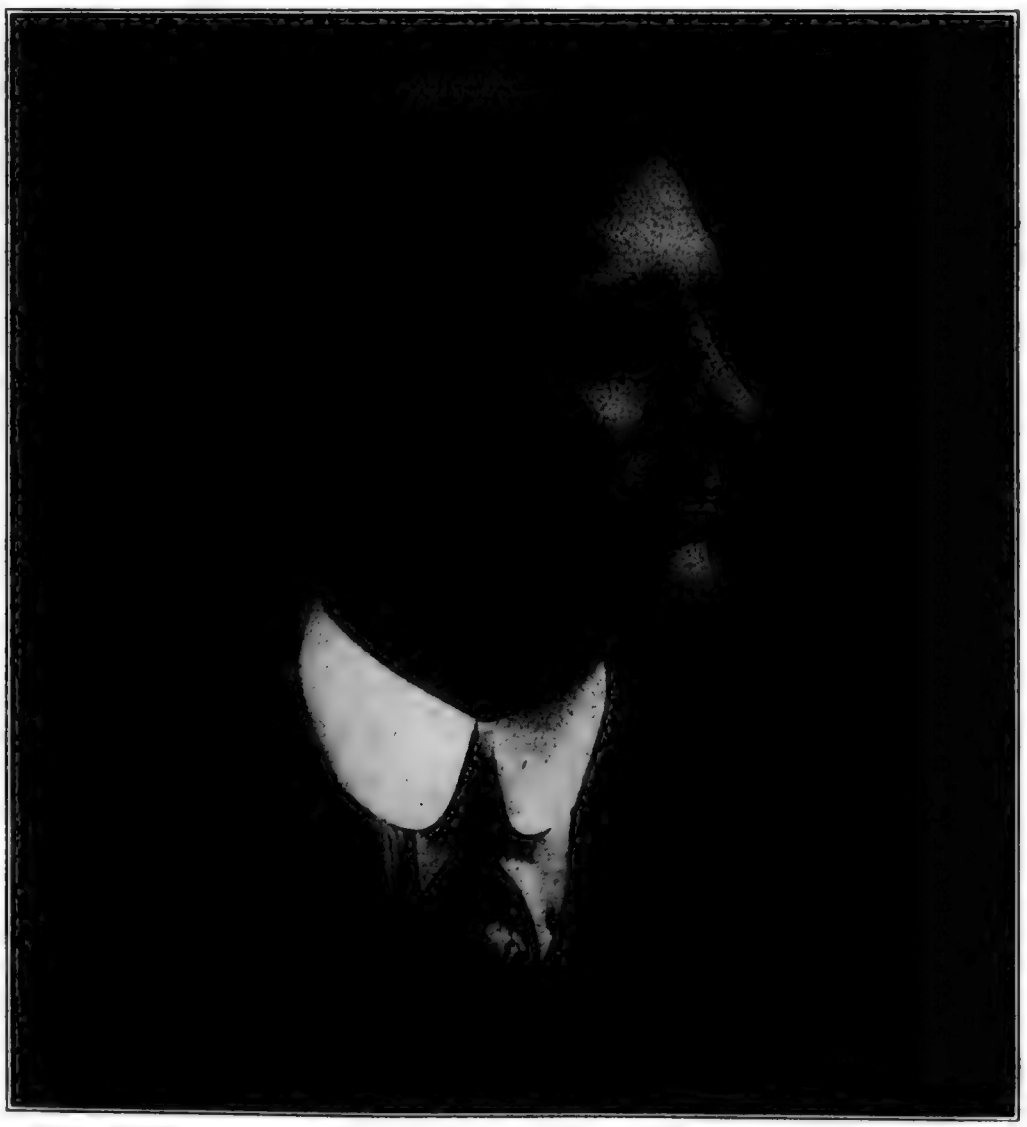
Membership.

This is a question that has given all of the officers a great deal of anxiety, the getting of new members and also the retaining of old members. Memberships are the backbone of any society. The retaining of old members has been thought by many to be really fully as important as, if not more important than, getting new members. Keeping our old members active and interested in the society will mean far more for the good of the society than trying to get new ones and forgetting about the old ones.

Last year a campaign was put on to get new members which was very successful, and I believe satisfactory in every way from the standpoint of getting new members, but oftentimes these new members are brought in under pressure or for reasons of friendship, and a membership of this kind is not as lasting. What we want is to make the society so valuable that every florist in the country will gladly become a member.

I have felt for some time, not only since I have taken the presidency of the S. A. F., but long before, that the affiliated societies were not doing enough to help the S. A. F., and I believe there are many ways in which their members can be induced to join the national body and to take active part. Among our affiliated societies I believe the F. T. D. has done probably more for us than any other one and to its members we extend our best wishes for a continuation of the good work they have been doing.

Publicity is a broad subject, and one that is not understood well enough. When I say, not understood well enough, I mean a great many of the florists do not understand or cannot comprehend how valuable and what a wonderful asset it is to have a publicity campaign going in good shape, with a big fund back of it.



During the month of May, I had a visit from a representative of one of the large advertising concerns of the country. He said he thought the S. A. F. could work out a plan such as a number of organizations had done in several western cities, called the multiple membership plan.

The general plan is that each member who becomes a part of this multiple membership plan takes out a membership at, we will say, $50 a year, this to include the annual dues of the society and the balance to go towards the publicity fund. If we could work up a membership in this class of, say, 2,000, that would give us a working fund of about $100,000 a year, which is much more than we are now getting under the present plan of voluntary contribution.

Possibilities.

I do not make this as a recommendation, but simply mention it as a plan to bring before you. I think it does have splendid possibilities, and the idea is certainly worth considering, particularly from a standpoint of permanency. Something concrete must be worked up in reference to getting a certain amount of money annually to be used for publicity. I would like to have it re-

GROWN IN AMERICA

IN REGARD to the development of American products, your committee would infer from all the information it has been able to gather that only the first steps have been taken in the development of American products, covering plants originally imported from foreign lands. We have substituted other plants to take their places, as far as possible, but not much progress has been made so far in the growing of the plants that we have heretofore depended upon for our supplies in commercial quantities from Europe, such as rhododendrons, azaleas, boxwood, etc. So far as we have been able to learn, only a beginning has been made in these plants, which have heretofore been considered indispensable.

In order to make the report more comprehensive, the committee was enlarged last year, so that it might be more representative, covering the extreme west and middle west, as well as the eastern sections of our country.

Progress in California.

Roy F. Wilcox, a member of our committee, representing southern California, states that during the last few years there has been much development in the horticultural products and large investments are being made in that section. One of the largest industries recently developed on the Pacific coast is the growing of kentia palms. At present there are about one and a quarter million in the course of development at Sierra Madre and Montebello, and large additional investments are being made every year to prepare for a complete rotation. Six years are necessary to produce a marketable crop. Rose growing here has also taken a great lead and there are approximately six to seven million rose plants now being grown in Los Angeles, Hemet and San Jose. Fruit stocks are also being grown extensively, one firm in the north alone producing about eight million. Many are grown in other localities, increasing this total greatly; 150,000 azaleas are now being grown at Eureka and within a short time there will be a quantity of these available for sale. Rhododendrons are also being grown. Boxwood is being grown extensively, besides ericas, aspidistras, etc. Certain bulbs also luxuriate in southern California, such as freesias, miniature gladioli, Spanish iris, Iris tingitana, tuberous begonias and many others. California is already producing a great many valuable florists' plants and in time they will be more largely produced. Roy F. Wilcox states that he will exhibit some specimen boxwood and other stock and illustrations of different developments throughout that part of the country, which, no doubt, will be of interest to those attending the convention.

Down in Dixie.

Charles Baum reports from Tennessee that that section is producing some fine stock in the way of lily bulbs, Lilium candidum and other varieties, as well as gladioli, tulips and narcissi, with the exception of the tender varieties, such as the Paper Whites, and they are being grown extensively farther south. He understands that down in Louisiana and Texas Paper Whites are being grown and making finer bulbs than the stock imported from France. Gladioli luxuriate in this section and it would seem that a good many of the lilies, especially the black-stem giganteum, can be grown successfully here. Some of the important varieties of lilies, like L. regale, speciosum varieties and the black-stem giganteum, seem to thrive in this locality, particularly in the higher altitudes, growing luxuriantly and doing wonderfully well, and thus far promise to prove successful. Some firms are growing large stocks of the Indian azaleas, as well as the hardy varieties, such as mollis and Japanese sorts, which promise to be commercially successful.

Edward B. George, a member of the committee from Ohio, reports that it will be impossible to say anything further than that the first preliminary steps have been taken in developing stocks of rose-budding or grafting material, fruit-budding material, and the same would also apply to rhododendrons, azaleas, boxwood and araucarias. True, there are several plantings of the items in question and reports from the state of Washington show that they are making progress with fruit trees and Norway maple seedlings. From the south and a few points in the east and from California, success is in sight in the propagation of Manetti. When one considers the vast quantities of all these items needed to cover anywhere near the demand, it is all the more evident that we must have more latitude and more time. He also states that from information he has been able to gather and from knowledge at hand, the last year shows progress in the development of horticultural products, but he thinks that we are only at the beginning.

In the East.

In the east hybrid tea roses are being more and more extensively budded and grown and the quality is as good as, if not better than, what we previously secured from abroad, and these are being grown in sufficient quantities to meet the demand. Seedling orchids are being developed, but it will be a long time before these will be commercially available and in the meantime we shall suffer from the absence of collected material. As to just how soon the hybrid orchids that are being grown will be available, there is a difference of opinion.

Azaleas are being grown, particularly some of the new Japanese varieties, which promise success eventually, but they are not in large enough supply to be an important commercial factor. Just what can be done along this line, particularly with the Indian azaleas, remains to be seen. The Japanese varieties are already being considerably grown and used. Whatever has been done so far has been done through local initiative and on account of the enterprise of different individuals and firms.

The work that has been done so far has been along the lines of least resistance and the propagation of material that is the most easily grown. We find the nurserymen and florists are growing the same line of stock as they have been growing, while the rare varieties that are difficult to grow are left alone because of the lack of time and the care of handling them. From what information the committee has been able to gather and the knowledge at hand, progress is shown in the development of many horticultural products, but, as we have stated before, we think we are only at the beginning.

In view of the fact that the agricultural department through the federal horticultural board, through the operation of quarantine 37, deprived us suddenly of so many plants that we had learned to consider as necessities, we believe that this department should organize a constructive campaign carrying on experimental work in different parts of the country in a broad, comprehensive way, which the individual and the average business man will, or could, not attempt. As we are deprived of many valuable plants that we have heretofore imported, it certainly behooves the agricultural department of the country to devote its energies to the development of large horticultural interests which it should be able to do much better than the individual.

Report of the committee on the development of American products, delivered by Chairman Frank R. Pierson, at Kansas City, August 15.

STAGING THE BIG SHOW

Report of George Asmus, chairman of the national flower show committee of the S. A. F., presented at the Kansas City convention August 17.

A YEAR ago I submitted my report to you at the Washington convention, and told you a number of things that were expected to happen that did not. I told you of the possibilities of a dream being realized, a dream that the leading men in the trade at Cleveland had so impressed upon their minds that it seemed almost a reality to them.

And so that dream became almost a fixture in the minds of the members of the national flower show committee. Aye, this same dream spread until the entire horticultural world had begun to look upon that dream as something real. And that was the opening of Cleveland's wonderful public auditorium, which cost about $7,500,000 to erect, with the fifth national flower show. And I know how bitter, indeed, was the disappointment to all, and particularly to the well organized and hard-working people of our craft in Cleveland and nearby. They had done the preliminary work well. All was in readiness, when almost at the last hour, you might say, for the date was Friday, January 6, we were informed that the newly elected mayor, who took office January 1, would under no circumstances allow the build- to be used until every detail was finished and finances raised to properly maintain same, although we had in our possession a lease properly and legally executed.

Rosy Day.

I well remember the day our committee, with the chairman of local committees and also President Roland and President-Elect Pennock, were in the office of the commissioner of public buildings and, after a long conference, were informed that we could positively have the building for the dates of our show, also that we would, on account of the educational character of our exhibition, be put on the minimum rental basis, which meant a saving of many thousand dollars. And so we were indeed happy and rejoiced over what seemed to us the removing of the last obstacle that stood in the path of the world's greatest horticultural achievement.

In all of our deliberations were present the representatives of the American Rose and American Carnation Societies, who were copartners in the fifth national show and who were keyed to their highest pitch in staging the greatest exhibit in their history. But it was not to be. While we would not take no for an answer, and had meetings in Cleveland with the business leaders of that city, who gave us hours of their priceless time, and it seemed at times that their efforts were to be crowned with success, fate seemed set against the fifth national show, and we reluctantly were forced to issue a call to meet this serious situation. Within forty-eight hours each and every one of the members of the national flower show committee was in Cleveland at my call.

Untiring Workers.

I want to publicly thank each and every one of them, and this includes the president and president-elect of the S. A. F. and also the representatives of the American Rose and American Carnation Societies, for the amount of time they gave in answering the calls made necessary. (In fact, President Pennock said, "My wife wanted to know how long I was going to commute between Philadelphia and Cleveland.") And theirs was no easy problem to handle. Their task is full of quandaries and risks. The enormous expense attached to the undertaking makes need of the utmost care in financing, and the situation that faced your committee was serious.

A little over two months remained before the dates of the show. Plants were being grown all over the country for these dates. Money to the amount of over $8,000 had been spent on this second fiasco. The national flower show fund, which at one time had in it over $13,000, was wiped out and a $4,000 deficit stared us in the face. True, we had the guarantee fund to fall back on, but we were proud of our record that we had always returned the guarantee money intact, and with a profit to each one of the subscribers. Although we had a loss of $7,519.86 when we were forced to call off the St. Louis show on account of the war, we had never assessed a guarantor, because our committee felt that as partners, and that is what we considered guarantors, we should first fall back on the reserve fund.

George Asmus.
(Chairman of the National Flower Show Committee.)

Quick Change.

So you can see the position we were in. Nothing but hard work and united effort could save us. And the call was made. Our committee must be ready for any and every emergency. And so the committee one day wound up its affairs in Cleveland and on the next day considered its problem. It seemed evident to us that if possible we must go ahead with the exhibition. No other building was suitable or available in Cleveland. It must be elsewhere. But where? We must have a city centrally located between the flower-growing sections. We wanted a building as ideal as possible. We wanted to go somewhere that we knew we could depend on help from the men in the trade, somewhere where they had done things. We wanted a good railroad center. The city selected must not be too large, as we could not hope there to promote properly a show of our type in so short a time as we had, also, a city that would be glad of the opportunity that gave them this exhibition and not consider it a burden.

I have stated to you in my annual reports that in my estimation any city with over 200,000 population can support a national flower show, and I was pleased that my opinion proved correct by results obtained in the recent exhibition. And so, after careful consideration and long, anxious hours, Indianapolis was chosen. We knew we had the army of workers there, and some generals, too. I refer to Irwin Bertermann, who acted as chairman of the local executive committee, and L. E. Hitz, president of the Indiana State Florists' Association, and many others who acted as chairmen and workers. But the men of Indiana did not stop at recruiting helpers from the trade; they started at the top of the heap by making the governor, Frank McCray, a worker, and from there down.

Plentiful Publicity.

I do wish that I had more time to tell you how nice every one was in that city, the Chamber of Commerce, the interurban lines, newspapers, etc. Just think of the Indianapolis Star, on the opening day of the show, getting out an extra edition of the paper with fourteen pages containing nothing but our show. More than 650,000 lines of reading matter altogether was obtained, and that is why we had over 80,000 people pay admission to our show, held in a building five and one-half miles from the heart of the city, on a fair ground. Seven of the eight days of the show it rained and was most disagreeable, with snow flurries, roads that were almost impassable and bridges torn out by high waters, and we had advertised and organized all the surrounding towns, for we were depending on the 2,000,000 population that was within two hours' ride of Indianapolis. If we had had any break in the weather at all, we would have replaced every dollar in the treasury that was used for both the St. Louis and Cleveland ventures and then some.

Ready for Next Show.

All of this was done in two months' time. And so, instead of standing here apologizing for another unforeseen occurrence, I am here to tell you that we made a profit of over $8,000 in Indianapolis and the national flower show fund is still intact and we are ready for the next venture. I don't know if it is the nature of the business we are in that gives us the type of men we have in our industry. We certainly have shown the business world that we are doers and can face serious situations calmly and safely. Perhaps this is one of the reasons we are so proud of our industry and the men who are engaged in it.

I am pleased to state that after no exhibition in the past have we been able so promptly to prepare a complete financial statement as after the recent show. I will read to you a brief summary of receipts and expenditures. You will note that considerable of the money expended goes to members in the trade for premiums, etc. The detailed financial account will be printed in the proceedings and would consume too much time to read. The society's auditors are to be congratulated on their splendid piece of auditing.

Spotlight	10.00
Miscellaneous general expense	143.65
Total	$ 8,793.24

Reconciliation of the national flower show fund was as follows:

Balance in Buffalo bank, July 6, 1917	$ 1,756.08
Profits of national flower show held at Philadelphia, 1916	11,184.95
Total	$12,941.03
Expenses a/c show at St. Louis, 1917	7,519.86
Balance	$ 5,421.17
Expenses a/c show at Cleveland, 1922	8,793.24
Deficit	$ 3,372.07
Net receipts of Indianapolis show	7,809.16
Balance, national flower show fund, Aug. 1, 1922	$ 4,437.09

Thus it will be seen that we are solvent. I am to call attention to the greatest result, the real object of the show, and that is the publicity secured. If we were to pay 10 cents a line for "write-ups" we received in Indianapolis, it would have cost $65,000, and so we must look at the money expended in St. Louis and Cleveland. Most of this was spent for publicity. In Cleveland I don't believe there were many people who could read who did not know about the intended national flower show, because we were forced into publicity. We never thought in our controversy with the mayor about the lease on the building, but there were headlines in bold type and page after page of write-ups. And if we decide to go to Cleveland in the near future with the show—and Mayor Kohler extended us an invitation by telegram during the show at Indianapolis—we shall be the gainer, for this publicity. Let me impress upon you that no better means of exploiting our industry can be had than the national shows, as has been proved every year, in New York city, where they have continued the shows. The successes are stupendous and are increasing yearly.

Thanks Due.

I cannot close my report to you without a public expression of thanks to the men who made great sacrifices in helping to make the exhibition at Indianapolis a success. I am afraid if I start to enumerate them by name I might forget some, and I don't want to do that. And words fail me here. I can only say the men who did do their part so well have the heartfelt thanks of every member of our committee and I believe of every member of the Society of American Florists. If these shows are to be continued, and of course they are, we must have many such sacrifices and more men in the profession must help. We cannot go on forever asking the same men to do these things which mean so much for all. Thanks are also due exhibitors, contributors, guarantors, and the horticultural press for the splendid support they gave in making the show a success.

And in closing let me say, when the call is made on you for the sixth national show remember the sacrifices made by those who made the Indianapolis show possible, and do your bit. Cleveland was loyal and, though bitterly disappointed, she stood by Indianapolis in every way possible. Herman Knoble and his Cleveland workers are due untold thanks for their part in making the sacrifices they did. We redeemed about 900 railroad certificates. We think that this was about one-half of the attendance by those in the trade, and we want to thank them also for visiting the exhibition.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—L. W. Hoisington & Son have changed their address from 121 Island avenue to 1218 Jefferson avenue, southeast.

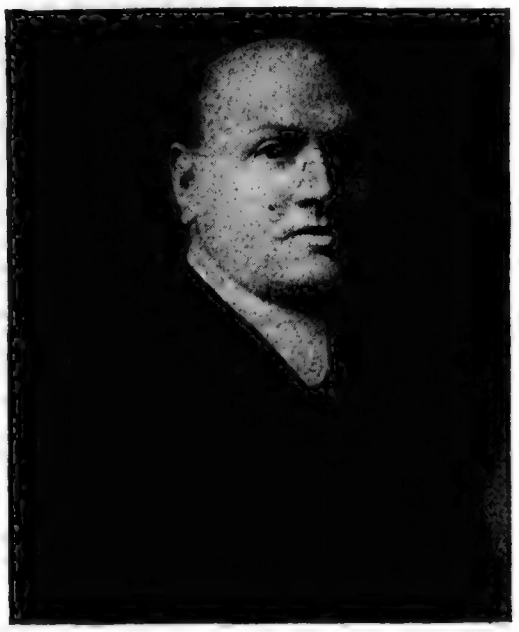
Georgetown, Ill.—R. L. Burgoyne, a well known florist who has been in business in this city for twelve years, has formed a partnership with Bennett F. Henderson, and the business will continue under the firm name of Burgoyne & Henderson.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY

Report of Henry Penn, chairman of the national publicity committee of the S. A. F., presented at the Kansas City convention, August 16.

WHAT a pleasure to think that in the five years that have passed since the national publicity campaign was started, its importance has not waned, but rather increased! And while it has performed its mission, it still has much to do. Those who are interested and have followed its path have much to be grateful for, particularly when we know the various obstacles we have overcome.

Although we have progressed in our development of floral advertising throughout the nation, we have not caught up with the spirit of its national importance. We have permitted ourselves to be content with its past success, if the campaign can be called successful, much to the astonishment of all concerned.



Then, too, with the small amount yearly appropriated for a national campaign, much has been done and more can be done, provided we can interest new blood in the thought that by helping the cause they are merely helping themselves. We should have a larger appropriation to insure proper results for a business with as large a scope as the florists' industry, and the greater the amount received, the better the return.

Slogan Made Popular.

All will agree that "Say It with Flowers" has been a byword throughout the civilized world since its inception and will continue to be if we can maintain the proper dignity in its presentation to the public, which unquestionably is in the interests of every member of the S. A. F. when you take into consideration the many branches of trade who would not "Say It with Flowers," but who attempt to say it with candy, bricks, ink and what not. This becomes evident to the sincere and broad-minded florist who would endeavor to redeem the one outstanding feature that has helped the sale of flowers more than any other one cause and which stands in a class by itself, that of the national campaign. You have a committee which is at all times ready to receive suggestions for general improvement of the various programs and which is endeavoring to expend the small amount subscribed for the greatest good to the greatest number, bearing in mind at all times the success of the craft generally.

Saved Us from Depression.

It is highly commendable to the florists at large that we have faced no depression, as has almost every other line of business, and in all other branches much has been done to keep the volume up to the pre-war period, let alone present time. Have not the florists prospered despite all the disturbances from which many other lines are still suffering? Many of us, perhaps, have forgotten that business is on the wane, owing to the way our present volume has kept up, and undoubtedly many will wonder when this statement is brought to light just what has helped bring this condition about. And in this respect I am reminded of the colored deacon who was examining a class of children. When he marked the pupils' papers he gave George Washington Lincoln 101 per cent. One of the examining committee asked the deacon what was the mark of a perfect pupil, and he said 100 per cent. "Then why did you mark young George Washington Lincoln 101 per cent?" In reply the deacon said, "Well, you see, he answered one more question than he was asked." This probably is the reason why many florists are content to stand by without contributing to the cause, feeling that they are doing pretty well as matters stand, though they would increase their business many times were each to do but a small part, remembering that the many small units would create a large fund, which would help materially in getting a sum of the proportions necessary to carry on the campaign.

The Future.

Will the future of the campaign be assured? The answer lies with you.

We have promised that the various allied associations already formed and many more in formation will be the nucleus of the future fund foundation, and no better method could be devised for equality of appropriations, as it is ideal for all concerned. By your moral and financial interest you can be assured of its continuity.

Let us do for the posterity of the floricultural interest what we have started out to do, so that we may pass on to the next generation a heritage that will meet and merit their approval. We have started something; let us continue.

The poorer the housekeeper, the nearer perfection she expects in her maid. The less ambitious the store owner, the greater results does he expect of his advertising, while in reality the returns from your advertising will be in proportion to what you expend in that direction, plus all other essentials.

The successful business man becomes such only after he has displayed certain talents that enabled him to be called a success. And if you look over the field in all other lines of merchandising, can you pick individuals, partners or corporations who did not build up their advertising appropriations in proportion to their increased volume? Have we been fair and generous to the fund? And if not, it is never too late to have your support to help put over what was so sadly lacking before this campaign started.

Must Remind Public.

We must continually remind the public that we have a product worthy of having, placing it in the right field, and national advertising is the one feature we must push to help the local advertising gain its momentum.

We owe much to our publicity nationally, because by its motion you caused more florists to advertise locally, and thus everybody shares in its action.

More power to the florists and may they achieve still greater heights, so that "gluts" will be but a passing thought of what happened once, never to return. Shall we say, "amen"? If so, stand back of your national campaign and automatically the deed is done, and you will have accomplished the one thing we have all desired—creating more good flowers and plants and also more consumers to enjoy them. This is our mission.

In conclusion, your committee feels that it has been greatly rewarded in its endeavor to do that which is expected and to merit your further support in the greatest campaign that was ever put forth and which all will concede has for its background the greatest gloom-killer—more flowers.

MORE MONEY NEEDED.

BEFORE reading to you the financial report of the national publicity committee, as chairman of the subcommittee, I wish to call your attention to what I call a serious situation. We are gradually going back in this important work. Our report shows that we shall have hard work to come up to last year's grand total of $38,000, and last year's total was $22,000 short of our high-water mark year, in 1920, despite the fact that the results of this campaign have been the talk of business men of the United States and Canada.

We have, of course, made other valuable accomplishments, such as organizing a number of allied associations, and have been the cause of gigantic advertising done by individuals and organizations, the results of which have indeed been beneficial. New methods must be employed to secure money. The subscription plan must be maintained until our problem of raising funds has been solved. Many new ways are being contemplated, and I hope that in whatever form our committee works them out for your consideration, you will meet them as the one best business investment you have made.

Report of George Asmus, chairman of the finance subcommittee of the national publicity committee of the S. A. F., presented at the Kansas City convention August 16.

Publicity Needed.

The remarkable condition of our industry the last two years, as compared with almost any other, is evidence of what has been accomplished with the money you have subscribed. This is a critical time in all industries, and we must fight for our share of business.

I often wonder, when I look over the list of subscribers and see the many $5 and $10 subscriptions, if the donors realize how small the amount is they are subscribing. They give that amount for a prize at a lodge picnic, then invest the same amount to promote their business, so that they can live, and pay for this advertisement and all their other advertisements, etc. Great, isn't it? The $5 per year man is paying a little over 1 cent a day. The $10 per year man is more liberal. He pays nearly 3 cents a day, about the price of his daily paper. But it is all right if it rests his conscience. It surely doesn't help the national publicity campaign much, as I figure it costs about that much to carry subscribers.

The S. A. F., with its large treasury and increasing every year, ought to be the largest subscriber. Let us all do our part in the work which has been so great a factor in the success of our business.

AT THE CAPITAL

TARIFF AND LEGISLATION.

The last year has been a busy one for your tariff and legislation committee. Congress is struggling for a new tariff bill, the federal horticultural board is revamping quarantine 37, and there have been much correspondence and many conferences on matters such as freight and express rates, taxation, etc.

The tariff bill as passed by the House last summer was not acceptable to our organization. The duties were too high on some items, lower than necessary on others, while the phraseology was loose and indefinite; so we took measures to have changes made in the Senate. In July we appeared before the United States tariff commission, and in August William F. Gude and myself appeared before the Senate finance committee, the result being that our recommendations are embodied in the tariff bill now before the Senate for action. The new duty rates show a considerable increase over the present ones, but as the schedule has been published in the trade papers, I need not repeat them here.

Some of our members, particularly in Connecticut and Rhode Island, have had trouble with local tax assessors on the subject of the taxation of growing crops, and while the committee cannot help contest such cases, I suggest that the executive committee direct the secretary to give what backing he can to those affected, in behalf of the organization.

May 15 your committee attended the conference which was called by the federal horticultural board for the purpose of discussing regulation 3 of quarantine 37. Since the principal objection to quarantine 37 is that it operates as a blanket economic embargo and is not a legal quarantine as authorized by the plant quarantine act of 1912, we took the strong and legal position that the quarantine should be lifted and economic protection be given by the tariff and not by the F. H. B., protection from pests to be covered by legal quarantines. No other position is tenable in view of the diversified interests of the members of the organization, or in law. Our statement was reported fully by the trade papers at the time, so I need not repeat it here.

While quarantine 37 has undoubtedly benefited some of our growers by giving them economic protection and enabling them to get high prices for their products, it works against the great majority by compelling others to pay these prices for items formerly imported or other items grown in their place. It also has resulted in the prices of the seven items still allowed entry, valley pips, Dutch bulbs, lily bulbs, French bulbs and rose stocks, being raised until their delivered cost is now almost prohibitive, as quarantine 37 centralized the consumption demand on these seven items without increasing their production.

In the heavy work of the last year, every member of this committee has given me unstinted support and, regardless of his personal interests, has sacrificed and worked unselfishly for the general welfare. My heartiest thanks goes to everyone of them.

Report of James McHutchison, chairman of the tariff and legislation committee of the S. A. F., presented at the Kansas City convention, August 15.

BUSY YEAR AT WASHINGTON.

The past year, as usual, has been a busy one for your Washington representative. There were several bills introduced in the United States Congress of more or less importance to the florists' business in general. The first of these, H. R. 8441, read:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Postmaster General is hereby authorized, in his discretion, to restrict the application of the special delivery stamp or equivalent stamps and the special service rendered in connection therewith to mail matter of the first class.

This bill was introduced September 24, 1921, but was not referred to the House calendar until November 15, 1921. Your Washington representative immediately got busy and sent out a letter to the trade papers in the United States and Canada. Needless to say, the papers all published the facts and the results speak for themselves. The letter read:

November 15, 1921, the following bill (copy enclosed) was introduced in the Congress of the United States, and reported favorably by the interstate commerce commission.

This would either mean that the thousands of people who receive packages from the florists daily by special delivery parcel post would be denied the privilege of the mail or we would have to get a special privilege. Don't you think it wise to have every florist in the United States write his congressman not to disturb the special delivery business which the florists and druggists now enjoy, to say nothing of the other interests, in which we are not interested.

I hope you will find space in your valuable paper to give this wide publicity.

Your Washington representative assumed the responsibility of sending a floral wreath on Armistice day to the United States Capitol building in honor of the "unknown soldier," with a ribbon which had "The Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists" inscribed upon it in gold letters. Again, on the opening day of the peace conference, which was an international event, we sent a handsome basket of American beauty roses with the following inscription, "In the name of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists we present these flowers to the Limitation of Arms Conference as a symbolic expression of our hope for a firm foundation of everlasting peace among nations."

The year as a whole has been a prosperous one among florists, and we are to be congratulated on having fewer failures than other industries similarly situated. Locally there has been some building, several new firms entering the florists' business. The future looks bright and prosperous for both the wholesalers and retailers.

The tariff question is with us and has been for two years, and no one seems to know what the final outcome will be. We have been watching it all the time and whenever a new point comes up affecting floriculture and horticulture we have been active in trying to secure the passage of a bill that will insure the greatest good to the greatest number of florists and horticulturists.

The next question to engross our attention is the everlasting bugaboo, quarantine 37. Concerning this question the trade at large has been advised through the trade press, particularly regarding the conference May 15 and 16.

Just now we are in receipt of a pamphlet containing forty-two closely typewritten pages, principally endorsements for quarantine 37, as it now is. Included is the report of the jury appointed

REFRIGERATION FOR FLORISTS

WHOLESALER'S STANDPOINT.

Highly Important.

The subject of refrigeration from a wholesaler's standpoint is an important one. The preservation of stock is absolutely essential and must be carefully considered to provide for times when stocks are bound to accumulate.

Before refrigerating machines, ice had to be used and still is used in the majority of the smaller establishments. Its disadvantages are great—dependence on a source of supply, the amount of cooling space which is taken up by the ice bunkers, the necessary slop encountered when filling the bunkers, and the inability to maintain adequate temperature during heated spells, where there is a continual opening of the refrigerator doors.

Machines Successful.

Refrigerating machines are past the experimental stage. They are successfully operated either where a small or large amount of refrigeration is required. The automatic refrigerating machine is easily operated by anyone using ordinary care and attention. The increase of refrigerating space is fully twenty-five per cent, due to the saving of ice bunker capacity, and the temperature is easily maintained at the required point.

The brine system is the safe and sure system to be employed. All danger of damage from ammonia leaks is eliminated, and this is of great importance, as there is always danger of a leak in the coils where the direct expansion method is employed, and if an ammonia leak does occur in a refrigerator, the contents will be entirely ruined. The equipment required is a little more expensive with a brine system than direct expansion, but this expense is nothing compared with the insurance you have against loss from ammonia leaks.

Equipment Required.

The brine system requires a tank containing the brine, which is cooled by the refrigerating machine to any required temperature, and the cooled brine circulates through the coils in the refrigerator by means of small centrifugal pumps. Both are under thermostatic control, the compressors starting and stopping within a 3 to 5-degree range of a predetermined temperature for the brine. The pump which circulates the brine is also under thermostatic control and operates within a 1-degree range of starting and stopping. Your temperature is therefore at all times within a small range, either day or night, of predetermined temperature, regardless of the opening and shutting of doors. This range will be only 1 degree when doors have been closed for some time, and even when the doors are opened and closed with considerable frequency during the day, the temperature is not materially affected.

Paper on "Refrigeration from a Wholesaler's Standpoint," by P. B. Rigby, vice-president of the S. S. Pennock Co., presented at the Kansas City convention of the S. A. F., August 16.

The size of machine used is entirely regulated by the amount of refrigerating space operated and the temperature to be maintained. Machines are rated in terms of tons, a 1-ton machine meaning it has a cooling capacity equivalent to a ton of melted ice in twenty-four hours, and so on in the same ratio as the tonnage capacity of the machine used. Best results are obtained from a machine of greater capacity than required, as the machine will not be overworked, and the initial expense of installation is small, as compared with the results obtained; also the power consumed is not much greater, as the machine will not require so long a time to run to effect the required temperatures. Any refrigeration engineer can tell you the size of machine required to maintain a certain temperature for a certain space.

Refrigeration assumes constantly greater importance in the mind of the thinking florist as he compares the saving, in money and in flowers, to be made by the mechanical method. The article on "Ice Machines for Florists" in a recent issue of The Review described the makes that have found favor in this trade. Testimony in their behalf is further presented in the papers read at the Kansas City convention on this subject.

From practical experience, I have found that a 2½-ton machine will operate during warm weather almost continuously to maintain a brine temperature of 15 to 18 degrees above zero, which is about the proper temperature to maintain a box temperature of 40 to 45 degrees above zero, with a capacity of 1,500 to 2,000 cubic feet.

Cost of Installation.

A 2½-ton automatic refrigerating machine with a brine tank, 5-horsepower motor for compressor, two centrifugal pumps, each with ¾-horsepower motor (one for spare), for circulating the brine through the refrigerating coils, capable of cooling 2,000 cubic feet of space to temperatures required for flowers, together with necessary thermostats, can be installed for, possibly, $5,000 to $6,000.

The cost of operation for such an equipment depends on the cost of electric current. At 5 cents per kilowatt hour, the current consumed will run from $35 to $80 per month, with an average of about $60 per month. To this must be added the depreciation on the equipment of ten per cent, and the necessary repairs for maintenance will bring the average cost to about $125 monthly. Ice at $6 per ton for the same cooling capacity would cost at least $150 per month, and would require a much larger space for refrigerators, due to a loss of at least twenty-five per cent for ice bunker space.

Points for Machines.

In my opinion there is no comparison at all favorable to the use of ice as against refrigerating machines working automatically for a cooling space of 1,000 cubic feet or more. The temperature is always even, day or night, with the use of a refrigerating machine, and dependence on an outside source is entirely eliminated. The temperature can be regulated to suit the requirements, while with ice it cannot be regulated at all.

To preserve an even temperature in any refrigerator, a fan of some kind would have to be used. Any refrigerator will always vary 5 or 6 degrees between the bottom of the box and the top. This variation, however, is of small importance, as a temperature of between 40 and 50 degrees above zero is adequate for the preservation of flowers and gives satisfactory results anywhere between this range.

I am not a refrigerating engineer and the foregoing remarks are based entirely on practical operations, and if I have been able to give any information of value to the flower trade, I shall feel amply repaid for the effort.

RETAILER'S STANDPOINT.

By Ice and Machine.

The subject of refrigeration in the florists' industry has been a matter of discussion for years. To the florist contemplating opening a new store, or changing the cooling system now in use, the question always arises as to whether he should continue using ice or adopt the more modern method of mechanical refrigeration. At the present time I am operating both systems, thus enabling me to make comparative tests as to cost, efficiency, cleanliness, etc. The comparison is interesting, and I am glad to pass this information on to the members of the Society of American Florists.

To begin with, I had always been an ardent supporter of the ice-cooled box, and my experience with mechanical refrigeration received a sorry setback about fifteen years ago, when the firm I was with had one of the old-fashioned ammonia machines in operation. The roses kept in this box turned blue and the odor of ammonia would leak out, to the annoyance and disgust of everyone coming near. No more ice machines for me—I had had enough—and

FIGURING COSTS

STANDARD ACCOUNTING SYSTEM.

Costs by Variety.

What did it cost you to grow your roses last year? How many blooms did you average to the plant? How does the present cost and production per plant compare with last year and the year before? If the production per plant decreased, it means your costs are increasing and if the sales price does not advance in proportion, you are working for a loss—aren't you vitally concerned about that? If the cost otherwise increased, you should have a definite idea why, so you can stop that loss another year.

You have to have permanent facts clearly set down, as they occur, to know these things, and keeping books of account is the basis of it all.

How many varieties do you grow? Is it possible to specialize in many? Yes, if the grower has acres under glass, broad knowledge, excellent books and records to guide him, and many capable assistants. Perhaps greater profit may be had by growing a limited number of varieties and specializing in those, so that a greater number of blooms per plant or a greater number of first-quality plants are produced, than could be made ready for sale if the grower was burdened with a great number of varieties. In a word, this is the era of specialization and in every profession and industry, in order to be successful, a man must do one thing and do it exceptionally well to the exclusion of other things.

Handicapped.

How you would laugh at a one-legged man training to be a professional runner, and yet is it any more ridiculous for a man unequipped to handle his everyday problems, without records and books to guide him in deciding his policy, trying to do business in competition with his neighbor who does?

It may take a little time and patience to keep your costs against your sales and show the difference a profit or loss. Then, if you want to know the story of the roses, or any other variety, you have it to compare with other years' results.

There are so many things, such as freeze-outs, wind storms, cheap markets, etc., over which you have practically no control, that the grower must eliminate the ones he can control, and they, the operating losses, are the very ones that customarily bring about a loss. Most growers are consoled by a general or net profit on all things produced, even if it is small. Many count their own time worth less than what they pay a helper, but the good business man knows any business should pay all help its true value and still return a good income on the investment. Face the facts and stick to books of account, for they unfailingly give you the reason.

Take this example: A grower's expenses in total for the year are $10,000; he has twenty houses all the same size; he then knows his overhead per house was $500—and he can go farther and cut his overhead or he can increase his production, thereby increasing his profit.

What Your Business Is Worth.

Assembling all the assets of a business and deducting what the business owes, you have what the business is worth, or the net worth.

It frequently becomes necessary to borrow from the bank, and the man who keeps clear books of account and regularly knows his value can impress his banker with his methods of doing business; it betokens a sound management.

Then, it is most reasonable that the man who invests his money in any enterprise should, at certain periods, like to know just how his money is distributed and if it is spread out so that it is doing the most from an income-producing point; also to know if his current assets—cash on hand or those assets which will shortly bring cash—will meet his needs for pay roll, supplies and immediate expenses. Generally speaking, it is a difficult and unsatisfactory practice to wait until the day you must have a balance sheet to start to prepare one. Finally, if you should have to sell part or all of the business, or trust its management to another, and have no history of it, proving statements is a hard matter, and while many such statements would be made in good faith, it is doubtful if a good business man would accept them at face value.

Sounder Business Policies.

Perhaps you have never before realized what a dangerous practice trying to work without books of accounts to guide you and protect you has been. Now that you can understand what and where your specific losses and gains are, you can individually decide what your policy shall be by variety.

To begin, remember any exchange of value—cash for tools, expense or something else, or sales of your product for cash, or the obligation of another—cash and every transaction should be recorded. While it would seem a difficult and tiresome practice, that is not necessarily so, because of the interest and obvious benefits reaped by familiarity with these vital facts.

Appoint a committee on the standardization of accounts and, to assist in research and assembling of data, a reputable public accountant, then authorize the committee to establish a service bureau, directed by this accountant. The service bureau could issue to members complete sets of books, with instructions as to keeping them, issue advice from time to time on their keeping, and on current problems as well as information and income tax advice. Because the needs had first been considered and studied by practical florists and then assembled by an accountant, the results should be most satisfactory and economical.

Well planned books of account today are greatly influenced by income tax laws. With limited instructions and correct books, any man should easily be able to make his own tax return and understand why he pays just what taxes he does. Without books to tell you what happened six, eight or ten months ago, it is an impossible proposition to tell the bureau of internal revenue—in the form of an income tax return. If the details of many transactions were brought to light today, many business men would have saved thousands of dollars. Many corporations and individuals, even now, are employing accountants to analyze the books for past years with the effect that, by filing amended returns, they are correcting mistakes previously made and receiving refunds or credits amounting to millions of dollars. Make a correct return and not a guess one—begin today by keeping correct books of account.

Standard Chart.

Many industries have taken this step before this and even now many others, realizing the benefits accruing to all, have through their national trade association, authorized committees to study this phase of their industry and thereby laid a foundation for a clear, permanent history through accountancy.

Such problems peculiar to the florists' business could carefully be considered and a consensus obtained. Take the item of a reserve for depreciation on greenhouses, racks and benches, small tools and portable equipment. The greenhouses are quickly depreciated and are perishable, as are many of the tools and equipment used in greenhouse work. The rates used for other industries, where the asset depreciates, but not nearly so readily, would not be applicable. A survey of conditions and a review of experiences would enable the adoption of a conservative, but reasonable rate. This will affect what income tax you pay.

Paper by H. T. Spangler, staff member of Loomis, Suffern & Fernald, New York, on "Standard System of Accounting for the Florist," read at the Kansas City convention, August 16.

BUSY YEAR AT WASHINGTON.

by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, which was printed a few weeks ago in the trade papers.

You will note from the above that there are quite as many florists in favor of quarantine 37 as are opposed to it, if not more.

The Washington office of your representative has been a busy one during the last year, no less than 341 florists having registered at his office and all, so far as we know, have been made welcome and given the glad hand of fellowship. The number of communications received from the Department of Agriculture alone aggregate 110 and this does not include the pamphlet of forty-two pages received June 30.

Members of the American Rose Society met, as usual, at Washington, June 1, to inspect the test gardens at Arlington, Va. The rose garden is coming along finely, although there is a feeling on the part of some people that greater progress could be made. We feel that these people are losing sight of the fact that this is a test garden and not a show garden. The show garden, which is located at Potomac park, between the highway bridges, is progressing rapidly and was last year seen by tens of thousands of visitors. Your representative himself saw roses in bloom as late as the month of November.

STANDARDIZED PLANT NAMES

Report of J. Horace McFarland, chairman of the committee on nomenclature of the S. A. F., presented at the Kansas City convention August 15.

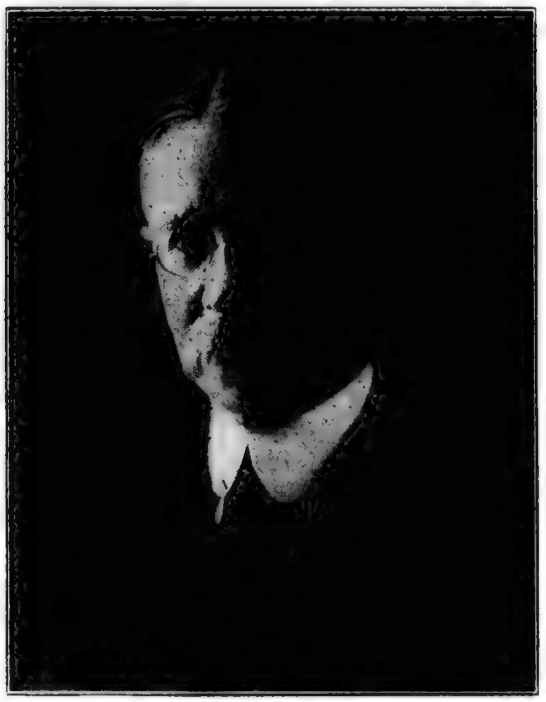
WHAT is a standardized plant name? What difference does it make whether a plant name is standardized or not? Why bother about it?

It is easy to give a scientific answer to these questions I have set up, but I think I can make a better answer non-scientifically by discussing men instead of plants.

Let us suppose that two unique personalities relating to the Society of American Florists were being known as some plants are known, and that instead of S. S. Pennock and John Young being S. S. Pennock and John Young in New York, in Philadelphia, in Kansas City, and for that matter in Jerusalem or Egypt, those excellent gentlemen were known by incidental names in each city and they did not have the standardized names by which we come to know them now. Would the situation be interesting or desirable?

In fact, a good many years ago it became necessary to prevent too much variety in the names of men, and nowadays the man who travels under an alias is usually running away from the sheriff or just beating his way past a jail. Standardized human names have not been discussed in polite society for a century or more. All names of responsible and decent people are standardized, and John Young stands for John Young anywhere on earth.

Now, the desire to have standardized plant names is simply to put plant names in the same relation that human names are.



For Example.

Take a rather familiar coniferous evergreen, one of the most desirable—the Douglas fir. Its real name as standardized is Pseudotsuga Douglasi. It also travels as Abies Douglasi, as Pseudotsuga taxifolia and as Pseudotsuga mucronata. It thus has enough names to damn an even better tree, and the curious situation is that the better the plant or tree or shrub the more names it is likely to have tacked to it.

Consider, too, what happens in tacking alleged scientific names to defenseless plants which have no voice. I saw the other day a string of seven names attached to one poor, innocent fern, which after all was just a good form of Boston fern. No sane man would ever expect to use all those names in connection with that fern, to write them in his order book, to ask a customer to swallow them or even to listen to them.

So far I have spoken of scientific names. Common names are in still worse shape. I am reminded of a story concerning a Chinese cook who was engaged by a lady in San Francisco. When the cook came she asked him what his name was. He told her it was Wu Hong Ting. She replied, "Oh, that's too hard to remember; I'll call you Sam." The Chinaman came back with "Allee light; what you name?" She answered, "Mrs. Harold Brocklebank." The Chinaman responded, "Me can't lemember; me calle you Tommy."

You can be sure that there was a standardized name for the madame in that house, as well as for the cook, after that!

J. Horace McFarland.

From Customers' View.

Standardization of names of human beings leads to secure titles and to easy transactions. I certainly want a standardized name, backed by money in the bank, when I have it on the business end of a check, and I don't want a common name or an alias. I have the same desire with respect to plants I buy. I don't want to buy Halesia tetraptera from a nurseryman and have it come to me as Mohrodendron carolinianum. If it is properly called "silver bell," it isn't fair to have it also tagged out as "lady's eardrop."

Now, I think no further argument is necessary as to the importance of standardized plant names both for comfort, convenience and business. Every man who buys, sells, handles, or in any way uses or relates to plants, needs to be able to get what he wants by one name when he wants it. His order ought to be good anywhere in America to bring the same plant under the same name.

It was to meet this situation that the American Joint Committee on Horticultural Nomenclature was formed, eight or nine years ago, and has been laboring ever since, at a cost to its members altogether outrageous to contemplate. Part of its expenses have been paid by contributions from the various organizations participating, but all of the time of able and acute plantsmen has been given to a job which, if it had been fully faced at the beginning, would never have been undertaken.

On the Committee.

Including representatives of the American Association of Nurserymen, of the Ornamental Growers' Association, of the American Society of Landscape Architects, of the American Pharmaceutical Association, of the American Institute of Park Executives, as well as a committee of this important body of florists, and working together with Dr. L. H. Bailey, editor of the Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture, this committee has also secured the hearty coöperation of the American Dahlia Society, the American Gladiolus Society, the American Iris Society, the American Peony Society, the American Pomological Society, the American Rose Society, the American Sweet Pea Society and the American Seed Trade Association. Indeed, it has had a cold shoulder shown it by only one organization, the American Carnation Society.

Meeting together, the American Joint Committee appointed a subcommittee, including Harlan P. Kelsey, Frederick Law Olmsted and Frederick V. Coville, the latter the United States botanist. This committee has worked with devotion and total disregard of its own intrests, and I, as general chairman and as representing both florists and nurserymen, have done what I could in promoting its work.

Official Catalogue.

The result is the completed manuscript for the Official Catalogue of Standardized Plant Names, now being finally assembled into shape for publication at an early date.

This great work will be the standard buying and quoting authority for a half-dozen years or more. It does not pretend to be scientific. It does insist that it is practical, definite and reasonable. It shows the accepted scientific name as well as the accepted common name. It presents accurate lists of all the fruits, revised by the American Pomological Society; of roses, dahlias, gladioli, irises, peonies, sweet peas and many other horticultural and floricultural items, furnished in each case by the authorities.

The book will be easy to read and understand, because the accepted names are given a separate type showing, so that they stick out above others. A simple and logical method, however, enables one to follow synonyms, so that if he nearly knows the name of a plant he can usually find its standardized name in this book.

Demand Already Strong.

There has been an extensive pre-publication acceptance of this book, and there is now no question that it will pass into the commercial and scientific and educational literature of plants in America immediately upon publication. It will be found in libraries and will be accepted as authority. It does not interfere with the scientific study of names, and eventually will be revised to bring things up to date, but it will stop the abomination existing, for example, in which the Iris amabilis is also known as Laura, Chalcedonica, Johan de Witte, Johan de Worth, Juliette, Mrs. Charles Wheeler, Gen. de Witte, and half a dozen others, I suppose.

Now, the statement as to this great work, which ought to be available for use in the early fall, although it depends entirely on the continued health and devotion of the man through whom the manuscript must finally be assembled, is not only what I have to say on standardized plant names, but is the report of your committee, which has cheerfully coöperated in supporting this work as occasion demanded.

The book will need to be in the office of every florist in the nation who deals in plants. It is commended for the important uses for which it is designed, and the society is asked to continue the support which has made possible the progress of the book to a point nearing publication. It should be noted that if this book had to be done in the ordinary way it would cost at least $10 per copy. There is no expense of editorial salaries in compilation, and there is no publisher's profit to be derived. The various organizations continuing their annual support have provided in part for the clerical expense necessary in the progress of the work. The appropriation of $250 annually made by the Society of American Florists should be continued, because it will aid in the final expense of the conclusion of the work and make possible the handling of it without individual loss to the guarantors, who have agreed to stand back of it to the extent of $2,000 in order to get the work actually in print.

PULLING TOGETHER

I BELIEVE that you will all agree with me that the prospects for the next year are much brighter than those to which we looked forward at the last convention. Those whose interests demand their keeping in close touch with the developments of general business are in accord in their reporting reliable and encouraging signs of a steady return to normal prosperity. World trade is slowly improving; unemployment is diminishing both in this country and abroad; and a healthy feeling of optimism has displaced the gloom which marked the business outlook of twelve months ago. When one realizes that the volume of world trade in 1921 was but half of that in 1913, he can better understand the vast amount of national and international buying power that is waiting to be released by a further improvement in conditions abroad.

Slow Recovery Advisable.

Conditions in this country are fundamentally sound. Money is plentiful and credit is easy. In July we had almost $4,000,000,000 in gold, or more than two-fifths of all the gold money in the world. This enormous accumulation of gold, together with the strong position of our banking system, would permit our meeting a period of business expansion and activity greater than that of the war period without danger of uncontrolled inflation or impairment of credit.

Wisdom, however, prompts a slower rate of recovery than would result from an excited boom in business, chiefly because of conditions abroad and for the effect on Europe and upon our foreign trade generally that would inevitably result. A feverish business boom is always accompanied by a rising market. A considerable rise in prices in this country might prove disastrous to Europe, should it occur at a time when her power to buy from us, and to pay for what she takes, is beginning to show real improvement.

It is true that in some lines readjustment has proceeded to extreme lengths. Prices of some commodities are still below the pre-war period. Prices in some other lines are still double what they were eight years ago. Further adjustment must be looked for as efforts are made to reconcile these disparities. In spite of such obstacles, I believe that business and credit conditions fully justify confidence that improvement in business will be marked by the late autumn and throughout the winter.

Reports of crop prospects indicate that the farmer is due to recover some of his losses of the last two years. Prosperity for the farmer means, more than anything else, general prosperity. Few of us keep in mind the fact that the farmer represents more than forty per cent of the buying power of the country. His prosperity is quickly reflected in increased demand from a great consuming market. This demand is passed on to other lines, which in turn will begin to show increased activity and purchasing power. The general revival of building which has been under way for the past year will mean a renewal of business in many allied lines. Thus, as each new trade or industry feels the push of increasing business, the stimulating effect is soon manifested in an increase in the purchasing and consuming power of the country as a whole.

I have gone into the general business situation because I feel that in making our plans for the next year it is highly desirable that we should endeavor to gather some idea of what the next year may hold for the members of the S. A. F. In view of what we now know of the prospects of business for the next twelve months, I believe that you will agree with me that there is slight cause for any but a healthy and optimistic outlook upon the future.

Increase Coöperation.

There should be in all our plans a provision for increasing the spirit of coöperation. To that end I am going to suggest that you make a more intimate use of your slogan, and learn to "Say It with Flowers" yourselves. Sir Charles Higham, the celebrated English advertising expert, on his recent visit to this country, took that slogan for his text in delivering a powerful sermon on the value of coöperation. "If the whole world would learn to say it with flowers, there would be no need of inspirational meetings," was his comment on the efforts of this or that group of international statesmen and others to find a remedy for the world's ills.

Your presence at this convention is evidence of your belief in the value of coöperation as a general proposition. I am not now referring to coöperation as a moral force, but for its proven worth measured in terms of cold business. You have but to look to the results that are being obtained through coöperation by the farmers and fruit growers of the west and south. Similar opportunity exists for the florists. To illustrate this point, I will take for example the case of ten florists who are large distributors in one city. Each tries to do the greatest possible amount of business, wholly regardless of the efforts of the other nine. When things appear promising for good business, each of the ten will order heavily, usually above any reasonable estimate of his normal requirements.

That is where the difficulty begins. The aggregate amount of orders placed by all ten of these florists is far in excess of the quantity of goods that can possibly be consumed in that particular market. As a result, there is a constant race between the ten, which soon develops into "cut-throat" competition. One or two of the more aggressive, or more fortunate, among the ten will be able to get out whole; the others must take large losses.

Clear Vision Pays.

Failure to coöperate on the part of these ten dealers means that their market is frequently "glutted" during the year. Except in the case of a few large cities, they have no other market to which they might switch their surplus. After several experiences of that kind, they are affected by excessive caution; will order short and again show as losers because they are not stocked to meet demand. This up-and-down game goes on season after season, simply because these ten dealers have not taken measures to learn just what the entire community will consume and planned their buying so that there will be no danger of overstocking by any of the ten.

I know that some of you gentlemen will say that the flower market is unlike others, but that is what every merchant says of his particular line. By a little experience in the value of local coöperation you will find that there is more money in working together to build a $50,000 yearly market into a $100,000 market than there is in each one trying to grab more than he can carry. This lack of accurate market knowledge is more serious for the florist in its consequences because of the delicacy of his merchandise.

Consuming Power.

Every community has a fixed consuming power for every commodity that enters into the needs of the people, whether the commodity be flowers or fur coats. This consuming power is determined by a number of factors. It cannot be forced into greater proportions by arbitrary measures, but it can be led. Increase in consuming power is not the result of spasmodic gambles on the part of local distributors; it is attained only through systematic and careful cultivation. This is the secret that underlies some of the merchandising successes that to the uninitiated appear to be marvelous.

Talk delivered by P. F. O'Keefe, of the P. F. O'Keefe Advertising Agency, New York, at the S. A. F. convention, at Kansas City, Mo., Wednesday afternoon, August 16.

There are, no doubt, some gentlemen here who are familiar with just such a situation as I have described. It is a clear case calling for florists themselves to "Say It with Flowers," as a substitute for blind competition. Know your market, and develop it naturally. Make a study of the plans of organizations like the American Fruit Growers' Association and similar bodies in educating local wholesalers and retailers in proper methods of distribution and market expansion. It may be that in time the florists' association will be in a position to maintain a staff of trade scouts whose job, as in the case of the ones supported by the fruit growers, will be to visit local markets and advise the dealers as to the best methods of extending their field.

Improvement Needed.

The need for improvement is greatest in the smaller cities throughout the country. The florists' exchanges in New York and other cities are meeting the situation with growing success. Yet even in those cities there remains much that could be improved in filling purely local demands. This comment on extending markets and reference to New York suggests an interesting point. I wonder how many of you gentlemen, in your efforts to develop telegraph delivery orders, have given thought to the fact that 97,000 visitors enter the city of New York every day. That figure is given in a recent official report on New York traffic. When you stop to consider that that army of visitors is recruited from almost every city in the United States, you will appreciate that they represent a great potential market for the expansion of your telegraph business. It could be made a feature of your local advertising that you suggest to friends of New York visitors from your city that they have flowers in their rooms at the hotel on arrival.

Now that the custom of recognizing Mothers' day by the wearing of flowers has become thoroughly established, I believe that the attention of the members of this association should be turned toward promoting similar interest in other days. Fathers' day and Friendship day are two that are already started and should be steadily developed. The general benefit derived from the observance of Memorial day might be enhanced by educating everyone to wear a distinctive flower in memory of the soldier dead of all our wars. A special flower could be worn by those who have given husband, son, brother or father to their country's defense. Through cooperation with the G. A. R., the Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion with a committee of this association, I believe that a program for putting such an idea into effect could be readily worked out.

Ideas to Carry Out.

Similar coöperation with local churches and with national religious associations should be productive of an increased use of flowers in church decoration. The clergy of several denominations urge gifts of flowers on church holy days and on days of special devotion, and I am quite certain that they would welcome the efforts of local florists who would make a feature of these gifts in their advertising. I know the demands that are made on florists for gifts to hospitals and I am well aware how generously they respond. I believe that with the right kind of effort the public could be induced to take this burden from the shoulders of the florists by designating a day when everyone should send flowers to the local hospitals.

In every plan that is to be worked out for the broadening of your local market make it the first step to secure complete coöperation of the local florists, and the next step to secure the support of the local chamber of commerce or board of trade. From what I have seen of florists, they are likely to have much of the modesty of one of the most fascinatingly beautiful of their own productions. The violet may be a shy and shrinking flower, but it generally manages to appear in the best circles on all occasions when in season. The florists in every community should make themselves the leaders in every movement for town beautification, whether it is in promoting a "Garden City" idea or a "Wild Flower Protection" campaign. Everything that increases the natural love of flowers inherent in all of us must react to the advantage of the florist. While it may not be possible to have an organization like the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in every community, you can, by cooperating with your local chamber of commerce and other organizations, develop a program of flower shows several times a year.

Some of these suggestions are no doubt covering ground that you may have already broken; yet they may, at this time, provide a line for discussion and possible action by the society toward the development of a greater market to be won by a more complete cooperation through local, as well as national, channels.

While on the matter of coöperation, I wish to call attention to the poor support that the florists of this country, generally, are giving the national publicity fund. They are all benefiting from it, as they themselves know, but comparatively few are doing anything to support the national publicity campaign and unless they do something quickly, that is, do their share, the national publicity work will have to be considerably curtailed if not dropped altogether.

Every florist of this country, whether a wholesaler, grower, retailer or specialty house, should contribute to the national publicity fund immediately, on a basis that will be fair to themselves and their business and to the industry which is furnishing them their living.

Arthur M. Anderson, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, got no farther than Des Moines on the way to Kansas City in the automobile with Frank M. Johnson and F. W. Tredup. There he was taken down, it is believed, by the "flu," and left under a doctor's care, later to return to Chicago, while his companions proceeded to the convention.

P. L. McKee, president of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., and W. H. Evans, advertising manager, made the 700-mile journey to Kansas City from Chicago in the former's Packard Twin-Six. At every stop en route they visited customers, and at seven places they inspected Agmco houses in course of erection. A burned-out bearing was the only misfortune. It brought a demonstration, however, of Packard service. A long-distance call to Des Moines brought a messenger 128 miles in a Packard to deliver the tiny package and the bill was $2.78!

WHY TRAINING PAYS

TO APPROACH the question of education and training for young men intending to make floriculture their life work is to touch upon a subject that is the fundamental basis for most of their progress and advancement that will take place in the future.

But what is education? It is properly assimilated knowledge, a part of which is most easily obtained in school and college, but can be obtained also, for the most part, in other ways and during life's other occupations. Thus a well trained man may be what is known as a self-made man and a man without experience in college halls. Education is the fine sifting and solidifying, weighing and analyzing, of experience and observations, in which apparently the only requirement is a desire to learn and learn always and all the time, accompanied by a chance—which may be sought and found—to know about more things than the few that engross a man in his ordinary day-to-day work.

Important.

A college education is important because it is the easiest way to acquire a certain broad range of knowledge which leads naturally, though not necessarily, onward to broad-visioned, whole-souled manhood. In general affairs and business it is found that a far greater proportion of college men succeed than of non-college men, and I believe in time this will be equally true of men who have had the advantages of a floricultural college. It is said that America has the finest system of agricultural and horticultural schools in the world, so that there is no lack of opportunity for those desiring to obtain the best.

I know there has been a feeling among many commercial florists against the young men coming from floricultural schools. The complaint most generally made is that these young men are likely to be strong on theory, but lacking in practical application. But I have no doubt but that such a complaint might be made with equal truth against young men going direct from college into any practical calling; and it would be strange were it otherwise, because real practical experience must be gained in the workshop.

In my own mind I feel that horticultural progress will be in proportion to the numbers starting out with a scientific training as a basis for practical training. To the young man on leaving college, who has decided to devote himself to floriculture, I would say, obtain a position where a general collection of plants and flowers are grown, in preference to one where only one or two varieties are handled. In the first place, young men just out of school might easily be discouraged, working on a place growing only one or two varieties of plants. Then again, I believe it is important and necessary to strive for general experience among all classes of plants and flowers. This plan not only relieves the beginner of much monotonous work, but gives him a real opportunity to gain much general knowledge.

General Knowledge Pays.

Even though it may be the intention to specialize later on one particular thing, the time spent in obtaining a general knowledge will surely prove to have been worth while. I am sure all will admit that the rose, carnation or other specialist who has had a broad general experience has been much better fitted to take up his special line of work. There are located throughout the country many fine private estates having extensive ornamental grounds and in many instances quite extensive ranges of glass. In some of these places are to be found complete collections of trees, shrubs, herbaceous plants and fruit trees, as well as large collections of plants and flowers growing under glass. I believe that a well kept, extensive private estate would prove to be an excellent practical school for anyone on leaving college, and I am sure a year put in in this way would prove of lasting value.

Success Must Be Earned.

Putting aside the practical value of a general knowledge of horticulture, it is really worth while for the real pleasure and joy that become a natural part of the broader experience. After a liberal time has been devoted to acquiring this general knowledge of the best horticulture, I believe it wise to determine then, so far as that may be possible, what special branch of horticulture is to be one's life work. After a year or so of specializing, the student should be capable of taking charge. To the average young man leaving college this outline, brief as it is, will at first thought seem like a life of unnecessary drudgery. But nothing in this world worth while is to be had without struggle and sacrifice. Plums do not fall into ready open mouths except in fairy tales. Knowledge is power. The more you know about your business the better you can handle your life work—and no man knows all there is to learn about his business. The more you know about general affairs the better citizen you are, and the better neighbor.

In conclusion I want to say that I have the most profound faith in the value of a scientific training and I firmly believe that it is a fundamental necessity of real horticultural advancement. The love and desire for plants and flowers is firmly fixed among all classes of people; consequently the future for horticulture in general is not only encouraging but as an industry it is as firmly fixed as any industry can be. Commercial horticulture offers unlimited opportunities to young men of ability. Besides the personal results which may be expected as much as from any calling, the service to one's fellow men is an important element, becoming more important as men see that service is all of life.

Address on "Floricultural Training for Young Men," delivered by Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass., at the Kansas City convention of the S. A. F., August 16.

FLORICULTURAL TRAINING

IN OPENING let me quote a few lines from the issue of the Florists' Exchange for April 15, 1922: "Statistics tell us that college graduates make up but one per cent of our entire population, yet comprise more than fifty per cent of those who achieve leadership in the various walks of life. From a mass of data it was computed that, with an elementary education, the chances for success are one in 41,250; with a high school education, one in 1,608; with a college education, one in 173."

Advantages To Be Gained.

I do not know and I do not care how many of you are college graduates, but I do know that many of you have achieved leadership in your chosen line of work, whether you began your life work with a college training or with the hard knocks in the school of experience. In whatever manner you may have received your training, I hope that you all will agree with me that there are certain advantages to be gained from a college training in floriculture, just as I know we all agree that there are certain advantages to be gained from a practical or apprentice system of training. Without doubt, the ideal training would consist of a well balanced combination of the two systems. At the Massachusetts Agricultural College we shall try out such a system in a 2-year course for gardeners, an announcement of which was published in the issue of Horticulture for July 25, and in the Florists' Exchange of July 22. Briefly the plan is as follows: The general plan of instruction is based upon the 2-year course already in successful operation. Students fitted to take the course will be admitted each year in September, and will remain in residence at the college for six months. During this time they will pursue general studies in fruit, flower and vegetable growing, forestry, general horticulture, and such elementary subjects as may be necessary. These classes will close the last week in March and students will be sent to various commercial establishments and private estates for a summer of practical work. Every effort will be made to see that pupils are advantageously placed, so as to secure the best possible experience. This apprenticeship will be supervised by a committee representing jointly the Massachusetts Agricultural College and the National Association of Gardeners.

How Summer is Spent.

At the end of the summer students will return to the college for an additional period of nine months' study. They will thus complete this part of the course the following June and, if successful, will receive a certificate from the college. From this point they will enter upon an apprenticeship of two years, to be arranged and supervised by the National Association of Gardeners. At the end of this time they will be examined by a special board, and, if successful, will receive the diploma of the National Association of Gardeners. Students must be 17 years of age or over at the time of admission to the course and must have completed an elementary school course or its equivalent, and must be able to use the English language with reasonable facility. Under the plan proposed, special consideration will be given to pupils coming upon the recommendation of the National Association of Gardeners. All this work will be under the coöperative management of the Massachusetts Agricultural College and the National Association of Gardeners.

It is easily seen that this is a course designed especially for students who wish a vocational training only. It is similar to the regular 2-year course, with the exception of the addition of two years of apprenticeship. I should like to state that the college stands ready at any time to conduct such a course for florists with the coöperation of the S. A. F. or any other suitable organization, and I think that any other state college or university stands ready to do the same.

The Four-Year Course.

But I have come here, not to talk to you about the advantages of such a vocational course, but rather about the advantages of a regular 4-year course in floriculture. Before we can appreciate the advantages of such a course, it seems essential that one should first know what such a course includes. At the previous convention Professor H. B. Dorner, of the University of Illinois, addressed you on the subject, "What Agricultural Colleges are Doing for the Florists"; from information compiled by him it is evident that the following institutions, arranged in alphabetical order, are giving the greatest amount of instruction in floriculture: Cornell University, University of Illinois, Iowa State College, University of Maryland, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Ohio State University and Pennsylvania State College. From a study of the courses prescribed for students specializing in floriculture in these various institutions, it is evident that the curricula or courses of study are similar in many respects. But possibly you will pardon me if I discuss somewhat in detail the course of study at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, since naturally I am more familiar with it than with the others.

In the student's freshman or first year his complete course of study is prescribed for him; in other words, he has no choice of courses, not only because older persons know better than he what he needs at that time, but also because he must have the foundation or basic courses, whether he is to specialize in floriculture or in animal husbandry. His first year, then, includes courses in English, French or German, mathematics (including algebra, solid geometry, trigonometry and mensuration), public speaking, chemistry, botany, geology, agriculture, personal hygiene, physical training and recreation, and military training (the last subject being required of all physically fit male students in state universities and agricultural colleges). The work in agriculture includes instruction in the field of agronomy (soils and farm crops), horticulture, poultry husbandry and animal husbandry, thus giving the student an insight into various phases of agriculture. In the words of a member of last year's freshman class: "By introducing the freshman to these various subjects, he is enabled to determine whether or not agriculture is the line of endeavor in which he wishes to spend his life. It may show him that he will wish to take up some other profession. If this is the case, these courses will bring out the fact and allow him to take up this line of interest without further loss of time. New fields of study are opened to him which he might never have known about if it had not been for these courses. He has been interested in agriculture in general, not in any particular branch, and these courses show him the whole field in a nutshell, and allow him to select the subject in which he wishes to major much more intelligently and from a much wider field than he otherwise would have been able to do."

Every Florist

has hit upon ideas that have made money for him. The spread of such ideas through the trade makes progress.

The Florists' Review

is the medium for spreading those money-making ideas. Tell the trade about yours. Contributions on any subject relating to the trade are always welcomed by the Editor.

The way they are written is not so important as the ideas they convey. Write as you would talk.

Some of the courses which have been mentioned continue through the school year; others are one-term courses, or only part of a term. You will note that Latin was not included in the list; it was taught previously at our institution, but was dropped, possibly because it seemed too widely separated from the field of agriculture.

Including Latin.

We were deeply pleased when we heard a superintendent of a large estate make the statement in a lecture last winter that Latin should be included in a floricultural course of study; unquestionably such a subject would be of great value in learning scientific plant names.

In the sophomore or second year every student is required to take such subjects as English, physics, zoölogy, agricultural economics, rural sociology, botany, a course in soils and fertilizers, physical training, and military training. In addition he must elect a certain amount of work from a wide range of subjects. The department in which the student is to specialize is able to prescribe these elective subjects, although, at our institution, supervision of the student's course does not rest with the department in which he is to specialize until the beginning of his third year. Accordingly the floricultural student is required to elect courses in drawing, entomology, botany and plant propagation. At the end of his second year he has received training in the fundamental or basic subjects and is then fairly well fitted to take up his specialized line of work.

Work Divided.

At the Massachusetts Agricultural College his work in floriculture is included in the last two years of the course. This is not true of all institutions, since, in some cases, courses in floriculture are open to the freshman; the latter method undoubtedly has certain advantages as well as disadvantages. Instruction is given in greenhouse management, including the history and development of the floricultural industry, soils, fertilizers, watering, ventilation, fumigation, plant propagation and various other practices which enter into the care of a greenhouse. Other courses include greenhouse construction and heating; commercial floriculture, dealing with the culture and marketing of those crops which are grown commercially either for cut flowers or as pot plants; conservatory plants or those plants which are grown primarily for decorative use; garden flowers and bedding plants; floral arrangement and decoration, dealing with the use of cut flowers, plants, and materials in decorative and design work. Another course provides an opportunity for the student to test his ability in simple research or investigational work. As you will see, we try to cover broadly the field of floriculture, laying particular stress upon the principles underlying the various subjects mentioned.

In subjects outside the department of floriculture the student is required to take courses dealing with the identification and uses of ornamental trees and shrubs; courses in plant pathology, considering especially those diseases which attack florists' crops, in which he learns to identify the diseases, studies their symptoms, behavior, causes, and methods of control. Also, although it is not prescribed, he is advised to take similar courses dealing with the insects which attack greenhouse plants, and he usually sees the wisdom of selecting such courses.

Supplemental Courses.

He is also advised to take a course in marketing in the department of agricultural economics; as a part of the work in this course he makes a special study of the marketing of a particular florists' crop, such as roses, carnations, sweet peas, etc. The results of this study must be presented in the form of a thesis or extended paper, including a discussion of the following subjects as chapter headings: Supply, Distributive System, Transportation, Prices,

KANSAS CITY CALLS.

Rock Broadcasts S. A. F. Invitation.

William L. Rock, general chairman of the local committees on arrangements for the convention, spoke as follows for the radio program:

"The Kansas City Florists' Club, of

Kansas City, Mo., has the distinct honor and privilege of inviting all florists, seedsmen, landscape architects, nurserymen and horticulturists of the United States to attend the thirty-eighth annual convention of the S. A. F., to be held August 15 to 17 in Convention hall, Kansas City, Mo.

"In addition a special invitation is issued to the horticultural students of the Kansas State Agricultural College, the University of Missouri, the University of Kansas, the University of Illinois and all other colleges and universities having horticultural courses, to attend this convention.

"We wish to emphasize to the florists of the nation that their officers have spent more than a year in the preparation of an educational 3-day program which they cannot afford to miss.

"Kansas City is famous for its drives and parks. Cliff drive is one of the most beautiful in the country. Swope park is the third largest in the nation. Surrounding the city and crossing it in numerous places are long, wide boulevards, bordered with pleasant spots—gardens, bathhouses and playgrounds.

"We would be amiss in our invitation if we did not include a word of thanks to The Star and at the same time inform you as to the support that is accorded the work of the florists along this line by this great newspaper."

Radio Program.

Approximately 100,000 persons heard the radio program of the Kansas City Florists' Club, which was broadcasted by the Kansas City Star's radio station Monday, August 7. As far as possible the names of the numbers were suggestive of flowers and were as follows: "The Flower Song" from "Faust," "Say It with Flowers," "An Old-Fashioned Garden," "Violets" and "Mighty Lak a Rose." Those taking part in the program were artists of ability, and all were heard distinctly. Robert Bohannon, 10-year-old son of L. R. Bohannon, of the Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co., was one of the surprises of the evening. The lad sang "An Old-Fashioned Garden." Mrs. Katherine Moseley Beaman, daughter of Mrs. T. A. Moseley, of Kansas City, Kan., sang "The Flower Song" and "Say It with Flowers." Thelma Hinds Bollinger, of Mound Valley, Kan., sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" and "Marcheta." Miss Mary Gordon, soprano, sang "Mighty Lak a Rose." Mrs. J. Bowden Bird was accompanist. Arthur Mohr, saxophonist, gave several numbers most acceptably. Samuel Worley, Bert Beuder and Harry Kessel, tenors, gave a group of popular songs. The Kansas City Florists' Club orchestra was a pleasing feature of the program. This orchestra is composed of E. D. Shell, trombone; Douglass Wright, cornet; Paul A. Werner, violin; Earl Coleman, drums; C. R. Herron, banjo; Leonard Stone, violin; Eugene Thompson, pianist. Mr. Stone played two numbers and Mr. Mohr and Mr. Thompson two duets.

Clubs Arrange Programs.

Each of the women on the program was presented with a corsage by William L. Rock. The decorations of the studio were furnished by several of the wholesale and retail florists, arranged by the decorating committee of the club. H. Merle Smith spoke on "Home Beautification" at the radio concert.

Special florists' programs were arranged for the convention by the Rotary Club, Coöperative Club, Lions' Club, Cosmopolitan Club and Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheons. The Rotary Club has had two international presidents from Kansas City. Russell Greiner, one of these, is now president of the local club. Raymond Havens, of this city, was recently elected international president. Alpha Elberfield, president of the Alpha Floral Co., is the Rotary florist in Kansas City, Mo., and T. A. Moseley in Kansas City, Kan. The Rotary Club luncheon was held at 12:15 p. m., Thursday, in the Hotel Baltimore.

William L. Rock had charge of the Coöperative Club luncheon at 12:15 o'clock Tuesday in the Hotel Baltimore. J. Fred Ammann and Philip Breitmeyer were the speakers. Music was furnished by the Kansas City Florists' Club orchestra. This club has over 400 members here.

Not Too Busy for Golf.

The golf tournament arranged by William L. Rock promises to develop into an important feature of future S. A. F. conventions. This tournament took place at the Meadow Lake Country Club, of which Mr. Rock is a member, Wednesday morning, August 16. Mr. Rock took his guests to the club in time for a 6 o'clock breakfast. They were on the links until 9 o'clock and were back in time for the morning session of the convention. It was regretted by the party that the time was so limited. Mr. Rock hopes to have one half day for a golf tournament next year and the other golf enthusiasts will, undoubtedly, back him up, as they are more interested than ever since the Meadow Lake meet.

At President's Reception.

At the president's reception and ball in the Hotel Muehlebach Tuesday, August 15, the following parody on "The Highbrow Babies' Ball" was sung by Robert Bohannon as an encore:

At the S. A. F. big ball,
Welcome florists, short and tall.
They are here from north, south, east and west.
Throw out your chest and tell them who you be.
No matter who you see,
Shake their hand and a wicked knee,
Oh, boy, we're glad to be at the S. A. F. big ball.
Welcome one and all, you're welcome one and all.

Stores and Streets Decorated.

Much time and thought were devoted to the decoration of shop windows for the convention. The window of the W. L. Rock Flower Co. contained a small mill with a wheel turned by water power. The water was kept "live" by a series of pipes running through a tank in the basement. Around the mill were gravel paths, a pool with water lilies and moss-covered banks. Goldfish and a half dozen young ducks added to the rustic setting. Crotons, ferns and tritomas completed the decorative scheme. Strip lighting, a new kind if window illumination, was used at night.

Samuel Murray's window contained about a dozen tubs of English hothouse grapes in full fruit. These were grown in the Murray greenhouses and are the only vines of their kind grown here. A profusion of fine crotons and Japanese lilies were used with the grapevines.

A. Newell's window contained an aquarium of goldfish and a variety of cut flowers. A large electric globe under the water gave sufficient light to make the window attractive at night.

Some of the downtown streets were transformed into flowery avenues as a welcome to the S. A. F. visitors. The electric light poles on Main, Walnut and Grand avenues from Tenth to Twelfth streets and Twelfth street from Grand avenue to Central street were decorated. The poles were surmounted by ornamental clusters of palm leaves, cat-tails, Canadian cedar and asparagus, from which hung pennants bearing the slogan, "Say It with Flowers."

The Alpha Floral Co. turned its store into a reception room. Floor lamps, wicker chairs, tables and a phonograph added real home touches to a store filled with vases of cut flowers, growing plants and ferns. From the ceiling sprays of pampas grass hung gracefully and on the walls clusters of this grass in various colors were in large vases standing on brackets. Large sprays of pampas grass were placed about the balcony, where the business office of the store is located.

Miss Schweiger, of the decorators of the Alpha Floral Co., designed the entire scheme. She also helped to place the decorations. Visitors to the store were cordially received. They were entertained with music, and a large basket of peaches grown on the Elberfield farm in Cleveland Park, Kan., was for all who cared to help themselves.

Hugo Neff, manager of the Muehlebach Flower Shop, supervised the decorating of the Hotel Muehlebach. Mr. Neff was chairman of the committee on decorations. He and his aides gave a festive air to the city by trimming the street lamps with flowers. The hotel decorations were outside of this and were on a lavish scale. Marigolds and celsias were combined with smilax, ferns and oak leaves over the entrance on Baltimore avenue. Special boxes were made for the second-floor windows of the hotel. These were filled with flowers and ferns. . J. E. K.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Pleasant Hill, Mo.—Order has been given for the sale of several parcels of real estate, as well as the personal property belonging to the Pinehurst Floral Co., recently adjudged bankrupt. The sale will be held Saturday, September 9, at 2 p. m., at public auction, at the office of the Pinehurst Floral Co., subject to the approval of the United States District court. Creditors have received notice of said sale, which will be reported to George A. Neal, referee in bankruptcy, 300 Fidelity Trust building, Kansas City, Mo., for his approval. In case objection is made to the sale, appearance must be made in the District court, at Kansas City, August 25, to show cause.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Mary E. Conrad, who formerly conducted the Thermopolis Floral Co., Thermopolis, Wyo., has filed a petition for a discharge in bankruptcy. A hearing on the petition will be held September 9, at 10 a. m., at the office of Clarence A. Swainson, referee in bankruptcy, 500 Hynds building, Cheyenne.

Chicago, Ill.—Fred E. Hummell, 53 West Jackson boulevard, August 14 was appointed receiver for the Western Florists of Kansas and Their Guests at State Convention at Fredonia, August 3 and 4.

Pottery Co., on a petition in bankruptcy filed by Lloyd Thomas Co., claim $407; Joseph Fallbacher, $310, and Harry R. Chapman, $34. No schedule of assets and liabilities is available, but the receiver's bond was fixed at $25,000. As long ago as June 5 a petition for a receiver was filed, but on the showing the corporation was able to make the original application was denied. It now is alleged an act of bankruptcy was committed in the payment of telephone bills. The officers have believed they could save the business.

KANSAS FLORISTS MEET.

At Fredonia.

Members of the Kansas State Florists' Association, 170 strong, assembled at Fredonia, Kan., August 3, for the second annual convention of the association. In 1921, at Topeka, there were 158 present. The quick conclusion is that the organization is progressing; this is shown in many other ways also.

The association came together prepared to accomplish as well as to enjoy. And a considerable time before the order for adjournment had been given balloting had shown the following elected to offices for 1923: President, L. E. Flindt, Arkansas City, Kan.; vice-president, Robert Fields, Kansas City, Mo.; second vice-president, L. D. Fisher, Sterling, Kan.; secretary-treasurer, Loyd C. Bunch, Fredonia, Kan.; director, O. G. Rindom, Emporia, Kan. Loyd C. Bunch was elected state vice-president of the S. A. F.

Points Accomplished.

On the opening day of the meeting, just following a successful meeting of the board of directors, J. F. Ammann, of Edwardsville, Ill., delivered a rousing talk on the F. T. D. in his usual magnetic manner. He explained the F. T. D., its purposes, its aims and its achievements. Following his talk, the association went on record as approving the clearing house proposition of the F. T. D.

After a spirited discussion the members expressed themselves by condemning the practice of giving more than twenty per cent discount to agents.

Another point accomplished was the appointing of a committee to meet with the Kansas state tax board to see if some rules can be laid down to govern the assessment for greenhouse property and crops, in order to get an equal assessment throughout the state.

The association has undertaken the coöperative buying of certain items of supplies and a try-out of the idea is being given on corrugated boxes. By the pooling of orders members should be enabled to save a large per cent on their boxes. The experiment is looked forward to with much interest.

A fitting conclusion to this day's activities was an automobile ride about the city. In the course of the beautiful drive the extensive Skinner system-irrigated gardens of Loyd C. Bunch were visited. The stock at Mr. Bunch's place was looking fine, although the cannas were planted late, on account of the spring rains. Besides cannas, Mr. Bunch specializes in ferns, begonias, geraniums and primulas.

The end of the ride was the M. E. church, where a 4-course banquet was waiting to be served—everything from chilled cantaloupe to ice cream and cake. There was much singing and many clever toasts were offered, Thomas Keeshan being toastmaster. W. G. Fink offered an address of welcome; Alfred Humfeld rendered a vocal solo; Edgar Jackson gave a reading; Glen Bunch performed on the saxaphone; Alfred Humfeld rendered a reading and W. H. Culp made an address. Toasts were offered by C. Humfeld, L. E. Flindt, W. G. Coupland, James Hayes, Harry L. Smith and Loyd C. Bunch.

Second Day's Activities.

The second day of the convention, August 4, opened with a report from the secretary, showing that in 1921 eighty-two firms were represented by 118 members; the number of members this year is 140, representing 106 firms.

A report from the treasurer showed that the balance on hand August 5, 1921, was $151.55; that the total receipts for 1921-1922 have been $671, and that disbursements have been $492.64, leaving a balance on hand of $329.91.

Kansas City, Kan., had sent an invitation to the association to meet in that city next year. The matter of deciding upon a meeting place, however, was left to the judgment of the board of directors.

After this O. H. Barth, of the Allen C. Smith Advertising Co., Kansas City, Mo., delivered a talk on "Some Brass Tacks." It was a through and through, "straight from the shoulder" advertising talk and was well received by all the members.

Miss Mildred Bolinger, Topeka, Kan., and Miss Mildred Drebbing, Topeka, entertained for a time with interpretive dances. These dances received much applause.

Next S. J. Hunter discussed the common problems of the florists and the entomologist in a well written paper. After the reading of the paper, Mr. Hunter answered a number of questions, giving instructions for combating different bug pests.

Glenn Felt and Hugo Neff demonstrated cut flower make-up work. Their demonstrations were indeed popular and the demand seems to be for more of their kind of work next year.

The program concluded, more than 100 visitors stayed for the annual picnic, which this year was held at the city park.

The Exhibitors.

From 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. the doors of the exhibition room were thrown open to the public and the exhibits were viewed by hundreds of the townspeople. This proved a good advertising idea, instructing the people to "Say It with Flowers." Among the exhibitors this year were the Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago; C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee; A. Henderson & Co., Chicago; Stuppy Supply Co., Kansas City, Mo.; M. Rice Co., Philadelphia; C. L. Dickmann Glass Co., Muskogee, Okla.; Smith's Flower Shop, Hutchinson, Kan.; Pittsburg Clay Products Co., Pittsburg, Kan.; H. Kishpaugh, Nowata, Okla.; W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago; Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago; Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago; Ove Gnatt Co., Laporte, Ind.; A. L. Randall Co., Chicago; M. H. Levine Co., New York; C. A. Kuehn, St. Louis; Loyd C. Bunch, Fredonia, Kan., and F. H. Parker, Fort Scott, Kan.

Canton, O.—Harold Moore, of 2017 Navarre road, has moved his business to R. D. No. 3, stop 10, of this city.

Washington, D. C.—Joseph Kerr is intending to enter the trade in the near future. Mr. Kerr is at the present time employed in a greenhouse.

Jonesboro, La.—H. E. Kelley & Son are proprietors of the Jackson Plant & Floral Co. H. E. Kelley used to be a printer, and a young son takes after him. He is beginning by printing post card forms for florists.

SUPPLY men report that orders are being placed with confidence for an excellent season's business.

PROBABLY it will be as easy to retail Paper Whites at $1 to $1.25 per dozen bulbs as it used to be to sell them at 50 cents. Times have changed.

THE American Gladiolus Society, independent of the S. A. F. convention again this year, is holding a small but select gathering at Kalamazoo, Mich., this week.

ONLY two weeks more and summer will be gone; September will be with us, schools will be reopening and business will be on the up grade again. Are you ready for the new season?

OTHER trades have devised standard forms of cost-finding and bookkeeping records. It would be a tremendous advantage to this trade if it were provided with them. Here is a splendid opportunity for the S. A. F.

APTLY does the phrase, "undertaker's window," describe the display of ferns and palms with which some florists screen their store interiors from passers' inspection. No wonder such stores are "dead to the world" in summer.

COMMERCIAL reports say that the railroad shopmen's and the miners' strikes, and the difficulties incident to them, have had notably slight effect upon business, a fact taken to indicate that the march toward better times is so decided as not to be easily halted.

MANY readers of The Review manifest a kind and greatly appreciated interest in its progress. To such it may be said this is the largest Convention Number ever printed. With 192 pages and cover, it approaches the best records for Christmas and Easter. The pressroom order is to run 13,200 copies. No free copies are sent out.

THOSE institutions that give instruction in floriculture have an opportunity to supply a much-needed class of employees for this trade—men sufficiently trained in hand and brain to act efficiently in an executive capacity and command the respect of those they direct. Many florists who have built large businesses and accumlated capital are looking for managers to carry some of their responsibility.

THOSE who have enjoyed the color of window boxes during the summer can be induced to have the plants replaced with small evergreens for winter. Make these boxes work for you the year around.

RETAILERS who have carried an ample stock of flowers and who have sustained an effort to make sales report a profitable July business. The summer nowadays is a money-losing season only for those who are content to let it be so.

BILLS, no matter how small, should not be allowed to run unpaid for months. Though your financial status may be assured, your neglect of strict business methods denotes a carelessness that sticks in the minds of those who are asked for credit.

IT is unfortunate that the trade west of the Mississippi, having the first opportunity in several years to entertain the S. A. F., should have been handicapped by the railroad tie-up and other business difficulties, which prevented the attendance from setting a record.

THE Official Catalogue of Standardized Plant Names should be a "best seller" in this trade. J. H. McFarland's statement that it is soon to appear is welcomed. Everyone who buys or sells plants, seeds, bulbs, flowers or trees should have a copy of this work on his desk—and study it.

SEPTEMBER is not far off and autumn approaches. Your customers who enjoy their home grounds are in an approachable mood for orders for fall planting. See what they want put in this corner and that; send to a nurseryman for the stock, and hire a crew to plant it. An appreciable sum can thus be added to your profits in autumn and spring.

IT may not class as news at this season of the year, but it can be stated that wholesalers report collections slow. It is ever thus during vacation time. Those who sell to the public are in their quiet time; many of their customers are out of town and collections and cash sales are slow, so the wholesalers must wait. Things will begin to pick up next month.

DESPITE the fact that federal officials, state agencies and local committees are at work to improve the coal situation, there has been no marked relief yet, beyond an increase in production last week in the non-union mines. Stocks on hand appear to have been larger than estimated, but now there are signs of an early pinch in some localities. Greenhouse owners are forced to wait for better conditions, for now it is well-nigh impossible for any consumers but those in the preferential classes to obtain coal, even if prices, in themselves, were not prohibitively high.

RESTING YOUR LUNGS.

Sometimes a simple little sentence can contain a thought that will change all your ideas on an important subject.

When you talk about your advertising, do you speak of it as an advertising "campaign"? Is advertising, to you, something to be used or not used, according to your needs as you see them?

Well, here is a man who has started business men to thinking merely by saying, "There is no such thing as an advertising campaign."

He is I. H. Detrich, who, according to Collier's, built a yearly retail business of $1,250,000 in twelve years in a city of 75,000. He says:

"There is no such thing as an 'advertising campaign,' unless you want to admit there is such a thing as a 'breathing campaign,' or a 'bathing campaign.' You can stop breathing and let the lungs rest, as Stephen Leacock once said, but more of you will soon be at rest than your lungs. Just so with advertising. It goes on all the time; your advertising or your competitor's advertising. You can make a short, special drive in some one city if you are a manufacturer or a retailer, and you can call that a campaign. But the bread-and-butter advertising, which you do for a living, can't be defined by any such limited word."

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Plant Registration.

The following carnations have been offered for registration and passed upon by the registration committee:

Name: Mother's Carnation; parentage, a seedling selected from hardy perennial carnations; color, white; size of flower, from two to two and one-half inches, double flowers and wiry stems which need no staking; exceedingly fragrant and recommended best pot plants for Easter, Mothers' day and Memorial day sales.

Registered by Wheatley Gardens, C. F. Bertanzel, proprietor, Roslyn, N. Y.

Name: Winsome; parentage, Mrs. C. W. Ward; Enchantress seedling; color, Ward pink; size of flowers, three and one-half inches; has small foliage, free and continuous bloomer, good stem and calyx.

Registered by Hartje & Elder, route E, box 74, Indianapolis, Ind.

If no objection to such registration is filed with the secretary of the society within three weeks after this publication, the registration will become permanent. O. E. Steinkamp, Sec'y.

OHIO GROWERS' RESOLUTIONS.

At the quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the Ohio district of the National Flower Growers' Association, held Friday, August 4, resolutions were unanimously passed on the grading of cut flowers. The secretary was instructed to send a copy of these resolutions to the florists' magazines, to all branch organizations of the National Flower Growers' Association and to all florists' clubs, the S. A. F. and the F. T. D., so that the resolutions can be discussed and acted upon at the next annual meeting of these organizations, a year hence. The resolutions were as follows:

Roses shall be graded both as to length and color and shall be sold by the inch system according to the length of stem and shall be graded "A" and "B" as to quality, first quality to have good buds, no bullheads or crippled flowers; clean foliage and straight, strong stems.

Carnations shall be graded under the following headings: Fancy, good, fair and common. Fancy to be extra large blooms possessing all the qualities of a first-class flower, good keeper and shipper, good stiff stems and no splits. Good to have all the qualities of fancy, but smaller in size. Fair to be fair in size and quality, of even blooms and stems. Common to be all others, shorts, crooked stems and splits.

Chrysanthemums are to be graded as fancy, special, large, medium and small. First quality of the different sizes is to be a well finished bloom, good foliage and stem. Pompon is to be sold by the spray and graded the same as the larger chrysanthemums.

All other varieties of cut flowers shall be graded similarly to the above suitable grade, but under no circumstances should crooked stems and crippled flowers be included in the best grades.

OBITUARY

Millard F. Parker.

Millard F. Parker, aged 56 years, died in Mayo Bros.' hospital, Rochester, Minn., August 5, following an operation for cancerous tumor performed three days before. Mr. Parker had been ill since last January. He had gradually grown weaker, but physicians whom he consulted were unable to determine the cause of his suffering. He went to Rochester July 25 and was told that an operation was his only hope, the chances for recovery being about eighty per cent. His condition was such that he was given a transfusion of blood some days before the operation. Mr. Parker seemed to feel that he would not return to his home alive. Before leaving he told his son, Glenn K. Parker, that he knew he would not see him again, but he dreaded so the thought of being an invalid that he would consent to the operation no matter how slight the chance of recovery.

Mr. Parker was born at Pleasant Hill, Mo., and lived there most of his life, with the exception of seventeen years spent in the market gardening business in Warrensburg, Mo. In 1905 he returned to Pleasant Hill and took charge of the greenhouses of the late George M. Kellogg. After Mr. Kellogg's death, Mr. Parker was made administrator of the estate and was made president and manager of the George M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. He was actively engaged in this enterprise until the greenhouses were sold to the Pinehurst Floral Co. Mr. Parker then retired from business and devoted his time to looking after the properties of the George M. Kellogg estate. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Zadie Parker, a daughter of the late George M. Kellogg; two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Hoffhous, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., and Mrs. A. E. Shirling, of Kansas City, Mo.; one son, Glenn K. Parker, manager of the Stuppy Supply Co., Kansas City, Mo.; eight grandchildren; two brothers, Prof. Charles Parker, of Kansas City, and William Parker, of Fresno, Cal.

J. E. K.

Mrs. Josephine Sabbeto.

Mrs. Josephine Sabbeto died Friday morning, August 11, from the shock of an operation. Mrs. Sabbeto was 30 years of age. She is survived by her husband, Antonio Sabbeto; two children, John and Theresa; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jiacomo Calderona; one sister, Miss Meta Calderona. Mrs. Sabbeto was known and loved by all the Italian people of the city. She assisted her husband in the undertaking business and in this way endeared herself to many of her people in time of sorrow. She was in the flower business and was preparing to open a shop adjoining her husband's establishment in September. She recently joined the S. A. F. in the local membership campaign. The funeral was held from Holy Rosary church Monday morning, August 14. J. E. K.

Antone Rego.

Antone Rego, employed for several years by Samuel Kinder, florist and grower at Bristol, R. I., died Sunday morning, August 6, at his home, 196 Thames street, that town. Born in St. Micheles, Azores, thirty-three years ago, he came to this country and took up a residence in Bristol in 1910, taking a position with Mr. Kinder, at his greenhouses; he had since remained there. He is survived by his wife and one sister. W. H. M.

Asahel A. Peck.

Asahel A. Peck, for more than a quarter of a century in the employ of the W. E. Barrett Co., Providence, R. I., died at the soldiers' home, in Bristol, R. I., Saturday, Aug. 5, in his eighty-third year. Death came as a result of a shock.

Mr. Peck was born in Scituate, R. I., and lived there continuously until his removal to the home about a year ago. He was well known to all the horticulturists and agriculturists of the state. At the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in the Twelfth Rhode Island regiment and after the war became associated with the W. E. Barrett Co. He was a past master of Temple Lodge of Masons, of Greenville, R. I.; a member of Slocum post, G. A. R., and of James Wood lodge of Odd Fellows. He is survived by one son, Raymond A. Peck, U. S. N., now stationed in Cuba.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

There is no change in market conditions, summer business being the order of the day. Arrivals of outdoor flowers are heavy and, excepting roses and two or three other items, make the market. The demand is exceedingly small, a goodly percentage being for store window display. The cut of gladioli has shortened up a bit, but there is the same buying; that is, bids for clearance lots, which seem to be accepted offhand. Asters are in immense supply and the bulk of arrivals are moved at unquotable prices; really good asters occasionally bring 25 cents per bunch, but there is little of such stock. Conditions are not materially different from those of previous seasons, excepting that the supply of outdoor flowers is larger, and the reason for this is apparent to anyone who drives out any distance from New York, and notices the acreages devoted to summer flowers. The quantities of gladiolus spikes coming into the market from immature bulbs is remarkable, but not less so than the returns, which, in the main, do not pay express charges.

Roses are light in supply, but seem to be in quantity sufficient to meet the demand. Except Ophelia, the varieties offered are not of quality likely to attract purchasers, unless required for special purposes. American Beauty is in fair supply in the different grades.

Cattleyas are anything but plentiful, yet sales drag, and their movement is not active within a range of $50 to $125 per hundred.

There is a fair supply of Easter lilies, which move at $12 to $15 per hundred flowers, meeting a demand largely for funeral work. Lily of the valley in production is kept down to a low mark, and arrivals are moving at last week's prices. Speciosum lilies are plentiful. Really good white bouvardia brings 50 cents per bunch.

Miscellaneous flowers meet the requirements of the majority of buyers, and the offering is large, including calendulas, marigolds of all types, centaureas, zinnias, cosmos, cornflowers, candytuft, veronica, summer lilies, tuberoses, celosia, buddleia, Golden Glow, phloxes and hydrangeas. The appearance of chrysanthemums was noted last week, of the variety Golden Glow.

Various Notes.

The party of visitors to the Kansas City convention of the S. A. F., leaving on Sunday afternoon last, was small, but several florists from out of town arranged to join the party, so they were picked up en route. A. L. Miller and Mrs. Miller, F. H. Traendly and Mrs. Traendly and daughter; Joseph Manda, of West Orange, N. J., and son, and W. A. Manda, of South Orange, went aboard the special cars; also Roman J. Irwin and Mrs. Irwin and Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md.

Trade vacationists are beginning to come back to their duties. Miss Grace Durkin, who manages the office of Joseph S. Fenrich, at the Eighteenth street market, returned from a delightful up-state trip last Monday.

Philip F. Kessler, of the Coogan building, is trying out the novelty of dispensing with a vacation this year, but he has shortened his hours of toil in his quarters.

A. M. Henshaw, of the Henshaw Floral Co., with Wallace R. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn., made the trip to Kansas City by motor. J. H. P.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Reporting the market has not been a pleasant duty this summer; there is little change from week to week and conditions have been dispiriting, not to say discouraging. Nobody really is discouraged, because the reasons for the situation are too apparent and they have nothing to do with the public's appreciation of and desire for our merchandise. It is increased supply, and not decreased demand, which is responsible for the troubles of the summer now rapidly running its course.

It is proverbial that the week of the S. A. F. convention is the dullest of the season in the Chicago market, but this year seems likely to record an exception: We expect to find that the week of the street car strike was the low mark this summer. There was some improvement last week and the general belief is that the market is definitely on the up grade. There is no expectation of any startling change before frost, but steady if gradual improvement is counted on.

There still is so much stock in the market that poor flowers scarcely can be sold at all; not even the street stand salesmen will buy them. The result is that all prices are held low, but that some growers, who ship quality stock, get several times as good average prices as do those who pin their faith on quantity; the quantity grower is out of luck in such a market as we have had this summer, whatever money there is going to quality.

The rose supply has shortened down to the point where some orders are being shipped short. At the same time there are short-stemmed, small or open flowers which stand around because they are not good enough to ship. Russell is not so much in evidence this summer. The leaders are Premier, Columbia, Crusader and Butterfly. Probably supply and demand both are in that order.

Nor is the supply of gladioli so large as it was, though it still exceeds the demand. There is a great deal of difference in the quality of the stock received from various sources and there is so much good stock that the poor quality can be sold for only little or nothing. It is interesting to note how many of the most popular varieties originated at Goshen, Ind. Pendleton, well handled, has lost none of its popularity.

Nor are asters in such heavy supply as a week ago. Of these, however, the average quality has been considerably improved and they are bringing better prices on that account.

All the outdoor flowers are beginning to show the need of rain again.

Outside of roses, gladioli and asters, the market has little to offer. The annual larkspur continues to be useful, also milkweed, offered as gypsophila. There is little demand for valley or lilies.

Randall Is Enlarging.

The establishment of the A. L. Randall Co. has for several days been in the hands of carpenters and decorators. The accounting and other clerical departments are being removed to the third floor, so that the entire second floor can be devoted to the display and sale of cut flowers and supplies. The cut flower department, presided over by Eric Johnson, will get most of the increased space, although all the other departments also will get improved facilities through the new arrangement. F. M. Johnson, general manager, says business is much ahead of a year ago, and he is looking forward to an excellent season.

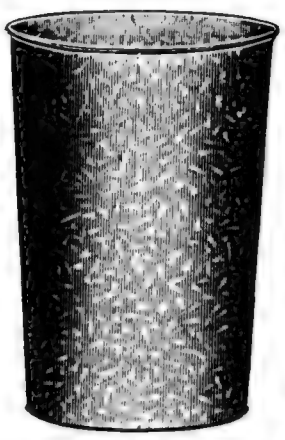
Motoring to the Convention.



P. L. McKee, with his wife and daughter and W. H. Evans, the advertising man of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., left last week in his car, intending to be early on the ground to superintend the erection of their exhibit.

F. M. Johnson started for Kansas City August 12, with two of the Randall staff, A. M. Anderson and F. W. Tredup, with him in his Packard. Mr. Anderson was taken ill en route and was left under a doctor's care at Des Moines.

It had been thought quite a party of Chicagoans would motor to Kansas City for the S. A. F. convention, but it proved impossible to get them together. However, several cars went independently, by various routes.

A. T. Pyfer and family left last week and spent a day or two at their old home, Dixon, Ill., before proceeding to Kansas City by way of Denver.

George J. Ball and one of his men drove to the convention in Mr. Ball's 6-cylinder Knight. They took Guy French with them.

E. J. Shaylor, a beautiful deep rose-pink, the most popular color with retail florists.

Herada, a beautiful opalescent lavender-shading to plum; very popular.

Ida Van, deep salmon red, or flaming orange pink; very rich and brilliant color.

Flora, the yellow that is giving Schwaben a run for first place in its color; and many others—plenty light pink and white.

tolochia Sipho knows the great publicity value that has resulted from the talk of visitors, and there are many such plants, among them the night-blooming cereus. A. Malchow recently has had one of these in splendid flower at his place at 3743 North Clark street and found it an excellent advertisement; hundreds of people in his locality visited his greenhouse to see this, to them, great novelty. Mr. Malchow was not only pleased but surprised at the attention it attracted and invited all who came to come again and bring their friends; the result was a stream of visitors that steadily grew in numbers. He obtained publicity which scarcely could have been procured by money.

Various Notes.

The "official" party to the S. A. F. via the Burlington would have been an extremely small one had it not been for the out-of-town florists who joined it. In these later days it is difficult to get a crowd together; Chicago is well represented at the convention, but exhibitors went early and many others chose various routes. However, numerous visitors augmented the delegation to about fifty. Several of the excursionists stopped off at St. Joseph, Mo., next morning and were well entertained by the Stuppy Floral Co. and other florists there.

J. C. Nielsen is preparing to start out by auto for a business trip to Minneapolis. He will take a large sample line, and Mrs. Nielsen will go along. They will make their headquarters at Hotel Radisson for two weeks.

After a fortnight's illness, which has left him rather weak, William Klingsporn is on the city sales floor of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association.

John Enders returned to duty at Amling's August 14, after a fortnight's rest. The last word received of his brother, Ed., was from Los Angeles, on his way up the coast.

The next two weeks will be outing time for Alfred Fischer, the north side retailer, and Otto Goerisch, with Zech & Mann. With three friends they will start August 19 to drive to Minong, in northern Wisconsin, where the fishing is good.

Bassett & Washburn took the 1,500 plants of Montgomery's Priscilla which they had ordered before that variety was withdrawn from dissemination, received early delivery of excellent stock and already are cutting flowers on good stems. Mr. Washburn thinks the variety may displace Russell for summer.

After six months of great activity the Foley Greenhouse Mfg. Co., which was burned out of its main building last winter, has built and put in operation an entirely new factory at a new location. Business is now being carried on at both places, but in a few more weeks will be concentrated at the new establishment, which is in every respect up-to-date, designed for the special line of business and laid out along modern system lines.

The Misses Tonner, with their mother, returned last week from a month's automobile trip to visit relatives in South Dakota and northern Minnesota. They motored nearly 3,000 miles, four women alone, without unpleasant incident. Mrs. Tonner is nearly 75 ears of age, but was able to hold the pace with her daughters.

"A Visit To Randall's Always Pays"

The James Spray Hanger

The most simple and convenient article on the market for arranging flowers for all occasions.

It is made of a strong, non-rustable steel wire which will sustain 25 pounds and hold its shape.

These hangers are nested six in a bundle and packed twelve in a carton, making it a very handy article to carry in one's coat pocket when out on a decorating job.

Some of the many uses to which this hanger can be put are the hanging of Sprays, Wreaths, etc., at funerals, at the house, church or chapel; for general decorating, such as the hanging of bunting, Smilax, Holly, Mistletoe, Festooning, Christmas Wreaths, Flower Baskets, etc.

Order a few dozen today, give them a trial and you will wonder how you ever got along without the handy helper.

Prices are as follows:

1 dozen	$0.75
2 dozen	1.25
4 dozen	2.25
8 dozen	4.25
16 dozen	8.00

propagating houses, each 20x100, for the Milwaukee Park Commission. The houses are being erected in Mitchell park, as an addition to the range there.

After having expended a considerable sum in direct-by-mail advertising last season, George Wittbold, manager of Henry Wittbold & Son, 75 East Adams street, has become convinced that well-planned newspaper advertising is the better means of building trade. He therefore has arranged to go back into the daily papers this fall with a series of strong displays. Mr. Wittbold has another full-page display in the new classified telephone directory just being distributed. It costs $1,100 each six months, but Mr. Wittbold says he finds it has paid, though he may not care to keep it up indefinitely.

C. J. Michelsen celebrated his forty-second birthday anniversary August 15 with what he calls appropriate ceremony—he kept right on working the same as every other day.

That now is not the time to buy coal is the opinion of C. L. Washburn. He believes fuel will cost less in the winter than it does now.

French, Dutch and Formosa bulbs went into the A. B. C. window display last week and attracted much attention. J. P. Degnan says retail demand began at once and it was found easy enough to get $1 per dozen for 13-centimeter Paper Whites. Shipments are being made on formosum lilies, Paper Whites, Narcissus Soleil d'Or, French Golden Spur and Romans.

A. J. Zech, who is spending his week ends at Lake Delavan, returned Monday, and Tuesday evening, with his partner, Matt Mann, went to Kansas City for a couple of days at the convention.

Miss Nettie L. Parker, vice-president and treasurer of A. T. Pyfer & Co., returned to her office August 14 after a boat trip to Duluth.

Business conditions in the northwest are much improved this season, according to William Snyders, who has been in that section for three months in the interest of the supply department of Poehlmann Bros. Co. After having called on most of the florists in the state of Washington, Mr. Snyders is working down the coast.

The increase of traffic, both automobile and pedestrian, past the store of the Briggs Floral Co., at the corner of Broadway and Sheridan road, has resulted in this summer's business being heavier than last year's, according to the proprietor, D. A. Papatony. A large stock of flowers is carried at all times, and the conspicuous display windows get the attention of the many passers-by.

Visitors.

G. E. M. Stumpp, the widely known New York retailer, spent August 12 and 13 here on his way to Kansas City.

W. Cleveland Johnson, of Memphis, was here several days last week and went to the S. A. F. convention with the Chicago party.

Vincent Gorly, of St. Louis, was a visitor last week.

J. W. McConnell, now located at Dayton as general sales manager for the Rolf Zetlitz Co., spent the week end at Evanston and went to the convention with the Chicago party.

One of last week's visitors, bound for Kansas City, was W. T. Usinger, who signs "Pittsburgh" on hotel registers, but who is at home in any part of the world.

There have been numerous visitors this week, most of them bound to the convention, but others on vacation or business trips. That the difficulty Chicago experienced in getting up a party to go to Kansas City was not exceptional was evident from the way the New Yorkers arrived. They began to appear by ones and twos as early as August 11, and the main party, which was here on the afternoon of August 14, was scarcely distinguishable as such. The New England delegation was here August 12 and 13.

J. D. Eisele, president of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, with Mrs. Eisele, was here August 12 and 13 on their way to California. They spent Saturday with C. L. Washburn and Frank Oechslin and Sunday at Highland Park, with W. C. Egan.

New Things Seen at the Convention

Among the new things seen were some splendid new flower bowls in the season's newest decorations and colors. Such soft tints as orchid, London smoke, jade green, French blue, as well as the goldenrod yellow and black lusters, were very prominent. The bowls were priced from $1.50 up. To some of them were added the new outline decoration in plain floral patterns. These were modestly priced at $2.00 each and up. The sizes were 8-inch to 15-inch. One could select an assorted barrel of these bowls, consisting of 12 pieces, for either $24.00, $27.00, $30.00 or $33.00.

The new green lattice design with colored roses on the bowls were much sought after and sold at $2.25 and $3.00 each.

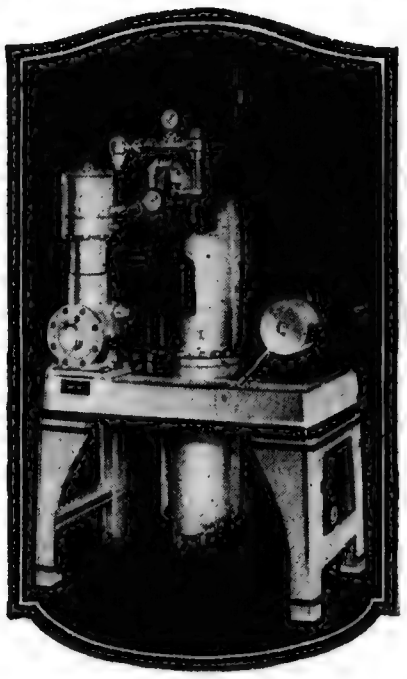
Candlesticks were seen to match all of the bowls and were priced from $2.50 a pair to $4.00 for the more handsome sets.

In the glassware section were also some of the new aquarium balls in bright colors. They are of hollow glass and either float or sink. The balls add lots of color to aquariums, and some say the fish like to play with them. These were $1.50 a dozen, assorted.

Some new candles were on display in new styles and colors which are being used now by many florists for table decorations and for retailing. Those who know say the Hand Dipped Candle will continue to be the preferred candle for decorating. It is dripless, smokeless and odorless and comes in all of the colors of the rainbow and in several sizes. Hand Dipped Candles are sold for 65 cents a box of either four 15-inch candles or six 10-inch candles. For Christmas some large red candles were shown, some 24 inches high; just the thing for centerpieces, while others were from 17 inches and smaller.

Some new hand colored Christmas Cards at $5.00 a hundred would be good to have on hand. There are also booklets to be had at $8.00 a hundred. Many florists are stocking these new cards. A dozen samples can be had for $1.00.

Artificial fruit has proven to be a good seller in flower stores. The new cleanable wax kind is almost nature's rival. An assortment of twelve pieces costs only $4.75.



Bulb bowls in luster glass or painted glass, holding from five to eight bulbs, are good value at $6.00 to $8.25 a dozen. Some of these were to be had in fancy gift boxes with bulbs and a verse. They ranged in price from $9.00 to $12.00 a dozen boxes. These are nice for florists who don't care to handle bulbs in bulk.

Some new painted wood candlesticks and wall sconces, with decorated hand-dipped candles to match, were boxed in pairs and sold for $2.50. These are good items for the florist who has a gift shop in connection with his flower store.

C. C. Pollworth and wife and W. A. Kennedy and wife, of Milwaukee, were here August 14 and joined the Chicago party to the convention.

Ernst C. Amling has been visiting his father and brothers at Maywood for a week, looking fine. With the Amling party he went to Kansas City and after the convention will return to his home at Santa Ana, Cal.

Max Schling, of New York, and Edward Sceery, of Paterson, N. J., were here August 14, the guests of A. Lange, who escorted them around the market and took them out in his car.

W. C. Priest and wife, of Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. Merkle and two children, of Mentor, O., were here August 14 and joined the Chicago party to the convention.

John Staack, of Moline, Ill., was here last week and told wholesalers that business is at least as good as ever this summer, with every prospect for the best season yet when frost comes.

C. L. W. Snyder, of the El Paso Carnation Co., El Paso, Ill., called on Erne & Co. August 14.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The second week of August, the dullest month of the year, was inactive. There is a little business, often at short notice. The chief interest centers in the supply. Fancy asters, for which $4 per hundred and occasionally more is asked, have replaced early asters, for which $2 per hundred was asked. Gladioli are decreasing in numbers and this applies to most of the other varieties of flowers. Some good new-crop roses are coming in—fancy Russell and nice Columbia and American Legion. Easter lilies are dependable and reasonable. Orchids are scarce. To sum up, demand and supply are light.

The Accident.

Alexander Craig Patterson was injured at the Belmont Plaza, August 10. Mr. Patterson believes, with his Uncle George, that vast power in the hands of the few is dangerous. He is, therefore, a stanch supporter of the Independents. It so chanced that that team's game was postponed and Mr. Patterson with two of the players was watching the Bickmore-Bayersdorfer game. A foul flew directly at the spot where the three were seated. The two Independents sprang aside. Mr. Patterson remained calmly seated. He did not appear to notice the ball. It was thought he was gazing at a flock of chickens in the distance. The catcher made a rush at the ball. There was a crash; cold fear seized the hearts of the two Independents. Mr. Patterson, the catcher, the ball and the bench went over together. Mr. Patterson was badly crumpled, his lip was bleeding and his hat was smashed. Most fortunately, no permanent injuries were discovered. The first words uttered by Mr. Patterson as he gazed ruefully at his straw hat, now hopelssly ruined, were: "That fellow thinks more of the ball than he does of my straw hat."

A Troubadour.

Bernard Eschner led the way into his sanctum at the M. Rice Co. On his desk was a gaily appareled figure seated on a barrel under a street lamp. The figure was that of a young man, a mandolin in his hands; his face was turned upward as though looking at someone at a window above and he was evidently playing the mandolin while singing to his lady love, as Romeo sang to Juliet. Mr. Eschner beamed on the young man. Perhaps he was thinking of an incident in his courtship of Mrs. Eschner. He said, "We are showing that at the convention in Kansas City. I brought it over from Europe. It is the greatest novelty of the season. Look, he is singing, 'Say It with Flowers.' Isn't it just the thing for a store window?"

Baseball.

With only three more games scheduled to complete the league race for the Campbell cup, the contest becomes more exciting. Six of the eight teams still have a chance of winning this trophy.

The standing of the clubs is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Bickmore	8	3
Retailers	5	2
Bayersdorfer	4	4
Craig	4	3
Independents	4	4
Niessen	5	5
Dreer	3	7
Pennock	1	8

The results of last week's games were as follows:

MONDAY, AUGUST 7.
Independents, 22; Niessen, 13.
Bickmore, 14; Dreer, 3.
Bayersdorfer, 13; Pennock, 8.
Craig, Retailers, postponed.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 9.
Berger, 22; Independents, 8.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 10.

Bayersdorfer, 13; Bickmore, 9.
Independents, Retailers, postponed.

Raymond Kesler's Return.

Everywhere on the street is heard the same thing. Did you know Raymond Kesler is at Bayersdorfer's?

Raymond Kesler entered the profession under the tutelage of Edward Reid, on Sixteenth street, in 1897. He served in the Spanish war; in the Philippines a year later. When the war was over he returned to this city and served a year under George Craig. Mr. Kesler then went to Pennock Bros. He advanced to the position of buyer, the first the firm employed especially for that purpose. Mr. Kesler left this city for Williamsport and later for Cleveland. He has now returned to accept the responsible position of Pacific slope representative for H. Bayersdorfer & Co., vacant since the death of Martin Reukauf. Mr. Kesler is looking remarkably well and seemed glad to be back among old friends again.

The Blue Bird Box.

We have all admired the lovely "Blue Bird" box, originated and now patented by Charles Henry Fox and now being introduced by H. Bayersdorfer & Co. as one of the season's finest novelties at Kansas City. It is understood that the changing of the "Blue Bird" box from an exclusive novelty to a commercial novelty is due to the business enterprise of Sydney H. Bayersdorfer, who has put Mr. Fox's ideas into practical shape. The "Blue Bird" box can now be shipped. It comes in a container. This is an all-important point. The "Blue Bird" box is formed of a delicate mass of exquisite lace and chiffon that covers the sides which fly open as the lid is lifted. It is filled with baby comb and brush, powder and rattler, pink for a little girl and blue for a little boy, with a place for flowers. The "Blue Bird" box also comes without these baby furnishings. Charles Henry Fox has ordered fifty of them.

Various Notes.

Joseph G. Neidinger left for Kansas City, August 11. He was joined there by Harry R. Crawford.

Edwin J. Fancourt has returned from Ocean City, leaving immediately for Kansas City.

James W. Heacock has gone to Kansas City.

Stephen D. Green and Raymond Kesler leave for the Pacific slope August 18.

Leonard J. Seiger has returned to this city. Mr. Seiger has not been well and is ordered to take a rest.

W. Cleaver Harry has gone to Kansas City.

Leo Niessen and his son visited some of the Montgomery county growers August 10. The stock generally was in fine condition. They called on George E. Campbell, Joseph Beavis and son, Victor Groshens, Adolph Farenwald and George Burton. They closed a happy day by messing with W. R. Gibson and BOSTON.

The Market.

It continues to be a gladiolus market. Never were these popular summer flowers more abundant or of finer quality. The weather has been remarkably cool and cloudy, with frequent showers, which have suited the plants to a nicety. There are a number of old and obsolete kinds which it does not pay to send in. They sell for $1 per hundred, if at all, and large quantities are donated to the hospitals from the markets. Some special sorts, like Pendleton, Niagara, Schwaben, America, Panama, Myrtle and one or two others, rise above the general average and may reach $6 to $8 per hundred in special cases.

Asters also are in heavier supply; fine flowers can now be had for $1 per hundred and there are offerings as low as 25 cents per hundred.

Roses continue to move fairly well and, while the supplies are rather in excess of demand, the prices are holding up to last week's level. Some nice Angelus are coming in. This variety looks like a winner in the white class. There are some Golden Glow and Early Frost mums of nice quality, which move sluggishly at this early date. There are no sweet peas, but an abundance of other annuals and perennials are coming in. Everlastings continue in big demand, especially helichrysums. Dahlias are appearing in small lots only. There are great numbers in flower now, but they have never become popular market flowers in Boston. Small lots only of lilies are seen, mainly L. giganteum and L. rubrum speciosum.

Cattleyas are scarce. A little bouvardia is seen. American Beauties are in good supply and of fine quality and there is an ample supply of valley. For asparagus, adiantum and hardy ferns the demand is good.

Various Notes.

Elijah Gorney is back from a 2,000-mile automobile trip, looking well bronzed and healthy. He visited many prominent retailers in New York, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Asbury Park and Atlantic City while away, and he cannot speak too highly of the hospitable treatment received from his brother retailers. He learned many wrinkles which will prove valuable in his business. His objective point was Pocomoke, Md., where he spent two or three weeks resting on an old, delightful farm. During his entire trip he did not have any mishaps of any kind to his car, which made his holiday the more enjoyable. The writer noted some fine vases of Liatris pycnostachya in the store of the Houghton-Gorney Co., also well flowered plants of Campanula isophylla alba, a popular market plant in Great Britain, but only seen here to a limited extent.

William H. Elliott is growing a large batch of the new rose, Angelus, at Mad-

The flowers sell extremely well in the market. He has displaced Ophelia in great measure with Butterfly. Other roses he is growing are Pilgrim, Kaiserin, Hadley and Columbia. He has the usual heavy cut of Asparagus plumosus and A. Sprengeri, at Brighton.

Harry M. Robinson is home after a week spent at the Faulkner hospital, Jamaica Plain, where he went for an operation on his neck. He is convalescing nicely.

Morris F. Comley, of Burlington, states that his pick of tomatoes under glass in July was over twenty-eight tons. He grows both cucumbers and tomatoes heavily in summer and has one or two houses of cucumbers coming along for a fall crop. He expects to have more than 100,000 carnations and 40,000 single violets. Sweet peas are up in one or two houses and four houses are devoted to mums. He has 2,800 seedling carnations from a large number of crosses and hopes to get something good from them.

H. Hansen, Medford, has erected a new house 30x150, and a head house, to be devoted to propagating. He will grow pot plants exclusively for the Boston trade and, having had an excellent training in this line, is sure to do well.

A flower which is not much seen in the local markets, but sells well, is Tamarix indica. Charles J. O'Brien, of Jamaica Plain, is sending in a nice lot of it.

Penn's had a noteworthy window display of named gladioli, commencing August 11, which attracted much notice, not only from passers-by, but from the press. The flowers were all furnished by Thomas Cogger, the well known Melrose specialist, and embraced the cream of the worth-while varieties in commerce.

Spiro Kejalas, the competent window trimmer for Penn's, is enjoying a well-earned vacation at Manchester, Mass. Joseph White will act as window decorator in his absence.

Orchids are not plentiful these days, but at T. F. Galvin's, Inc., on Park street, the writer noted not only cattleyas and cypripediums, but various oncidiums, dendrobiums, miltonias and phalænopsis.

Rocco Zeparo, of the Winter Street Greenhouses, Arlington, is first in the market with an excellent lot of Early Frost mums.

Visitors last week included H. E. Meader, Dover, N. H.; A. E. Earnshaw, Paterson, N. J.; Thomas A. Havemeyer, New York; J. A. Kemp, Little Silver, N. J.; Madison C. Cooper, Calcium, N. Y.; Mrs. M. B. Hawks, Bennington, Vt.; Elmer E. Gove, Burlington, Vt.; George A. Halladay, Bellows Falls, Vt.; H. M. Barrett, Hightstown, N. J., and many others, attending the great gladiolus show at Horticultural hall.

No announcement has yet been made regarding the site for the new wholesale flower market. The committee of twenty, appointed to select a site, is understood, however, to have practically decided on a location. About $12,000 in cash has been deposited in the bank of the growers.

Thomas Roland and B. Hammond Tracy attended the Kansas City convention. The attendance from here was small; one or two who had hoped to make the trip found that they were too busy to leave.

We have so far had an extraordinarily cool, damp and overcast August. On low lands many crops are suffering from an excess of moisture and it has been almost impossible to keep weeds in check. Those whose establishments are on low land have had an uneasy time of it.

Edward E. Randall, of Reading, Pa., who started in the nursery business last spring, has quite a large acreage of excellent land already broken up and planted. While he is working up stock of perennials, trees and shrubs, corn, tomatoes and other vegetables are being grown.

The show of children's gardens exhibits will be held at Horticultural hall August 26 and 27. This has been such a fine growing season that a record exhibit of vegetables and flowers is assured.

Charles T. Beasley, of East Milton, is located on a main highway of traffic leading to Quincy, Plymouth, the south shore and all points on Cape Cod and has an attractive roadside stand, where he disposes of large quantities of gladioli, asters, dahlias and other seasonable flowers, as well as vegetables.

H. E. Meader, of Dover, N. H., who was in town last week, says business is steadily growing with his firm. He now has a fine store, over 20,000 feet of glass and has planted one and one-half millions of the best gladioli.

Vincent Bowditch, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Joel E. Goldthwait, principal owner of the Medfield Farms & Greenhouse Co., of which Peter Pederzini is manager, was accidentally drowned at Essex, Lake Champlain, August 8. His body had not been recovered August 13. The deceased was a most estimable young man, much interested in horticulture and agriculture, and was only twenty-one years of age. Much sympathy is felt for his parents in their affliction.

Meetings of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club will be resumed at Horticultural hall September 19. Gustave Thommen will speak on "Impressions of Florida." W. N. C.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Gladioli and asters are now at the meridian of their season and are holding the center of popular favor. One of the surprising features of the florists' business is the way in which gladioli have come to the front in popularity in this city. It would be interesting to know how many thousand spikes are weekly being used in this market. They are showy, comparatively low-priced and keep well.

Business generally is holding up as never before during the summer season. There is no great rush, but a steady, consistent trade that rounds out each week to a surprising volume.

FOR SALE

Opportunity of a Lifetime.

Is there a retail florist among the many who read this ad, that is waiting for a golden opportunity to better himself? If so, here is your chance. A retail store established for close to twenty years, doing business in the very heart of the best shopping district in Denver, a business that has been successful since its birth, a business that will net you in one year more money than it cost you, a store you can step right into and start in to do business. The store is a combination flower and candy shop. The room is plenty large for both lines of business, being 17 ft. in width, 65 ft. in depth, with large balcony and ample work room with storage facilities in basement; five-year lease in new, modern, fire-proof building. I want to retire from the flower business and devote my time to my candy interests. I have conducted this business successfully for the past twelve years. My proposition will stand the acid test. The stock is all new and clean, fixtures are the very finest, in fact you will find nothing finer in the west. Someone is going to get the bargain of a lifetime, so I suggest that you act quickly on this proposition as it should not be on the market long. Get in touch with your friends in Denver and get their opinion and board a train and come and see it. If interested and you want facts I will be glad to tell you anything that you want to know, any wholesaler in Denver will tell you about the New York Floral Store.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

There is a large supply of flowers of all kinds and, with business at a summer ebb, prices naturally favor the buyers. Gladioli are not so plentiful as they were, although they are coming in freely. The asters are much improved and of really good quality now. Roses, both from the north and the locally grown stock, clean up well for the season. The new crop is of a good quality. There is a full supply of carnations and a fair demand. Delphiniums, buddleias and other basket flowers are in oversupply. The shipping business is fair only and not likely to improve much until cooler weather obtains inland.

Various Notes.

Albert Knopf, of the Redondo Floral Co., is spending his vacation at Fairview, his ranch near Santa Ana. He has a fine lemon crop and there are good prospects for oil on his place, a producing well having been brought in within 600 feet of his grove. F. Reymond, another partner, says that they have their slack days, of course, but that business generally is good.

C. Gutting, of the Superior Dahlia Gardens, has an extra fine collection of pompons in many fine varieties.

V. Swanson sells out regularly at the market, his dahlias and asters being particularly good now.

The H. N. Gage Co., as usual, has plenty of stock, some extra fine didiscus selling well.

L. Maynard, of the Hollywood Flower Shop, is away on his vacation.

P. Hahn, of Hollywood, has always grown some of his stock and is now going into this end more extensively. He is building a large lath house.

G. Gorini is bringing in extra fine dahlias.

F. C. Jaeger, of San Francisco, has been visiting old friends and calling on the trade here. He has been staying with C. Clark and J. Jordan.

George Eischen is fitting up a store almost opposite the Japanese market and is already doing business in orchids, roses and other stock from the north.

Repainting and decorating are in full swing at the wholesale store of the E. C. Amling Co.

George J. Hall says that he has word from Walter Garbett that the operation which the latter underwent some time ago was successful and that he is on the road to recovery.

F. Royston, of Walter Armacost & Co., is planning an eastern trip. He has purchased a new Cadillac victoria.

H. R. R.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.

Business must be good here, as since last year several new stores have been opened and all are attractive. A large number of trade visitors are in the city frequently; last week they included F. C. Jaeger, who came down from San Francisco to call on his old friend, Robert Armstrong; Albert Morris, of the Morris & Snow Co., and Mr. Kent, manager of the American Florists' Exchange, of Los Angeles; E. Aldridge, representing the M. Rice Co., of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Richards, of Montebello, with whom Mr. Jaeger rode back to Los Angeles after a tour of many of the Montecito estates and calls on local trade.

Arthur Gleave is one of the busiest men in Santa Barbara, but he is always there with the glad hand for everyone. He has purchased a strip of land west of his store, on Carillo street, where he intends to grow stock. A large building that was formerly used as a winery is located on the land and merchandise of all kinds will be stored in it. The basement of the building he intends using for mushroom culture. He is already cleaning up the land and fencing it.

C. Waugh, son of C. Waugh, of the Knopf estate, is building two greenhouses, 150x250 feet. At present he is going to confine himself to growing cucumbers and tomatoes.

Mrs. Helmer has just returned from an extended trip north, and, as usual, her place is in first-rate order and attractive.

Verheille Bros. report business good. They have taken on the agency for the Pacific Humus Co., of Pasadena, for their peat humus in this vicinity. Carload lots will be shipped and distributed by this firm, thus avoiding a great deal of unnecessary handling and freight charges.

In the short time that he has been there, Robert Armstrong has made great improvements on the beautiful estate of Mrs. Hammond, of Montecito, and a number of others are in progress or contemplation. Fine asters and salpiglossis are grown here, while the vegetable garden, although placed close to the sea, is a wonder. The many acres of lawn and the golf and polo grounds are kept in order with an electrically driven lawn mower, the invention of Mrs. Hammond's son, George, who is a clever electrician. Plugs are provided at certain distances and a flexible cable taken to the motor, which is placed on the mower. The action is smooth, with none of the shaking and jolting found in power mowers generally. Mrs. Hammond is a splendid patroness of horticulture and her great kindness and hospitality to anyone connected with the craft is well known and appreciated.

Albert Beverley, of the Mission Oak Nursery, met with what might have been a serious accident, when returning to Santa Barbara from a trip to Los Angeles. An automobile driver, apparently asleep, drove into him, and, although Mr. Beverley had presence of mind enough to swing his car over sufficiently to avoid a collision, a trailer on the rear of his car was hit and overturned, demolishing it and spreading the nursery stock with which it was loaded over the landscape. Luckily, Mr. Beverley was unhurt.

P. A. Vincent, superintendent of Mrs. Knight's estate, at Montecito, has a wonderful collection of seedling dahlias, many of which are, undoubtedly, of commercial value. Growers on the lookout for a good red should keep their eye on Mrs. L. P. Fisher, a magnificent flower, produced on stiff, wiry stems, that is better than anything of the kind the writer has seen in the trade.

About sixty men are now employed on the estate of Mrs. W. H. Bliss, where Charles R. Russell is in charge. Many improvements are under way.

John Turnbull, of Montecito, has opened a fine store on State street and is well satisfied with business so far. Besides a well chosen stock of cut flowers, Mr. Turnbull has a complete line of seeds and nursery supplies, and his long connection with the gardening fraternity here will, doubtless, be of great advantage to him. At his home growing place on the State highway, he has made many improvements, including a new greenhouse and the removal of a lot of old eucalyptus trees that were robbing the land of much fertility. Mrs. Turnbull oversees the business here, while her husband is at the store. H. R. R.

UNITED FLOWER & SUPPLY CO., Inc.

448 BUSH STREET Wholesale Growers and Shippers SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.

be good for the fall and winter trade. The crops of tomatoes and cucumbers are about gone; the prices for these are exceedingly good.

Various Notes.

The Spokane Florist Co. is in its new location, at Howard and Sprague streets. The firm is still painting and improving its new home, but expects to be ready for the fall and winter trade. The new store has twice as much window space as the old one. Frank Spoerkase, of this firm, celebrated the moving by getting married. He and his wife have the best wishes of the entire trade.

Jack Burt has purchased a summer home at Newman lake. He plans spending most of his future summers at the lake.

William Peters, of the City Floral Co., with his wife and family, is spending two weeks at Newman lake.

Walter Peters, of Peters & Son, sprung a surprise on his friends when he and Miss Clara Schuchholz were quietly married at the bride's home. The members of the trade wish them a long and happy life.

A. Parker, of Hoyt Bros. Co., has just returned from his vacation trip to the coast. H. H.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

Last week saw little change in the market. Prices are continuing fairly low, but on a basis that is fair to both grower and dealer. Lilies of all sorts are plentiful, especially valley, and the quality is far superior to the usual quality at this time of year. Following valley, rubrum and Easter lilies are the most plentiful. Strawflowers are the one absorbing item at present, with large quantities changing hands. Carnations are getting scarce, as are good roses, though there are still plenty of baby roses. Chrysanthemums are getting more and more plentiful, but will not stand much shipment. Yellow and white are the predominating colors at present. Gladioli are abundant and are in many varieties. Dahlias are of good quality and asters are plentiful, but are moving much more slowly this year than last.

Various Notes.

Robert Newcomb, representing the Willow Ware Shops, and W. McLellan were among the San Franciscans to leave for the S. A. F. convention.

J. A. Axell is cutting some unusually fine Easter lilies for this time of year. The bulbs were held in cold storage from last fall and planted late. The lilies have remarkably long stems for this time of year.

The Misses Hannon store had a good business last week, owing to the return

The New Wonder Fern

NOW READY IN 2-INCH POTS, AT

$30.00 per 100

This magnificent fern is now so well known that no description is necessary. We sold out completely this spring and those who were disappointed in obtaining stock have now their opportunity.

For cutting it is absolutely the best variety in cultivation. Fronds sent from Los Angeles to Indianapolis on the occasion of the National Flower Show were awarded a Silver Medal. This speaks volumes for its keeping qualities and it is the freest grower of all Adiantums, the fronds frequently attaining a length of 24 inches under ordinary cultivation.

of many people from their vacations. The schools have opened and the number of social functions is increased.

Joseph's reports that the many conventions that are being held in San Francisco now are having a good effect on business. The Bar Association meeting, particularly, has been profitable. B. M. Joseph said that the store had the honor of filling orders to be delivered to Chief Justice of the Supreme Court William Howard Taft and to Vice-President Coolidge since the meeting opened.

The annual Eden township farm products show, which is being held in Hayward for a week, has a collection of orchids valued at many thousands of dollars on display. The orchids belong to H. Angus, of San Francisco. They are kept in a steel-wired cage, under the guard of a well-known detective agency.

The San Francisco Coöperative Flower Market held its annual election of officers August 7. The officers elected were as follows: President, Charles Brown, of Brown & Kennedy; first vice-president, W. McLellan; second vice-president, Joseph Proetti; secretary, Frank Thatcher; assistant secretary, V. Ferrari; treasurer, Peter V. Matraia; assistant treasurer, Henry Avansino. These officers also constitute the board of directors and the finance committee. Things look promising for the coming year, as everyone seems enthusiastic over the enterprise. Considerable confidence is felt that the new officers are capable of carrying on the work of the market in the proper style and there is every indication that the coming year will be a successful one.

Co., says that the summer months were good this year. This company is still featuring dahlias. The latest addition to the collection that is being shown is a new, magnificent dark red dahlia called the American Legion.

The C. Kooyman Co. is doing a big business in strawflowers for the retail trade. The flowers are being put up in boxes and advertised as California everlasting flowers. The public is advised to send a box to their friends in the east and the suggestion is being largely acted upon.

Enomoto & Co. are occupied almost entirely at present in shipping dried flowers and asters. These are arriving in good quality, the asters in particular being of unusual quality. Large eastern shipments continue to be made.

Domoto Bros. continue to handle large quantities of rubrum lilies.

The United Floral Co. has a fine chrysanthemum crop this year, which will begin to arrive in about two weeks from the peninsula district. It looks as though there would be enough to go around this year. The asters are good, the stems especially being of a length equal to chrysanthemums. Prices in the latter are even and reasonable this year. The dried flowers are good and have all been grown at the nurseries of the firm at Stege and San Mateo. Announcement is made that the capital of the United Floral Co. is to be increased by several hundred thousand dollars. The increased capital is to be used in securing more land and nursery equipment, so that in the future all of the flowers sold by this company will come from its own nurseries and will be shipped direct. Plans are not yet fully matured, but the general outlines of the development have been decided upon.

G. W. McLellan made a trip through southern California recently, visiting San Diego, Los Angeles and other places. He says that he found a warm reception in more ways than one and he appreciated a little San Francisco fog when he returned. However, he is enthusiastic over the number of fine people he met in the florists' business through the south end of the state.

Angelo Rossi has been appointed permanent manager of the annual San Francisco industrial exposition, which is held in the big Exposition auditorium of the city. The exposition is sponsored by the leading business men of the city and is becoming an important event.

The Growers' Floral Co. reports a good crop of strawflowers and asters.

Frank Pelicano is looking forward with anticipation to the dahlia show, as he has a number of good things to exhibit. Mrs. J. R. Russell, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., is spending a two weeks' vacation at Santa Barbara.

Podesta & Baldocchi report business to be steady and growing. A new motor truck has been added to the delivery service of this firm.

F. C. Jaeger is in Los Angeles visiting many members of the trade in that locality. Mr. Jaeger will visit San Diego and a number of other towns before returning. The firm is busy shipping strawflowers and is also getting ready for the holiday season. Baskets are being painted and everything is being done that is possible in preparation for the rush season.

The Suzanne Floral Co. reports that the principal work now is decorations for banquets. There is little floral work at present, but the summer is far better than last year, probably due to the fact that the firm is now becoming better known, last year being the first in this city.

J. A. Axell is handling many mums at present, but they are not good for shipping. He says that there are too many gladioli in the market.

Louis J. Cappurro has taken over the Avansino interests in the firm of Avansino Bros. & Co. The company will probably continue in business under the same name and will be under the joint management of J. Bab Pagano and Mr. Cappurro.

The premises to be occupied shortly by the Art Floral Co. on Powell street are undergoing a great deal of refinishing work. A huge metal canopy in front of the store extends across the entire sidewalk, which is about twenty feet wide here, and has electric signs on each of the three street sides advising people to "Say It with Flowers." A big electric sign for the Art Floral Co. has been placed above the canopy.

The Leonard Coates Nursery Co., of

Morgan Hill, has issued its advance price list on a large assortment of nursery stock. M. M.

PORTLAND, ORE.

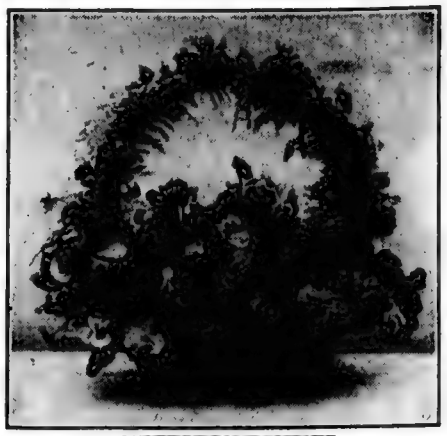
The Market.

Business last week has been of the average summer kind. If there are funeral orders on hand, the stores seem active, otherwise there is little doing. Stock is abundant, though chiefly of summer flowers. Gladioli are about at the height of the season and are the most popular flowers of the day. Asters are coming into the stores in increasing quantity and move readily at good prices. Fine sweet peas are being received from several growers, and are useful in make-up work, being easy to arrange. The store windows are gay with African marigolds and zinnias a good deal of the time. The flowers, with their fine keeping qualities and color are hard to beat for window decorations in hot weather. If there was any corsage work, there were plenty of orchids, lily of the valley and Cecile Brunner roses to be had for the purpose. Roses are not of much importance at present, all the stock coming from young or recently cut back plants and, therefore, short-stemmed. Carnations from old plants are still to be had and are just about sufficient for the demand. A novelty seen last week was some native water lilies in shades of orange and apricot. They cannot be said to be a useful cut flower, but give variety and are at least interesting.

Various Notes.

About 250 persons journeyed out to Montrose Park on Sunday, August 6, to the annual picnic of the Oregon Florists' Club. Races and contests provided amusement for several hours during the afternoon. It was a fine day for bathing and many took a dip in the water of the Sandy river, which flows through the park. Towards evening dancing was indulged in by a goodly number, who remained until a late hour.

Two rows of large standard bay trees which flank the entrance to Oaks park are about the best specimens of the kind to be seen around Portland of late years.



Julius Broetje continues to supply the market with his water lilies. He has six ponds, with about that number of kinds to be cut from. He has recently bought the material for constructing a greenhouse in which he intends to grow the tender varieties of water lilies and lotus.

A recent visit to the greenhouses of William Courtney disclosed a large house of recently potted ferns. He grows Roosevelt, Wanamaker, Whitmanii and Teddy, Jr., and has no trouble in disposing of all that he grows.

The Rahn & Herbert Co., of Clackamas, Ore., is busily engaged in the work of growing Christmas pot plants. Large numbers of poinsettias are being propagated for pot and pan culture. Mr. Peter, of the firm, is in charge of this branch of the business and has been particularly successful for several years.

J. Livingston, of the Livingston Seed Co., of Columbus, O., paid our city a visit last week.

J. A. Wilson and family are spending their vacation at their summer cottage at Ocean Park, Wash. N. V. H.

FLORISTS' REVIEW
When Writing to Advertisers

Telegraph Delivery Department

THE florists whose cards appear in the Pink Part of The Florists' Review are prepared to fill orders from other florists, for local delivery, on the usual basis. See index by towns on the following page. If your city is not represented, there is a specially good opportunity for you.

"I live for those that love me,
For those that know me true,
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And waits my coming, too;
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the future in the distance,
For the good that I can do."

HAVE YOU SEEN THE NEW WRIGHT FERN?

PRESIDENT PENNOCK'S ADDRESS

ferred to a committee and reported back. I have some data bearing on it.

Under publicity, we might mention holidays. We all know what they mean to the business, and the more we push them the better the results will be. Mothers' day is a fine example of what can be done along these lines. In many localities it is as good as either Easter or Christmas, while in other localities, where they haven't pushed it, it is far behind.

Armistice day is a day that could be made much more of, with judicious and proper advertising. The best results probably would come from collective advertising in the different communities. At our board meeting in Indianapolis, in March, it was resolved to refer this matter to the publicity committee, whose members, no doubt, will tell us later in the convention the results that have been accomplished.

St. Valentine's day is another day that can be helped materially by publicity.

I want again to emphasize how wonderful is the slogan which we have. The advertising men of the country concede that the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," is the best business-getter ever introduced into advertising. With this slogan properly coupled up in our advertising, we have one of the best levers for increasing business with which any business was ever blessed; so let us not lose sight of this fact. The more I see of advertising, the more I believe we can spend unlimited amounts and get them back. Particularly as the business expands, publicity must expand with it. We don't want to squander money, but we do want to keep our slogan before the public. There is no question about this in the minds of the better business men of our profession.

National Flower Shows.

As a help to our business in bringing our products before the public, too much praise cannot be given our national flower shows, and those who have been instrumental in pushing this wonderful work along.

First, we must thank those who made it possible in the beginning to have national flower shows, and then we want to thank those who have been carrying them on. I could name a long list of members who have done wonderful service in making the shows the successes they have been, but I think we all know who have shouldered the work and been largely responsible. I hope we shall soon come to the time when we can have a national flower show in some city in the United States or Canada each year, handled by the national committee coming into that city long enough beforehand to take charge of everything and running the show in every detail, not calling on the local florists to give their time and efforts. In having this committee handle it in this way, I believe that we could get more efficiency and better results in the end. It might be that this committee would have to be paid—would certainly have to have its expenses paid, anyway. This may be more or less of a dream, but I don't believe the time is far distant when we can have a flower show in some city every year, and we shall not have it two or three years apart as now.

Indianapolis brilliantly illustrated what a smaller city can do in the way of handling a national flower show, and I believe it will be only a matter of a few years when the municipalities will be only too glad to have the opportunity to invite the national flower shows and assist in the great work of making them a success.

Annual Report.

In the past an annual report was published and sent to each member. This is going to be superseded by an annual that will be much better and more comprehensive than anything the society has ever undertaken so far:

A yearly review of the progress and accomplishments of American horticulture; (a record of the membership and work of the S. A. F. and, to a lesser degree, of other horticultural bodies), and an up-to-date directory and reference book of practical horticultural information. Designed for florists, seedsmen, nurserymen and members of allied industries and for instructors, investigators and advanced amateurs in the horticultural field.

I am glad to say this is the result of Mr. Roland's recommendation. The committee which he appointed went into it thoroughly and has made a splendid contract for the society.

Standardized Plant Names.

The American Joint Committee on Horticultural Nomenclature, representing six organizations, including the S. A. F., appointed a subcommittee, authorizing it to compile a book of standardized plant names, the aim of which is to make buying easy by providing definite and uniform names, both scientific and "common," for American horticultural commerce. This committee has been working unselfishly for nearly eight years.

The book is about ready for distribution and is bound to be a help to every florist who wants to be at all up-to-date in his work. I hope all of our members will avail themselves of the opportunity to have this book near at hand and learn the names of the plants and flowers they are handling, and I want to make a plea for an appropriation, the same as we made last year towards this same worthy cause, namely, $250.

School Garden Committee.

Through this school garden committee there has been done some valuable work, although it does not appear much on the surface; it is more work for the future than anything else. The committee has got in touch with state superintendents of education, both in the United States and Canada, as well as local superintendents, principals, boards and trustees of school districts, advocating the establishment of school gardens.

Benjamin Hammond, who has been chairman of this committee for a number of years, deserves more than a passing word of praise. He has always taken a great interest in this work, doing it in a quiet way, making little fuss over it. It is on our future generations that we must depend for the future uplift of the society, and may we have more communities with this public spirit such as Mr. Hammond has shown! If we had more workers like our dear old friend, it would certainly make for better citizenship.

Canadian Florists.

Some little time ago I received a nice letter from W. E. Groves, president of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, in which he expressed the wish for a closer coöperation and business intercourse with our society and our members, also that we would send a representative to their annual convention in Montreal, which took place August 8 to 10. This, we are glad to say, has been accomplished, our society being represented by Charles H. Totty.

This is a splendid thought, and one that we hope will be observed each year as the conventions come along, with the result that we shall be in closer touch with each other, and make for broader and better business for both countries. We are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to hearing from our Canadian representative. You notice I use the word "our," and that is the way we want to speak of our Canadian members. They are of us and a part of us. This is the Society of American Florists.

Colleges.

A great many of our states have colleges that have splendid, up-to-date horticultural courses. Each year they graduate classes consisting of our best and most progressive young men. As more of the college boys come into our business, they are bound to bring a better tone to it, and we want to tie up much more closely to these young men. A committee was appointed at the Indianapolis executive committee meeting to look into this subject and make a report at this convention. You will hear from the chairman of this committee later.

Accounting System.

Recently the board of directors deemed it wise to change the system of bookkeeping of the society, so that more comprehensive records could be kept, and a certified public accountant was engaged to study the affairs of the society. As a result a new system has been installed, which the directors feel has been operating greatly to the satisfaction of the society, although entailing more expense.

Quarantine Conference.

Referring to the quarantine conference at Washington, May 15, and the report which was sent out by the department under date of June 30, I want first to draw your attention to the fact of the S. A. F. not having a representative on the special jury appointed by the department to be present at the conference and report to the Secretary of Agriculture as to the fairness of the conference. In all fairness to horticulture, that important subsidiary of agriculture, the florists were certainly entitled to a seat on that jury and a voice as to the fairness of that report. Unfortunately, the florists were not so honored.

Then, referring to the report on page 15, it seems to me that not only the Society of American Florists is belittled, but an insinuation is made that should not be left unchallenged, which insinuation would imply that Mr. McHutchison was not the representative of the Society of American Florists. I want to quote you word for word, as set forth in the report:

> With respect to the florists of the country, Mr. McHutchison, of New York, an importer and broker, representing that he spoke for this group.

To me it seems most undignified for a report like this to come from an august body like the Department of Agriculture, with an insinuation that Mr. McHutchison was not our duly accredited representative. I cannot but feel that the florists have been treated in an autocratic way, with little fairness in having a report like this go forth, as it certainly conveys a wrong impression to those who see this report, not only those in the florists' business but those in other horticultural lines, and it looks as if the department felt the florists were an insignificant part of horticulture, which, as you all know, is quite contrary to the fact, the growing and distribution of plants and flowers being everywhere recognized as the very backbone of horticulture.

Recommendations.

Probably one of my strongest recommendations would be the adoption of the thirteen amendments, and I make a special request that you read them over, paragraph by paragraph. You will find them printed in the program, of which ample copies are available. The preparation of these amendments entailed considerable work, and great thought was given them by some of the best minds in our profession. It will be a

Is Either Of These Worth A Hoot?

As near as I can make out, there are two kinds of "us florists."
One kind who always give a lot of thought and attention to their windows.
Another kind who do sometimes.

Right now seems to be the slack season on window ideas. Most of us are resorting to our old friends the palms and ferns.
Often wonder if folks don't get so used to seeing them these off-months, that they don't look at all at the really fine things we have on the on-months?
It may be I am throwing away money, but we make an extra effort with our windows to make them attractive in the summer.

Often a historic event can be utilized.
For example: Fulton made his first trip up the Hudson in his steamboat, the Clermont, in August, 1807.

The first steam vessel to cross the ocean was launched at Savannah in August, 1818.
Both of these make a good idea to hitch up with steamer business.

Remember that an attractive window now, may sell a decoration for a wedding or social function months later. Most people actually buy a long time after they are sold.

Executive Committee Meetings.

The usual procedure of the society has been to hold its board meeting in the spring; then the annual meeting in August. These meetings are of the greatest importance in caring for the workings of the society, but it seems to me that the time between the annual meeting and the meeting of the board of directors in the spring is too long, and the members of the board get more or less out of touch with society affairs. I should like to recommend, with the establishing of the new executive committee, that it be convened at least four times a year, and oftener if necessary. This is a small committee, but I believe by getting together this number of times the society matters could be handled much better. Then, too, it would keep matters fresh before the members by the publication of the committee's reports.

Service Bureau.

A matter that has been in my thoughts for several years is the way the average florist runs his business, usually lacking system. Not only is this more or less true of the growing business, but it applies to the other branches of the business as well. A grower devotes all his capital and all his energy growing a variety of stock and at the end of the year he doesn't know on which he has made any profit. He knows that his season's business has shown a profit of about so much money, which represents usually what he has left in bank. This is a wrong way to run any business. He should know absolutely what pays him and what doesn't, and I should like to recommend that a service bureau be established, with a suitable appropriation to employ an expert accountant, who could be consulted by the members of the society for a simplified manner of keeping their books.

An expert accountant of New York has given this subject much thought, and at a conference with some of us agreed to prepare a paper bearing on this subject, which will come before us Wednesday evening and I hope will be given careful consideration.

A thought from one of my good friends was to have this bureau tell the members how much they should get per flower, as well as how much per square foot of greenhouse surface of any particular flower, and work up a chart of every plant and flower, that only the members in good standing could have access to.

Considering the methods pursued by the florists as a whole, I think that we have few failures, and we are fortunate in that respect, but with more up-to-date methods, why not have still fewer failures and more worth-while successes? I feel this recommendation is a most important one, and one of the most vital in our business, and the bureau, if established, will be a big help to our profession as a whole.

State Vice-Presidents.

Another recommendation is for the executive committee to map out a plan for state vice-presidents to follow. There are a great many people who are willing and anxious to do anything they can if they are told what to do, and by having a general plan of instructions for the state vice-presidents, with the assistance of the home office and the executive committee, I believe much good can be done.

About three months ago I sent a letter to each one of the state vice-presidents, asking their coöperation, and from these letters I received a few nice replies, offering excellent suggestions, well worth carrying out. Sorry to say, most of them were unanswered. It seems to me in appointing state vice-presidents we should be careful to pick only those who are willing to work and willing to do something worth-while for the S. A. F., and tie them up with us so that they feel that they are vital to the success of the S. A. F.

I also believe a great deal of good for the society will come from having a conference of the state vice-presidents at each of our annual meetings.

Prison Gardens.

Each one of us wants to do what we can to help those less fortunate in the world than we are, and I want to draw your attention to the prison flower garden started at San Quentin, Cal. This garden is being taken care of by the prisoners and has done a great deal to help make their lives a little less dreary and a little less cold. What we want is to help make these prisoners better citizens. Most of them get more hardened and worse by their stay in prison; so if we can do something to help this condition and make better men and women of them, I think it is work that we should take up.

The plan is for the state vice-presidents to correspond with the prison authorities of their states, asking if there is any spare ground in which flowers may be cultivated by the prisoners. Then, with the backing of the S. A. F., through each state vice-president, an opportunity will be given for the inmates to help elevate the standards of every county, state and federal prison.

Woman Director.

In the florists' industry over the country we have many shining lights, people that stand out in their business for progress and advancement; some are men; some are women. A number of women are conducting businesses successfully—splendid business women in every way. We want the support of the women as well as the support of the men. Why wouldn't it be a splendid thing for us to have a woman or two on our board of directors? I should like to make this as a recommendation, with the hope that the society may see its way clear to elect one or two women to the board in the near future.

High Express Rates.

There has been considerable agitation among florists all over the country in regard to high express rates—whether it's possible to have flowers and plants put in the second-class rate. For a number of years, plants were under second class and enjoyed that privilege until quite recently, when they were put in the first class. It might be, if a committee were appointed to take this up, that something could be accomplished. I should like to recommend that such a committee be appointed.

Government Investigation.

The greenhouse men in some localities have been much bothered by insect pests, so much so, in fact, that it became necessary to call in government aid. This investigational work has been carried on with more or less success; the rose men particularly feel it has been a great help to them and would like to see it continued. To carry it on successfully, a larger appropriation will be necessary, and I would, therefore, recommend that the society petition Washington for an appropriation of $20,000 to continue this work for the coming year.

Thanks.

Too much praise cannot be given the various officers of the society, the committees and their members, for the untiring devotion to the work of the society that they have shown.

To the horticultural press I want to express my warmest appreciation for its unstinted and unselfish support; particularly was this so at the national flower show in Indianapolis. I think we owe to the trade papers far more than we can ever estimate.

Onward and Upward.

In my European experience of the summer and fall of 1921 I learned much of the splendid horticultural enthusiasm of the Old World, which the people held in spite of the horrors of the four years' cataclysm and its terrible aftermath. They are all with us in doing their bit for the development of the beautiful in nature; and we, of the New World, are in full sympathy, and I am sure each and every one will add his quota according to genius, climate and surroundings, to help make and keep the world more beautiful.

And, in conclusion, let me urge on all members of our great national society—the parent of all our purely trade organizations in the florists' business—that they keep looking onward and upward, and try, each one, to do their own little bit for the benefit of all. Every one can do something in the course of his earthly career, if the right spirit is there. Get away from the too-prevalent spirit of criticism. Build up. There will always be plenty of envious ones trying to tear down. That's human nature. But try to rise above that weakness. Be generous and open with all mankind the world over. Horticulture, in its widest sense, knows no latitude, no longitude. It covers the world. Avoid restrictions. Give the best of yours for the best of theirs, and all will be well.

Evergreen, Ala.—Chas. S. Lee & Co., who have been in the wholesale evergreen business here, have removed to Glenwood, Ala., which hereafter will be their shipping point. They say the new location will afford improved facilities for handling their trade.

Xenia, O.—Mr. and Mrs. George Lampert, of the Lampert Floral Co., left Monday, August 14, by automobile for North Bay, Ontario, Can. They will proceed from there by rail and boat up to the north woods in Abitibi province, near James bay, on their annual fishing trip. They will be gone a month and a half.

when I opened my first store, at 41 South Wabash avenue, about seven years ago, I went back to the ice-cooled box; not that I was satisfied with the system, but I simply made up my mind that it was something that had to be endured in preference to the ammonia machine. Who among you has not had the annoyance of the ice man calling to fill the box after the store had been arranged for the day, scattering lumps of broken ice all over your clean floor, endangering life or limb; or, at another time when you had bought heavily on the market, the ice man failed to come at all, with the result of loss of stock as well as temper.

mechanical refrigerating system and must say that I was surprised at the strides that had been made in perfecting a system that could be used by florists to advantage.

I continued to keep in touch with this method of icing, and when I opened my second store, at 28 North Michigan avenue, I had the architects install a Kroeschell mechanical refrigerating system. This system has now been running continuously since the first of the year and has exceeded my expectations in every way.

Now, as to comparisons: In both stores I use boxes built by the A. L. Randall Co., of the same average capacity. The ice bill in my Wabash avenue store averages from $150 to $175 per month. The expense of operating the box at my Michigan avenue store averages about $30 per month. At this rate I will save enough in the ice bill alone to pay for the system in fifteen to eighteen months.

Speaking from a financial standpoint, it will be readily seen that machine-cooled boxes are a success, but unless the flowers could be kept as well or better than in ice-cooled boxes, they still would not be practicable. Experimenting with the same kind of roses, such as Premier, I found that those in the machine-cooled box kept longer and developed more efficiently. Garden flowers, however, I found did better in the ice-cooled box, due probably to the fact that there was more moisture. Orchids, also, seemed to do better in the ice-cooled box until I discovered that by keeping them in covered cartons they stood up equally well.

mechanical refrigeration is the fact that, when getting in large quantities of flowers, you can run your machine and cool the box to any degree of temperature you wish. In the case of the ice-cooled box the temperature is raised, thereby spoiling a lot of the flowers that were in the box until the temperature had equalized itself.

Still another feature in favor of mechanical refrigeration is the matter of cleanliness, doing away with the ice man coming at any inconvenient hour. You run the machine as long as you wish and whenever it suits your convenience.

Figuring from any standpoint, everything is in favor of mechanical refrigeration, and I have been so favorably impressed with the showing made in my Michigan avenue store that as soon as arrangements can be made for more space I intend to have a machine installed in my Wabash avenue store.

In closing, permit me to say that I will be pleased to give any member of the Society of American Florists the benefit of my experience and will be glad to assist in any manner that makes for the betterment of the flower industry. Owing to unforeseen circumstances, I am unable to be with you at this meeting, but wish to thank you for your kind consideration, and hope for the continued success of the Society of American Florists.

RETAILER'S EXPERIENCE.

Advantages of Machine.

From my observation and investigation, the saving by means of mechanical refrigeration as against the ice method of refrigeration, though great, is of little importance in comparison with the practicability; therefore, I will point out my findings with practicability in mind. As all my experience has been with the ammonia machines, I will use this type of mechanical refrigeration for data.

Disregarding all other mediums used for mechanical refrigeration, the present successful cooling plant operates with either ammonia or carbon dioxide (carbonic gas). It may safely be said that other gases are in the experimental stage as yet—ninety-five per cent of all refrigerating systems are operated by ammonia; the balance, or five per cent, are operated by carbon dioxide, ethyl chloride and sulphur dioxide.

From actual experience, I find that all flowers put in mechanically cooled refrigerators will develop naturally, but more slowly. In other words, roses such as Premier, which in an icebox remain in bud and later turn blue without opening, will in mechanically cooled boxes, develop. You may judge for yourselves this saving and advantage. Sweet peas, carnations and other flowers that are affected and apt to mold in a moist atmosphere, will remain fresh and crisp with mechanical refrigeration. This is due to the drying of the air by mechanical refrigeration.

Advantages in Store.

You all have noticed the frost on pipes in refrigerator plants; the frost is nothing more than the surplus moisture absorbed out of the air. To illustrate further, especially to the retailers, the advantages of dry air in the cooling box, please consider the bridal work, with its valley, adiantum, ribbons, lace collars, etc. If made up any great length of time in advance and put in an ice-cooled box, it will be entirely wilted, ribbons as well as flowers. I have had a bridal order, complete with all its accessories, lying in our mechanically cooled box for seventy-two hours without flowers, ribbons or laces wilting.

Taking a general check on mechanical refrigeration against ice refrigeration, the writer is satisfied that, with proper circulation, the relative humidity or dampness of the mechanical cooling is over eighty per cent less than ice at corresponding temperatures.

To show additional advantages, I will, with your permission, mention our own concern—Schiller the Florist — which has display boxes and large storage boxes, the temperatures of which can be separately controlled so that at New Year's, St. Valentine's day, Easter, etc., when corsage work is extremely heavy and it becomes necessary to start making corsages and colonial bouquets many hours in advance, we run the temperature of our storage boxes down to 40 degrees, make up and box the orders complete, and place them in the storage box until time for delivery.

This has proved quite satisfactory, as the flowers arrive crisp, dry and cool.

The boxes and paper having been chilled by lying in the storage box for several hours, the flowers can travel en route to destination for a couple of hours before the outside temperature penetrates inside of package.

I believe that 45 to 50 degrees is the proper temperature to carry display boxes, as the shock between that temperature and room temperature will not affect the flowers.

Safety Factor.

The next question is the safety of ammonia machines. Safety being a main factor in operation, it is found that all ammonia plants have, by general ordinance, four safety points; namely, a low-pressure, chain-pull check valve, which operates by chain from an adjoining room, and a high-pressure check valve, operating automatically. In case of trouble or leakage these two safety valves are so placed that the system is stopped and only the leakage of such gas as may be back of either of these valves is allowed.

To guard against neglect on the part of the operator, one may have a 250-pound safety valve between the low-pressure and high-pressure sides of the compression. This pop valve is somewhat like the kind used on boilers and so placed that it cannot be shut off from operation by mistake or accident. This safety valve is installed for the reason that, should the operator forget to open his high-pressure valve ahead of the compression, the only result will be a 250-pound pressure making a short trip back and forth through the pump, and no breakage or accident due to the mistake. As soon as the system is corrected, this valve automatically seats itself under lower pressure and the machine goes back to normal operation.

As a final precaution, the condenser, or receiver, is arranged with a safety valve set at 300 pounds, so placed that a greater pressure will open this valve and send the main charge of the plant out and above the roof of the building, where it can do no harm.

Thus, with the present-day ammonia equipment, it is almost impossible to make any serious mistake.

Convenience.

The subject of convenience is most important. In the first place, with mechanical refrigeration, dirt, sweat and drip are entirely eliminated. You have, also, absolute control of temperature, as with any properly installed machine you can carry temperature at any degree you desire. For instance, for storage of a large quantity of peonies you can run the temperature down to 34 degrees and constantly carry a large reserve stock. Although it does not directly bear on the subject of this paper, I will, however, highly recommend the use of storage boxes in retail establishments.

Comparative Costs.

Now for costs, using 30 degrees as a minimum temperature:

Capacity	Approximate installation cost	Electrical consumption per month	Maximum cooling capacity, cubic feet
One ton	$1,400	$ 18	1,500
Two tons	1,700	28	3,500
Three tons	2,000	33	5,000
Four tons	2,800	40	7,000
Five tons	3,000	50	10,000
Ten tons	4,500	125	30,000

Figure ammonia machines about $8 per ton per year for oil, additional ammonia, etc., and about $15 per ton per year for repairs and upkeep.

Any person with average intelligence can learn the operation of the refrigerating plant in a few days.

An example of the comparative cost between ice and ammonia machines, as proved at our Broadway store—though our ammonia machine is cooling 1,200 cubic feet more than when we used ice, due to our having added a storage box—is given here:

Cost of ice at 40c per hundred:
May, 1921	$ 97.20
June, 1921	145.00
July, 1921	127.20
Cost of electrical current:
May, 1922	$22.60
June, 1922	24.85
July, 1922	29.83

It is the writer's belief that after one has used mechanical refrigeration, he would no more think of going back to ice than a user of motor equipment would care to revert to horse-drawn vehicles.

GROWER'S STANDPOINT.

To Minimize Waste.

The flower grower of today has a real problem on his hands in trying to conduct his business efficiently and profitably. Cost of building and replacement is exceedingly high; also the production and operating expenses, among which labor and coal dominate, are on a basis that leaves little chance for profit. Therefore, among other things, the elimination of waste in all departments is one of the main items that must be given consideration.

Cut flowers, improperly handled in a grower's establishment, are in the same category as highly perishable fruit when left to get overripe and soft, or neglected otherwise on the grower's ranch—both spell waste.

To minimize waste, cut flowers must be cut when ready, handled quickly and placed in a good cooler, particularly during the summer months. It is inconceivable for a butcher to attempt to do business without a refrigerator, yet to me it seems just as necessary to success for a grower of roses, carnations and other perishable crops to have proper cooling facilities.

Having concluded that a cooling system is necessary, the next point to consider is the proper refrigerator and the most practical and adaptable method of refrigeration for a florist's particular use. In refrigerators, it is advisable to get a good one, either built to one's own specifications by a good mechanic or purchased from a concern that knows the essentials of a good florist's box and builds accordingly. There is no satisfaction or economy in skimping on the construction cost, for a well built box, even though it be expensive, will prove to be a far better investment than a cheap one if inferior. In this connection, it is well to consider the advertising phrase and interrogation of a well known automobile manufacturer, "What comes after the purchase price?" In the case of a refrigerator, the upkeep and the expense of maintaining desired temperatures in a properly constructed box is small, whereas the maintenance cost of an inferior box is considerable; besides, it gives no satisfaction.

Varying Cases.

After securing a good refrigerator, it is equally important to choose the most practical method of refrigeration, which may be either natural ice or the mechanical system, depending on local circumstances. Speaking generally and taking all things into consideration, it is my belief that the most adaptable system for growers requiring but small capacity and for those of large capacity who use their refrigerator only for a short period during the year and depend to a considerable extent on the commission merchant's cooling facilities, it is more economical and practical to use natural ice, which is far more simple and fool-proof than the mechanical system. However, for large capacities and fairly steady requirements and continuous operation even in smaller installations, the mechanical method is preferable. It has an advantage in being more flexible than the natural ice system. It is possible to lower the temperature to any desired point. The average commercial grower has a somewhat different condition than the store man, who usually must carry some stock for several days and therefore requires a good cooler twenty-four hours every day in the year.

The practice of many growers is to hold their daily cut twelve to twenty-four hours, and again others ship much of their stock to market as quickly as it is cut and carry over night in a cooler for early morning shipment only small quantities. Also, it must be taken into consideration that most greenhouse establishments have a packing room with good, outside ventilation, which is depended on to carry over stock most of the year and whenever the outside temperature is cool. Because of these circumstances, it is difficult for an expensive mechanical installation to prove to be a profitable investment in many cases. Depreciation on building and machinery, interest on investment and other fixed expenses go on continually, whether the equipment is used fairly continuously and to capacity or not. Simplicity of equipment is also an item that must be given due consideration, since there are usually enough mechanical devices on a place that require a grower's attention and detract from his real occupation. After all, machinery is machinery, and the ice machine and its appurtenances are no exception.

Local Conditions.

Whether a mechanical system or the natural ice system of refrigeration is most adaptable in a particular case must be determined separately in every instance by a careful analysis of requirements and the prevailing local conditions. If the conclusion is that the mechanical system is the more practical for a certain grower's condition and he is ready to consider an installation, then it becomes essential to success for him to choose one that will meet a florist's particular requirement. Some ammonia systems, for instance, are entirely unpractical and hazardous for a florist to use, since a single mishap can ruin more value in stock than the entire cost of a good and safe system. I am of the opinion that among the various mechanical methods, the carbon dioxide system is particularly adapted to a florist's condition.

Whatever method of cooling is used, the advantage of cutting down waste on cut flowers is great and should be encouraged.

If the student has a liking for landscape gardening, he is advised to combine work in that subject with his floricultural courses. As you all know, many florists are now combining a nursery and landscape gardening business with their floricultural establishment. In a similar way students who are specializing in landscape gardening are seeing the advantages of including as much floriculture as possible in their course of study.

Although it is frequently difficult to make a student see that a large amount of work in the field of botany is really desirable, nevertheless it is a subject which should be given greater prominence in floricultural courses of study. For are not many of the practices of the grower in particular based upon principles in botany, especially plant physiology, that phase of the subject dealing with plant functions?

Chemistry is another subject of great importance, especially if the student intends to take up investigational work after graduation; it should be given greater prominence, since it is so intimately connected with our uses of soils and fertilizers.

Unessential Subjects.

And so I might continue with other subjects in the sciences which help to make up a floricultural course of training, but I should like to consider briefly a group of subjects which are sometimes said to be absolutely unessential; namely, the humanities, or as they are frequently called, the cultural subjects. At our institution it is required that every student shall have completed a certain amount of work, during the last two years of his course, in the Division of Humanities and Rural Social Science; this work is in addition to similar courses required in the first two years.

He is allowed a wide range of subjects from which to choose, but he must complete this work. He may elect these courses in the field of economics and sociology, which includes such subjects as Business and Industry, Economic Principles and Problems, Social Institutions and Social Reforms, Public Finance, Taxation, Money, and Banking. Or he may elect courses in history and government, in languages, in rural sociology, in agricultural education, in public speaking, and in various phases of agricultural economics, even to a course in business law. In other words, these courses, in the Humanities and Rural Social Science, are the subjects which will help to make the student a broader-minded man and better fitted to take his place among men in his community. The following paragraph is taken from the report of a committee of instructors in floriculture (of which the speaker was chairman), this report being presented at a meeting of the college florists' section of the S. A. F. at the national flower show in 1922: "One member of the committee says he 'has long felt that we have developed the plant side of floriculture too much and have neglected the business end. In the past we have been trying to develop growers; in the future we should aim to develop business men.' It is evident that the florist or grower of today, to be successful, must practice good business methods, should know how to advertise effectively, and should know what it costs to run his business. To that end our college courses in floriculture should include such subjects, especially if the student expects to branch out into the business for himself." Or, to state the matter differently, the college graduate should not only have received his floricultural training, but he should also have received more or less of a general education. And much of that type of education is provided by the types of courses which have just been mentioned.

The following paragraph is also taken from the same report of the same committee: "Sometimes the agricultural colleges are criticized because they do not turn out 'finished florists.' With our present system of college education it is impossible to train our students to such a degree; neither does it seem desirable that such should be the aim of our departments. It must be constantly borne in mind that the first aim of a college (not a vocational school) is to turn out a man, a man who has received a broad and fundamental education, who is capable of filling the place of a man in his community; it should not be our aim to turn out a man who is a grower only, be it of roses, carnations, violets, sweet peas, or chrysanthemums. If the student has received the proper training, not only is he fitted to become a grower, but he has also received a broadening education." And this is just as true of other subjects taught in an agricultural college, be the man a grower of apples, cows, pigs or hens.

What Student Gains.

Possibly I have taken too much time in telling you what is included in a college course in floriculture, but it seems essential that this should be made clear before attempting to state the advantages of such a training. R. C. Hodgin, a student in floriculture at the University of Illinois, in addressing the Illinois State Florists' Association at its recent session, said: "The aims and objects of a curriculum in floriculture are threefold: First, to enable the student to secure and accumulate the basic principles of floriculture; second, to know how to use them; third, to become a better citizen." I would say that the advantages of a college training in floriculture are at least fourfold and I do not think that I need to discuss these in detail because of what I have said previously.

1. A college course in floriculture provides a study of the sciences upon which floricultural practices are based, in particular the practices of the grower.

2. It provides a study of the principles followed in the floricultural industry, be it in greenhouse heating, greenhouse management, culture of plants, or floral arrangement and decorative work.

3. It provides study of those subjects closely connected with the floricultural industry, such as economics, marketing, advertising, and various other subjects, a knowledge of which is a valuable asset.

4. In addition to the work accomplished in the classroom a college training brings the young man into contact with hundreds of other young men, something which of itself is of great value.

Possibly I can best explain this point by citing a specific case; one day when I was working on this paper I received a letter from a lady, asking about a young man who wishes to become a florist; he must earn at least a part of his way through college; he is twenty years of age, graduated in the spring from a county agricultural high school, is of an extremely quiet nature, has a good mind, and needs much the social advantages of college life. What did she mean? Not what is meant frequently by social life, dancing, theaters, card playing, etc., but the advantages that come with meeting and mingling with men, rubbing up against the other fellow even if his likes may be our dislikes, giving and taking as everyone else must do, entering into sports and various other lines of college activities, all of which help to develop a man, mentally, morally and physically. No man, unless he is a hermit or a recluse, can go through four years of college life without being influenced in one way or another by those with whom he comes in contact. It is true that in some cases these conditions may react to the detriment of the young man; he loses the proper perspective, and consequently puts last things first and first things last; but he would possibly have done the same thing if he had not gone to college. Fortunately, the far greater percentage of college men are not of this type; they come out of college bigger and better men than when they entered.

How Foundation is Laid.

In closing I should like to emphasize two points: First, that a college course in floriculture provides a foundation or grounding in theory accompanied by a certain amount of practice, which we teachers admit should be followed by the application of the theory in practical work. As expressed in the old maxim: "Practice and theory must go together. Practice without theory is mere mechanism; and theory without practice to test and correct it, is idle speculation." We should not expect, nor should the florists expect us to turn out "finished florists" from our institutions; we are trying to give the students the theory; the florists can give them the opportunity to acquire the practice. Nor should the average graduate in floriculture expect a large salary after leaving his university or college. As stated by Professor E. A. White, of Cornell University, "he must remember that every year's experience is adding immensely to his assets, and he may rest assured that in time his financial interest will increase many fold."

Lastly, the fact must be constantly kept in mind that the first aim of a college is to turn out men, men who have received a broad and fundamental education, who are capable of filling the place of men in their communities; it should not be our only aim to turn out men who are growers only. If the students have received the proper training, not only are they fitted to become growers, but they have also received a broadening education which fits them for more in life than their vocation.

In the words of William De Witt Hyde, former president of Bowdoin College: "The function of the college is liberal education, the opening of the mind to the great departments of human interest; the opening of the heart to the great spiritual motives of unselfishness and social service; the opening of the will to opportunity for wise and righteous self-control. Judge it (the college) by its true standard as an agency of liberal education; judge it by its function to make men and women who have wide interests, generous aims and high ideals, and it will vindicate itself as the most efficient means yet devised to take well trained boys and girls from the school and send them either on to the university or out into life with a breadth of intellectual view no subsequent specialization can ever take away; a strength of moral purpose the forces of materialistic selfishness can never break down; a passion for social service neither popular superstition nor political corruption can deflect from its chosen path."

Increase your sales

ONE important detail of your business has an important bearing on increased sales. It is the containers in which cut flowers are displayed. Discriminating florists now use "Fibrotta" Vases. They look like polished mahogany but are inexpensive. Water stays cool in them a long time. They do not chill the water when placed in your refrigerator, since they are non-conductors of heat and cold. Write Cordley & Hayes, 14 Leonard Street, New York, for details.

The Market.

Flowers here are plentiful for the summer season. Business has been about the same as ever in summer. Roses have been scarce, but gladioli have been plentiful. Short asters have been greatly in oversupply. Good asters, however, are scarce and sell well. A few carnations have put in an appearance. Lilies of all varieties are scarce. Easter lilies are bringing $20 per hundred.

Miscellaneous flowers available are delphiniums, gaillardias, buddleias and zinnias.

Florists' Picnic.

The Indiana State Florists' Association held a picnic Wednesday, August 9, at Broad Ripple park, for the members, their wives and their children. There was a general get-together, games of all kinds, plenty of refreshments, a lunch at noon, baseball games, boys' and girls' races, boat rides, steamer rides, ladies' contests, men's contests, and dancing in the evening.

About 250 attended the picnic. The program was well planned and everybody had a good time. A number of members from out in the state attended. Miss Mona Hickman, representing the National Show Gardens, of Spencer, Ind., invited the association to a picnic September 28 at that establishment. The association has also been invited to Terre Haute, Ind., for the December meeting.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Alexander Forbes, Newark, N. J.; secretary, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE lady employees of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, held an outing all their own at Lincoln park Saturday afternoon and evening, August 12.

ALBERT HOPKINS SMITH, treasurer of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, who is motoring in New England with his family, celebrated his forty-eighth birthday anniversary August 16.

C. D. COVENTRY, manager of the wholesale department of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, took a trip last week up into Wisconsin where the "fish bite the best." He returned Monday, August 14.

SPECIFIC DUTIES ON SEEDS?

The Senate, considering the new tariff bill, took action, August 15, on flower seeds, adopting a rate of 6 cents per pound in lieu of the original recommendation of the finance committee of twenty per cent ad valorem. The House rate is 4 cents per pound.

Members of the seed trade have been conferring with the finance committee, senators and others in an effort to secure specific rates of duty throughout instead of ad valorem duties. The Senate has acquiesced in this request and provided also a flat rate of 6 cents per pound instead of twenty per cent ad valorem on the catch-all clause of the paragraph covering "all other garden and field seeds not specifically provided for."

An effort had also been made by domestic flower seed growers to secure a rate of 10 cents per pound on flower seeds. The committee has been making a study of the rates and has come to the conclusion that the 6-cent rate is an appropriate one. T. N. S.

HOLLAND CROP REPORT.

According to the 1922 crop report of Sluis & Groot, Enkhuizen, Holland, growers are on the lookout to spend as little money as possible on labor and other expenses, with the consequence that items requiring much labor are only cultivated on a limited scale. This attitude is, according to the report, due to the abnormal circumstances that are still prevailing and the disproportion between the cost of production and financial results. Moreover, the report states, the severe frosts of the last winter have been fatal for nearly all perennials and biennials; so numberless sorts are entirely lost. The firm's report on the seed crop is as follows:

Dwarf bean—Plantings have been much restricted insofar as foreign varieties are concerned. The acreage devoted to Dutch varieties, covering the Dutch requirements, is insufficient. Prospects may be called rather good.

Pole bean—The conditions surrounding dwarf beans applies to pole beans also. The expensive poles and high wages make the growers more or less reluctant to grow this article.

English bean—Plantings are extremely limited. The stand in general is good.

Beet—Much planting material has been lost; consequently the acreage is small. The stand is rather good.

Brussels sprouts—Much has been lost during the last winter. Some varieties have failed entirely.

Red and white cabbage; savoy—Nearly all has been lost by the severe frost. If there were not some 1921 stock left, there would be hardly anything to sell.

Carrot—Finest varieties have been planted on a small scale. In other varieties the area is limited. The stand is not unsatisfactory.

Cauliflower—The area is normal. The stand is satisfactory

95 Chambers St., NEW YORK

Celery—There are only small plantings. The stand is satisfactory.
Chervil—The crop has entirely failed.
Chicory—There is an uncommonly small acreage. The stand, however, is good.
Cornsalad—There is a small area of Dutch cornsalad, which suffered badly in the severe winter. Other varieties are all failing.
Cress—There is a normal area, with a small stand.
Cucumber—There is only a small acreage. Small patches only of some varieties have been sown. Foreign sorts are failing.
Endive—This is planted on an exceedingly small scale. The stand, however, is good.
Leek—There are no plantings.
Lettuce—There is almost no area.
Mangelwurzel and sugar beet—There is a small acreage. Much planting material was destroyed during the winter. The stand is satisfactory.
Onion—There are small plantings of the Dutch varieties, other varieties almost entirely failing. The stand is good.
Parsley—Nearly all was lost during the winter. What endured looks pretty good.
Parsnip—There are small plantings. The stand, however, is good.
Peas, wrinkled peas and sugar peas—Plantings of the round as well as of the wrinkled varieties are small. The early varieties of sugar peas are sown on a small scale. Generally speaking, the stand may be called satisfactory for all varieties.
Summer and winter radish—There are small plantings. Of many subordinate varieties of summer radish only a small crop will be harvested. Winter radishes are almost failing.
Savory—There is a small acreage. The showing is satisfactory.
Sorrel and scorzonera—There is a limited area, with a fairly good stand.
Spinach—Plantings are normal. The growth may be called partly good. The greater part, however, is backward and has a weak growth.
Swedish turnip or rutabaga—About the same as applies to cabbage.
Swiss chard—Almost entirely failing.
Turnip—Conditions with this are the same as those of cabbage and rutabaga.

DUTCH BULBS RECEIVED.

The season's second consignment of Dutch bulbs arrived at New York harbor on the steamer New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam, August 9. The consignments were made as follows:

Consignee:	Cases

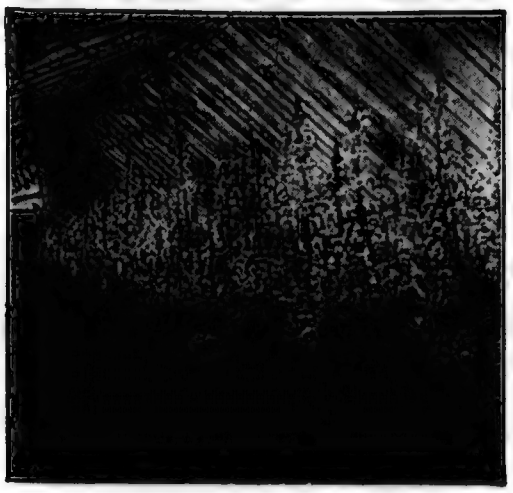
Total	315



The above total, added to the 80 cases of Dutch bulbs reported last week, makes a total of 395 cases received to date.

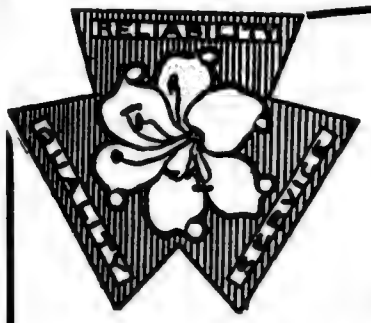
Reference made to shipments received at a corresponding time last year show that the first trip of the New Amsterdam with Dutch bulbs brought 619 cases, as against 80 cases this year. Up until August 13 last year more than 1,223 cases had been received, as against the 395 cases received up until August 9 this year. These figures are only approximate, since some shipments may not have been reported.

VICKS' EMPLOYEES ON OUTINGS.

Within the last thirty days the employees of James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., have been participants in two delightful outings. The pleasure encountered by them on these occasions is described by James A. Wiebens, manager of the wholesale department, in the following words:

"Saturday, July 15, the employees of the office and stores of James Vick's Sons held their annual picnic at the summer home of Irving Briggs, which is located near the lake shore in the Irondequoit section. Mr. and Mrs. Briggs have had the crowd at their home every year and always prove charming hosts.

SNAPDRAGON



BE WISE and have a big supply of Snapdragon the coming winter. There's a reason. Coal will be scarce and high; carnation plants are of poor quality and scarce, and bulb stock, particularly Paper Whites, will be high. Get busy and have a lot of seedling snapdragons ready to fill all empty space. Seed may be sown any time. Plants should be ready to bench in from 60 to 75 days.

The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy Seed

No.

10 KENILWORTH GIANT EXHIBITION is the very finest complete mixture ever sent out. Seed carefully saved only from marked plants of the best varieties, with the largest and best shaped flowers and richest coloring. It is impossible to convey an adequate idea of the delightful variations in color and markings of this unrivaled mixture. Trade pkt., 60c; ⅛ oz., $1.35; ¼ oz., $2.60; ½ oz., $5.00; 1 oz., $10.00; 4 oz., $35.00.

12. KENILWORTH GIANT PRIZE. The enormous flowers are of perfect form and of great substance. Petals overlapped and undulating. The rich colorings and markings are widely varied, some flowers being almost self-colored. Trade pkt., 60c; ⅛ oz., $1.35; ¼ oz., $2.60; ½ oz., $5.00; 1 oz., $10.00; 4 oz., $35.00.

19. TRIMARDEAU GIANT PANSY, improved; it is far superior to the ordinary run of Trimardeau that is sold. It is a very showy class of vigorous, compact growth. Flowers of enormous size in all the self colors, blocked, striped, margined, etc. Trade pkt., 35c; ⅛ oz., 75c; ¼ oz., $1.35; ½ oz., $2.60; 1 oz., $5.00; 4 oz., $18.00.

20. PRINCESS, the New Upright Pansy. This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy velvety texture, on heavy stems, carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors. Trade pkt., 40c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.10; 1 oz., $6.00.

22. GIANT KENILWORTH STRAIN. The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are 3-inch. It is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, medium or dark mixtures. Trade pkt., 40c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.10; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

24 GIANT KENILWORTH SHOW is undoubtedly the largest flowered Pansy in the world; the immense flowers are of circular form. A beautiful collection of colors and markings. Trade pkt., 45c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.80; 1 oz., $7.50; 4 oz., $27.00.

26. GIANT KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE. Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 6 or 7 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well. Trade pkt., 45c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.80; 1 oz., $7.50; 4 oz., $27.00.

No.

28. GIANT MASTERPIECE. A remarkable type, the curled wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance; large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems. Trade pkt., 45c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.80; 1 oz., $7.50; 4 oz., $27.00.

30. GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED. The petals being distinctly marked with three or five large, dark blotches. Trade pkt., 40c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.10; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

32. GIANT PARISIAN. The flowers are of enormous size and beautifully marked, mostly five dark blotches on white and yellow ground; an unusually showy mixture. Trade pkt., 40c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.10; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

34. GIANT BRONZE. A fine mixture of all shades of velvety brown bronze, Havana brown, mahogany and copper shades. Trade pkt., 40c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.10; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

36. TRIUMPH OF GIANT. The plants are of a robust growth and form compact bushes of a round shape. Trade pkt., 40c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.10; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

40. GIANT BATH'S EMPRESS. The finest of fancy English Pansies. Trade pkt., 45c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.80; 1 oz., $7.50.

70. ORCHID-FLOWERED, Mixed. A dwarf, free bloomer, with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other Pansies; a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamois. Trade pkt., 35c; ⅛ oz., 75c; ¼ oz., $1.35; ½ oz., $2.60; 1 oz., $5.00; 4 ozs., $18.00.

New Early Flowering Giant Pansies

They are three to four weeks earlier than other Pansies, in coldframes or field; they have four or five large blossoms, when other Pansies planted at the same time are only showing bud. The richly colored, large, well formed flowers, on long, stiff stems, are very fragrant.

No set program was provided, but we all had a good time doing just what we pleased, including playing ball, swimming and strolling on the beach. There were fifty-one of us out and we all went home tired, but happy.

"George E. Peer attended as our guest and Saturday, August 5, he reciprocated by inviting us all to be his guests at his beautiful country estate, located near the town of Chili. Mr. Peer is an enthusiast in several lines. He has a fine herd of Jersey cattle, of which he is justly proud, and his spacious barns are models of cleanliness and efficiency. He has a wonderful collection of pigeons, including perhaps fifty varieties, all separately housed with individual flies for each variety, and several fancy strains of chickens and pheasants. To say we enjoyed ourselves on this occasion is an inadequate way of expressing how we felt. We played games of every kind and explored the spacious lawns and grounds of the estate, always finding something new and unexpected to add to our enthusiasm. Mr. Peer has explored the far corners of the earth and has brought together many strange and interesting things, including bric-a-brac and porcelain, as well as birds and beasts. Automobiles were provided for the entire party and the

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

"Confidence in ourselves and in each other," observed Manager George L. Kurtzweil, of the Iowa Seed Co., Des Moines, Ia., "has loosened up many a squeeze. Dame Nature has been our lady bountiful this season, and another season under similar conditions will enable us to give an even healthier report of progress." Worthy of note here was a specimen of the Copenhagen cabbage, weighing twenty-two and one-half pounds and measuring fourteen inches in diameter. The proud raiser is desirous to know if this is a world beater. W. M.

CONTRACT NOT FULFILLED.

Holding that there had not been a transfer of title to clover seed grown by the seller, so as to entitle the buyer to sue for its value, as distinguished from a suit for damages for refusal to deliver, the Idaho Supreme court has affirmed judgment for defendants in the case of Portland Seed Co. vs. Clark, 204 Pacific Reporter, 146.

Clark had contracted to sell "about two tons of red clover seed, or all he has on the 40-acre tract across the river. This seed was to be recleaned and in good seamless bags at 28 cents per pound. And loaded when threshed and shipped to Portland." It seems that Clark disposed of the seed to his co-defendant and the seed company sued both as for converting the company's

New Gladiolus ELORA

(Originated by Luther Burbank)

A remarkable very early variety, a seedling from America.

Color, creamy white with rich cream throat on three lower petals, overlaid with dainty featherings of American Beauty pink, giving it just enough color to complete its beauty.

Blooms measure 4½ to 5 inches in diameter, on perfect, slender, stiff stems 4 to 4½ ft. tall. Commenced blooming this year July 7th, 75 days after planting. Very prolific in bulblets, a really wonderful variety for florists.

Only a limited number to be distributed this year, and in order that all growers may have a chance to get a start of Elora, we have decided to limit orders to not more than one dozen. Order now for October delivery.

Price, $1.00 each; $10.00 dozen.

property, $400 of the price having been advanced to Clark. The Supreme court says:

"This was an executory contract—one to be performed in the future. At the date of the contract the clover seed was growing in the field. The seller was required to harvest, thresh, reclean and sack the seed, load the same on cars, and ship it to Portland. Until all of these requirements were complied with by the seller, the title would not pass. . . . The appellant, the seed company, did not show title or right to possession of the clover seed, and cannot maintain this action." S.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

To say the wholesale markets are crowded would be saying it mildly. Considering the long, dry spell and the warm weather, cut stock is of fair quality and there is plenty of everything seasonable. The demand is anything but satisfactory. Both wholesalers and retailers are buying sparingly.

The supply of roses from outside shippers has slightly increased, and the best of them clear fairly well each day. The few carnations coming in are small. Asters take the place of carnations. Gladioli are in large supply and only extra fancies hold up to anything like a fair price. Most of the consignments are of poor quality, causing congested conditions at the wholesale markets.

Florists' Club Meeting.

The St. Louis Florists' Club held its annual meeting August 10 at the greenhouses of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., at Kirkwood, Mo. The features of the meeting included the election of officers, a discussion of the S. A. F. convention trip, the monthly attendance prizes and the entertainment by the host.

The meeting was held in a large tent on the lawn. When President Rowe called the meeting to order, there were sixty present, including all the officers. After disposing of the preliminary business, the trustees said that a final report of the recent picnic would be made at the next meeting and that the next meeting of the club would be held at Kirkwood, this time at the greenhouses of the W. A. Rowe Co.

A letter from the Kansas City florists was read, inviting all members to the Kansas City convention.

The committee on the applications for membership of Roland Bredemeyer, C. K. Masbach and Henry Siebenthal reported favorably and a motion prevailed that these be elected by ballot cast by the secretary for all.

The trustees were requested to prepare for the compiling of a new membership roster, since the increasing membership had outgrown the old one.

The election of officers came next and the following were elected to office: President, Frank A. Windler; vice-president, Oscar Ruff; secretary, J. J. Beneke; treasurer, William C. Smith. J. J. Bentzen was elected a 3-year-term trustee, the hold-over trustees being A. W. Gumz and L. Baumann.

Treasurer Smith's report showed a healthy balance to the club's credit.

The drawing for attendance prizes was handled by Oscar May, Julius Schaeffer and Trustee Gumz. The winners were William Patton and Herman Gross. Both were absent, so they cannot claim the prizes.

President Rowe, who will entertain the members for the September meeting, announced that not only were all the members invited, but that they should bring their families with them.

For the good of the club, J. F. Ammann spoke on the fall flower show and urged all chairmen of committees to attend a meeting of the executive board the first Tuesday in September.

H. C. Irish, who will have charge of the fruit exhibit during the show, said that his preliminary list would be out in a few days for mailing and that it contained $1,600 in premiums.

After a discussion on several questions the meeting adjourned; after this all were invited to a fine lunch.

Three hearty cheers were given for the host as the long line of automobiles started for the city, after the fun was over.

Various Notes.

The ninth annual picnic of the St. Louis County Growers' Association will take place August 24, at Lake Hill park, in St. Louis county. The committee in charge has all arrrangements completed. Many valuable prizes have been donated from members in the trade for the games and amusements. The committee in charge says all in the trade are invited to attend and bring their families. There will be plenty of good fishing, boating and dancing all day.

E. P. Griffin, superintendent of parks, East St. Louis, Ill., and secretary of the American Institute of Park Executives, is preparing to leave for the meeting of the executives, at Minneapolis, Minn., August 19 to 24. A large party from St. Louis has promised to attend, some going direct from Kansas City after the S. A. F. convention.

George Pieser, head of the George H. Pieser Wholesale Floral Co., which recently opened for business, says that since the opening, business has been satisfactory, considering that these are the dullest months in the year.

rived in St. Louis in their big touring car August 12, and spent Saturday and Sunday in the city, leaving August 13 for Kansas City to attend the S. A. F. convention.

Prof. H. C. Irish will be at Sedalia, Mo., all of next week, attending the Missouri state fair. He will again have charge of the floricultural department and is looking for many exhibits from our local cut flower growers and plantsmen, if promises hold good.

Edwin Juengel, until recently in charge of his mother's florists' establishment on South Fourteenth street, has taken a position with Grimm & Gorly.

F. H. Weber has changed his plans as to a motor trip east and will, with his family, travel west to Yellowstone park, starting from Kansas City after the S. A. F. convention.

W. H. Kruse, with his family, has left for an extended eastern trip by motor to spend the balance of the summer.

Those from out of town who attended the Florists' Club meeting, August 10, were M. F. Widmer, Highland, Ill.; A. C. Ahrens, O'Fallon, Ill.; Gust Grossart, Belleville, Ill.; George Madsen, Alton, Ill.; J. F. Ammann and Henry Blixen, Edwardsville, Ill., and W. E. Ogle, Belleville, Ill.

Frank A. Windler, president-elect, and Oscar Ruff, vice-president-elect of the Florists' Club, have become golfing fans. Both are in daily practice with George Kuehner, W. A. Rowe and A. W. Gumz at the Kirkwood golf links. All expected to enter the S. A. F. golf tournament at Kansas City, Mo.

George H. Pring, horticulturist at the Missouri Botanical Garden, reports that he has succeeded in the cultivation of a pure white water lily which is ten inches across. He says the only other known pure white lily is only four inches across. Paul A. Kohl, floriculturist at the garden, expected to exhibit them at the S. A. F. convention this week and have them judged.

J. J. Bentzen, of the Bentzen Floral Co., who was elected chairman of the trustees of the Florists' Club August 10, is known as a hustler and a glutton for work. He, with A. W. Gumz and Louis Baumann, will make things interesting at all club meetings the coming year.

The St. Louis party which left here Monday night, August 14, on a special for the convention city, included Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Berning, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar May, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pilcher, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gumz, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Blixen, Mr. and Mrs. L. Baumann, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Beneke, Mrs. T. Diemer, Mrs. M. Krum, George H. NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

NEW JERSEY NURSERYMEN.

About seventy-five nurserymen gathered at the Dreer Nurseries, Riverton, N. J., Tuesday morning, August 8, for the meeting of the New Jersey Nurserymen's Association. There were a number of Pennsylvanians present. Fred Dosman made an interesting address on "The Credit System and the Best Methods of Disposing of Stock." This was followed by a general discussion. A pleasant luncheon followed at the Lawn House, on the Delaware river. After luncheon the party visited the Federal Experiment Station, at Cinnaminson, where the work was explained by C. H. Hadley, Mr. Smith, D. R. Moore and Mr. Leach. The Pomona Nurseries of E. T. Steel were then visited. A delightful afternoon closed with visits to the nurseries of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., at Riverton, Spring House and Locust Farm. Phil.

NOTED IN WISCONSIN.

The Beloit Nurseries, Inc., Beloit, Wis., adopted a capital plan in placing large labels with the names of stock plainly printed, so passers-by may read as they pass, though more often they stop to admire. An octagon-shaped bed in the foreground, with a fountain playing in the center, is unique and attractive. To advertise the landscape department, some examples of the art are shown in various ways on a miniature scale. General business is reported steadily on the increase.

The McKay Nursery Co., Waterloo, Wis., makes an attractive display around the railroad station. It is publicity of the best kind. The head office, at Madison, Wis., reports an excellent season, with bright prospects for fall business W. M.

PENNSYLVANIA NURSERYMEN.

At Midsummer Meeting.

For the last half dozen years or more the Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Association has spent a summer's day in the field and grounds of some member. This year the annual outing was held Thursday, August 10, at the nurseries of B. F. Barr & Co., Lancaster, Pa.

The early part of the forenoon was given over to visiting points of interest in Lancaster. Later, about forty members motored to the nurseries of J. W. Root, at Manheim, Pa., where large blocks of apples and other fruits, evergreens and shrubs formed the center of attraction. The stock was in fine shape and particular comment was made on the skill and care evidenced in the cultivation.

Soon after 12 o'clock the visiting nurseryman assembled at the Rossmere hotel for dinner.

The afternoon session was held at the office of B. F. Barr & Co. While the midsummer meeting is not the annual meeting of the association, a considerable amount of business was transacted which will have an important bearing on the future of the nursery industry in the state of Pennsylvania.

The state horticultural department was represented by Prof. P. G. Sanders, director of the bureau of plant industry, who outlined with extreme care the policy of the department in relation to the control of plant diseases and injurious insects. The bureau is endeavoring to work in entire harmony with the nurserymen, to the end that the trade may be benefited rather than injured, by the steps taken to control the various pests, and that the buying public may receive clean nursery stock.

Business Transacted.

Dr. J. M. Rule, of the state educational department, told the nurserymen that they had a wonderful opportunity to assist in building scientific education in the public schools of the state. Dr. Rule suggested that the members of the association arrange with the local school authorities for a "visiting day," whereby pupils of the public schools might spend several hours in the nurseries, under the direction of a competent instructor, thus giving the pupils first-hand information about plants and trees and the various methods of propagating.

The forthcoming centennial of American independence, to be celebrated in Philadelphia in 1925, was discussed by Mr. McElwee, who is in charge of Fairmount park. It is the thought of the commission in charge of the centennial that the horticultural interests of the state be well represented. After considerable discussion, President Barr was empowered to appoint a committee to take up the whole subject and report to the executive committee. The com

Florists, Beware of Crooks!

Warning is issued to all florists in this vicinity to be on the watch for some person or persons who are attempting to secure flowers under assumed names. Several of the trade during the last two weeks have received phone requests for both large and small orders to be delivered to various addresses and on delivery it has been found that either no such person lives at the address or the person accepting the flowers has stated that the addressee is out and will return in a short while.

The matter was reported to the club secretary, Ralph Deans, and investigations started have revealed that apparently one person has been working on a large scale under several names and has secured large amounts of flowers. It is requested that any order that is phoned to any florist in this section that is not known to be from a customer who has credit standing be watched carefully, and be reported t o Ralph Deans promptly. Vigorous action will be taken, if prompt notification is given.

Various Notes.

Mrs. Janie Greene, of the Anshultz Nursery, is mourning the loss of her husband. Mrs. Greene is one of the popular members of the Florists' Club and all members have extended their utmost sympathy to her in her loss.

Miss Mann has gone to the north Georgian mountains for her vacation, and Mrs. Lyons has returned to duty with the Stallings sales forces.

The West View Greenhouses are making extensive alterations and repairs to their range of glass.

Many of the growers are considering the use of oil in their boilers, due to the scarcity of coal. If any users of oil among the growers will communicate their experiences with this fuel to the Atlanta Florists' Club, Ralph Deans, secretary, it will be greatly appreciated.

Irving Greshem, of West View, has challenged Thomas Joy, of Nashville, to a golf match and a large crowd will be on hand to witness the game. At the nineteenth hole it will be decided which, or whether both, will challenge D. C. Horgan, of Macon, to decide the championship of the Georgia florists. If there are any other golfers who think that they can properly uphold the best traditions of the "Say It with Flowers" society and can enter the matches and help Greshem and Joy to stand up against D. C. Horgan, they are asked to get their names into the netry list.

Miss Lawrence, of the Lawrence Floral Co., has returned from the mountains, after spending two weeks away from Atlanta. While she had a fine trip, she wants to keep in touch with the store and cannot get far away.

J. G. Barrow, auditor of Wachendorff's, has returned from his vacation.

HYDRANGEAS, Otaksa and French

Our customers, and growers locally, know that we have unusual success in flowering the Otaksa. We believe there are three main essentials; first proper cuttings, then early growth, and later, ripening.

We take early, long cuttings and then grow the plants in field under a sprinkler system and insure a strong, early growth. Our field is sloping, so that in July and August we can, even in a wet season, gradually ripen up the plants and properly condition them for flowering. Our cool Minnesota nights also insure a sturdy growth.

We offer these plants set with from four to eight shoots for buds, direct from field at $25.00 per 100. The plants are large, heavy stock and require 5½ and 6-inch pots.

The French flower easily. We have correspondingly good stock which can be potted in 5 and 5½-inch pots, direct from field at $20.00 per 100.

Orders will need to be received during the next two or three weeks in order to get plants direct from the field.

off on an automobile trip to the "land of the sky" in his new Hupmobile. He states that he hopes to learn as much about one kind of critter as he has not been able to learn about another kind, which has been troubling him this summer in his houses.

Mrs. Henry Meinert, of Marietta, has completed her new house, which will double the capacity of her range for general plants this year.

Rollin Lyons and Samuel Gibbs decided their entry lists last week with a match at the West End Golf Club, incidentally also deciding the August club match, and both are in fine shape. Gibbs, with his new club, is getting long distances. They hope to be in great shape to help out Greshem and Joy.

Ellis the Florist, of Griffin, expects to move to his new location of about ten acres in September. He promises the trade even finer sweet peas this year than he has previously grown.

J. L. Hoffman & Co. have moved their offices from the Candler annex to 368 Peachtree street, where they have secured much larger quarters.

R. H. Russell, of J. P. Russell & Sons, is a happy daddy and states that little Miss Russell, who arrived last week, is already talking to him about more and larger greenhouses.

J. Nephew, who dropped out of the growing business some years ago, has felt the call again and has completed his general plant house at Smyrna.

Ten new members "rode the greenhouse ridge" at the last meeting, August 7, of the Atlanta Florists' Club. This makes a membership of eighty-four and it is expected that with new applications coming in the century mark will soon be reached and passed.

Our sister state, North Carolina, has done the right thing in organizing a strong state association and why does not Georgia do the same thing? There is really no reason for not having a strong body, and with the men that are engaged in the growing business that we have in this state, one of the best of organizations can quickly come into being.

Why do not such men as D. C. Horgan, Logan Thompson, J. T. Keheley, E. A. Wachendorff and C. J. Wachendorff, A. C. Oelschig and John Wolf appoint the time for a meeting? There is no question but that the response will be quick. The younger men of the state naturally look to such men as these for leadership, and are wondering why, with all the push and energy with which these representative men have built their business, now that their associates are relieving them of a great deal of the details, they cannot find time to give this badly needed association the right care and start. The Market.

Business last week was a little less trying than the previous week, although there is still an oversupply of gladioli and asters. The height of the gladiolus crop is just about past, but there will, no doubt, be gladioli in the market until frost. There have been sufficient roses in the market to meet the demand, the quality being good for this time of the year. Carnations are practically off the market, although there are a few coming in daily. Asters are taking the place of carnations nicely. Daily shipments of Easter lilies are being received and move out fairly well. In green goods, the daily demand is about the same for ferns, Sprengeri and plumosus.

The Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardener's Club held its annual picnic Wednesday, August 9, at the grounds of the Allegheny Athletic Association, commonly known as Turners' park, at Perrysville, and although the crowd in attendance was not so large as that of last year's picnic, the picnic was highly successful from every point of view. About 250 to 300 were in attendance, the majority of whom remained until the last strains of the "home waltz" were played at 10 p. m. were likewise; in fact, the best ever selected by the club for any of its annual affairs. Turners' park is only about a half hour's ride by automobile from the city and embraces a tract of ninety-six acres, with a perfect ball ground and athletic field, a large and up-to-date dancing pavilion and an ideal picnic grove. We are indebted to Julius Ludwig, who obtained for us such a splendid site, and it is hoped that the picnic committee in future years will make the same selection.

The feature of the day, of course, was the baseball game between teams picked and captained by Homer Wood and William Thompson, the former winning by a score of 14 to 4. One of the high spots of the game was an artistic slide to first base on the part of Julius Ludwig. However, Julius suddenly became near-sighted and pulled his slide a little too soon, as he was still about fifteen feet from first base after he came to a full stop and the dust had cleared away. After receiving medical attention from some of our lady attendants, he was able to reenter the game a short time later. William Thompson and George McCallum had a head-on collision at second base when Thompson attempted to steal from first, but were not sufficiently injured to receive the same treatment accorded Julius. A disbudding knife was presented to each player on the winning team, with compliments of the McCallum Co. The game was interesting throughout and displayed more than average ability among the participants, especially in the "swatting" line.

Other contests were as follows:

Broad jump—J. P. Sauers
Men's race—William Barnes.
Ladies' race—Betty Kost.
Ladies' ball throwing contest—Dorothy Smith.
Girls' race, under 15 years—Dorothy Smith.
Boys' race, under 15 years—William Klein.
Boys' ball throwing contest—James Morrison.

William Usinger had no opponents for a fat man's race, so this feature was omitted.

Al Morrison was the heaviest rooter for both sides at the ball game, and did a good service by announcing the batters as they appeared at the plate.

Charles Ulmer took good care of the ladies during the dancing.

Many of the old-timers were on hand, including E. C. Ludwig, Edward Blend, William Loew, Al Klein, Carl Lindroth, M. Barnett, John Walley, Frank Zak, Herman Zieger, Ed Niggel, Bert and Charles Smith and several others.

To defray expenses, voluntary subscriptions are solicited. Those who wish to contribute may send their checks to J. C. Walley, Zelienople, Pa. Any amount will be welcome.

Dave Hill & Co. will open their new store, at the corner of Fifth and Wood streets, September 15. Dave B. Hill, proprietor, has left on an extended tour in his machine. He will travel all through the New England states, where many of his florist friends are located. The new location of the store carries a 10-year lease and it is expected that the place will do an excellent business.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

HOT WATER OR STEAM?

I have a greenhouse, 12x50 feet, with two and one-half feet of glass in the side walls. The house runs north and south. Both ends are of glass, and the walls, ends and roof are of double glass, with a 1¼-inch air space. The temperature to be maintained is 60 degrees when the outside temperature is zero. How large a boiler will be required, and how should the pipes be arranged? Would you recommend hot water or steam? S. G.—O.

Although steam may be used for heating the house described above, it would be preferable to use hot water in your case. While the cost of installation for hot water is greater, since more radiation will be needed, there will be a considerable saving in fuel and labor as compared with a steam system.

The boiler should have a grate about twenty inches in diameter, with a rating of about 500 square feet of radiation for hot water and 300 square feet for steam.

For heating the house with hot water, run a 2½-inch flow pipe on each side wall plate, and connect each flow pipe with three 2-inch returns. To heat the house with steam, use one 2-inch flow pipe under the ridge and three 1¼-inch return pipes on each side wall, or under each side bench.

Double glazing not only allows soot and dust to collect between the glass, but lessens the amount of light and heat that can be secured from the sun; hence, it is not recommended.

FROM STEAM TO HOT WATER.

We are installing a Kroeschell hot water boiler to heat our greenhouses, changing our system from steam to hot water. The two new houses are respectively nineteen and twenty feet wide, and the lean-to is 6x60 feet. We have been advised to use twelve 2-inch pipes in one house, thirteen 2-inch pipes in the other and six 2-inch pipes in the lean-to. What arrangement would you advise? R. G.—Ill.

It is impossible to give a definite reply to the above question, owing to the incomplete data furnished. Before determining the number of the returns and the number and size of the flow pipes, the temperature desired must be known, the amount of glass in the side walls and the length of the house.

If the houses are not to exceed 100 feet in length and have three feet of glass in each side wall, it would be advisable to use twelve 2-inch returns and three 2½-inch flow pipes in the narrow house, and thirteen returns in the wider house, with one 2½-inch flow and six returns in the lean-to. This should give

Kroeschell Dependable Hot Water Boilers

With your houses equipped with a Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler you need not fear that your crops will be hurt by low temperature. Under adverse weather conditions, when crops are in most danger, it is easy to regulate temperatures with Kroeschell Boilers.

That Kroeschell Boilers are the safest and most economical, has been proved by their country-wide use in large and small establishments, owned by the wisest growers, where only the best of equipment is used, and where the best of stock is raised.

60 degrees when the outside temperature is 10 degrees below zero, with 10 degrees of bottom heat in the lean-to, which we infer is to be used as a propagating house.

For a house 100 to 150 feet, use two more flow pipes and two less returns. Place one flow pipe on each side wall plate and one under the ridge in the longer houses, which should have five flows. Carry one flow on the purlin posts, or suspended from the purlins if a trussed roof is used. Use four of the returns for a coil on each side wall or under the side benches, and distribute the others under the other benches. If five flows are used, place two returns in each coil, except in the wide house, where there will be three to connect with one of the flow pipes. This may be on the side wall most exposed.

In the propagating house the flow may be either on the inside wall or on the plate. Unless the lean-to is to be used as a propagating house, four returns in addition to the flow pipe should give 60 degrees.

USING WOOD AS FUEL.

I have a greenhouse, 12x24 feet; the height to the gable is eight feet. The foundation of the greenhouse is two feet high; there are three feet of glass in the south side and two feet in the north side. The north side of the roof is boarded up. I should like to grow carnations. The outside temperature goes as low as 35 degrees below zero in this locality. It is cheaper to burn wood than coal here. My dwelling house is thirty-five feet from the greenhouse. There are five rooms below and five rooms above, with a radiator in each room. I have the hot water system of heating. Can I change the system to the use of steam without a great deal of expense? M. C. McD.—Minn.

It is advised that you use hot water for heating the greenhouse, especially if wood is to be used as fuel.

From the above description it is clear that there is no glass on the north slope of the roof, but we are not sure whether glass or wood has been used for the walls below the plate, or as to the construction of the ends of the greenhouse.

If the only glass is in one side of the roof, it will be possible to heat the house warm enough for growing carnations by running a 2½-inch flow pipe on each side wall plate and connecting the flow on the north wall with three 2-inch returns and the flow on the south wall with four returns.

In case the house has glass in the side walls, it would be advisable to use, in addition to the above, one 2-inch flow pipe under the ridge and two 2-inch returns about five feet from the south wall.

We doubt the advisability of changing from hot water to steam for heating the dwelling. If the present radiation is all that is required for maintaining the desired temperature with hot water, it will be about forty per cent more than will be needed for steam heating. The radiators, themselves, should answer for use with hot water, but the air valves should be placed at about the middle of one end of the heater, instead of near the top, as at present.

It is possible that the present piping will answer for steam heating, but the expansion tank should be cut off.

Just what changes will be required in the boiler to adapt it for steam heating, it is impossible to say without knowing the style of boiler used, but with many boilers it is only necessary to replace the upper section with a steam dome and provide a water column, a steam gauge and a safety valve.

ENAMELING HEATING PIPES.

Is it possible to use specification enamel in painting steam pipes without having the fumes injure the plants? I have a sufficient quantity of this enamel on hand to do the work, but wish to be sure first that it is not going to work a detriment to my stock.

S. G.—Kan.

Specification enamel may be used with safety upon heating pipes, so far as the giving off of fumes which would be injurious to plants is concerned, but anything which gives a smooth, glossy surface tends to lessen the efficiency of the radiation.

Equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine, sufficient lampblack being added to make a thin paint, have been used with satisfactory results. If care is taken thoroughly to coat the pipes and fittings, this combination makes a durable covering, and although not as attractive as a coating of enamel, it gives a neat appearance to the pipes and adds to rather than detracts from their efficiency, since the radiating surface is actually increased.

The Market.

Business continues slow; in fact, it seems to be slightly worse this summer than in former years, according to several retailers, but the continued strikes may have something to do with this condition. Many retailers are taking advantage of this condition by slipping away on well-earned vacations, leaving their stores in charge of some employee who can be trusted.

Gladioli and asters continue to be the main supply on the market, the rose crop being away off, while an occasional carnation finds its way into the market.

Stock of all kinds is hard to move, as there is little business and many farmers grow stock and peddle it to the retailer at little or nothing, making it almost impossible for the wholesaler to compete with them. Garden flowers and fancy ferns at present are arriving in excellent quality and the price is low.

Various Notes.

At the last meeting of the Florists' Club the following officers were nominated for the ensuing year: President, Fred Witthuhn and Carl Hagenburger; first vice-president, Frank Kirchner and Walter Witthuhn; second vice-president, B. Braswitz; secretary, Hugh Charlesworth; treasurer, Kenneth Wilson. The election of officers will take place at the next meeting, when a little "feed" will be put on. Everybody should come and help to elect.

Established 37 years

WORCESTER, MASS.

Midsummer dullness still affects the market. Funeral work is scarce. Decorative material is not much called for. Frugality in buying is being practiced by all the members of the trade. Gladioli are still a drug on the market and have about as much value as a German mark. The retailers and growers are marking time, however, and will be ready when the call comes. Outdoor flowers will be at their best in a few days.

Randall's Flower Shop is gorgeous in its display of gladioli of first-class quality.

Mr. Maher, superintendent at H. F. Littlefield's, is spending a prolonged vacation in and around Bath, Me.

The weekly exhibition of the Worcester Horticultural Society was held Thursday, August 10. The flowers, fruit and vegetables exhibited were all that could be expected.

The season is fine for sowing seeds and transplanting stock. We are having showers every few days.

Nurserymen are already sending out stock. E. A.

NEWARK, N. J.

Gladioli and asters are most plentiful here at present. Roses and a number of other flowers are used for special orders. Ferns and other green stock play a great part in window displays.

McLaughlin & Murphy, 181 Clinton avenue, report business good for this season of the year. Most business, however, consists of funeral work.

The Market.

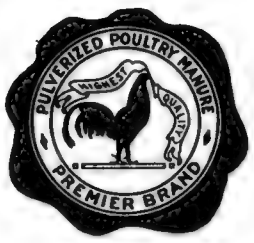
Stock of all kinds moves slowly and only the best of the gladioli can be sold at all. Most of the second-grade gladioli are left over and have to be thrown away. The retailers can buy all they want of the best at from $2 to $6 per hundred and make their own selections. Pendleton, Schwaben, Francis King and Peace seem to be of better quality than some of the other varieties coming in.

Rubrum lilies and others are being received in large quantities, but there is practically no demand for them. Prices are declared to be extremely low and the retailer can take his pick of the stock at from $2 to $6 per hundred.

Good roses have been moving fairly well. The best in the lot are Russell, Mock and Columbia. There is an occasional call for valley, but the orders must be transmitted to some other city, because there is no local stock.

Marigolds, zinnias, snapdragons, delphiniums and other fall flowers are being sold in large quantities, but at low prices. Some dahlias are coming in and are considered good for this season of the year. Prices on these are low and the wholesalers are glad to dispose of them at whatever they can get.

Various Notes.



Amelia and Granville Gude and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gude left Washington at 3 a. m. August 11 in their Hudson sedan for Kansas City, where they will attend the convention. William F. Gude was compelled to forego the pleasure of attending the convention this year, due to a press of work, for with the big retail flower business of Gude Bros. Co., the early removal of the firm to new quarters, and Mr. Gude's membership in the District of Columbia rent commission, he was unable to leave the city. Mr. Gude also had an invitation from the Canadian Horticultural Society to attend its convention in Montreal this week. The same reasons prevented his going to that place.

Henry Eichhold, carnation specialist of Waynesboro, Pa., called on some of the local growers here last week.

Francis Hart, of the sales force at the Shaffer store, has returned from a two weeks' vacation, spent at Colonial Beach.

Business is still suffering with the lethargy and inaction of midsummer, with no improvement. Gladioli are used principally for sprays and funeral work, although asters run a close second. Carnations are so small and poor that they are not much in demand. Sweet peas are deteriorating, due to the heavy rains and high winds. Roses are poor in quality and the supply is limited. Lilium rubrum and L. album are to be had, but Harrisii lilies are scarce and high. Asparagus plumosus is still hard to get.

Various Notes.

The annual picnic of the Florists' Association was held August 9, at Manitou beach. There was not a large attendance, owing to the cool weather, and a large number of the florists and employees were out of town on vacations. A dinner was served at the Manitou hotel, which was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huber are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby daughter, Betty Agnes, born August 2.

George B. Hart is spending his vacation at Prince Edward Island.

Lillian Wheeler will spend her vacation at Long Island and New York city.

Hugo Teute has finished cutting his early asters, some 50,000. His new range of glass is ready for the planting of the 16,000 carnation plants for winter blooming. He has 6,000 cyclamen plants in bloom.

John Dunbar reports that the gladioli at Highland park are the best they have ever been. There are forty or more varieties and twenty-five to thirty plants of each variety.

John Vollmer has returned from his vacation.

Mrs. De Kline, Miss Stevens and Herbert Stringer, of George B. Hart's force, are enjoying their vacations.

Hammond's Thrip Juice

Registered

A Concentrated Liquid Insecticide for use against many Sucking Insects on Plants, Trees, Vines.

IN USE SINCE 1883 BY FLORISTS.

SOME SUCKING INSECTS MAGNIFIED THRIP

This is a contact insecticide. It was first used in 1883 for the Vine Hopper (or Thrip) on Grape Vines, the Aphis or Lice, Thrip, some Caterpillars, Soft Scale, and certain other insects of this class, on Roses, Carnations, Chrysanthemums, Grapes, Cherry Trees and Apple Trees.

DIRECTIONS—Shake Well Before Taking From Can—The generally accepted strength for use is one part Thrip Juice to forty of soft water, well stirred. Spray or syringe.

Beacon, N. Y.
Gentlemen:
In regard to your letter of Nov. 23, 1921, and information as to the use of Thrip Juice, I will say that I bought it for cyclamen to prevent red spider or thrips. I might have had red spider or thrips, I don't know, but I have none on the cyclamen today. I have used this about once a week as a preventive.

Yours truly,
Louis Kirch.

Dear Sir.
We are pleased to say that no Thrip, Red Spider or Aphis will do harm to carnations, chrysanthemums or any growing crops if Thrip Juice is used faithfully.

Yours very truly,
Fred A. Danker.

Gentlemen:
Your favor of Nov. 23d, duly to hand and in reply will say that we have used Hammond's Thrip Juice, especially on cyclamen. We find it the most satisfactory insecticide for Thrip and Red Spider.

Yours very truly,
J. A. Peterson.

The Market.

Business here last week was a little less trying than the week previous. There is an oversupply of asters and gladioli. Prices run all the way from $2 to $4 per hundred on the best gladioli. Asters are arriving in good condition and the price is holding up fairly well for the best.

Roses are plentiful at any price. Premier and Russell are the ones in heaviest crop. Some fine Easter lilies are arriving. Zinnias, coreopsis and larkspur form a veritable glut on the market.

Various Notes.

Everyone here seems pleased with the Sunday closing idea. A considerable number from here attended the S. A. F. convention at Kansas City.

Among the out-of-town visitors last week were J. H. Baker, of Olympia, Wash.; H. C. Neubrand, of the Roman J. Irwin Co., New York; A. Alberts, of the Florists' Credit Association, Chicago; Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., Philadelphia; Lawrence Pollworth, Milwaukee, and Charles Edgar, of the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh.

The annual picnic of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Florists' Club will be held at Krug park August 25.

Fort Wayne is being visited by a hot wave and the trade is glad to get away from business, which is dull, owing to the strike situation.

A new boiler is being installed by the Knecht-Freese Greenhouse. F. J. Knecht is confined to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Doswell and Mr. and Mrs. George Doswell, Jr., motored to Chicago to spend a few days among the shops and florists.

The Blossom Floral Co. is showing some fine astermums now, which find a ready sale. Saturday of last week was a red letter day with this firm, as business was extraordinarily good for the summer season. S. N.

FOLLOWING IS COPY OF A RECENT LETTER FROM THE MILES CO.

"We thought you would be interested to know our opinion of the Bolens Power Hoe we bought of you.

Our man declares it is the best thing we ever did, when we bought the Bolens, and we will say without exaggeration that he can do as much in one day as he used to do in three and the exceedingly small expense of running it is one of its good features.

The clean condition of our grounds and the healthy look of the crop has been the admiration of visitors. They wondered how we could keep it so clean until we showed them the tractor.

We con-ider it one of our greatest assets. We also want to thank you for your prompt service."

Kuhls' Elastic Glazing Composition

It is light gray in color and the only glazing material that can be applied with the hands the same as putty, and will not stick. It retains its elasticity indefinitely and prevents breakage of glass. Withstands heat, cold and dampness and will adhere to wood, iron, stone, etc. Beds perfectly and lasts as long as the glass lasts. If the glass breaks, Elastic Glazing Composition can be cut out without injury to the wood, as it remains flexible.

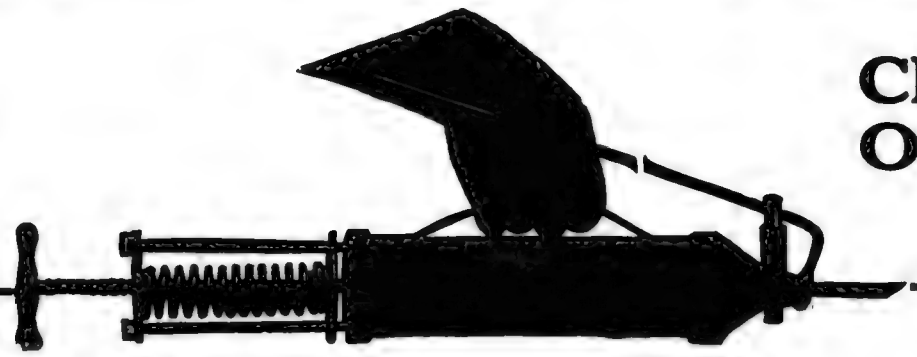
EVERTITE
GLAZING CEMENT

For all Glazing — new work, tightening leaky roofs and repairing broken glass.



Applied easily, quickly and economically with the new "Oh Boy" automatic glazing gun.

EVERTIGHT GLAZING CEMENT remains elastic at all times — forming a waterproof and airtight joint over the sashbar. It will stand the extreme expansion and contraction that a greenhouse is subject to and will not check or crack — nor will it harden. It lasts from five to ten years.

Mail us your name and address and we will send you full information.

ST. PAUL AND MINNEAPOLIS.

August is always a dull month in business in this locality. Vacations are in order and the growers are finishing their planting and doing odd jobs. Gladioli have been plentiful, but of none too good quality. Outdoor flowers have been plentiful.

A fine gladiolus show was staged at Bird Island August 11 to 12. About 125 vases were shown in some seventy-five different varieties. More and more these small shows are creating interest in larger shows and flowers in general.

St. Paul market gardeners will hold their summer picnic at University Farm August 19.

Over 100 members of the state horicultural society took advantage of visiting day at the state fruit farm August 11. Many varieties of plums were ripening. Some of these plums are rapidly taking the place of standard plums.

The annual picnic of the Minnesota State Florists' Association and the Minneapolis club was held at Wildwood August 8. There was a large attendance and all had a good time. Games, boating, bowling, etc., were much enjoyed. Minneapolis won the tug of war and St. Paul won the bowling contests.

The John R. Bather Co., Clinton, Ia., has a wonderful display of gladioli and Japanese lilies in baskets and vases. Both windows and store present a fine picture and one can understand, when told by Mrs. Bather that the demand keeps up well through the summer season, the chief reason why it flourishes. Mr. Bather is unable to attend the convention, but is on the qui vive for the report in The Review.

Gentlemen:

Last July you sent us a small sample of Ajax glazing cement which we gave a thorough trial and found efficient. We would like for you to ship us by express collect, one 10 gal. kit. We will remit to you promptly upon receipt of material.

Very truly yours,

Superintendent in Charge.

JEM:MP

Ajax Glazing Cement is a more efficient sealing material than putty because it seeps and penetrates into the smallest cracks and crevices, effectually stopping up the thousands of voids thru which warm air escapes. The warm air cannot get out—and the cold air cannot get in.

Incidentally this cement is far more economical than putty because it lasts longer and the first cost is lower. As a water-proofing cement Ajax is unsurpassed.

Our product is a combination of Canadian Asbestos Fibres, Asphaltum and semi-drying vegetable oils. It contains no coal tar or derivatives and is free from objectionable odors.

The Ajax glazing method is simple and easy—no clumsy, heavy application gun is used. The only tools required are a bulber or two, and a gun for filling same—which we supply free with barrel and half-barrel orders.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.
LARGE SUPPLY. QUALITY GUARANTEED.

OUR GUARANTEE.
We deliver Mum rooted cuttings parcel post free of charge up to the 6th zone, or 1400 miles from Geneva, and guarantee safe delivery. Stock not satisfactory when received may be returned at once and money refunded, or slight difficulties will be adjusted and you keep the stock. Outside this territory stock travels at buyer's risk and expense.

If we are short any varieties ordered will use our best judgment in supplying kinds just as good unless you state, "Do not substitute" or give second choice.

The quality of our stock is best shown by the fact that all our this season's business has gone out under the above guarantee and we have had to replace less than 100 plants.

CYCLAMEN PLANTS
READY NOW.

We can emphatically recommend them as a superior grade of plants, inasmuch as we have specialized On CYCLAMEN for years and have constantly improved our strain and methods of growing.

Through the use of a specially prepared compost, we have produced wonderful root action and a fine foliage, in fact we have never produced a finer lot of plants of the very best known varieties.

We have broken all records this year in the sale of plants and seedlings and have even shipped in full carload lots to eastern points.

Our plants positively have no trace or sign of the mite or any other diseases CYCLAMEN are subject to.

WHITE HYBRID DELPHINIUMS.
Several years ago Wm. Toole, Sr., discovered a plant among some Delphinium Formosum which bore pure white flowers. Since then he has crossed them with choice hybrids and selected from the best of these.
In general habit of growth they are like a good strain of hybrids of the blue color. Some of them are double though most are single, some have dark centers but most are pure white.
The plants we offer have all been selected and marked while in flower and no inferior specimens are sent out.
Price for strong selected plants, carefully packed, 35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100, $225.00 per 1000.

routine business was transacted. The plans for the annual ball at the beach were discussed and John T. Allan was appointed floor manager for the event.

The committee appointed to represent the association in judging the school gardens made a lengthy report. The committee on awards will commence the making of awards for the home gardens within a few days, the unusually large number of entries that have come in insuring an especially active competition.

It was announced that the dates for the annual fall show, to be held in the parish house of the First Presbyterian church, are September 6 and 7, instead of September 7 and 8, as had been previously announced. The premium lists have been prepared for the exhibition and are ready for distribution.

Various Notes.

Wenham the Florist has been especially busy the past few weeks on decorations of tables for dinner parties.

Leikens & Co. had the decorations for the bride's home for the recent Cary-Burden wedding. They used Columbia roses principally. W. H. M.

Wauwatosa, Wis.—The greenhouses formerly conducted by the H. A. Myers Co. have been sold to Roscoe Godfrey, who has taken charge of them.

FOLEY

A salute to the trade—

—and that is about the same as saying "Hello, old friends," for the whole trade knows the Foleys, the Foley greenhouses and the Foley way of doing business. But—

—we've got a new home—a brand new greenhouse manufacturing plant. Everything in it is designed and built from the ground up for just one thing—the manufacturing of the best built greenhouses on the market. Daylight in every cubic inch of this huge plant—fresh air everywhere, but—

Only 40 MINUTES from the Heart of Chicago

King GREENHOUSES

"Firsts" mean larger profits

It is the first quality flowers that are in demand every time, regardless of whether you're growing for the wholesale or retail trade. You can't make a real profit on one or a few hundred firsts; it's quantity that determines the amount of your profit. King greenhouses produce quantity as well as quality.

If you are thinking about a new greenhouse, now is the time to act, while there is still time to build and erect a house before the snow flies. There are bulletins illustrating King Semi-Iron, Pipe Iron frame and Steel frame greenhouses. Tell us what you are interested in and we shall be glad to send one or all three bulletins immediately upon receiving your letter.

When you think of good greenhouses, think of KING.

The Calvary Cemetery Greenhouse at Toledo, Ohio

It is a generally recognized fact that the buying and building in connection with all Catholic Institutions is conducted in a most careful, thorough manner. It has been so ever since the days of the early century monasteries.

Reverend Karl J. Atier is the director of Calvary Cemetery at Toledo, O. He decided on a Lord & Burnham greenhouse only after a thorough investigation and comparison.

He purchased not only a greenhouse. He made an investment.
An investment that he is assured will have the least possible repair expense and will give the highest possible production yield.

It has been our privilege to build for a great many Catholic Cemeteries and Institutions all over the country.

If interested, we will gladly send you photographs of some of them.

OIL BURNERS

With the purpose of looking after the interests of our customers, we have for the last two years been making careful investigation of different Oil Burning Outfits.
Only recently have we been able to satisfy ourselves sufficiently on the merits of any burners, to recommend them.
Write us now, and give us the size and type of your boilers, and we will put you in touch with the manufacturers of the Oil Burning Outfit best suited to your needs.

WINTER-FLOWERING
SWEET PEA
"GRENADIER"

What a Satisfied Customer Says

Mr. Pochelon, proprietor of the Bemb Floral Co., and well known F. T. D. florist of Detroit, Mich., states as follows:

"A few years ago I commenced to sell Narcissus Paper Whites, Grandiflora type, starting with a few cases. Now, my sales have increased to such a proportion that 50,000 has been my usual order, and is increasing every year.

"I arrange them in many attractive ways. To some I sell dry bulbs, which the buyer plants in cut-glass bowls, or other wares that suit. Some I start in bowls and sell bulbs and bowl together. Many of my customers buy 25, 50 and 100 bulbs and plant at different times, to enable them to have flowers right up to Easter, the first starting to bloom Thanksgiving time and having blooms all during the winter."

New Black Glazed BOWLS
For Narcissus Culture

We offer a very attractive bowl in three sizes. First size, four inches, holding from 3 to 4 bulbs, price $25.00 per hundred.

Second size, holding from 5 to 7 bulbs, price $35.00 per hundred.

Third size, holding from 10 to 12 bulbs, price $50.00 per hundred.

NOTE: We will supply a sample dozen of one or all of above named sizes at prices quoted.

Early or Winter-flowering SWEET PEAS

Early Grenadier (Novelty). This is the most brilliant Sweet Pea yet introduced. A true early, everblooming type, of robust habit. The color may best be described as a glowing poppy scarlet; synonymous with the late flowering variety, "The Cardinal." All in all, it is a wonderful addition to the new group of Early Flowering Spencers. Grown under glass when temperature ranged from 95° to 100°, this grand variety did not show the least tendency to burn.

Per oz., $2.00; per ¼ lb., $6.00.

We have some 60 other up-to-the-minute varieties. Complete list mailed for the asking.

Christmas Lilies, Paper White Narcissus Bulbs

WATER CULTURE IN THE HOUSE

Many varieties of Narcissus bulbs can be used besides Paper Whites. A. M. Kirby in the Book "Daffodils and How to Grow Them" (Doubleday, Page & Co., Publishers, New York), recommends the following for Water Culture in the house or for pot culture. I grow them.

Princeps—Flower of good size, perianth light sulphur, yellow trumpet.

Victoria—Immense flowers of ideal form, forces easily and is earlier than any other high-class bicolor, petals creamy white outside but snowy white inside, bright yellow trumpet, very large and broad, beautifully flanged and frilled at the mouth.

Horsfieldii—Similar to Victoria.

Sir Watkin—One of the best, largest and freest bloomers of the incomparabiles section, very early, flowers five inches across, wide spreading petals are pale yellow, cup bright yellow frequently tinged with orange.

Emperor—Everybody knows the Emperor.

Minnie Hume—Distinct and beautiful, large and broad, pure white petals and a widely expanded pale lemon cup passing to pure white.

Glory of Leiden—A giant seedling resembling but superior to Emperor.

Mme. Plemp—A beautiful bicolor.

Orange Phoenix—Large double flowers, white petals with an orange center.

Sulphur Phoenix—Very large double flowers of white with sulphur colored center.

Mme. de Graaff—A distinct free blooming Leedsii, broad white imbricated petals, broadly expanded cup cream yellow, often suffused with orange or terra cotta, usually bears two flowers to a stem, very effective and highly scented.

Barrii Conspicuus—Queen of the Chalice Cups, strong robust grower and very free bloomer, flowers are large, of refined and beautiful form and splendid substance, lasting in water longer than almost any other Narcissus. Broad soft yellow petals, short wide mouthed, cup of yellow with a distinct rim of orange scarlet.

Poeticus Ornatus—Early free flowering, robust growing variety with large handsome round white petalled flowers and yellow cups brimmed with red, three to four weeks earlier. It forces easily if grown cool.

Why Worry About French Bulbs?

I have large stocks of Barrii Conspicuus and bicolor Victoria and moderate stocks of the other varieties named.

I also grow Paper Whites on a small scale.

I regard any one of the above varieties as the equal if not the superior of Paper Whites for house culture and they may be planted outdoors after they have finished blooming in the house.

Write me for prices and be certain to give me an estimate of the amount of each variety you can use.

Remember Them?

—at the Indianapolis Show

There were 12 of those big fellows, some with 140 flowers on them as big as your head. They all came from here. That Cleveland expert, Lars Anderson, grew them.

We have more of those big ones from the field at $7.50 apiece, and commercial sizes, any amount from 4, 5, 6, 7-inch pots and larger—your favorite variety, by the thousand.

Our last year's stock was very good. Some claimed, "Not a blind shoot in them," and this year's stock looks just as good if not better. No secret in growing them, just common sense. Anderson grows 18,000 and has not enough blind wood for cuttings—got to buy them and buys them here.

OUR FALL

We take this opportunity to advise our many friends and customers that we have prepared a much larger and finer stock of Craig Specialties for immediate or future delivery. Any grower having room would do well at this time to stock up on Craig Quality Crotons, Dracaenas, Arecas, Cyclamen, Ferns, Pandanus

CROTONS

The Croton, with its highly colored foliage, is indispensable during fall and winter. We have the largest and most complete collection of Crotons in the world, carrying at the present time for fall sales over 50,000 in 100 varieties, all of the very highest quality and brilliantly colored.

Immediate Delivery

4-inch pots, strong plants, $12 per doz., $75 per 100.
5-inch pots, strong plants, $15 and $18 per dozen.
6-inch pots, strong plants, $24 and $30 per dozen.
7 and 8-inch pots, strong plants, $4, $5 and $6 each.
10-inch pots, strong plants, $7.50 and $10 each.
12 and 14-inch pots, specimen plants, $15, $20 and $25 each.

CROTONS (NARROW LEAF TYPE)

Delicatissima, Golden Thread and Florence

These varieties are indispensable for table decoration and we predict a great future for them, as nothing surpasses them for use in artistic arrangement.

4-inch pots, $12 per dozen, $75 per 100.
5-inch pots, $18 per dozen.
6-inch pots, $24 per dozen.

CROTON PUNCTATA

One of the finest and most satisfactory varieties for basket work and centers of ferneries.

2½-inch pots, $20 per 100, $175 per 1000.
3-inch pots, $35 per 100.
4-inch pots, $50 per 100.

Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this fall and winter. We know our stock will please you and your customer.

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table, and funeral work. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year.

Very highly colored sprays at 50c each; cut leaves, $5 per 100.

When you have orders for funeral or table work, "out of the ordinary," order Craig's Cut Crotons.

DRACAENAS

There is no variety of foliage plant so attractive as the highly colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Christmas baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in the country.

DRACAENA GODSEFFIANA

Green and white leaf, very hardy, fine for baskets.

2½-inch pots, $20 per 100; 3-inch pots, $35 per 100; 4-inch pots, $60 per 100.

DRACAENA WARNECKII (NEW)

Silver and green leaf. Very durable.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

S. A. F. FINDS GOOD IN QUARANTINE 37

Though three years ago the Society of American Florists condemned quarantine 37, opinion has changed on the part of so many, through its subsequent effects on the trade's business, that the Kansas City convention of the society declared it to be "not an unmixed evil."

CLOSING days of the S. A. F. convention at Kansas City last week, hot though they were, were filled with the transaction of much business, most noteworthy among which was the passage of a resolution at the final session which demonstrated a decided change of attitude on the part of the society—or of those members, at least, there represented—with regard to quarantine 37. Compromise measure though it was, the resolution declared that "the society does not, as a body, wish to condemn quarantine 37 as an unmixed evil." The resolution was adopted as the result of the discussion following the report of the tariff and legislation committee. When this report was read—by Secretary Young, in the absence of James McHutchison, chairman of the committee, at present in hospital at Waverley, Mass., in consequence of severe injuries received in an automobile accident—it was at once apparent that its statements relating to quarantine 37 were not concurred in by all those present. E. G. Hill asked for the floor and repeated the statement he had made at the quarantine conference at Washington, May 15, that seventy per cent of the florists west of the Allegheny mountains were in favor of the quarantine. He stated his belief that quarantine 37 had been of great material benefit to growers, though it had curtailed the business of importers.

Joseph Manda declared the orchid growers had not been benefited; indeed, their business had almost been ruined. He thought that, in fairness, the entry of orchid species should be permitted. Wallace R. Pierson declared himself in favor of the quarantine, and Roy F. Wilcox declared the great investments in California—he said a million and a half kentias were in course of production and several million roses—must be protected, and it would be contrary to best American interests to remove the quarantine. Peter Pearson undertook to explain the attitude of the growers of bulbous plants toward the quarantine. So late was the hour, however, that it was voted to lay the subject on the table for further discussion at a later session, in order that the regular program of the Wednesday morning session could be carried out.

At the final session, Thursday afternoon, the discussion was, therefore, resumed. A. L. Miller, the only member of the tariff and legislation committee present, stated that the report represented the sincere opinion of men, highly esteemed in the profession, who had been appointed to the committee and that the hard work and great amount of time they had devoted to the matter of quarantine 37 made their report deserving of the society's approval and support.

President Pennock asked that, owing to the pressure of unfinished business, each speaker take the floor only once and make his remarks as concise as possible.

To bring the matter to a head, J. C. Vaughan presented a short resolution, which stated that the society upheld the attitude taken by the tariff and legislation committee and asked the federal horticultural board for the relief from the quarantine measures requested by the committee at the conference in

May. Although this was seconded emphatically by Walter E. Cook, of Cleveland, it appeared evident that it did not express the prevailing sentiment of the meeting. J. F. Ammann called the attention of the chair to the fact that a previous motion had the floor, in reference to the adoption of the committee's report. To refresh everyone's mind, the report of the committee was reread. Roy F. Wilcox then moved that the report be laid on the table, inasmuch as those paragraphs relating to quarantine 37 did not represent the views of the society. In his remarks seconding the motion, Wallace R. Pierson attacked the right of the committee to represent itself as speaking for the entire society.

W. H. Culp, of Wichita, Kan., arose to offer a substitute resolution which would acknowledge the society's indebtedness to the committee for its hard work and at the same time make clear the society's lack of approval of the committee's attitude. Roy F. Wilcox, upon request, withdrew his motion so that Mr. Culp's substitute motion might be voted upon. He at the same time seconded the Culp resolution. A. L. Miller arose to repeat his protest against the attitude of the federal horticultural board, but admitted that the trade wanted a quarantine. "We want a quarantine," he said. E. G. Hill took the floor to state that, so far as he was concerned, the matter was not a clash of persons, but of the policies for the trade's advancement. He deplored the introduction of personalities into the discussion and hoped none of his remarks had been taken in that light. Since it was desired to bring the discussion to a head, the Culp resolution was reread, so that it might be voted upon. It was as follows:

Whereas the committee on tariff and legislation in its annual report to this society has to a certain degree condemned quarantine 37 and its administration by the federal horticultural board, and whereas the report of this committee must become a part of the record of this meeting of the society; therefore, be it resolved that, while we do not question the sincerity or integrity of the members of the committee on tariff and legislation, this society does not, as a body, wish to condemn quarantine 37 as an unmixed evil and therefore cannot endorse the report of said committee in its attitude regarding quarantine 37 and its administration by the federal horticultural board.

When the question was put to vote, the ayes were loud. A few vociferous noes responded to the chair's request for a negative vote, but were so decidedly outnumbered that President Pennock declared the resolution carried without a poll vote.

After the resolution had been carried, J. C. Vaughan moved that a vote of sympathy be sent to James McHutchison, and Philip Breitmeyer suggested that flowers be used to convey the message. The motion was unanimously carried.

Crowded Program.

Much other business and the papers scheduled for presentation and discussion made the last two days of the Kansas City convention fully occupied by long sessions, despite the heat.

Wednesday morning were read the committee reports held over from the previous day's session. Fred A. Wilson, chairman of the committee on education, presented his resignation, stating that although he had himself evolved some definite ideas along the lines of the committee's work, he was unable to get the support of the other members of the committee which he thought it necessary to obtain to make it true committee work. It was suggested from the floor that since committee chairmen usually do all the work, Mr. Wilson be continued on his committee and be asked to report to the board of directors in detail regarding his ideas.

William F. Gude's and F. R. Pierson's reports were read, as printed in last week's issue of The Review. Each received a vote of thanks upon its acceptance.

The society's botanist received no inquiry during the year, nor had the pathologist been called upon. The entomologist reported but one inquiry. President Pennock thought more use might be made of these three officials.

The chairman of the finance committee, H. P. Knoble, stated that a budget of the society's expenses for 1922 had been drawn up, amounting to a total of $15,300. The income for the year was expected to be $16,000. Up to July 1 the society had spent $8,534.29, of which $6,385.40 were regular expenditures, likely to be duplicated in the second half of the year, making it probable that the total disbursements for the year would be approximately $15,000, or within the committee's budget. Secretary Young remarked that he doubted if all members understood how sound was the society's financial position, there being in its various funds at the present time a total of $80,000.

The report of J. Horace McFarland, as chairman of the committee on nomenclature, which was presented in last week's issue of The Review, was heard with interest, since the general impression was that the Official Catalogue of Standardized Plant Names, now in course of completion, would be a volume highly desired by members of the trade.

The discussion regarding the report of the tariff and legislation committee, as remarked above, was deferred so that the address might be heard of W. L. A. Johnson, commissioner of the Southwestern Interstate Coal Operators' Association, on "The Coal Situation." This valuable exposition of conditions in the mining industry appears on an other page of this issue. In the discussion that followed, it was considered desirable to refer the matter to a committee of three, which should draw up resolutions for presentation to the United States fuel administration, to be passed upon at a later session. At the Thursday afternoon session, such a resolution was presented by Wallace R. Pierson, as chairman of the committee, whose other members were Joseph Kohout and Joseph W. Heacock. Upon the suggestion of H. D. Schiller, the resolution was altered in order to make it still more emphatic, and in this form was passed unanimously. The resolution, addressed to the United States fuel administration, read as follows:

We, the Society of American Florists, in convention assembled at Kansas City, Mo., August 17, 1922, do hereby respectfully call your attention to the serious menace to the life of our industry brought about by the withholding of fuel due to the reported rulings with reference to the supplying of fuel to florists. We wish to call attention to the fact that our industry is not comparable to any other industry, in view of the perishable nature of our greenhouse contents. We wish your body to realize that lack of fuel will not merely hamper our industry, but freezing conditions will mean total loss, not only of crops in growth, but would cause a loss of plants that we have been many years in growing. It would cause the loss of varieties that could not be replaced, and such losses would affect not only our present business, but would entail losses of plant material which could never be replaced. We do not believe that any other industry would be totally ruined by the lack of fuel for even a few hours, but the case is such with the florists of our northern localities. We believe that the present classification of our industry is not warranted by existing conditions and call to your attention the fact that as loyal Americans we willingly accepted the reduced coal rations. We believe that today the preservation of American business is of vital importance and that those industries which would suffer most should receive first consideration.

The figures covering the magnitude of our industry are readily available to your body, as compiled by the last census, and this immense glass area and investment produces not only floricultural products, but vegetables and other food essentials.

In view of the fact that this emergency exists in our industry, we respectfully request that your body recognize that the life and continuation of our industry is dependent upon prompt action by your body, and we trust that such relief in the way of classification be made that our industry shall be allowed to receive the coal supply upon which we are so dependent. And we also request that our society may have the ruling of your body at an early date and that such ruling will be definite and clear and establish beyond doubt the right of our industry to remain a valuable asset to American business.

Further Reports.

At the Wednesday afternoon session, President Pennock handed over the gavel to Thomas Roland, as chairman of the committee on the revision of the by-laws, while the proposed amendments were read and discussed. These amendments were printed in The Review of July 20, in connection with the convention program. Mr. Roland explained that they were all technical in character, not affecting the society fundamentally, except the two which require that in future the secretary shall be elected by the board of directors and not by the popular vote of the society. W. A. Manda spoke emphatically against this change, but when the vote was counted Thursday morning it was found that all the amendments, including the recommendation that the society contribute $2,500 to the national publicity fund, had been carried by a wide margin. In most cases the votes in opposition were few, the largest being with regard to the two amendments which change the manner of the secretary's election, but even on this the vote was approximately four to one in favor of the amendments.

Publicity.

In the absence of the chairman, Henry Penn, Secretary Young read the report of the national publicity committee, which was followed by the report of George Asmus, as chairman of the finance subcommittee.

Samuel M. Kinney, of the division of commercial research of the advertising department of the Curtis Publishing Co., Philadelphia, delivered an instructive talk about present conditions in relation to national advertising. He stated that present indications point to an increased purchasing power on the part of the farmer, which, in turn, affects all the other industries of the country. He showed by charts the purchases made in an agricultural community during the recent boom and more recently since the slump, pointing out that the curtailment was not so large as many persons thought. He indicated also that the commodities most purchased, aside from necessities, were those most advertised. In clothing, he pointed out the value of using a medium which covered the possible buying market most completely and showed its low cost, either by comparison with salesmen's expenses or direct mail advertising.

George Stumpp read a paper prepared by him, indicating ways in which the national publicity campaign fell short of its possible achievement and enumerating ways in which it could be improved. He stressed most strongly the use of large-sized advertisements.

Major O'Keefe, in his talk, said he welcomed the suggestions of Mr. Stumpp, since they were the first from the trade the national publicity committee had received in its four years of work. Major O'Keefe reiterated the remarks he had delivered on preceding occasions in regard to the national campaign, and declared it a crime that funds were not forthcoming in larger sums, so that the society's advertising could be carried out on a more extensive scale. J. F. Ammann, however, took exception to the criticisms made of the national publicity campaign, believing that the procedure was not at fault, but rather its limitation because of the lack of larger funds.

Peter Pearson, president of the Commercial Flower Growers of Chicago, told how the local coöperative campaign in his city had been taken over by the growers, who have increased their contribution from one-half to one per cent, and stated that $60,000 was expected to be collected in Chicago during the coming year, whereas $32,000 had been collected under the former plan.

A motion of R. C. Kerr to approve the course of action of the national publicity committee and the schedule laid down by it for contributions was unanimously carried.

Wednesday Evening Session.

At the Wednesday evening session, the short but able paper on "A Standard System of Accounting for Florists," prepared by H. T. Spangler and published in last week's issue of The Review, was read and, after some discussion, was ordered referred to a committee for consideration and report.

Prof. Clark T. Thayer, of Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, read a paper on "The Advantage of a Floricultural Training," which appeared in last week's Review. This was reinforced by the remarks of Thomas Roland, on "Floricultural Training for Young Men from a Florist's Viewpoint," which also appeared in last week's Review.

Joseph J. Lane, in behalf of Robert Pyle, president of the American Rose Society, called to the attention of members of the S. A. F. the advantages to be had by membership in the Rose Society and urged their participation.

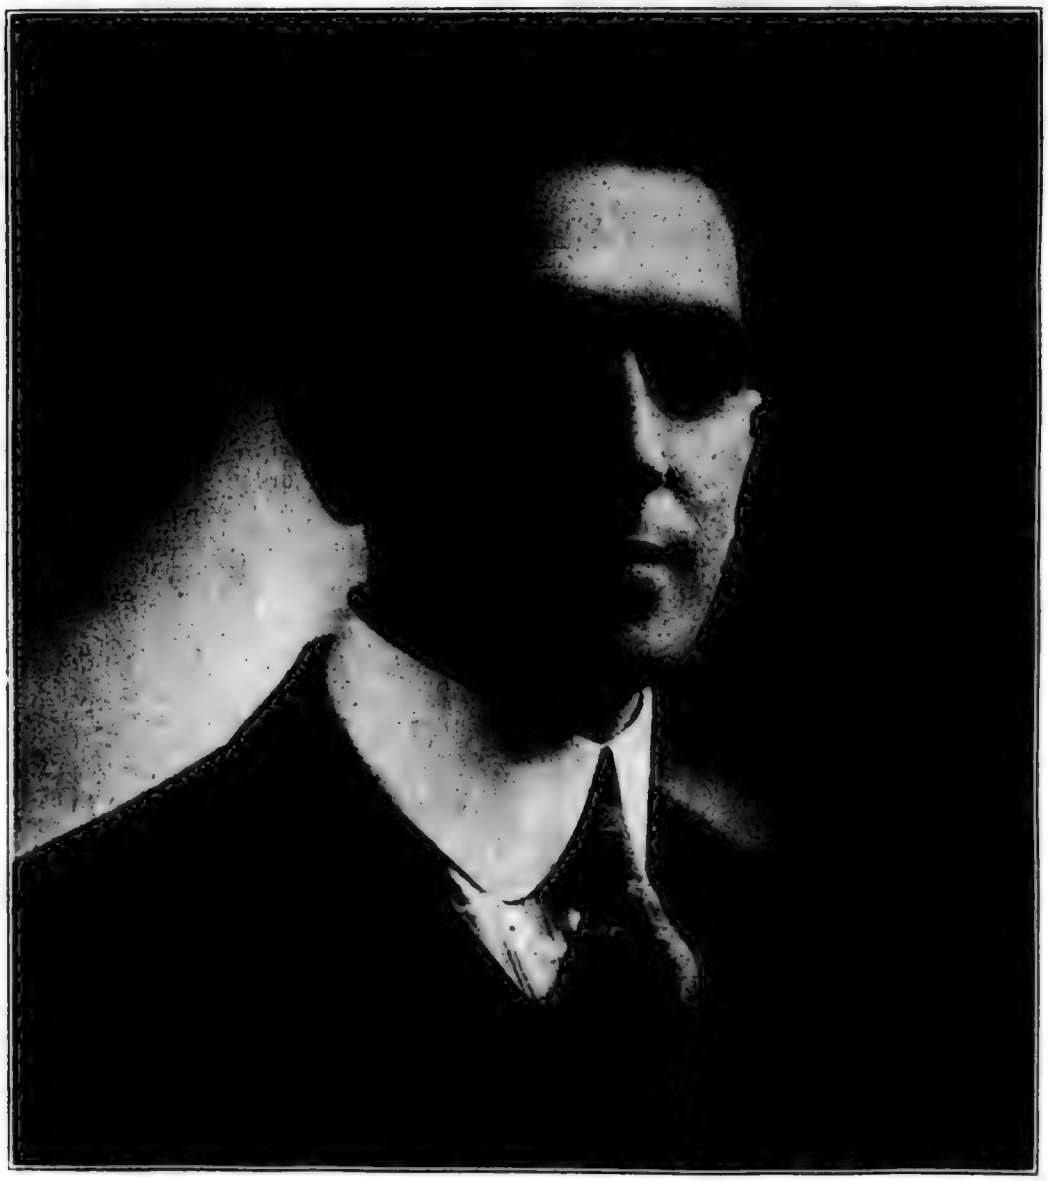
The meeting was adjourned early, so that those present might attend either the bowling tournament or the reception given at the Hotel Muehlebach by the Ladies' S. A. F.

Thursday Morning.

After the balloting Thursday morning, a convention session was held, at 11 a. m., when the reports of the committees on trade exhibits were received. These appear in another column.

A letter was read from James A. McLaughlin, which stated that in his term of office as president of the Cleveland Florists' Club, now drawing to a close, his campaign to secure 100 additional members had already been successful. He said he thought the national society had received about twenty members out of the drive. A resolution of appreciation of such energetic work was moved by Secretary Young and seconded by Thomas Roland, being carried unanimously.

George Asmus presented the report of the committee on the president's address, which included, besides himself, Thomas Roland, A. L. Miller, Frank H. Traendly and J. C. Vaughan. The committee's report, which was unanimously carried, was as follows:



We advise that the president's suggestion regarding the multiple membership publicity plan be referred to your publicity committee.

We endorse the suggestion for an annual national show to be held in various sections of the country where conditions are practical.

We approve of and suggest the sending of an official representative of our society annually to the annual meetings of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association.

We urge that a suitable letter of protest to Secretary Wallace, of the United States Department of Agriculture, be prepared, approved by your president and sent, protesting against the non-recognition of our organization on the jury at the recent conference and against the insinuation in the conference report that the chairman of our tariff committee did not represent our organization.

We approve the suggestion of instructions to vice-presidents and agree that an informatory letter covering important details of the work of these state officers should be prepared and sent to all annually by your secretary. The above covers your president's suggestion regarding our work contributing to the beautifying of the grounds of reformatory institutions in the various states.

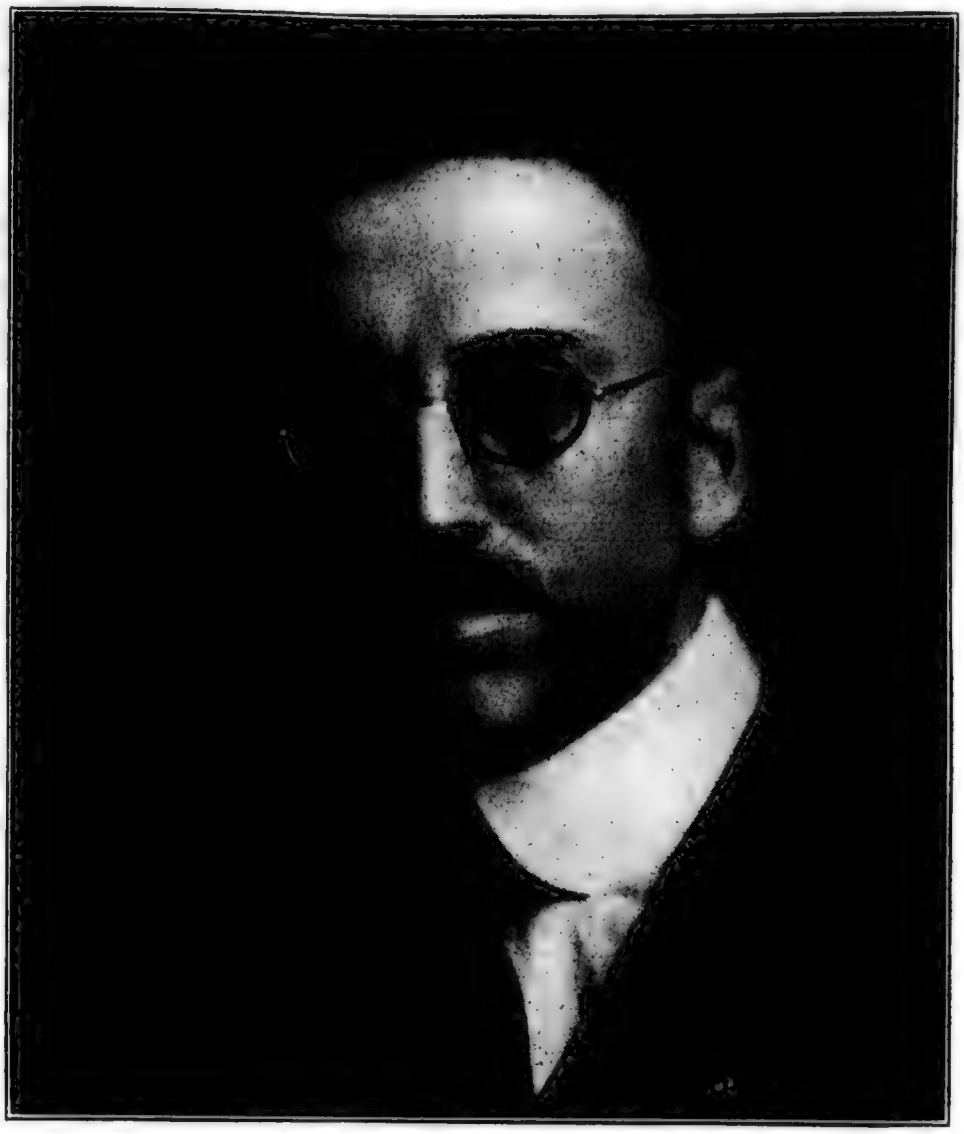
Recognizing the importance of more frequent meetings of your executive committee, we approve the president's recommendation for the adoption of amendment No. 4.

We recommend the appointment of a committee of three to consider and report to the executive board regarding the suggested cost accounting system.

The need of general reduction in express rates is conceded by all and your committee appointed yesterday should have the full and active support of all members, each contributing any known particulars regarding excess charges or mishandling of perishables known to them likely to be of advantage to your express committee.

Save the Wild Flowers.

A letter was read from Mrs. Fanny D. Farwell, chairman of the wild flower committee of the Garden Clubs of America, asking that the society approve and support the campaign to preserve the wild flowers, carried on by this organization and the Wild Flower Preservation Society. The letter reminded members of the fact that Carbone, of Boston, and the E. Wienhoeber Co., Chicago, two of the foremost retail firms of the country, had announced their intention of selling no more wild flowers. Thomas Roland moved that a letter be sent, offering the society's service and coöperation in support of the movement.



The four papers on refrigeration published in last week's issue of The Review, by Percy B. Rigby, Otto H. Amling, George Wienhoeber and H. D. Schiller, were read at this time, having been held over from the Wednesday morning session.

Peter Pearson, as chairman of the committee on Dutch bulbs, moved that a resolution be sent to the Dutch Bulb Exporters' Association, in Holland, condemning the practice of unloading their surplus bulbs on this market. Upon being seconded by S. S. Skidelsky, his motion was unanimously carried.

The committee on memorial resolutions then presented its report, which was read while the members of the society stood. It included the names of all those members of the society who had been claimed by death since last year's convention, as noted in Secretary Young's report.

Aftermath of Indianapolis.

When George Asmus had finished reading his report as chairman of the national flower show committee, showing how the Indianapolis show had retrieved the committee's reputation and finances, President Pennock called Irwin Bertermann to the chair. Mr. Bertermann asked to the platform those who had assisted him so ably at the Indianapolis show, his request being answered by A. F. J. Baur and L. E. Hitz. Then Mr. Bertermann expressed the appreciation, from himself and the Indianapolis florists, the national flower show committee and the Society of American Florists, of the contribution to the show and the example set by Thomas Roland in staging the notable exhibit of acacias at Indianapolis. He said the exhibit itself was a wonderful collection, full of interest to the public and trade alike, but he thought even more of it as significant of Mr. Roland's devotion to the trade's and the society's interests and as an example for other members to follow. As a token of this sentiment, he presented to Mr. Roland a silver goblet service. The audience applauded the gift warmly, rising to cheer the recipient. Thomas Roland, in reply, declared that he had merely done his part and had had at his command resources which enabled him to do a little more than another. But he thought that all his brother florists would have done the same, had they been able, and he received the gift not so much for himself but as a token to all those who supported the national flower show for their loyalty and service. The silver goblet service was much admired as congratulations were showered upon Mr. Roland.

Roy F. Wilcox.
(Last Week Elected Director of the Society of American Florists.)

This ceremonial was followed by the presentation to George Asmus by President Pennock of the society's gold medal, awarded him by the board of directors at its meeting last spring, as one who had done much for the advancement of the trade and of the society. Mr. Asmus likewise acknowledged receipt in a modest vein and expressed his high pleasure in this reward for his service.

Election Returns.

At the opening of the Thursday afternoon, and final, session of the convention, the results of the ballots cast in the morning were announced by the judge of election, Charles P. Mueller. He stated 286 votes had been cast. Of this Irwin Bertermann had received 164 and C. C. Pollworth, 122.

Upon being called to the platform by President Pennock, Irwin Bertermann thanked the members of the society for the honor bestowed upon him and promised his utmost to fulfill the responsibilities of the office. Mr. Pollworth then came to the platform and, after thanking the many friends who had supported his nomination, remarked that there would be a presidential train from Milwaukee to Hartford next August, nevertheless, since Mrs. Pollworth had the day before been elected president of the Ladies' S. A. F. He then moved that the election be made unanimous in favor of Mr. Bertermann.

For the directors the count was announced: Roy F. Wilcox, 230; Paul Klingsporn, 177; Max Schling, 119. Mr. Schling moved that the election of Mr. Klingsporn be made unanimous.

John Young thanked members for his reëlection, saying that it meant more than the customary election vote to him, because this was the last year that the secretary of the organization would be elected by popular vote. J. J. Hess likewise expressed appreciation of his reëlection to the office of treasurer. Roy F. Wilcox thanked members for the honor which had been bestowed upon him. Wallace R. Pierson admitted that he wanted the job of vice-president, since the society would hold its next convention at Hartford, Conn., and he promised the members that the gathering would be worth the trip.

After the discussion concerning the report of the committee on tariff and legislation, account of which is given above, the committee on final resolutions presented its report, closing the convention. Recognizing the large amount of work done and "the thoughtfulness that discerned the many conventional opportunities for service and found new ways to arouse interest in the exhibition and the meeting,'' the committee moved that thanks be expressed to the Kansas City Florists' Club and its many committees, and to the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City in appreciation of its extraordinary cooperation, specifically mentioning Frank M. Robinson, manager of the convention bureau, and W. N. Symon, publicity director, who were of such invaluable assistance to the Kansas City florists. Thanks also were expressed to the local organizations of Kansas City which helped to make visitors' stay pleasant by invitations to luncheon, to the local press and the trade press for publicity regarding the convention, to exhibitors and to the Convention hall management. The report was presented by a committee consisting of Irwin Bertermann, Charles P. Mueller and J. C. Vaughan and was unanimously accepted by acclamation.

THE AWARDS

AWARDS ON TRADE EXHIBITS.

A large number of trade exhibitors received an award of highly commended or honorable mention for their displays. Only two, however, received a certificate of merit, the M. Rice Co., for retailers' supplies, and Roy F. Wilcox & Co., for California-grown boxwoods and palms.

The awards in classes A, B and F, including plants, bulbs and cut flowers, were made as follows, by A. L. Miller, Charles P. Mueller and Joseph Kohout, acting as judges:

W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dutch bulbs, including hyacinth, tulip and narcissus; gladiolus blooms, especially a vase of Mrs. Dr. Norton; highly commended.

American Bulb Co., Chicago, Ill.—Handsome display of cut gladioli, including primulinus; cut specimens of Celosia compacta Brysonia; an excellent collection, displayed in a novel way in miniature cases, of Dutch bulbs, including hyacinths of exhibition size; tulips, Narcissus Emperor and Golden Spur, formosums, freesias and callas; honorable mention.

Robert Craig Co., Norwood Station, Pa.—Well grown assorted dracænas, Areca lutescens, well grown and well fruited otaheite oranges, crotons, ferns, Pandanus Veitchii, cyclamens and Scotch heather; honorable mention.

J. W. Davis Co., Terre Haute, Ind.—Collection of cyclamens, fancy-leaved dracænas, Pandanus Veitchii, fancy-leaved caladiums and collections of ferns; highly commended.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.—Collection of kentias, well grown and highly colored crotons, trained ivy in globe shape, specimen Polypodium Mandaianum, an especially fine lot of small palms, table ferns, dracænas, etc.; honorable mention.

A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dutch bulbs, including tulips, hyacinths and especially fine specimen bulbs of King Alfred narcissus, mammoth hyacinths and formosums; highly commended.

D. Hill Nursery Co., Dundee, Ill.—Collection of evergreens for landscape and window box work, and baby Christmas trees; highly commended.

F. T. D. CONFERENCE.

At the close of the final convention session, August 17, a conference of members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association was held. President Breitmeyer called upon J. F. Ammann to explain the new plan of organization of the F. T. D. in districts, for which he has been doing field work for the last few months. In essence, the plan is to make the district representatives more than nominal officers and bring the retailers of a state, or several adjoining states, into closer bonds. It is proposed to have annual meetings of the members in such districts, probably to be held in conjunction with annual gatherings of state florists' associations. Each district body, it is suggested, will have a committee on membership, which would investigate each applicant's standing, so that F. T. D. membership might be indication of a florist's responsibility. Another local committee is proposed, to compile a census of the retail trade in the course of time. Of course, the board of directors would continue to be the functioning head of the organization, working through the secretary's office.

The long-talked-of clearing house is contemplated as part of the new order of things. The explanation was made at Kansas City, it was announced, so that F. T. D. members might be prepared for competent discussion of the proposals at the annual meeting, at Baltimore, in October.

A vote of confidence in the organization's officers was passed, as well as one of thanks to Mr. Ammann for his efforts. Secretary Pochelon, fishing in the north woods, was remembered.

Beaumont, Tex.—The opening of the Hotel Floral & Novelty Co. was held recently in connection with the opening of the new million-dollar hotel. A banquet was held for the occasion under the auspices of the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce and the new flower store had the decoration of the tables and the supplying of the boutonnieres for the evening, together with the corsages and the twenty-five baskets in which the young ladies carried the favors. The supplies and fixtures for the new store were purchased from H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, and the McCray Refrigerator Co., of Kendallville, Ind.

THE COAL SITUATION

FROM the geological reports we find the total production of bituminous coal is approximately 500,000,000 tons per annum, and of anthracite coal approximately from 90,000,000 to 100,000,000 tons per annum. The divisional uses of this production are about as follows: Industrial establishments and public utilities, 36 per cent; railroads, 28 per cent; coke manufacturers, 14 per cent; household, domestic and miscellaneous uses, 15 per cent; export, bunker coal and use at mines, 7 per cent.

It is impossible to estimate the total investment of capital in the coal industry, on account of the hazardous nature of the undertaking and the losses incidental to mistaken prospecting and faulty or unworkable veins, but it is estimated that there is invested from $2 to $2.25 for every ton of coal produced per annum. This investment becomes profitable only when there can be reasonably regular operation of the mines and under intelligent and unrestricted management.

The question of management brings to our attention some of the other facts that enter into the production of coal; namely, labor, transportation and markets. In considering labor in the mining industry, we find that there are engaged in the industry in the United States approximately 750,000 men. It is claimed that of these about 600,000 are unionized and about 150,000 are non-union. In the beginning of the process of unionization of labor in the mining industry, the theory was held out by the mine workers that collective bargaining by representatives of the organizations of the men and representatives of the operators would lead to the most scientific and orderly methods of procedure in handling wage questions and mining conditions under which men were to labor, and would give to the industry a stability in dealing with various disputes or controversies that arise between capital and labor.

Twenty-five Years Organized.

This principle was agreed to by the operators and, as a result, the industry was almost wholly organized throughout the country. This condition has obtained for approximately twenty to twenty-five years under the processes of collective bargaining through representatives in the making of annual and biennial contracts for each of the several coal mining districts throughout the United States. The operators have never had cause to complain of the principles of joint wage agreements or collective bargaining when the obligations were honestly and fearlessly carried out by both sides. The operator has not purposely or willingly bargained away his moral and legal rights of management, nor has he at any time shirked the responsibility of protecting the public and the industry from imposition in the demands that have been made by the mine workers, but has honestly endeavored to conduct the industry along the lines of good business principles and on a par with other basic industries that must be so conducted in order to thrive and succeed.

In view of this statement, you will perhaps ask how the industry became so thoroughly under the domination of the United Mine Workers' organization. To understand the key to this situation, one must needs have an insight into the methods of organization and negotiations and business contract that exist between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers. This brings us to the consideration of the key to the entire problem; to wit, the "check-off system" in the industry.

Check-Off System.

In all contracts made with the United Mine Workers, a universal clause exists which provides that the employer shall check off from the earnings of each employee the amount of dues, fines and assessments levied against each individual by the local union and submitted to the employer in an itemized list each pay day. This system not only involves a vast amount of extra bookkeeping on the part of the employer, but makes for 100 per cent organization at each mine, as every employee going to work is required, as a condition of employment, to sign a collective check-off order, authorizing the employer to withhold all dues, fines and assessments checked off by the union from his wages each pay day. The collective order gives the transaction a phase of legality that becomes difficult to oppose.

As a result of this 100 per cent organization at each mine, the local union, through its mine committee, becomes supreme in the matter of dictation through motions and resolutions and orders issued to its individual members in the matter of customs of work, conditions of employment, etc., thus taking from the management its rightful duties and responsibilities of the economic and intelligent management of the properties.

The magazine, Industry, published in Washington, D. C., in May, under the caption "The 'Check-Off,' the Economic Tragedy of the Coal Industry," said:

"The United Mine Workers is the only organization that ever adopted and carried on the 'check-off.' It has raised about $11,000,000 a year, none of which is spent for any purpose of advancement of the miners, or for their betterment, socially or physically. This money is entirely devoted to the maintenance of strikes, the conducting of warfare against non-union fields, the purchase of arms and ammunition, and the payment of the salaries and maintenance of the officials, organizers and walking delegates of the organization."

Collections Misapplied.

We find from our own records that in the years 1908 to 1921, inclusive—thirteen years—for the four states of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, the mine workers in these four states collected $6,288,464.56. The record further shows that in the beginning, when the check-off was adopted under the benevolent guise of collecting donations for illness, cases of accident and small dues for local expenses, the check-off amounted to an average of four-tenths mills per ton of production. It has since increased gradually, but with persistent regularity, until the average collection for 1921 in the four states was 9.43 cents per ton, or an increase of 2,043.18 per cent in thirteen years. Thus are shown the machinery and the vast resources and unlimited opportunities for supporting the militant fighting machine that the national organization has become. To show the burden of this system on the individual, some of our companies in Oklahoma reported the individual check-off collected per month to range from $12 to $15 per month at certain mines.

There is a rule that unless the mine works so many days per pay, the check-off shall not be collected and in one case where, on account of breakdown, a mine had worked within one day of that number up to the last day of the pay period and blew the whistle for work, the men responded, but after reaching the mine and holding a meeting, found that to work that day would make their check-off collectable and it would amount to more than they would earn that day. They, therefore, voted to go home until the next day, which would be the beginning of a new pay period, thus escaping the payment of the burdensome check-off in that instance.

So-Called Customs.

Out of the dominating power of this condition of abuses, grow up and are established at each mine the many so-called customs which the miner regards as a part of the contract.

It is a rule, most generally enforced, that one man shall not have two jobs, even though he has leisure time to perform other duties in and about the mine. Under the claim of discrimination because a regular turn of employment is not always justifiable on account of fitness or qualifications, vast sums of com-

As a summary of the conditions in the coal mining industry which have led to the present strike and its attendant possibility of peril to our trade, this address, presented at the S. A. F. convention last week, is highly informative and will be read with much interest by florists not familiar with the situation. It was considered one of the most valuable papers presented at the sessions at Kansas City.

Paper on "The Coal Situation," read by W. L. A. Johnson, general commissioner of the Southwestern Interstate Coal Operators' Association, at the Kansas City convention of the S. A. F., August 16.

OUR LEADERS

THE SOCIETY'S NEW OFFICERS.

President-elect Bertermann.

Irwin C. Bertermann, last week elected president of the S. A. F., hales, as everybody knows, from Indianapolis, the city of flower shows and conventions. It is a question in some alert minds whether the fifth national flower show did not really go to Indianapolis last March so that Mr. Bertermann could act as general chairman of arrangements. "General" execution is his forte and he is always successful. The importance and the variety of his activities in the organized life of the trade is shown in the number of important posts he has held. He was treasurer at the first national flower show and at the last one he held the place of chairman of the executive committee. He was made secretary of the F. T. D. at its inception; was its president in 1915 and later was vice-president. In 1920 he acted as general chairmain of arrangements for the convention of the F. T. D., held at Indianapolis.

Mr. Bertermann was born at Indianapolis, January 5, 1880. He entered the firm of Bertermann Bros. Co. at 20, and is now secretary and treasurer. His 16-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, went with him to Kansas City to see him elected head of the S. A. F.

Vice-president-elect Pierson.

Throughout the country the name of Wallace R. Pierson, son of A. N. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn., is known because of his work for the S. A. F. and other trade organizations. Born at Cromwell May 5, 1880, Mr. Pierson received his education in the public schools and was graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1901. Since that time he has been active in the management of A. N. Pierson, Inc., the establishment which his father founded. Mr. Pierson is scarcely a new officer of the S. A. F., except in the capacity of vice-president. He has served as a member of the flower show and national publicity committees. He became a director of the S. A. F. as president of the American Rose Society in 1914 and 1915. He was elected a director for a 3-year term last year. On committees, on the board, on staffs of other societies in the trade, Mr. Pierson has shown himself fully capable. The S. A. F. last week named him vice-president because he wanted to head the work of making the Hartford convention, next August, an outstanding success. Those who saw his handiwork in the exhibition of the American Carnation Society and the cut flower section of the American Rose Society in that city last January are ready to believe his prediction that the thirty-ninth annual convention of the S. A. F. will be a record-breaker.

Director-elect Wilcox.

The Pacific coast trade wanted a representative on the S. A. F. board of directors and sent Roy Franklin Wilcox to Kansas City for the place. Born not far from the convention city and for years associated with his father in the firm of J. F. Wilcox & Sons, at Council Bluffs, Ia., he won the support of the middle west as well. His health broken in the service in France, Mr. Wilcox went to California upon his return, in 1919, and bought the palm-growing establishment of Jacob Dieterich, at Montebello, having sold his interest in the Council Bluffs firm to his mother and younger brother. Of the boxwoods he grows, specimens were seen at Kansas City; his other stock is of the same superlative quality. Mr. Wilcox rapidly won his health back and his way into the esteem of the California florists and nurserymen. In 1920 he was elected president of the California Association of Nurserymen, the most important horticultural body of the state, and in the autumn of 1922 headed the arrangements committees which created the celebrated sunken garden at Los Angeles as an exhibition at the time of the organization's annual gathering. His experience, knowledge and force were desired on the S. A. F. board of directors, as witness the high vote he polled at Kansas City. He is the youngest of the young men elected to office at Kansas City, being 35 years of age.

Director Klingsporn.

Like the president and vice-president chosen at Kansas City, Paul Robert Klingsporn, reëlected a director, was born in 1880—the month of March. At 15 months of age he was brought by his parents from Germany to America, to Philadelphia. There in 1892 he entered the florists' business. In 1913 he went west to Chicago, where he assumed the managership of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association. In this position Mr. Klingsporn has brought conspicuous success to the company and fame to himself, to say nothing of the wreaths bestowed upon him as vice-president of the Chicago Florists' Club, state vice-president of the S. A. F., and director of the S. A. F. Reëlection to the S. A. F. directorship is no small honor, but, on the other hand, Paul R. Klingsporn is no small luminary in the florists' trade.

WITH THE LADIES

THE LADIES' ENTERTAINMENT.

Reception.

The reception and ball given by the Ladies' S. A. F., in the Hotel Muehlebach Wednesday, August 16, was well attended, though there was not such a large crowd as attended the president's reception the preceding night. The bowling tournament and a late session of the convention took part of the crowd that might have otherwise attended. Many of those at the ball were well acquainted, having attended previous conventions, and this made the affair more enjoyable. The Kansas City Florists' Club orchestra, led by Arthur Mohr, furnished the music for dancing. A musical program was given by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Humfeld, of Clay Center, Kan., and Mrs. Katherine Moseley Beaman, Kansas City, Kan. A pantomine, "Grandmother's Birthday Party," was given by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hubbard, Miss Mildred Bolinger and Miss Mildred Drebbing, all of Topeka, Kan. Miss Olga Hubbard, of Topeka, arranged the program.

In the receiving line were Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, Chicago, president of the Ladies' Society of American Florists; Mrs. J. C. Vaughan, Chicago; Mrs. F. H. Traendly, New York; Mrs. George Asmus, Chicago; Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, Milwaukee, president-elect; Miss Perle Fulmer, Des Moines, treasurer; Miss Olga Hubbard, Topeka, vice-president; Mrs. J. J. Hess, Omaha, vice-president-elect, and Mrs. Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa., secretary.

Luncheon.

The luncheon at the Meadow Lake Country Club, August 17, for the women visitors to the S. A. F. convention, was attended by 325 women. The club is about eight miles south of Kansas City. It affords a fine view of the surrounding country and the trip both ways was enjoyed, taking the visitors as it did through part of the attractive home district of the city. After the luncheon, Mrs. T. A. Moseley, chairman of the women's entertainment committee, called upon Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, retiring president of the Ladies' S. A. F., for a few words. Miss Gunterberg gracefully expressed her appreciation of the reception given to the delegates. She read the poem entitled, "Where the West Begins," which she said described the spirit of the Missouri and Kansas people. Mrs. J. C. Vaughan spoke briefly. Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, the newly elected president, was introduced. A musical program followed, by M. A. Russo, harpist; Mrs. Allen Taylor, vocalist, and Mrs. J. Bowden Bird, pianist. Miss Clara Crangle accompanied Mrs. Taylor. Miss Dorothy Lang, of Kansas City, Kan., a clever child dancer, gave several interpretative dances. Miss Fabina Horan was her accompanist. The return to the city was in time for the drive over part of the boulevard system of the city. Thirty miles were covered in an hour and a half. There were 104 cars in the procession, led by Mayor Frank H. Cromwell.

Bowling.

St. Louis was to the fore in the women's bowling tournament, as well as the men's, at the S. A. F. convention. Miss Ida Bruenig won first prize, her score being 375. Miss Clara Bruenig won third prize. Her score was 328. The young women are twins; they assist their mother in her flower shop in St. Louis. Mrs. F. H. Traendly, New York, won second prize, with a score of 353. Mrs. Charles McCauley, Geneva, Ill., with a score of 312, won fourth prize.

Mrs. George Asmus, Chicago, won fifth prize; her score was 308. Mrs. H. L. Hunt, Concordia, Kan., carried off the consolation prize, with a score of 124. The prizes were: First, silver vase, given by Samuel Murray; second, decorative lamp, given by H. Bayersdorfer & Co.; third, silk umbrella, given by the T. J. Noll Floral Co.; fourth, necklace, given by H. Kusik & Co.; fifth, handbag, given by Stuppy Supply Co.; consolation, given by Miss Hayden. Miss Hayden was chairman of the women's bowling committee.

Sixteen women entered the contest, which was held in Harvey's Recreation. Three games were played. A crowd of spectators enjoyed the games as much as did the participants. The women who bowled were: Mrs. Joseph Dews, Chickasha, Okla.; Mrs. E. M. Robinson, Emporia, Kan.; Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa.; Mrs. Frank H. Traendly and Miss Marion Traendly, New York; Mrs. George Asmus, Chicago; Mrs. Harry L. Hunt, Concordia, Kan.; Mrs. G. H. Blackman, Evansville, Ind.; Mrs. W. A. Kennedy, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Chas. McCauley, Geneva, Ill.; Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, Chicago; Miss Ida Bruenig and Miss Clara Bruenig, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. T. Diemer, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. A. Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind.

LADIES' S. A. F.

The Ladies' Society of American Florists held its annual meeting at the Hotel Muehlebach, Kansas City, Wednesday morning, August 16. Mrs. T. A. Moseley delivered the address of welcome, to which response was made by Mrs. Frank H. Traendly, of New York. Miss Martha C. Gunterberg presented her address as president, and it was recommended that a committee be appointed by the chair to send the flowers left from the convention decorations to the hospital inmates in Kansas City.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. Albert M. Herr, showed the addition of eighty-four new members and four life members. She announced the first wedding of a member of the society in fifteen years, that of Miss E. B. Galvin, of Meriden, Conn. Mrs. Herr expressed the society's thanks to the officers of the S. A. F., especially Secretary Young. The Ladies' Society of American Florists now has a membership of approximately 400, attained in the fifteen years which have passed since it was organized by Mrs. Maynard, who was present at this meeting.

The report of the treasurer, Miss Perle B. Fulmer, showed receipts for the year of $697.03, disbursements of $527.31, leaving a balance on hand of $169.72. In the life membership fund is the sum of $610, drawing four per cent annual interest.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by Mrs. A. M. Herr. Telegrams were read from Mrs. William F. Gude and Mrs. Ella Grant Wilson.

Discussion ensued concerning an ammendment to the constitution in regard to the payment of dues upon the reinstatement of members in arrears. It was voted to amend article 8, section 3, so as to provide that members may be reinstated upon the payment of $2, plus the dues for the current year.

Mrs. Francis King was made an honorary member of the Ladies' S. A. F.

The officers elected were noted in the telegraph report in The Review last week: President, Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, Milwaukee, Wis.; first vice-president, Mrs. Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; second vice-president, Mrs J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.; treasurer, Miss Perle B. Fulmer, Des Moines, Ia.; secretary, Mrs. Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa.

Miss Olga Hubbard was given a vote of thanks for her work as first vice-president during the last year. A vote of thanks was given also to the women of Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan., and of the states of Missouri and Kansas for their hospitality at this convention.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

After the business sessions were over, the Kansas City florists provided entertainment for convention visitors, Thursday afternoon and evening, calculated to leave in their minds the pleasantest recollections of the Missouri city. A throng of automobiles appeared at the door of Convention hall at 5 o'clock, August 17, to carry the visitors on a tour of the parks and boulevards. Mayor Cromwell led the procession of 104 cars. On the tour, visitors caught glimpses of the finest sections of Kansas City, which showed how remarkable had been the growth of this metropolis in the last few years. The tour concluded with a run along Cliff drive, one of the most beautiful spots in the vicinity, and certainly the coolest the visitors had found.

Thursday evening busses and automobiles took a crowd of several hundred to Electric park, one of the most modern amusement parks in the country. There the electric fountain showed a "Say It with Flowers" tableau especially for the florists, and the "Follies" in the park auditorium included a special number wherein a dozen pink-clad girls danced, sang our slogan song and tossed roses to the audience.

At the conclusion of this entertainment, Wallace R. Pierson strained his voice to make the great crowd in the open-air auditorium hear his expression of the society's appreciation of President Pennock's service. At the conclusion of his remarks he presented to Mr. and Mrs. Pennock a splendid chest of silver service, for which they were so grateful that Mrs. Pennock, as well as the president, gave voice to thanks.

In behalf of the Ladies' S. A. F., George Asmus presented Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, president of that organization, a handsome diamond ring, with mounting of platinum. Miss Gunterberg made appropriate response on receiving the ring, of which she declared herself quite proud.

OUR LEADERS

THE SOCIETY'S NEW OFFICERS.

President-elect Bertermann.

Irwin C. Bertermann, last week elected president of the S. A. F., hales, as everybody knows, from Indianapolis, the city of flower shows and conventions. It is a question in some alert minds whether the fifth national flower show did not really go to Indianapolis last March so that Mr. Bertermann could act as general chairman of arrangements. "General" execution is his forte and he is always successful. The importance and the variety of his activities in the organized life of the trade is shown in the number of important posts he has held. He was treasurer at the first national flower show and at the last one he held the place of chairman of the executive committee. He was made secretary of the F. T. D. at its inception; was its president in 1915 and later was vice-president. In 1920 he acted as general chairmain of arrangements for the convention of the F. T. D., held at Indianapolis.

Mr. Bertermann was born at Indianapolis, January 5, 1880. He entered the firm of Bertermann Bros. Co. at 20, and is now secretary and treasurer. His 16-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, went with him to Kansas City to see him elected head of the S. A. F.

Vice-president-elect Pierson.

Throughout the country the name of Wallace R. Pierson, son of A. N. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn., is known because of his work for the S. A. F. and other trade organizations. Born at Cromwell May 5, 1880, Mr. Pierson received his education in the public schools and was graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1901. Since that time he has been active in the management of A. N. Pierson, Inc., the establishment which his father founded. Mr. Pierson is scarcely a new officer of the S. A. F., except in the capacity of vice president. He has served as a member of the flower show and national publicity committees. He became a director of the S. A. F. as president of the American Rose Society in 1914 and 1915. He was elected [illegible] for a 3-year term last year. On committees, on the board, on staffs [illegible]

Kansas City for the place. [illegible] not far from the convention city and for years associated with his father in the firm of J. F. Wilcox & Sons, at Council Bluffs, Ia., he won the support of the middle west as well. His health broken in the service in France, Mr. Wilcox went to California upon his return, in 1919, and bought the palm-growing establishment of Jacob Dieterich, at Montebello, having sold his interest in the Council Bluffs firm to his mother and younger brother. Of the boxwoods he grows, specimens were seen at Kansas City; his other stock is of the same superlative quality. Mr. Wilcox rapidly won his health back and his way into the esteem of the California florists and nurserymen. In 1920 he was elected president of the California Association of Nurserymen, the most important horticultural body of the state, and in the autumn of 1922 headed the arrangements committees which created the celebrated sunken garden at Los Angeles as an exhibition at the time of the organization's annual gathering. His experience, knowledge and force were desired on the S. A. F. board of directors, as witness the high vote he polled at Kansas City. He is the youngest of the young men elected to office at Kansas City, being 35 years of age.

Director Klingsporn.

Like the president and vice-president chosen at Kansas City, Paul Robert Klingsporn, reëlected a director, was born in 1880—the month of March. At 15 months of age he was brought by his parents from Germany to America, to Philadelphia. There in 1892 he entered the florists' business. In 1913 he went west to Chicago, where he assumed the managership of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association. In this position Mr. Klingsporn has brought conspicuous success to the company and fame to himself, to say nothing of the wreaths bestowed upon him as vice-president of the Chicago Florists' Club, state vice president of the S. A. F., and director of the S. A. F. Reëlection to the S. A. F. directorship is no small honor, but, on the other hand, Paul R. Klingsporn is no small luminary in the florists' trade.

THE LADIES' ENTERTAINMENT.

Reception.

The reception and ball given by the Ladies' S. A. F., in the Hotel Muehlebach Wednesday, August 16, was well attended, though there was not such a large crowd as attended the president's reception the preceding night. The bowling tournament and a late session of the convention took part of the crowd that might have otherwise attended. Many of those at the ball were well acquainted, having attended previous conventions, and this made the affair more enjoyable. The Kansas City Florists' Club orchestra, led by Arthur Mohr, furnished the music for dancing. A musical program was given by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Humfeld, of Clay Center, Kan., and Mrs. Katherine Moseley Beaman, Kansas City, Kan. A pantomine, "Grandmother's Birthday Party," was given by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hubbard, Miss Mildred Bolinger and Miss Mildred Drebbing, all of Topeka, Kan. Miss Olga Hubbard, of Topeka, arranged the program.

In the receiving line were Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, Chicago, president of the Ladies' Society of American [illegible] Mrs. J. C. Vaughan, Chicago, Mrs. [illegible] New York, Mrs. George [illegible] Chicago; Mrs. C. C. After the luncheon, Mrs. T. A. Moseley, chairman of the women's entertainment committee, called upon Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, retiring president of the Ladies' S. A. F., for a few words. Miss Gunterberg gracefully expressed her appreciation of the reception given to the delegates. She read the poem entitled, "Where the West Begins," which she said described the spirit of the Missouri and Kansas people. Mrs. J. C. Vaughan spoke briefly. Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, the newly elected president, was introduced. A musical program followed, by M. A. Russo, harpist; Mrs. Allen Taylor, vocalist, and Mrs. J. Bowden Bird, pianist. Miss Clara Crangle accompanied Mrs. Taylor. Miss Dorothy Lang, of Kansas City, Kan., a clever child dancer, gave several interpretative dances. Miss Fabina Horan was her accompanist. The return to the city was in time for the drive over part of the boulevard system of the city. Thirty miles were covered in an hour and a half. There were 104 cars in the procession, led by Mayor Frank H. Cromwell.

With the prevailing Kansas City thoughtfulness, fans were provided members of the audience at the opening business session with the compliments of Rock's.

The New York excursionists numbered forty, and they reported an enjoyable trip so far on their schedule.

* * * *

C. D. Otis shipped two specimens of Phœnix Roebelenii from Lake Charles, La. They had a 6-foot spread and showed excellent care. Mr. Otis grows a large quantity at Lake Charles.

* * * *

Seldom, if ever, has a convention bureau been of so much service as was that at Kansas City. Its job was considered just begun, instead of all done, when the society decided for the Missouri metropolis. Not the least of the tasks performed was that of registering the visitors. This was accurately performed by typists, who filled out slips on their machines with name, business connection, home address and hotel address. This was done in triplicate and three files were made, so that you might look up a friend by his name, by his business house or by his home town. The florists' work in registering was merely oral.

* * * *

Street decorations, a banner across the car line next Convention hall and a slogan board opposite the entrance told of a florists' convention, even if one did not read the newspapers, all of which contained mention of it.

* * * *

One of the iceboxes and the worktable in the A. L. Randall Co. exhibit were sold to Edward Ellsworth, proprietor of the Rosery, and the other icebox to the Cowan Plant & Floral Co., Kansas City, Kan.

* * * *

Inasmuch as there is so much and so important business and discussion at the S. A. F. convention each year, more thought, it would seem, should be given the meeting hall. Too frequently it is a corner left from the exhibition, a makeshift. If a hall with proper acoustics and perhaps a sounding-board back of the speaker's rostrum were provided, the attendance, instead of being negligible, might become surprisingly large.

* * * *

St. Louis again captured the honors in the convention tournament. The heat was a severe handicap, however, to some of the old-timers.

* * * *

A "razornife" was presented by the Morehead Mfg. Co. to each of its friends. Its uses are manifold—cigar-sharpener, corn-parer, etc.

* * * *

Though its botanical identity was not satisfactorily ascertained, the celluloid blossom that advertised "Los Angeles—1924" was in many buttonholes.

* * * *

The exhibit of the Jackson & Perkins Co. was sold to Rock's Gardens, Independence, Mo.

* * * *

The exhibit of foliage plants of the J. W. Davis Co. was bought by the A. N. Nielsen Co., Kansas City.

* * * *

The kentias that formed so prominent a part of the exhibit of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., were sold to the W. L. Rock Flower Co. The other plants were bought by A. Mohr.

* * * *

Samuel Murray purchased the entire exhibit of plants staged by the Robert Craig Co.

* * * *

The exhibit of retailers' supplies of the M. Rice Co., which won the only certificate of merit awarded by the judges in its class, was sold to J. Austin, Kansas City.

* * * *

The friends of Philip Foley rejoiced to hear the news that his new factory is completed.

* * * *

Thursday, August 17, a number of florists were guests of S. Bryson Ayres at the midday luncheon of the Kiwanis Club, at the Hotel Muehlebach. Philip Breitmeyer made a splendid talk, and in his honor Mr. Ayres named a compact deep maroon variety of his Celosia chrysantheflora for the ex-mayor of Detroit. L. R. Bohannon spoke fittingly, and George H. Blackman, of Evansville, Ind., was first modest, then brightly humorous.

* * * *

Charles P. Mueller officiated as judge of election at the polls Thursday morning. Tellers who served were L. E. Hitz, J. W. Begbie, R. J. Irwin, H. G. Berning, Otto Lang, J. J. Beneke, Jules Bourdet, R. C. Kerr, F. J. Fillmore, E. J. Fancourt, F. Lautenschlager, A. S. Gray, William Wade, W. H. Culp and L. F. Bunch.

* * * *

The splendid boxwoods brought from Montebello, Cal., by Roy F. Wilcox were moved to Rock's Gardens at the close of the convention. All the exhibit but the huge kentias was bought by this firm.

* * * *

The inadequate railroad service was to blame for the non-appearance of L. C. Stroh & Sons' large-sized soil shredder. Only the smaller one was to be seen by visitors.

* * * *

What was referred to as the Butterfly box in the report of the exhibit of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., last week, has been renamed the Bluebird box. It is used primarily to deliver a corsage bouquet, but its adorned interior and loose sides, which drop flat when the box is opened, make it suitable for a great variety of purposes.

* * * *

A boutonniere—unfortunately of artificial, not natural flowers—to which a ribbon was attached, advertised "Fleurette," the tiny magazine in colors prepared by the H. V. Swenson Co. for distribution by retailers to their patrons. Of the October number, the first to be issued, 250,000 will be printed and it is stated that retailers have ordered copies of the first twelve numbers sufficient to aggregate approximately 2,500,000.

* * * *

The Dodge delivery car fitted by S. W. Coggan, Battle Creek, Mich., for touring with Mrs. Coggan, attracted much attention. To two steel bars at either end of the body is bolted a bed spring, three-quarter size, on which the mattress and covers are ready for use at any time. The interior is provided with electric lights. A tent may be spread over the rear end of the car if more room is wanted. The bed is hung two feet from the floor of the car, so that there is ample room below to carry the large amount of luggage necessary.

* * * *

Though empty, the neat, black leather bill purses given by the T. J. Noll Floral Co. to its friends were received with appreciation.

* * * *

Many of the visitors stayed over at Kansas City to visit various trade places Friday. Others found time during the convention days to make various trips. The greenhouses at Longview Farm, as well as those of W. L. Rock, Samuel Murray and others, drew some. The celosias at S. Bryson Ayres' seed farms made a gorgeous sight for those who motored out Blue Ridge road. At Rock's Gardens was seen a fine array of perennials and ornamental nursery stock.

* * * *

Fans were provided at convention sessions by E. A. Beaven, the green goods man of Evergreen, Ala.

* * * *

The report of William F. Gude showed the present sum of $2,234.13 in the W. R. Smith memorial fund.

* * * *

The sunflowers denoting members of the Kansas State Florists' Association were numerously in evidence.

* * * *

Those who knew not all the wonders of California were afforded glimpses of its foremost floricultural places of note by a panel of photographs at the entrance of Convention hall, showing the establishments of Roy F. Wilcox & Co., Montebello; John Bodger & Sons Co., Los Angeles; Bassett & Washburn, Sierra Madre; Walter Armacost & Co., Sawtelle; Howard & Smith, Los Angeles, and Cottage Gardens Nurseries, Eureka. Most of the views have appeared in The Review at one time or another.

* * * *

The ladies were grateful for the folding fans provided for them by Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago.

* * * *

Many a visitor had a feather in his hat, quite literally. The brightly colored quills were mementos of the American Bulb Co., Chicago.

* * * *

The front of the Hotel Muehlebach gave ample evidence of a florists' convention. Not in recent years has a convention hotel been so elaborately decorated with greens and flowers. For this and the most tasteful ballroom decorations Hugo Neff was responsible.

* * * *

It was the last time the secretary of the S. A. F. could be elected by popular vote of the society; after this the directors choose him. So his nomination, by George Asmus, was feelingly seconded by R. Vincent, Jr., Wallace R. Pierson, Philip Breitmeyer and J. F. Ammann. And everybody was glad to vote for him.

* * * *

For the decorations of marigolds so lavishly made, S. Bryson Ayres was reported to have cut 20,000 blooms at his seed farms.

* * * *

"The florists at Joplin, Mo., have put forward an unusual claim for their town," ran a paragraph in the Kansas City Star one day during convention week. "They say that while in most cities the florists' principal custom comes from young unmarried men, in Joplin the bulk of the traffic in flowers comes from married men who say it to their wives with flowers. Joplin husbands either are the most devoted on earth, or else the guiltiest—which do you suppose?"

* * * *

A letter from Alfred M. Campbell, president of the Philadelphia Florists' Club, urged the society's consideration of the City of Brotherly Love as its 1926 meeting-place. In that year the city is planning another great exposition.

* * * *

President Pennock recommended women directors. Past-president Breitmeyer praised the idea and the women. And the Kansas City Star was moved to remark: "Florists from all parts of the United States were with their wives and daughters, and this revealed that the women have much to do with the selling of flowers. Down in Norman, Okla., A. W. Toberman, the town florist, conducts a business, small but the only one in town, and the womenfolk help. Up in Shenandoah, Ia., O. B. Stevens is the flower man. But in all the twenty-seven years Mr. Stevens has sold flowers in Shenandoah there was the touch of Mrs. Stevens. One could shove out his arm in the throng and touch a man whose flower shop knows the art of a woman. When Mr. Stevens motored from Shenandoah to Kansas City, he stopped on the route at Clarinda, Ia., in the same county, and picked up Mr. and Mrs. Victor Crosthwait, florists. On the register of the convention are the names of many women who own their shops and operate independently of the men." Vive la femme!

The mechanical canaries in the exhibit of the A. L. Randall Co., at Kansas City, attracted much attention from the visitors, likewise from the public press, as note the following from the Kansas City Post, August 15:

The only trouble with a canary bird is that he is too enthusiastic.

Knowing his mission in life is to sing, he nearly always overdoes it. He is apt to break in on his owner's loftiest musings and tenderest reflections in a very irritating fashion. The only thing to do when the bird uses such bad judgment is to give him an angry look and throw a silencing cover over his cage.

A Chicago company which has one of the floral exhibits at Convention hall this week has solved the problem of keeping the singing bird in his place.

This has been done by inventing a mechanical bird that sings only as he is bid, because he has to wait until somebody turns the spring that works his warbles.

A couple of turns of a key and the brightly colored singer trills beautifully and naturally to the ecstatic wiggling of his tail and wings. Also there are decent intervals of rest between the songs.

The birds are in plutocratically expensive cages. There are one, two and three-bird cages. There's only one drawback to this new invention—the cost. The cost of one bird is $150. However, you save money by not having to buy seed and the bird is not messing up the house by flinging seed all over the carpet. And when you leave home you don't need to worry about feeding and watering the pet.

HAIL ASSOCIATION

FLORISTS' HAIL ASSOCIATION.

Annual Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the Florists' Hail Association, held at Kansas City, August 16, the proposed amendments to the by-laws were unanimously adopted. They were as follows:

Article XIII, Section 1—To read "the membership fee shall be $3 for every person insuring 2000 square feet or less of glass, and $1 for each additional 1000 square feet," instead of $2 and $0.50 respectively.

Article XXI, Section 2—To read "twenty per cent of regular assessment," instead of "ten per cent."

Article XXX (new), Section 1—"All hazardous risks unpaid before full payment of said hazard has been liquidated, upon future renewal, whether by original owner or agent of said glass, or by new owner or agent, must be assumed by the new applicant."

Article XXXI (new), Section 1—"Reinsurance shall be charged upon all glass broken, when adjustment of loss is made, in such manner as shall restore insurance to same status as previous to loss."

Article XXXI, Section 2—"When houses are not to be rebuilt, the secretary must be notified at time of filing claim, in which case no re-insurance is to be charged, and membership of claimant, from date of such notification, must be canceled on the books of the association."

Reciprocal insurance was discussed and generally stated to be unsatisfactory.

As noted in last week's telegraph report, the retiring directors were reelected for the ensuing three years. They are J. F. Ammann, Earl H. Mann and Anders Rasmussen.

Directors' Meeting.

At its meeting directly after the members' session, the board of directors reëlected last year's officers, who are: President, J. F. Ammann; vice-president, J. S. Wilson; secretary, John G. Esler; treasurer, James W. Heacock.

The thirty-fifth assessment was ordered levied January 1, 1923, payable February 1, 1923. Since the insurance on double-thick glass has cost the association 9.8 cents per hundred square feet for the last year, the directors fixed the sum of 10 cents per hundred square feet as the assessment for the thirty-fifth levy.

President Ammann's Address.

President Ammann presented the following address to members of the Hail Association:

"The Florists' Hail Association of America was incorporated June 1, 1887, thirty-five years ago. It is the first offspring of the Society of American Florists, which was organized several years before that. So it might well be termed the eldest child of the parent society.

"We may consider ourselves fortunate in that we still have among us many of the founders of this beneficent organization. Like all progressive movements, this association in its infancy met with many obstacles, which the founders had to overcome, and we are much indebted to them for having steered us along in safe channels these many years.

Sound Organization.

"Our organization is quite different from most mutual insurance associations in that we issue no policies, but rather a certificate of membership, and with our splendid reserve fund always at hand, we occupy a distinctive position of a capitalized mutual insurance association.

"From time to time, of course, our by-laws have been amended and revised, but the one principal factor that was always predominant in the minds of the officers was the necessity of building up and increasing a reserve fund, so that today we have a reserve of nearly $60,000.

"To date, I am informed by the secretary, a total of 3,200 losses have been adjusted since our organization began, and the total amount paid in losses to date is $612,000. This, I am sure, you will all agree speaks well for the founders of this association.

Efficient Secretary.

"The pilot in this great work for these many years has been our congenial secretary, John G. Esler, whose name and address has become a common household phrase among florists and gardeners all over the country.

"He has rendered efficient service to this organization for so many years that the writer of this message, out of respect for Mr. Esler, will not state the number of years, for fear that he may consider himself getting old at the mention of it, which, of course, is not true, at least not mentally, because I know, from the last two years of experience in reviewing the adjustment of losses that he has gone over, that his mind is as keen as ever and his interest for the welfare of all the members is shown in every adjustment he has made. In fact, up to just two years ago, when our friend, E. G. Hill, retired from the presidency, this association was in the hands of two of the spriest young chaps ever known to the trade, and that is the reason for this wonderful progress.

What Figures Show.

"I am going to quote you, herewith, some of the figures as given in the secretary's annual report, ending with August 1, 1922. The total amount of insurance in effect is 54,309,391 square feet of glass, or, in other words, a little over one-third of the entire amount of glass in the United States.

"The number of members, as shown from this report, is 1,690. The total receipts for the last fiscal year were $68,811.40, and the total expenditures were $62,277.36. The cash balance on hand was $6,534.04, of which amount $1,189.70 belongs to the reserve fund, which fund at this time totals $59,187.70.

"This, as you will readily note, leaves the association in good financial condition at the close of this year. According to the government census of 1919, we have a total glass area in the United States of approximately 162,000,000 square feet, of which amount, as noted above, about one-third is insured against hail in our association.

Locking the Door.

"It is surprising, indeed, to find a large number of establishments throughout the country who carry no hail insurance whatever. Many of these, in certain parts of the country, have considered themselves immune from hail, owing to their favorable locations. In recent years, however, they have begun to wake up to the fact that no community is entirely immune, for hail storms have been prevalent in all sections of the country and several storms have occurred in states where owners of glass have considered themselves entirely immune. Just in recent weeks, New York, Atlantic City and North Carolina have had severe hail storms. The old axiom of locking the door after the horse is stolen is applicable to many cases at the present time.

"Our association has, from time to time, called attention of brother florists throughout the country to the advantages of the protection they might have by becoming a member. Many have ignored these urgent invitations, to their sorrow. We, however, extend them a glad hand and invite them again to come and join us in a bond of mutual benefit.

"Remember, no one part of the United States pays the losses for the other part in our plan of assessment. Each pays its proportionate share towards losses. Our plan is absolutely equitable. Our association is financially sound and is managed upon a conservative and considerate basis.

"Those of you who are members of this great protective association we congratulate, and to those of you who are not members we extend a hearty invitation to join and become one of us."

MCTT-LY MUSINGS.

"By cool Siloam's shady rill how sweet the lilies grow!" observed Charles Tricker, of the William Tricker Co., Arlington, N. J., the water lily specialist. The quotation was well taken by the crowd which sizzled in the convention hall during the gathering of the S. A. F. members, who surely appreciated the fans so freely distributed by Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago. Among the useful souvenirs was one handed out by R. D. Conn, of the Skinner Irrigation Co., which when inverted suggested a line of sprinkler pipe. Anything suggestive of a cooler atmosphere was gladly welcomed. Fred Lautenschlager noted far more inquiries for ice machines than for boilers.

* * * *

T. S. Porter, of the John A. Evans Co., observed that the manner in which the guests interested in apparatus for raising and lowering ventilators left the display of the firm indicated that the train of thought going through their minds was a desire for plenty of air just now.

* * * *

Among the few visitors from the east was E. A. Coon, of Rhinebeck, N. Y., one of the largest violet growers. His visit was partly the result of a meeting of the Albany Florists' Club, held August 5 at the James Snyder place. Mr. Coon commented upon the fine display of dahlias made by Fred A. Danker at his Maiden Lane shop, at Albany, when Mr. Coon passed through the city. The exhibit was well staged, each variety being plainly labeled, and was much appreciated by the crowds of visitors.

* * * *

Rising to a point of eloquence, the silvery speech of Vice-president-elect Wallace R. Pierson, when making the annual presentation of a silver service, overwhelmed all by his earnestness. It was noted that A. F. J. Baur gave that fine Hamilton watch which was presented to him by the American Carnation Society a fond look just at this time, causing an observer to remark that the hour has arrived when a strict account will be required of one's stewardship and 'tis only proper to reward each and every actor according to merit.

SUNRISE GOLF CONTEST.

At sunrise, Wednesday morning, August 16, William L. Rock conducted the golfers among the conventionites at Kansas City to the Meadow Lake Country Club. Breakfast was had at the club, at 6:30 a. m. There were present to accompany the golfers around the course pretty nearly as many as the number who actually played. The club has a splendid course, and the morning was enjoyed both by players and spectators.

A. C. Brown, of Springfield, Ill., won the silver vase donated by W. L. Rock for the low medal score. Walter E. Cook, of Cleveland, who won the contest at Washington last year, received the golf club given by the Kansas City Florists' Club for the third low medal score. Harold M. Joy, of Nashville, Tenn., won the golf socks donated by the Stuppy Supply Co. for the sixth low medal score, and C. L. Washburn, of Chicago, won the set of bowls and vases donated by the Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. for the tenth low medal score.

The participants in the contest and their scores were as follows:

A. C. Brown	85
J. W. Sherlock	94
W. E. Cook	97
W. L. Rock	100
C. D. Kinsman	106
H. M. Joy	107
Fred H. Lemon	108
R. J. Irwin	112
H. V. Swenson	114
C. L. Washburn	116
F. M. Suttle	122
A. W. Gumz	123
W. A. Rowe	123
R. Wells	124
Mrs. C. L. Washburn	135
A. Rasmussen	136
O. J. Ruff	146

A MESSAGE FROM PENNOCK.

If I did not publicly express, through the trade press, the appreciation of all that had been done to make the thirty-eighth convention the success it was, I would feel that I was leaving Kansas City with my work as your president unfinished; so, on behalf of the S. A. F., I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every one for their valuable help, their kindness, their unfailing loyalty, in making it possible to have such a wonderful convention, a convention that will go down in history as one marking progress and making for better working conditions in the society.

All of this could not have been accomplished but for that spirit of cooperation which was displayed by every one.

To the Kansas City florists I think we particularly owe a debt of gratitude for the special arrangements they made and the way they carried them out, not only for the business part, having every detail cared for most thoroughly, but for our comforts as well, a hospitality that will ever be remembered as a bright spot in our lives.

Not only to the florists of Kansas City are we indebted, but to the city as a whole, from the mayor down, including the convention bureau and Convention hall management, do we extend our warmest appreciation and heartiest thanks.

S. S. Pennock.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Mary Cecile Kunzman Miller.

Mrs. Mary Cecile Kunzman Miller, a wholesale florist of Louisville, Ky., for many years, died August 13 in St. Anthony's hospital. The deceased was 62 years of age.

Mrs. Miller was engaged in business with her son, G. Harry Kunzman. Besides her son, she is survived by her second husband, G. Robert Miller, and three sisters, Mrs. Anna Bunting and Miss Theresa Powell, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Carrie Quarles, of Louisville.

TOPPING POINSETTIAS.

We are planting a bed of poinsettias, this year's cuttings from 2¼-inch pots. Can I top these, and when do you think is the best time to do this in order to have them bloom for Christmas?

H. R.—Pa.

It would be too late now to top poinsettias. If the plants are only in 2¼-inch pots now, they will not be any too tall for Christmas, if grown singly in 6-inch pots or planted several together in 8-inch pans.

C. W.

MEALY BUG ON POINSETTIAS.

What is the best method of destroying mealy bug on poinsettias? We syringe them strongly with pure water and also with nicotine.

H. R.—Pa.

Mealy bug is best kept in check by a force of water well directed through a fine nozzle on the end of a hose. Nicotine spraying, unless strong, will not harm the bugs and would, in all probability, damage the plants. It is inadvisable to use hydrocyanic acid gas where poinsettias are growing. Of course, it will kill the bugs, but would likely disfigure the plants and you would lose more than you would gain.

Johnson City, N. C.—Miss Esther Hawkins and Miss Helen Rhea will open a flower store on Roane street about September 1.

Kankakee, Ill.—The greenhouses of the Davis-Kankakee Co. were sold August 8 to R. A. Baird, Curtis Baird and Charles A. Baird, all of Kankakee. R. A. Baird has been superintendent of the establishment for several years. The business is now operated under the name of the Baird Greenhouse Co. Greenhouse vegetables, principally tomatoes and cucumbers, are grown. The glass area of the place is 60,000 feet.

GLADIOLI AT KALAMAZOO

GLADIOLUS SOCIETY MEETS.

At Kalamazoo, Mich.

The thirteenth annual exhibition of the American Gladiolus Society was held Wednesday and Thursday, August 16 and 17, at Kalamazoo, Mich., in the Pythian Temple auditorium, under the auspices of the Kalamazoo Chamber of Commerce and the Club of Little Gardens. Over 12,000 blooms competed for prizes. Several thousand more blooms were rejected by the judges as unfit for exhibition and competition because of the strict standards of the society. The fault, however, was not that of the exhibitors, but of the weather. The wilting rays of Old Sol cut short the lives of many blooms en route from New York state and other far-off points. But in spite of the scorching heat, a large number of growers, professional and amateur, and several thousand "fans" thronged the convention hall. If there was ever any doubt as to the popularity of the gladiolus, this show gave such a doubt a heavy sleeping powder. Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Canada, Michigan, Oklahoma, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, and other glad-growing districts were represented. The prizes showed no favorites in territory; Canada took her share across the border, just as our own states took their share across their boundary lines.

Rivalry was keen in every class. The job of the judges, headed by Mrs. A. H. Austin, of Ravenna, O., was no sinecure. In spite of the long drought and recent extreme heat, the showing of spikes was remarkable. Thousands came from points 400 to 1,000 miles distant, showing the stamina of well-bred stock. Old-time growers stated that in their experience they had never seen such a great variety of high-class spikes which would be suitable for the commercial trade. Florists present reported that the demand for gladioli is increasing rapidly, not only as cut flowers by themselves, but also in combination with other flowers, as corsages, casket blankets, table decorations, wedding flowers and other flower uses. Several splendid bouquets and baskets were entered, as well as corsages and blankets, made up principally, if not entirely, of gladioli.

Many Prizes Awarded.

Over 150 varieties were represented in the competition for prizes. Notable among these were new seedlings originated by many of the best growers. Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, made a remarkable showing, the new varieties occupying nearly an entire table the length of the hall. Vaughan's White and a seedling of a rich, brilliant purple, with larger blooms than is customary in this class, were the center of interest.

The W. B. Davis Co., Aurora, Ill., won the first prize for three spikes, any color, with seedling No. 444, since named Glendale. It is a red raspberry shade, with a suggestion of purple. The same variety won second prize for twelve spikes, any variety. First prize for a pink variety not yet introduced, and exhibited for the first time, was won by Mr. Davis's seedling No. 101, since named Mrs. W. B. Davis. Its color is a delicate shade of pink, much like Panama, but larger and carrying full, wide-open florets. It is quite tall and a rather late variety.

Another important exhibit was that of P. Vos & Son, of Grand Rapids, Mich., winners of President Hinkle's cup, quality and variety being considered. Their Red Canna and Chateau Thierry took the eye of many an exhibitor.

A. E. Kunderd, Goshen, Ind., known the world over as the originator of ruffled gladioli, won the Mitchell cup and other prizes with his large and incomparable exhibit of primulinus and ruffled varieties. He also displayed many new seedlings of exquisite color and fine form.

M. F. & C. C. Wright, Sturgis, Mich., originators of Louise, the orchid-flowering gladiolus, occupied a prominent section of the hall with a huge exhibit of that variety. This wonderful, orchid-like gladiolus has won a distinct place for itself. They also presented a showing of new seedlings, which the most critical praised in high terms.

The National Bulb Farms, of Benton Harbor, Mich., added the Rotarians' cup to its collection of trophies, for the best general display of commercial varieties.

The Wing Seed Co., Mechanicsville, O., confined its showings to many noted French varieties, picking up several prizes. Many of these French varieties are undoubtedly destined to have a place among our best commercial varieties.

Vogel, of Battle Creek, was another winner.

Madison Cooper, of Calcium, N. Y., and Dr. Frank E. Bennett, president of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society, St. Thomas, Can., and Mrs. M. B. Hawks, of Vermont, were also among the prize-winners.

President Hinkle, sponsor of Illuminator, the new brilliant crimson-scarlet, practically self, with just enough suffusion of blue to give it added richness, displayed a good showing of these gorgeous spikes and was awarded a certificate of merit by the society. Illuminator has remarkable resistance to dry, scorching weather and wilting hot winds. When this stock becomes more plentiful it is expected to be among the leaders.

Officers Elected.

At the business session of the society last year's officers were reëlected. In addition to the following officers, Dr. S. Irving Moody, of Brockton, Mass.,

Prize-winning Vase of Gladiolus Glendale.

was elected to serve on the executive committee for three years. The present officers are:

President—C. R. Hinkle, St. Joseph, Mich.

Vice-president—Dr. F. E. Bennett, St. Thomas, Ont.

Treasurer—Madison Cooper, Calcium, N. Y.

The executive committee is composed of John J. Prouty, Baldwinsville, N. Y.; Joe Coleman, Ravenna, O., and Dr. S. Irving Moody, Brockton, Mass.

The report of the secretary indicated that the active membership and the funds of the society have been doubled during the past year. In addition to the usual business, the society authorized a revision of the society's by-laws, as the original by-laws of 1910 have become obsolete.

The widespread interest in gladioli is indicated in the numerous invitations received for next year's show. St. Thomas, Ont.; Rochester, N. Y.; Saginaw, Mich.; Chicago, Boston, Buffalo and other cities are pulling their wires for the 1923 exhibition. This question will be decided by the executive committee in the near future.

SUPPLEMENT SUGGESTIONS.

In the issue of The Review for August 3 I read the articles entitled "Seasonable Suggestions" and I should like more information on a few subjects. Can you advise where I can secure seeds or plants of Achillea The Pearl, Lysimachia clethroides and Buddleia magnifica? What are their common names? Any information as to growing these will be appreciated. I. S.—Ky.

Lysimachia clethroides is a native of China and Japan. It belongs to the natural order of primulaceæ. A common name applied to lysimachia is loosestrife. You can obtain this plant from almost any specialist in hardy herbaceous plants. Achillea The Pearl may be obtained from seeds, but a large proportion of the plants will probably come single or semi-double. For that reason it is best to buy one or two plants, which spread rapidly and will soon give you an abundance of stock. A. Perry's White is an improved form of The Pearl and I would recommend you to buy it. I consider it one of the most useful and durable of double white summer flowers, one which no florist can afford to be without. Buddleia magnifica is a glorified form of B. variabilis and blooms outdoors from July until October. In our northern states we cut it down to the ground each spring. With you it will probably not die back at all, but it always makes stronger growth and gives a greater wealth of large racemes if cut back hard. It is commonly called the summer lilac or butterfly shrub. You will find it a robust grower and of simple culture. It will often be found advertised in the Classified section of The Review. The achillea any dealer in hardy perennials should be able to supply. Start buddleia in spring and the other two plants in fall for best results. C. W.

VEGETABLE GROWERS MEET.

At Indianapolis.

"Eat Vegetables for Vitamines," was suggested as a slogan by President Louis F. Miller, Toledo, O., in his address to the several hundred members of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America, gathered in the assembly room of the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, Tuesday, August 22. This is the fourteenth annual convention of the organization and is conceded to be one of the best, if not the best, in point of attendance and business accomplished. Favored by ideal weather, the program was carried out to the letter. But one dissenting note was heard, and that was the seemingly unavoidable system of selecting a new secretary each year, reference being made to the S. A. F. with its advantage of possessing a permanent secretary. Favorable comment was made upon the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," and the one suggested above was felt to be a close relative. The address of the president was meaty and brief, touching strongly upon the need for more publicity, the best means to be given careful consideration. Appeal to the appetite in the form of visible supply was advocated, the cafeteria system being thought far in advance of the restaurant in that, while one traveled with the tin tray along the brass rail, the mind concentrated upon the various viands temptingly displayed to satisfy the most fastidious; then, again, the variety is such as is not found upon the ordinary bill of fare. The matter of salads was dwelt upon; in fact, any method by which the consumption of vegetables could be increased was favored.

The bug question was a teaser, all the search and research of the several scientists resulting in the admission that bugs there will be to the end of time and only by prevention and intense fighting can the enemy be coped with. Powder dusting in preference to liquid spraying seemed to be the consensus.

Exhibitors.

Among the exhibitors were many familiar to readers of The Review.

The American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago, had an exhibit of fittings and photographs, and was represented by R. E. Kurowski.

The Advance Co., Richmond, Ind., showing greenhouse fittings, was represented by J. E. Jones.

The Beeman Tractor Co., Minneapolis, Minn., showed its tractor, with J. Rockefeller in charge.

The T. J. Callahan Co., Dayton, O., had photographs of greenhouses, shown by Ray W. Beverley.

F. W. Eberle, Albany, N. Y., exhibited

the new celery, Wonderful. Geo. E. Philp and E. B. Palmer were representatives.

The Skinner Irrigation Co., Troy, O., had a special display, showing the new hydraulic oscillator. R. D. Conn and W. H. Hennesey were in charge.

The McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, had an exhibit of Puttium and Mesco, material for greenhouses. H. G. Frey was in charge.

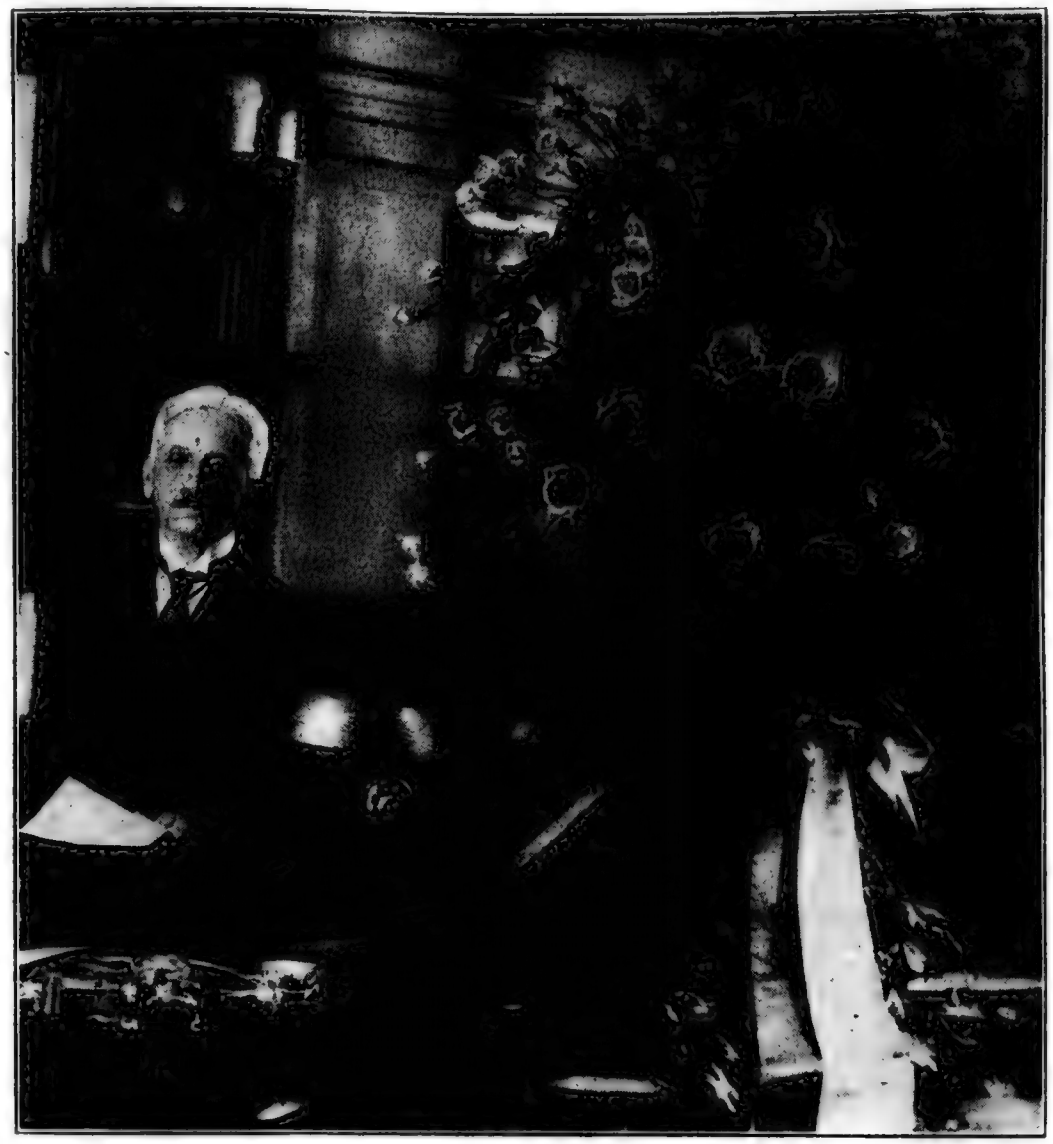
Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y., showed samples of insecticides, etc. Walter Mott was in charge.

S. M. Isbell & Co., Jackson, Mich., were represented by C. O. Wilcox.

In conjunction with the main exhibition at the Claypool hotel, the Indianapolis Growers' Association staged a display of vegetables in Tomlinson hall, for which prizes were awarded. The splendid show drew many exclamations of pleasure from the epicure, who saw in such the worth of living and assurance of vitamines. W. M.

COLUMBIA UNSHAPELY.

We have about 2,000 Columbia roses in the field, which are blooming well as to the amount of blooms, but there are many imperfect blooms. We have no trouble with insects of any kind. The soil is right. The weather was a little dry, but lately we have had rain and still the buds are imperfect. The small buds are well shaped, but as they grow larger they become one-sided. Also we find a considerable number of tip-burned leaves. We shall appreciate it much if you will enlighten us as to our trouble. M. A. S. & S.—O.



Imperfect blooms are characteristic of Columbia when the plants are growing vigorously. It is well when the buds are coming imperfect to pinch out the central bud on each shoot and let the plant produce three or four buds in place of one in the center. This has the effect of "fining down" the buds and making them more shapely. You will notice that buds produced on smaller wood always give perfect flowers.

If the growth is kept clean and free from insects, there is no reason why you would not have as good flowers on your Columbia plants as on Hoosier Beauty, Ophelia and Premier. C. H. T.

WITTBOLD'S ROSE TREE.

Many florists will be interested in the accompanying illustration for two reasons. The gentleman in the picture is John G. Shedd, the head of Marshall Field & Co. Mr. Shedd has developed the largest mercantile institution in the world. He is a modest man and his portrait seldom appears in print. It is worth while noting, among florists, that the world's largest mercantile business is based on quality. Mr. Shedd never has handled the cheapest grade of goods. He found progress easiest by giving good service and selling dependable merchandise, charging what they are worth. It is a course strongly recommended to florists.

A few days ago Mr. Shedd completed fifty years of continuous service in the organization of which he has been the head since the death of Mr. Field. Some thirty or forty other men have preceded Mr. Shedd in completing a half century of service with the house and the addition of another name to the honor roll is regularly made the occasion of some special observance. In this case Henry Wittbold & Son were given orders for three decorations and in each case one of the Wittbold rose trees was used. The rose tree is an invention by George Wittbold. He constructs it with the aid of a double funnel-shaped vase. Any florist could get a tinsmith to make such an article. It consists of two funnel-shaped vases, set one within the other. The inner vase is the same size as the outer one, but longer. Soldered into a position which maintains it raised a couple of inches above the lower section, there is a place to insert the stems of roses between the two and have them remain in water. Across the inner section, a short distance below the top, is a wide-meshed wire screen, and another one farther down. This is on the principle of the well known flower holders used in all sorts of flower receptacles. By putting the stems of the roses through the meshes of the screens they can be kept in any position the decorator wishes. The vase is fastened to the top of a stick anchored in a plant tub. Mr. Wittbold uses the stems of some bay trees, the heads of which had been cut off, but as good a way would be to run a little concrete into a plant tub, stand a stout stick in it and have the vase part so constructed that it would slip over the top of the stem. For the Shedd celebration the Wittbolds made three of these rose trees. One stood beside Mr. Shedd's chair at the breakfast table. He found another beside his desk in the retail store and the third was beside his desk at the wholesale store. In making the rose trees for this occasion it was desirable to carry out the idea of a semicentennial, so the trees were made with fifty roses on each side, so placed that only fifty flowers would be in sight at a time. The ribbons were gold in color.

Battle Creek, Mich.—S. W. Coggan has torn down part of his greenhouses and will erect a Foley house 38x89 across them. A brick store and garage are being built, of two stories. A reinforced concrete cellar provides a cooling room.

Winston-Salem, N. C.—Weitz Florist, Inc., has leased the store room in the Zinzendorf hotel, where he will open an up-to-date flower store. The store will be in charge of T. M. Myers, formerly of Asheville, N. C. The store will be opened about September 10.

Defiance, O.—A new range of greenhouses, to be known as the South Clinton Street Greenhouses, under the ownership and management of Simon Brouwer, is now under construction. The new range is located on the grounds which adjoin the Riverside cemetery. Mr. Brouwer is a Hollander and has had a wide experience in the growing of cut flowers and plants in France, England and Germany, as well as in his native country and the United States. He will specialize in cemetery decorative plants and cut flowers.

F. W. Eberle, Albany, N. Y., exhibited

the new celery, Wonderful. Geo. E. Philp and E. B. Palmer were representatives.

The Skinner Irrigation Co., Troy, O., had a special display, showing the new hydraulic oscillator. R. D. Conn and W. H. Hennesey were in charge.

The McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, had an exhibit of Puttium and Mesco, material for greenhouses. H. G. Frey was in charge.

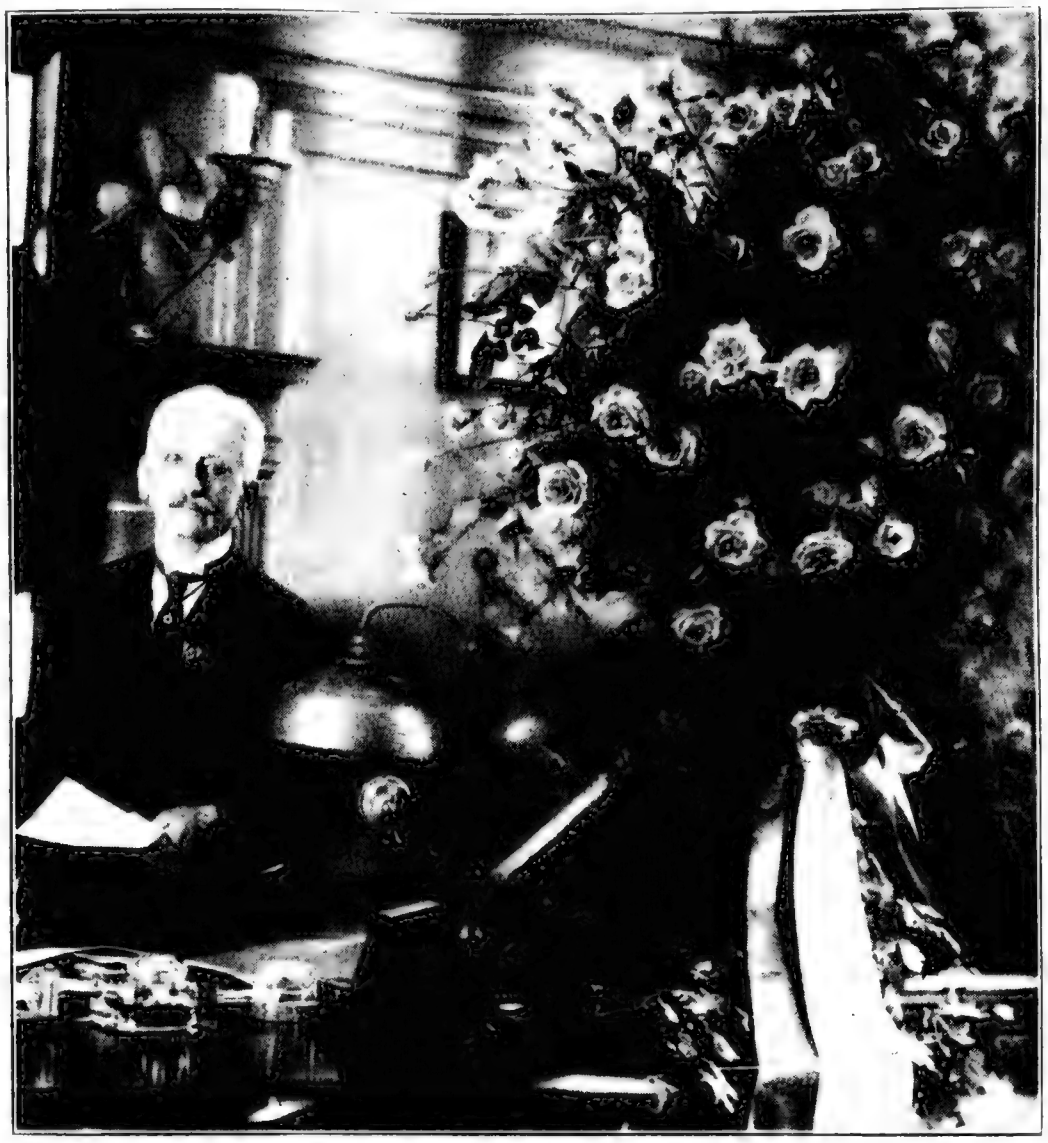
Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y., showed samples of insecticides, etc. Walter Mott was in charge.

S. M. Isbell & Co., Jackson, Mich., were represented by C. O. Wilcox.

In conjunction with the main exhibition at the Claypool hotel, the Indianapolis Growers' Association staged a display of vegetables in Tomlinson hall, for which prizes were awarded. The splendid show drew many exclamations of pleasure from the epicure, who saw in such the worth of living and assurance of vitamines. W. M.

COLUMBIA UNSHAPELY.

We have about 2,000 Columbia roses in the field, which are blooming well as to the amount of blooms, but there are many imperfect blooms. We have no trouble with insects of any kind. The soil is right. The weather was a little dry, but lately we have had rain and still the buds are imperfect. The small buds are well shaped, but as they grow larger they become one-sided. Also we find a considerable number of tip-burned leaves. We shall appreciate it much if you will enlighten us as to our trouble. M. A. S. & S.—O.



Imperfect blooms are characteristic of Columbia when the plants are growing vigorously. It is well when the buds are coming imperfect to pinch out the central bud on each shoot and let the plant produce three or four buds in place of one in the center. This has the effect of "fining down" the buds and making them more shapely. You will notice that buds produced on smaller wood always give perfect flowers.

If the growth is kept clean and free from insects, there is no reason why you would not have as good flowers on your Columbia plants as on Hoosier Beauty, Ophelia and Premier. C. H. T.

WITTBOLD'S ROSE TREE.

Many florists will be interested in the accompanying illustration for two reasons. The gentleman in the picture is John G. Shedd, the head of Marshall Field & Co. Mr. Shedd has developed the largest mercantile institution in the world. He is a modest man and his portrait seldom appears in print. It is worth while noting, among florists, that the world's largest mercantile business is based on quality. Mr. Shedd never has handled the cheapest grade of goods. He found progress easiest by giving good service and selling dependable merchandise, charging what they are worth. It is a course strongly recommended to florists.

A few days ago Mr. Shedd completed fifty years of continuous service in the organization of which he has been the head since the death of Mr. Field. Some thirty or forty other men have preceded Mr. Shedd in completing a half century of service with the house and the addition of another name to the honor roll is regularly made the occasion of some special observance. In this case Henry Wittbold & Son were given orders for three decorations and in each case one of the Wittbold rose trees was used. The rose tree is an invention by George Wittbold. He constructs it with the aid of a double funnel-shaped vase. Any florist could get a tinsmith to make such an article. It consists of two funnel-shaped vases, set one within the other. The inner vase is the same size as the outer one, but longer. Soldered into a position which maintains it raised a couple of inches above the lower section, there is a place to insert the stems of roses between the two and have them remain in water. Across the inner section, a short distance below the top, is a wide-meshed wire screen, and another one farther down. This is on the principle of the well known flower holders used in all sorts of flower receptacles. By putting the stems of the roses through the meshes of the screens they can be kept in any position the decorator wishes. The vase is fastened to the top of a stick anchored in a plant tub. Mr. Wittbold uses the stems of some bay trees, the heads of which had been cut off, but as good a way would be to run a little concrete into a plant tub, stand a stout stick in it and have the vase part so constructed that it would slip over the top of the stem. For the Shedd celebration the Wittbolds made three of these rose trees. One stood beside Mr. Shedd's chair at the breakfast table. He found another beside his desk in the retail store and the third was beside his desk at the wholesale store. In making the rose trees for this occasion it was desirable to carry out the idea of a semicentennial, so the trees were made with fifty roses on each side, so placed that only fifty flowers would be in sight at a time. The ribbons were gold in color.

Battle Creek, Mich.—S. W. Coggan has torn down part of his greenhouses and will erect a Foley house 38x89 across them. A brick store and garage are being built, of two stories. A reinforced concrete cellar provides a cooling room.

Winston-Salem, N. C. Weitz Florist, Inc., has leased the store room in the Zinzendorf hotel, where he will open an up-to-date flower store. The store will be in charge of T. M. Myers, formerly of Asheville, N. C. The store will be opened about September 10.

Defiance, O.—A new range of greenhouses, to be known as the South Clinton Street Greenhouses, under the ownership and management of Sam Brouwer, is now under construction. The new range is located on the grounds which adjoin the Riverside cemetery. Mr. Brouwer is a Hollander and has had a wide experience in the growing of cut flowers and plants in France, England and Germany, as well as in his native country and the United States. He will specialize in cemetery decorative plants and cut flowers.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

WANT to make a barrel of money next spring out of a thimbleful of seed? Sow petunia.

MOST price-cutters are quality-cutters, too. The public is fond of the former—it's human nature—but never of the latter.

AUGUST always makes the year's worst record in the matter of collections in this trade. Any florist, selling to the public, who lets accounts run past early July is likely to have to hold his breath until September.

A YOUNG set of officers was elected at Kansas City. President, vice-president and a director—Paul Klingsporn—were all born in 1880. Roy Wilcox is but 35. Our secretary and treasurer are, 'twould seem, perennially youthful.

A FLORIST suggests that, on the occasion of a bereavement, flowers should be sent, not to the corpse, but to his or her mourning relatives. They are the tokens of friends' sympathy, not decorations for a grave. Flowers are for the living, not the dead.

ANY florist who does bedding out in spring can do still more with shrubs by fall planting. Pretty nearly everybody will "plant another shrub" if you offer to take the job off his hands for a small consideration and most of the orders will run into more money than the window boxes and the lawn beds do.

THE more you know about your business, the more apt you are to interest other persons in it. No member of the trade, be he store clerk or greenhouse hand, will fail to find greater knowledge of flowers of value to him. Daily experience can be supplemented greatly by reading. If you haven't a library of trade lore, start one now.

MANY organizations make it a rule to order printed in the proceedings without reading such reports and papers as are not presented in person. Rarely is action desired on a report whose maker cannot or does not be present to render it himself. Such a rule would have permitted the S. A. F. convention last week to proceed in its normal schedule without crowding and hurrying at the last sessions.

THERE will not be any trouble selling good plants in the spring, but the man who makes the most money at any stage will be the one who grows quality rather than quantity.

JUST another week and September will be knocking at the door, summer will be gone and with it the season of our discontent. Are you ready for the increase in business which will come as the schools reopen and people settle down for the fall and winter?

THERE is much interest in the subject of oil as fuel for greenhouse heating, since next winter's coal supply will come high. Few florists will install oil heating equipment on short notice, but when experiment has proved its reliability, many will want it.

FIELD-GROWN carnation plants are selling well, in spite of a larger supply than in recent years. Many of those who offered surpluses in the Classified columns of The Review sold out with promptness rather unexpected under the circumstances. Field-grown plants will sell until they freeze up.

IN the old days florists sold only at the greenhouses and there was so little competition people could be drawn long distances, but it will not be long before there is a downtown flower store in every town of even a few thousand inhabitants. About the only way for the local greenhouse man to delay this form of competition is to open such a store himself.

COAL SOON AVAILABLE.

Though only a limited number of mines, scattered over four states, were opened as a result of the settlement arrived at by operators and mine workers' officials at Cleveland last week, it seems that the basis of the agreement will be used to make early settlements in other coal mining states. Agreement has been reached in the Illinois fields, and Indiana is following its neighbor.

Coal dealers anticipate the movement of fuel from Illinois mines early next week, at the latest, and it is stated by the state fuel administrator of Illinois that greenhouse owners' contracts may be filled. It is doubtful if, after a steady supply begins coming, the priority orders will affect any but spot coal.

It is altogether likely that the same attitude will be taken by the fuel administrators in other states where mining is going on. Of course, where shipments must be made from one state to another, necessity of application to Washington will delay the florist in obtaining his coal supply. It is advisable, at this stage, for the grower who has not enough coal to keep him going a month or so, to make application through his coal dealer for shipments from the mines. Since the application must pass from the hands of the coal dealer to the state administrator, thence to Washington, back to the state administrator, into the hands of the dealer, before it reaches the florist again, it will be seen that plenty of time must be allowed before one hopes to have the permit in hand. For this reason foresightedness is necessary, and even though it appears likely that the coal cars will be moving in considerable numbers within two or three weeks, it will be well for growers whose bins are empty to take the precaution of securing such permits. The grower who has a contract with his regular coal man appears to have a good chance of getting his needs met; anyone who has been waiting to buy cheap coal on the market will have more difficulty in getting his supply.

NO BOOM COMING.

One who reads the daily newspapers might be carried away by the enthusiasm of the writers on business topics, who are pulling loyally for business revival. There is no question that the prospect of an early resumption of coal mining and the apparent abandonment of the railroad shop men by the other railroad unions have produced cheerfulness in financial markets which is reflected in rising prices for securities, especially those in the railroad groups. There is every indication that there will be moderately good business in most lines this autumn, but there is nothing to justify the view that a boom is impending. America is fortunate in again having large crops, but these crops cannot realize more than moderate prices so long as the European situation is such that Europe cannot buy freely of our surplus. Nor can Europe, with its depreciated money and lack of credit, buy our surplus of manufactured articles, except in limited quantity. More than ever before, America must rely on itself this year; we must consume what we produce and our production capacity is greater than any domestic demand which can be foreseen. Not many florists are anxious to see boom times in the immediate future. A good many florists made money out of the boom, but most of them met enough difficulties in doing it so that they will be quite content with the average good business which seems in prospect for the next few months. Florists unquestionably will share in any increase in general activity which comes from the harvest time and the resumption in industry, but coal mining is being resumed on a basis which does not speak for lower prices for the fuel necessary for the life of this trade.

THE REVIEW SELLS ANYTHING.

Pretty nearly everybody in this trade recognizes that the Classified ads in The Review bring exceptionally good returns in comparison with their small cost. But this is not the only department of the paper from which the returns to advertisers are out of all proportion to the cost. The small 1-inch For Sale advertisements do good work, not only in the sale of greenhouse property and retail stores, but in turning into cash anything in the line of equipment a florist cares to dispose of. Like this:

Please discontinue our ad for second-hand greenhouse material, as the orders are coming in so fast we think we shall have to send back a good many checks.—Bentzen Floral Co., St. Louis, Mo., August 18, 1922.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising, you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

S. T., O.—Crassula arborescens.

A. & S., O.—Agapanthus umbellatus, a native of Cape of Good Hope; belongs to the natural order liliaceæ and is commonly called African lily.

L. L., Tenn.—Euphorbia marginata, commonly called snow on the mountain or ghost weed.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

Business Bows to Convention.

Business gave way entirely to pleasure last week. The florists were so pleased with the opportunity of entertaining so many visitors that they gave no heed to anything else. Convention hall was the objective point while the convention was on. Enough clerks were left on duty to welcome the visitors who found time between sessions to visit the stores. The proprietors were at the meetings or mingling with the delegates at the various exhibits. Many parties were made up for trips to the greenhouses. A number of S. A. F. members who came from New York and other distant places remained after the convention closed. A few left the city Friday; some went home Saturday, and others remained until Sunday. They were deeply interested in the Kansas City flower stores and said that they were equal to the best to be found any place in the country and far ahead of the majority.

Various Notes.

Miss Nettie Seymour, Mrs. John Murray, Walter Oberg and Ernest Moore, of the William L. Rock Flower Co., left on their vacations Saturday, August 19.

Mrs. L. C. Stuart, of the Bohannon Floral Co., Chicago, and Miss Catherine Dix, Leavenworth, Kan., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Bohannon the week of August 14.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barclay, of Liberty, Mo., were in the city Saturday, August 19. Mr. Barclay is of the firm of Barclay & Moore, dahlia growers. They have between six and seven acres of fine dahlias and have just cut the last of about 60,000 gladioli. Although there has been heavy rain within a few miles of the river land, on which the dahlias are grown, they have had no rain since July 4. Notwithstanding this, the flowers this season are better than ever.

There was a called meeting of the Florists' Club Thursday, August 24, at 8 p. m. in the W. L. Rock building. Nominations were made for the election, which is to be held at the annual meeting of the club in September.

William L. Rock, general local chairman of arrangements for the S. A. F. convention, called a meeting of the chairmen of all committees at the Midday Club Monday, August 21. Reports were made by the chairmen and the success of the convention was discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Boyd have returned from a motor trip to Colorado Springs, Colo. They were away three weeks.

E. D. Ellsworth, of the Rosery, bought one of the largest iceboxes exhibited at the convention by the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

Henry Kusik and John Klaus left August 18 for New York. They sailed for Europe August 22.

Asa Chandler, a pioneer horticulturist of this city, died August 15 at his home, 4624 Broadway. He was 80 years of age. Mr. Chandler had been an invalid for the last three years. He was a native of Dayton, O., and lived there until he enlisted in the Federal army at the outbreak of the Civil war. He took part in a number of battles and was badly wounded in an engagement near Atlanta, Ga. Recovering from his wounds, he rejoined the army and remained until the close of the war. He then came to Kansas City and bought a large tract of ground near Argentine, Kan., where he planted fruit trees. His business prospered and he became one of the most successful horticulturists in this section. His sons, C. A. Chandler and M. E. Chandler, proprietors of the Chandler older, they assumed the hardest part of nursery near Argentine were bought. Landscape & Floral Co., learned the business from their father. As he grew older, they assumed the hardest part of the work. The old farm was sold some years ago and the present farm and nursery near Argentine was bought. Six years ago Mr. Chandler retired. He bought a home near the retail flower store of his sons, in order to be near them, and he and his wife, who survives, lived by themselves. Besides his widow and two sons, three grandchildren survive. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, August 16, at 2:30 p. m. Burial was in Forest Hill cemetery. J. E. K.

GULLETT & SONS PICNIC.

On this page is shown in illustration a group of the employees of Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., who attended the annual picnic at Evans Grove, near Lincoln. The picnic was attended by 150 employees and members of their families a few days ago. It has been the custom for fifteen years with this firm to hold an annual picnic.

The sports and games this year included a match game in the forenoon between the married men and the single men. This game finished in five innings, when the bell rang for lunch, with a score of 7 to 5 in favor of the married men. The batteries for the married men were Ora Turley, pitcher, and Dobbie Robins, catcher. Batteries for the single men were George Amberg, pitcher, and Leon Douglas, catcher. G. L. Weidenhoft, foreman of the new place, was official score catcher and C. E. Gullett was umpire.

In the afternoon a red-hot game was played between the forces of the cut flower range and the pot plant range. The batteries for this event were the same as in the morning game, with Babe Nichols acting as umpire and Clyde Jones as official scorekeeper. The game ended, after ten bloody innings, with a score of 4 to 2 in favor of the pot plant range.

There were numerous other games, with fishing and boating for the ladies; croquet, tennis, horseshoe pitching and dancing, and ample refreshments for everybody.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

There is nothing new to say of the market this week; business has continued on the same scale and under the same conditions as in the previous weeks of this rather disappointing summer. The only change seems to have been an increase in the receipts of roses, for which there was no increased demand. There has been at least as much, probably a little more, demand as in any other summer, but the increase in production has been considerable. There have been too many flowers; that is all there has been to it.

Of indoor flowers roses are the only ones received in quantity to cut any figure on the market. The supply last week showed the growth the plants are making, stems up to thirty inches now being available, though not in large quantity. The bulk of the supply is 12-inch to 24-inch and of these the receipts so exceed the demand that only low prices are obtainable, with the result that shorter lengths are in scarcely any request. In the effort to hold the gains made in the previous week, some wholesale houses accumulated considerable quantities of roses, which had to be jobbed off at unmentionable figures August 19, or sent to the dump. White again is in considerable supply in a few places, but red is less plentiful than heretofore. Premier leads, few Russell being seen.

Of the outdoor flowers gladioli and asters are the only ones meriting special mention. The supply exceeds the demand. Good asters are not overabundant and the best sell up to 5 cents, but of the low grades the supply is limited only by the wholesalers' willingness to accept them. Almost any grower will send in as many short-stemmed, small flowers as his wholesaler is willing he should. Such stock fetches so little money growers say it scarcely pays for the picking.

Any observer will note that the gladioli grown specially for cut flowers have almost disappeared from the market, the stock now being received in such large quantity showing by the way it is cut that the growers' prime purpose was the crop of bulbs. Three or four big bulb growers are flooding the market with their blooms. Most of this stock is in first-class condition and the varieties are the newest and best. Excellent values are offered, especially for quantity buyers, and it is this which restricts the demand for and price of roses.

Carnations are beginning to appear here and there. A few sweet peas are seen, but they lack quality. A few calls on a short market advanced the price of valley last week, but the opposition was so strong that it tends to sag back to the regular summer price. Lilies can not be sold above 15 cents in face of the large supply of other flowers. Tritomas, now here, show the passing of summer. Also, dahlias are beginning to arrive in some quantity.

Can Get Illinois Coal.

Officers and trustees of the Chicago Florists' Club were summoned to a meeting in the loop, August 21, by President Kohout. Secretary Lautenschlager and Directors August Poehlmann and W. J. Keimel met with the president to confer regarding the coal situation, which is becoming a matter of vital importance to growers as cooler weather approaches. Though some growers are well provided, others have but two or three weeks' supply. It seemed important, therefore, that immediate action be started, in order that coal might be obtained by the growers in this vicinity before their need became critical.

A way was sought out of the red tape, which August Poehlmann's experience showed to be an almost insurmountable obstacle to securing coal for greenhouses in the presence of the priority orders recently imposed. A conference was suggested, therefore, with the state fuel administrator, Robert Medill, in the City Hall Square building, Chicago. It was secured by them that same afternoon.

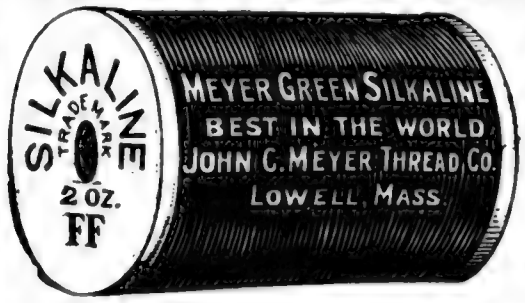
Mr. Medill stated it as his belief that coal would be mined within a few days, or at any rate at the beginning of next week, in the Illinois mines. When fuel is thus available, he stated, coal dealers will be permitted to fill their contract orders, regardless of priorities, since it will be assumed, when mining in the state is general, that coal will be available for those higher on the list.



The sentiment of the larger coal dealers, as expressed to greenhouse men who have contracts with them, is that coal will be shipped on such contracts, since the individual dealer is most interested, now that the crisis has passed, in taking care of his regular customers.

Enter the Editor, Mr. Ziska.

John Ziska, who recently was badly bitten by the golf bug, is arranging a championship match for florists, to take place at the Briergate Golf Club, at Deerfield, Ill., August 28 or 29. Entries already have been received from Homer Lang, Roland Poehlmann, Alex. Henderson, H. N. Bruns, Herman Bruns and F. R. Weissgerber. C. L. Washburn and Mrs. Washburn are counted on to participate and Mr. Ziska asks The Review to notify all other florist golfers. Mr. Ziska would like to have every florist who plays the game participate in the tournament. He asks that they make entry with him by addressing him at 169 North Wabash avenue, or calling on telephone Central 0463.

ALL THE NEW VARIETIES IN QUANTITY

Our sources of supply include the largest growers of all the newest and most strikingly colored Gladioli, including many of Kunderd's Ruffled Novelties not yet widely distributed.

Mrs. Frank Pendleton, the variety that's "just like an orchid;" the best seller for the past several years.

E. J. Shaylor, a beautiful deep rose-pink, the most popular color with retail florists.

Herada, a beautiful opalescent lavender-shading to plum: very popular.

Ida Van, deep salmon red, or flaming orange pink; very rich and brilliant color.

Flora, the yellow that is giving Schwaben a run for first place in its color; and many others—plenty light pink and white.

the office each day in spite of considerable pain.

Leaving last week's convention, Frank M. Johnson, Eric Johnson and George Wittbold, with Fred Tredup driving Mr. Johnson's Packard, spent a day at the Randall furniture factory in St. Louis and drove 385 miles to Chicago August 19. F. M. Johnson spent Sunday with his family and started in the car August 21 for Traverse City, Mich.

Ed. Jacobs appeared at the store August 21, but could not find his desk, as the entire establishment had been rearranged while Mr. Jacobs was in the Deaconess hospital for an operation for appendicitis. He has recovered rapidly, but has not yet regained his strength.

Arthur M. Anderson returned to duty August 21. He was taken ill while driving with a party to Kansas City and spent five days in bed in a hotel at Des Moines.

William Abrahamson went from Kansas City to Knoxville, Tenn., on the call of A. J. McNutt, who is opening a new store there and wanted expert advice regarding the fixtures and arrangement.

In the cut flower department recent receipts have included quantities of large, long-stemmed asters from the J. W. Jung Seed Co., of Randolph, Wis. Eric Johnson considers the stock superior to any other outdoor asters reaching the market and the Jung Seed Co. is preparing to issue a special aster catalogue for florists, to obtain a wide distribution for the seed.

Various Notes.

Returning from his holiday in Europe, S. J. Pearce looks to have been greatly benefited by the first real rest he has had in years. He found most of trade interest, as is natural, in Holland. Business is extremely active there just now. He found that the approach of the shipping season has revealed shortages in many items, the crop being below the average, and exporters are hustling to find the bulbs with which to fill orders taken here in the first part of the year. Many orders probably will be shipped short on some varieties.

Marion A. Palinsky, formerly of 2865 Palmer street, has moved her store to 2160 North California avenue.

From Kansas City, R. E. Kurowski went to Indianapolis to represent the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. at the convention of the Vegetable Growers of America. President P. L. McKee and Advertising Manager Evans returned home in the Packard Twin-Six.

There are indications that the Chicago market will have more stock in the approaching season than ever before. For instance, the Tonner wholesale house is handling a cut of roses which formerly went to another market. Henry Arnold, of the Tonner staff, is motoring in Wisconsin with his wife, their destination being Eagle River.

A. E. Hunt, the Evanston grower, was in town August 21, looking us over, his first visit to the market in two months.

Charles Erne and his family are out in their automobile for a week's holiday, with no set destination.

When John Michal opened a second store within three blocks of his well known establishment on Stony Island avenue he did it to shut out competition; it was a certainty someone else soon would open there if he did not. Now he confesses he was unnecessarily apprehensive about competition, but has found the second store a good thing on its merits. For a few weeks after the attractive second store was opened, says Mr. Michal, it drew customers from the old stand, but they soon went back and now almost every dollar the new place takes in is new business. As the stand is an especially good one, Mr. Michal feels extremely well pleased.

Mount Greenwood has become a city of almost 30,000, sleeping the long sleep amid most beautiful surroundings. The cemetery is specially well worth a visit now, while all the plantings are in flower, but it will be something to remember if seen in autumn, when the oaks are under color.

Doing business in a greater variety of lines than most florists dealing principally in cut flowers, George Fisher says there is little to complain of this summer. He keeps busy, finding something doing all the time.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The extremely hot spell last week lasted until Sunday, when the weather became unduly cool. This played havoc with flowers under glass, and served to increase the supply of outdoor flowers. Gladioli have been arriving in such quantity as to cause a wastage of about half. Much stock sent to market is from small or second-season bulbs, and it is moved only at prices which hardly cover express charges. Asters are, perhaps, a trifle lighter in supply than a week ago, but there is still too much stock.

A few chrysanthemums are seen, but they do not attract, and are hardly up to the standard of some of the best asters.

Roses are rather light in supply, and show the effect of the hot weather. There is a moderate arrival of American Beauty. Hybrid teas are arriving in quantity sufficient to meet the small demand, and buyers who can use open stock get it at their own prices. The price range for tight stock remains unchanged.

Lilies of all kinds are plentiful, including a good quantity of outside-grown stock.

There are no carnations, excepting, possibly, a few cut from field plants, which are usable only in funeral work.

The supply of orchids is light, but sales of such as arrive drag.

Miscellaneous flowers arrive in vast quantities every day. A few move at fairly good prices and the remainder is cleared at concessions substantial enough to keep it from the ash barrel.

Dahlias are becoming more plentiful, and the better sorts move freely at fair prices. Rubbish is plentiful, and can hardly be given away. Much stock is spoiled in shipping.

Other available flowers are daisies, delphiniums, gaillardias, feverfew, gypsophila, calendulas, zinnias, liatris, cosmos, buddleia, veronica, cornflowers, bouvardia, marigolds, tuberoses, tritomas, chrysanthemums and phlox.

WHOLESALE DAHLIA GROWERS.

Members of the Wholesale Dahlia Growers' Association met at the Pennsylvania hotel, New York, August 14, to discuss problems informally. Matters of prices came up, and it was generally agreed that they should be maintained at levels which would cover cost of production, the figures as to each variety being based upon the costs of those growing it most largely. Thus unprofitable surpluses are expected to be avoided. Those members who grow dahlias for cut flowers extensively have also as their object the dropping of unprofitable varieties.

The Market.

In the heart of the dull season, the second week in August, with the mercury away up and people afar off, the market is a bit better. There are not so many flowers and prices for the good ones have improved. There are still entirely too many outdoor flowers. There are also too many poor flowers, notably poor asters, which are without value. But good asters are selling well; so are good roses. The midseason varieties of asters and astermums are now excellent. Gladioli promise to be in heavier supply until frost than was at first expected. They are still cheap. Roses from the old crop are pretty well over. The supply of new crop flowers is light. Such of them as show quality command fair prices.

Some idea of the strength or weakness of the market may be gathered from the fact that an attempt was made to advance the price of Easter lilies. They were selling pretty well at a price that was considered too low. Immediately upon the price being advanced, the demand disappeared. After orders had ceased for one day the price dropped back.

Large cattleyas are scarce; there are a few of the smaller C. Harrisoniæ. Dahlias have come, but they are unwelcome; it is too early and too hot.

Baseball.

The teams competing in the florists' league for the Campbell cup are well down the home stretch. The three leaders have improved their positions during the week. Bickmore retains the lead; the Retailers are a good second, while Bayersdorfer has gained on the leader in the last fortnight by four straight victories. The Independents have withdrawn protest against the "unknown" and the game of July 2 is scored for the Retailers, 14 to 7.

An Episode in High Life.

Samuel S. Pennock tells a story of the agricultural meeting held in Washington last winter, at which he represented the S. A. F. President Harding opened the meeting with an address and it was closed by William Jennings Bryan. Among other things Mr. Bryan said smilingly that it took an expert to tell the difference between Republican soil and Democratic soil. Mr. Pennock thought that this, under the circumstances, was so funny that he repeated it to Dr. Marlatt, chairman of the federal horticultural board, who was present, but Dr. Marlatt failed to see anything funny in it.

A Red Letter Day.

The telephone bell rang; it was John Whilldin. He would be back in an hour. When Mr. Whilldin came he was in fine spirits. The plan was all right; there was only one thing the matter; there were not enough pot plants. Then came that boyish laugh we all know and love. There were stories of how Mr. Whilldin suggested to Robert Craig and John N. May that there should be a standard flower pot and how it was done. There were gifts of cigars and telephone protectors and score cards, and Mr. Whilldin was off for Bristol.

Various Notes.

Edward Sutton, of Greensboro, N. C., has been in town.

George Burton has commenced work on his new farm at Arlingham. He is digging a well and will do some grading.

Zieger & Son have a promising lot of Golden Glow chrysanthemums that are ready to cut. Mr. Zieger has just returned from his vacation.

H. S. Price is in New Orleans.

R. Q. Shoch is at Barnegat.

Robert Q. Shoch attended the annual meeting of the North Carolina State Florists' Association, at the Yarborough hotel, Raleigh, N. C., July 25. Mr. Shoch was much interested in the proceedings. He said that there were about 100 present and that they took a building for display at the state fair next fall.

Edward Reid is receiving some nice flowers of the new rose, Mrs. W. G. Harding. They are grown by David Anderson, of Drexel Hill, Pa.

Bernard Eschner received a dispatch from Kansas City that Philadelphia made a fine showing; that the M. Rice Co. received the only certificate of merit awarded for florists' supplies and that the firm's exhibit was sold.

The Market.

We have had the warmest, most humid and most uncomfortable week of the summer, just when we were afraid that summer had deserted us and that fall was almost here. Old Sol certainly did his handsomest to make life miserable, and he succeeded admirably. It seems cruel to discuss market conditions, with the thermometer vaulting into the nineties with consummate ease daily, and we would feign draw a curtain over the scene. However, we run across like conditions from time to time yearly and the fact that flowers are cheap and all but unsalable means but little to the grower accustomed to these changes, and even less to the salesman and retailer.

Gladioli rule the roost overwhelmingly. The prices are almost unquotable and great numbers find their way to hospitals and other charitable institutions, where the flowers bring joy and comfort to many a sick and stricken soul. Asters are also in heavy oversupply and the prices rule low. The frequent showers and general humidity have marked many of the flowers. There are some sweet peas, but no one seems to want them. Sweet sultans are good and there is the usual miscellaneous assortment of open-air flowers, among which dahlias and everlastings are prominent.

Lilies are but few, but calls for them are few. No carnations are seen and they can well be spared for some weeks. Roses have had hard sledding and the prices have ruled lower than a week ago, with short-stemmed stock as low as $5 per thousand, and even fancies did not go beyond $8 per hundred. The Golden Glow and Early Frost chrysanthemums coming in hang fire considerably now that they are no longer novelties. There are hardly any local cattleyas, and it required the combined resources of several prominent New Jersey growers to furnish several hundred for a prominent local retailer August 18. There was something of a spurt in American Beauties at the end of the week for a large funeral order. Asparagus has sold moderately. Delphiniums have been good

Three Good Colors

We now have a Blue and Deep Pink dye that are fit companions to our famous Yellow. The blue is as blue by artificial light as by day. Peas, Roses, Carnations, Tulips, Paper Whites, Freesias, Larkspurs, Shasta Daisies, and almost any flowers take these dyes freely.

Gardeners' Meeting.

A well attended meeting of local members of the National Association of Gardeners was held at Horticultural hall, August 18. Excellent reports were received from the various committees. It was voted to hold the banquet the evening of the second day of the national convention, at Hotel Brunswick, the headquarters of the association. Among speakers on the opening day of the convention will be Mayor J. M. Curley, Commissioner of Agriculture A. W. Gilbert, Albert C. Burrage and Miss Marian R. Case, of Weston.

That there will be a large attendance is evidenced by the fact that already reservations have been made from St. Louis, Lake Forest, Ill.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Sewickley, Pa.; New Jersey, New York and other horticultural centers, and it will undoubtedly be the most largely attended convention yet held. Several prominent Brookline estates will be included in the second day's outing and lunches will be served in the morning at the H. I. Hunnewell estate, Wellesley, and in the afternoon at Lars Anderson's, Brookline. A further meeting of local members will be held August 30.

Various Notes.

A great dahlia exhibition will be held in Boston September 9 and 10. The Massachusetts Horticultural Society and the Dahlia Society of New England will combine in this show, which will fill Horticultural hall. There are no fewer than eighty competitive classes, of which eight are allotted to amateurs. The season has been an admirable one for dahlias and a wonderful display is assured. We hope more effort will be made to display the flowers artistically than in former years. The officers of the Dahlia Society of New England are: President, Thomas Leavitt, Dorchester,

The funeral of William M. Wood, Jr., the 30-year-old son of the head of the American Woolen Co., who was killed last week in an automobile accident, was held at Andover, August 20, and was noteworthy for the great number of magnificent floral designs sent. Carbone's furnished a superb casket cover containing 500 cattleyas, including many gigas, brassocattleyas, C. Dowiana and choice hybrids. T. F. Galvin, Jr., used 2,000 American Beauty roses in decorating the chapel in which the services were held, and also furnished many choice designs. Other prominent retailers in Boston also sent a number of handsome pieces.

Theodore Outerbridge, of Sunnylands, Bermuda, was one of our callers last week. He is noted as the producer of the "Fairy Isle Easter lily," better described as a disease-proof and glorified Lilium Harrisii. Great efforts have been made in late years to eradicate disease and stock such as Mr. Outerbridge produces is now sold with a guarantee of freedom from disease. It is good news to know that once more Lilium Harrisii, the queen of all the Easter lilies, can be had absolutely clean.

J. J. Slattery, manager at the Park street store of T. F. Galvin, Inc., is enjoying his vacation along the New England coast.

A great show of gladioli was held in the Mansfield town hall Saturday, August 19, which rivaled in many respects the big Boston show of a week

GLADIOLI AT BOSTON

GLADIOLUS SHOW IN BOSTON.

Given by Two Societies.

A new high-water mark was reached in the exhibition that opened in Horticultural hall August 12. The Massachusetts Horticultural Society and the New England Gladiolus Society combined in this show, and the exhibits occupied all available space in the several halls. The quality was superb, thanks to several successive days of cool and overcast weather and a fine supply of moisture all summer. The red and crimson varieties, which burn in hot weather, were in perfect condition.

The exhibits of the New England Gladiolus Society were crowded, but arranged more systematically than they were a year ago. Another year the society should arrange to have winners' names written on the prize cards, on which a line is provided for that purpose. If a premium list could also be prepared for the representatives of the press, it would save them a great deal of hard work. I hope the officials will endeavor to remedy these defects another year. No meeting of the society was held, it being voted to hold it in November.

B. Hammond Tracy, of Cedar Acres, Wenham, lectured each afternoon of the show on gladioli before large and appreciative audiences. The attendance of the public each day was large, while the number of varieties was more and more bewildering. The steady advance of the primulinus hybrids in popular favor was unquestioned, these being admired far more than the larger and heavier gandavensis section.

Gladiolus Society's Awards.

Awards made by the New England Gladiolus Society were as follows:

Three vases, three spikes each, distinct ruffled varieties—F. S. Reed, first, with Tampa, Purple Glory, Pride of Goshen; Mrs. M. B. Hawks, Bennington, Vt., second.

Fifty named varieties—A. L. Stephen, first, with a superb lot of spikes; S. E. Spencer, second.

Twenty-five named varieties—A. L. Stephen, first; C. F. Fairbanks, second.

Some Features.

A. L. Stephen secured a silver medal for a wonderful collection, mostly arranged in large vases on a long, sloping bank. His spikes were of superfine quality; specially fine were Avalon, Rosy Glow, Glorious, Pink Lily, Tampa, Myrtle, Snowdrift, Gypsy Queen, Liebesfeuer, Persia, Emily Ashe, Moonlight, Hazel Dawn, Sheila, Pollyander, Florence, Desdemona, Catherine, Mariposa, Sulphur Glow, Concordia and White Glory.

L. E. Spencer secured a bronze medal for an extensive collection, comprising both gandavensis and Lemoinei types, splendidly arranged.

Jelle Roos, the well known Concord specialist, was on hand with a group of finely grown varieties, including many of the newest and best.

C. W. Brown, of Ashland, had a tempting group of fine varieties.

Hav-a-look Gardens, South Billerica, Mass., had many fine dahlias, as well as gladioli.

T. H. Hughes had a nice lot of decorative dahlias.

One of the star features of the show was a beautiful basket of American Beauty gladioli from Thomas Cogger, carrying eleven and twelve perfect flowers per stalk. This well merited the silver medal awarded by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society. The Bay State Nurseries showed the best collection of perennial phloxes. Some of the best varieties were: Europa, W. E. Egan, Queen, Miss Lingard, Gruppenkonigen, Tapis Blanc, Etta's Choice, F. G. Von Lassburg, Pantheon, Mme. Mauret, Annie Cook and Richard Wallace.

T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. also showed fine collections of phloxes.

The Bay State Nurseries had 100 vases of hardy herbaceous perennials, including some fine lilies, rudbeckias, aconitums, delphiniums, hibiscus, tritomas, heleniums, lobelias, etc., awarded a silver medal.

Thomas Cogger had a fine array of choice gladioli. Some specially fine ones were Mrs. L. S. McLeod, a fine pink seedling, and some forty other choice seedlings; Sunset, Majestic, Diener's American Beauty, Anna Eberius, Jack London, Mrs. W. Kent, Mrs. Thomas Cogger, Miss Helen Franklin, Mrs. Dr. Norton, Wamba, Charlemagne, Lawrence, Sweetheart, Nebraska and Pride of Hillegom.

Eugene Fischer had a beautiful collection of primulinus seedlings, including two lovely pure whites and some equally fine delicate pinks and yellows. Mr. Fischer is not working for large flowers; too many hybridists are over-emphasizing size, regardless of form and beauty.

Seth Borden had a fine table of gloxinias. H. R. Comley had a charming basket of yellow gladioli. Loren D. Towle had a decorative display of gladioli. Mrs. M. R. Case showed lace flowers and poppies and there were other interesting collections of gladioli and dahlias, some of them hard to determine ownership of. There were large and interesting displays of both fruits and vegetables. W. N. C.

How About Pitching Horseshoes?

A short time ago a friend of mine, who had recently bought one of the country's leading farm papers, asked fifty or more advertising men to be his guests for a day at his 1000-acre farm.
Just how I came to be included is still unexplained, but it certainly was a privilege to contact with that group of live wires, among whom were several personages of both national and international fame.

After a most delicious clam bake was served out in the woods, all the guests were lined up for a horseshoe throwing contest.
Aside from its fun, the thing that impressed me was the way everyone, regardless of fame or name, played as if nothing else in their life had ever been half as important.
Ex-Secretary of Agriculture Houston was the biggest boy of the lot and came within only one of snatching off the first prize.

The lesson I brought away with me was, that the bigger the man the less seriously he takes himself.
He is serious with serious subjects only.
Sometimes I wonder, if we didn't take ourselves so seriously, we would be more serious about our business.

Which may or may not have anything to do with who you and I send our F. T. D. orders to.

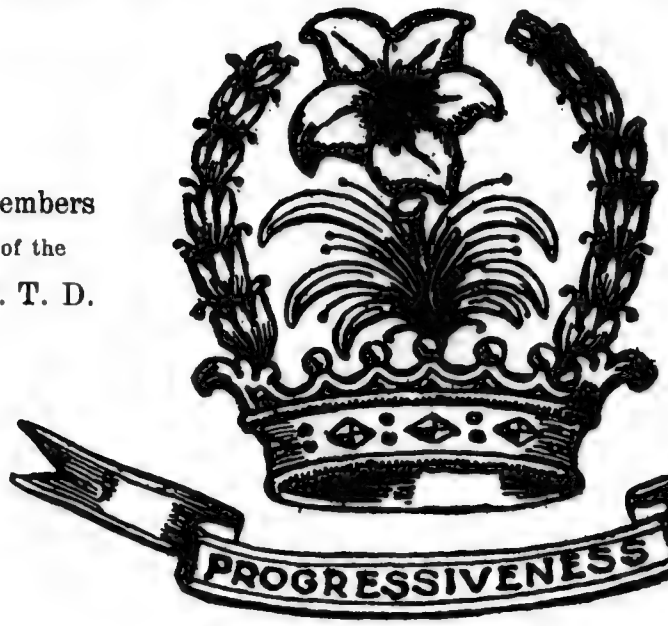
pensation are claimed and payment enforced because other men out of turn are allowed to work under certain circumstances in the turn claimed by another employee. The so-called 8-hour day in the industry, both for day men and mines, is equivalent to approximately six and one-half to seven hours' actual work. These, and many other abuses obtain in the industry because of the power of 100 per cent organization, enforced through the check-off.

The mine committee of three at each mine is under the direction of the local union and district officers. The district officers are under the direction of national executive board and national officers; hence, there is a system or network of organization that is complete in its connection from the local union to the national body.



The operators are persistent in their efforts to correct the evils that creep in, but in each instance find themselves confronted with 100 per cent organization locally and 100 per cent support of the national organization, due to political exigencies and factions between the national officers, and, as a rule, it seems that each officer, to be worthy of constituents' support, must be a little more radical and a little more aggressive than his opponent for the job. If final disagreements result in the making of biennial contract over these abuses, whether as to exorbitant wage scales or abuses as to customs and conditions that increase cost of production, a strike ensues with the support of the national organization and the check-off system is put in force throughout the country to support those sections of the country on strike. Thus, it is no uncommon occurrence for from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 to be expended in a strike campaign in any given state that desires to try conclusions in escaping from the unjust conditions imposed by the demands of the miners.

Strikes to Punish.

So successful has become the power of organization among the miners under the check-off system, wherein they rule their own membership with an iron hand by fines and penalties for disobedience, that the custom is to punish an operator by strikes and shutdowns for the most trivial causes, many times punishing themselves by loss of employment and wages, apparently for the mere purpose of demonstrating the power of 100 per cent organization. As an illustration, in the state of Kansas, known as district 14 of the Mine Workers, under the domination of a district president, run mad with power, the record of each mine strike for a period of sixty-nine months, ending December, 1921, shows 1,873 strikes and a loss of 1,609,041 1-man days, which, valued at the per diem wage, amounts to the grand total sum of $10,552,757 loss in wages for that period. The gain accredited to these strikes in dollars and cents amounted to $852.53. This seems unbelievable, but the actual record of the association office proves these facts without a question and they are not disproved by the miners in that district.

So much for the view of the actual conditions in the mining industry.

The Controlling Factors.

As in all basic industries, there are three factors that make up the success or failure of the industry; to wit, production, transportation and consumption. The production embodies the operation of the mines and the willingness of the miners to produce coal regularly, in accordance with market demands; second, the transportation of the product, and third, the regularity of the market to meet the consumers' requirements. These three factors are necessary to secure the most economic, intelligent and satisfactory results. It goes without saying, since the operator has invested his capital in the business, his greatest desire is to work full time in order to secure profitable returns, but if labor refuses to work, the other two factors—even though transportation is efficient and willing and the consumer desires to buy—are helpless to remedy the condition; or if labor is willing to produce and the consumer is willing to buy, but transportation is unable to furnish cars, then the other two factors are helpless; or, if labor is willing to produce and transportation is equal to the emergency in furnishing cars, but the consumer is unwilling to buy, in order to maintain normal and stable production, the other two factors are helpless to secure stability and regularity of operation.

A Seasonal Industry.

Past experience has shown that the inability of these three factors to co-ordinate in a normal and regular way throughout the year from all the various causes makes the coal industry a seasonal industry, and, as in all seasonal industries, there must necessarily be engaged in the business more capital invested, more mines prepared for operation, more men employed in the industry than is necessary to meet the actual demand.

As an illustration, the national requirement of bituminous coal is approximately 500,000,000 tons per annum. The bituminous mines actually in operation have a maximum capacity of about 700,000,000 tons. Thus will be seen the excess capital, labor and actual cars for transportation necessary in order to be prepared and ready to supply the nation's fuel, as it can when the miner is willing to work, when coal cars can be had and are not in use for other purposes and when a whimsical coal consumer is ready to buy. This condition necessarily enhances the cost of production materially, but, as the only successful method of stocking coal yet devised is in the individual bins of the consumer and this is the only way to avoid deterioration, spontaneous combustion, extra cost of unloading and reloading and the loss due to competition with freshly mined coal, we must meet the coal situation as we actually find it from year to year. The consumer can do more to solve the problem of stability of operations than any other factors by purchasing coal at as nearly regular intervals the year around as may be possible, as that will induce stability of operations and hence reduce the cost of production.

Resumption of Operations.

At the present moment we are perhaps more interested in the resumption of mining operation, after nearly five months of a nation-wide strike, than in the details of mining operations. During the war time period and since, the miners have demanded five different changes in their contracts, which had previously been made each for a 2-year period. These were granted by the operators under the stress of increasing war-time costs of living and to meet the nation's need for coal during the war crisis. Notwithstanding the war was over in 1918, the power of a nation-wide strike in 1919 secured a twenty-seven per cent increase, which was also to last for two years, but early in 1920 a wild-cat demand, supported by the national officers, was made for $1.50 per day additional, which, in due time, was forced upon the operators to prevent another nation-wide strike, bringing the day wage scale up to $7.50 for eight hours' work for what is ordinarily considered common labor in the mines and equivalent rates for mining.

During the last year and a half there have been gradual, but material, readjustments in wages in all the other basic industries, but the United Mine Workers have persistently refused to consider any reduction of the war-time peak wages and are now, four years after the close of the war, insisting flatly upon a renewal of the war-time wages of $7.50 per day and the war-time equivalent on tonnage, day work, yardage and scales covering the various branches of mining. In addition to this demand, they have added a demand for a 6-hour day and a 5-day week. This, you will note, adds one-fourth of the cost to an 8-hour day production by reducing the output to a 6-hour basis. It also adds one-sixth to the weekly cost of overhead and maintenance for day and monthly men by cutting off one day in the week, as mining establishments must be maintained with a regular force of monthly men and other overhead cost. It is needless to point out that these demands are not only untenable in these days of readjustment of war-time conditions, but are radical and almost criminal in a business and moral sense, when enforced upon the country by a nation-wide strike.

Causing the Trouble.

The operators, as a condition of compromise, offered the November, 1917, wage scale of $5 per day as an adjustment. This scale of November, 1917, is sixty-nine per cent higher than the normal scale of 1914, prior to the war, and is fifteen per cent higher than the cost of living in comparison with 1914, yet the miners refuse to consider these propositions or even to go into conference with the operators in the several mining districts throughout the United States. They demand, first, that a wage scale be made for the four states jointly of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and this, too, without permitting the operators from any of the other outlying districts to have a voice in the making of such a wage scale, which wage scale for these four states the miners then proposed to hand to all of the rest of the mining districts in the United States as the scale under which they must operate. You can readily understand how unfair and unjust and unbusiness-like this proceeding would be if applied to any other business in the United States. The operators of each and all of the various mining districts have been ready and willing since last March and have pleaded with district and international officers through letters and telegrams, asking for the opportunity to negotiate agreements for each of the several mining districts, such agreements to be based upon the physical mining conditions in each field.

As an illustration, in Illinois and other states the level coal veins range from six to twelve feet thick. A scale made for such a field would not fit many of the pitching coal veins of from five to twenty degrees, which range from sixteen inches to four feet thick in the southwest. Also, the districts that are unionized find it necessary to consider the competitive conditions of surrounding non-union, coal-producing states, with which the cheaper produced coal comes in competition in the open market and which must be a factor in fixing the cost of production.

Government's Five Adjustments.

terests of the industry, attention is called to the fact that during the war period the government found it necessary to assume control of the coal industry in its production, distribution and prices, the only basic industry so controlled in its entirety. The five adjustments referred to during the war-time period amounted to an advance in wages, the aggregate sum of which as a bonus above the regular normal contract, and which was paid by the consumers of coal, resulting from government control, was $2,936,000,000 over and above the normal cost, under the normal pre-war time contract. Other basic industries are removing gradually and materially these war-inflated costs. Why should not the coal industry do likewise? In addition to the above bonuses, fixed largely while under government control, we should also add the bonuses paid to workers on the railroads while the railroads were under government control, which it is estimated makes an average advance in the coal rates in the country of $1 per ton, or an additional cost to the consumer for coal, delivery at point of consumption, of $2,223,000,000 or a total increased cost of coal to the public from 1916 to April 1, 1922, in excess of $5,000,000,000, due to bonuses paid to the miners and to the railroad workers. The coal operators recognize their responsibility in bringing about a liquidation of this war-time wage in order that industry of all kinds which depend so largely on coal for fuel shall be made to keep pace with a proper readjustment in all other basic industries, as only by the standard of coördination can the nation's prosperity be secured. The question naturally arises, how can this be brought about with justice to labor, to capital, to transportation and to the consuming public?

The Point of Disagreement.

The coal operators of the country agree to accept President Harding's proposal for the renewal of the $7.50 wage scale until April 1, 1923, carrying with it the appointment of a commission with full power to make readjustment of the wage scale prior to April 1, 1923, and for an examination of all facts that could be presented to them by both operators and miners dealing with the social, economic and industrial conditions in the country. This the miners refused to accept, preferring to use their so-called economic power of 100 per cent strike in the entire nation and thus force all other factors interested in the coal industry; to wit, invested capital, national transportation and the consuming public, to either surrender to the unwarranted demands of their economic power or take the consequences of national stagnation in business, and when winter comes on, ultimate suffering, damage and loss, due to a lack of fuel for the comfort and welfare of the population. In other words, the miner assumes the attitude of the bandit in the dark alley who says, "Stand and deliver," or take the consequences, which, in this case, means ruination to the nation's business and the danger of privation and death by freezing and all loss and damage resulting from this criminal crusade. This, gentlemen, is the coal situation in America today. Is it not time for the American citizens who believe in the protection of our American institutions and the homes and welfare of the people, to rise in their righteous wrath and compel, by whatever means may be necessary, a fair, judicial and orderly procedure in the investigation and determination of these great economic and industrial problems that face the country and which can be determined honorably without endangering the vast interests good, soaking rain is still looked for.

Much stock was shipped in daily last week. First-class stock was limited in supply and cleared every day. Most other grades were left over. Roses were plentiful and are now sold cheap in thousand lots.

Gladioli are still in oversupply. Extra good stock in Schwaben, Myrtle and America held up to $3 to $4 per hundred. In carnations the market is short on good quality stock and will be from now on until the later part of September. Asters are also overplentiful, as is usual at this time of the year.

sies, tuberoses, etc., help to make up the daily market. Lilies and valley are of little value of late.

Greens are much in demand and the supply is sufficient.

Various Notes.

The St. Louis party, sixty-three strong, which attended the S. A. F. convention last week, arrived in St. Louis August 20. They say that they never enjoyed a convention trip more than this one and they wish to express their gratitude through The Review to all the Kansas City florists for the hospitality shown. The bowlers were especially happy in winning the championship; also, those who won individual prizes. The 1922 convention will long be remembered by all those who attended.

C. A. Kuehn, who was determined to attend the S. A. F. convention, was prevented by being badly hurt in an automobile accident a few days before starting time. At last reports, he was much improved. By the end of this week he expects to be about again, attending to business.

At F. H. Weber's, in the absence of Mr. Weber, the store is in charge of Andrew Hoffman, Jr., and Fred Steidle.

Nell Rogers was held under bond for trial. It is claimed that various names have been used, such as "Mrs. A. J. Thomas" and "Mrs. Nell Thompson." Three of the companies who acted as complaining witnesses were Dahl's, the West View Floral Co. and Ralph Dean.

E. W. Walton, who operates the greenhouses on Cherokee avenue, is mourning the loss of his little baby. While Mr. Walton is a newcomer in this section, he is well and favorably known and the entire trade has expressed its sympathy with him in his loss.

The W. H. Letton Seed Co. has opened a new department, that of landscape work, and is shortly to issue a catalogue covering shrubbery, etc. H. L. Alexander, who is well known throughout the city and surrounding country, is in charge of the department and has already secured several large contracts.

A. W. Cline, of Dahl's, is on his vacation and his only regret is that the inevitable will happen, as usual: He has to work twice as hard after his return to take off the excess weight that he always accumulates after his yearly rest in South Georgia.

The Woman's Club, of College Park, held an exhibition of zinnias; Ralph Dean and Clifford Harrison were the judges and they bring back wonderful tales of the size of the exhibits. It is planned to make this a yearly feature.

O. J. Johnson, of the Johnson Greenhouses, of Memphis, Tenn., was a recent visitor. Mr. Johnson was en route to Florida shore points.

Mrs. Ruth Barnes, of West View, has returned from her vacation and the store seems more natural again. A. W. Hollingsworth, of the same company, is now taking his turn and will not be on the street until after Labor day.

While no definite announcement has been made, the street is anxiously waiting for the announcement of the details of the golf match between Irving Greshem and Thomas Joy. It is understood that the wires are hot between Nashville and Atlanta with regard to the different bets; both sides are "golf trading," and many long-distance arguments are taking place. Others are contemplating entering the field for the honor of challenging the present champion, D. C. Horgan. J. S. H.

The Market.

For the middle of August the market conditions here are good. Good stock cleans up as soon as it arrives. Even the poorer stock is not in great abundance. Roses are the scarcest of flowers at present. They move out as quickly as they arrive. The only flowers that approach a glut are gladioli; the best of these bring $4 per hundred.

Asters are arriving steadily now and are the best that have been on this market for a number of years. Delphiniums of the second crop are now in full bloom and are in A-1 condition. A considerable number of Easter lilies were to be had last week and they cleared because of the unusual amount of funeral work.

Miscellaneous stock, including zinnias, snapdragons, valley and gaillardia, moves well.

Various Notes.

H. W. Sheppard reports a good week in funeral work. He has noted a great number of August weddings. The interior of this shop has undergone a complete change of scenery and decorating, which makes it a fine-looking place, indeed.

C. E. Critchell, in company with Mrs. Critchell, is spending some time in the east. The establishment reports a good week in the sale of green goods.

Miss Christine Bossmeyer, bookkeeper at C. E. Critchell's, has returned from her vacation on the lakes. She reports a delightful trip.

Fred Gear, of Central Vine street, has had some attractive windows lately. He reports a good week in funeral work.

Louis Roth's business is indeed progressing, by the appearance of his new store, at 1427 Vine street. He has Florists to Picnic.

Party Visits Greenhouses.

Through the courtesy of Charles M. Weaver the following-named men visited the Burpee seed farms at Doylestown, Pa., with Charles M. Weaver at the wheel: Ira H. Landis, Harold Weaver, Harry Weaver, Elmer J. Weaver and Harry K. Rohrer. The party was escorted over the immense fields by George W. Kerr, and later visited the trial grounds of the firm, where all novelties are carefully tried out. Of particular interest to the party were the new gladioli, the result of years of crossing and selection under Mr. Kerr's direction. It is safe to say that several new varieties which bear the earmarks of high-grade commercial value will be sent out from these farms.

The immense planting of dahlias just starting to bloom was another scene of much interest and we are glad to state that Mr. Kerr has succeeded in obtaining some remarkable new colors in Jean Kerr, the high-grade white commercial dahlia which has proved so perfectly immune from all insect pests.

tional reputation for growing geraniums, is adding several houses this season for propagating purposes.

Thomas R. Fries' establishment, on Ryder avenue, stands at the head of the list for having the finest planted florist's grounds in this section, and has certainly shown what a retail plantsman can do in beautifying his home grounds. The writer has just returned from a 2,000-mile motor trip through the New England states and saw nothing to excel Mr. Fries' endeavors.

East of the boundaries of Lancaster a community club was formed for beautifying the streets for a recent festival. Over $3,000 were taken in. The following florists took an active part in the festivities: L. S. Landis, A. K. Rohrer, Edward Rohrer, Harry K. Rohrer, Ira H. Landis and Elmer J. Weaver.

Julius Siebold, of the W. B. Girvin greenhouses, is visiting in Chicago and St. Louis.

H. D. Rohrer's Sons are sending out many thousands of Primula M. Rohreri. C. U. Liggit, of Philadelphia, handles the output of this valuable mid-winter blooming primula.

At the place of E. P. Hostetter, Manheim, Pa., much space is being planted to the firm's new sweet pea, Mrs. E. P. Hostetter, a beautiful pink, which is unsurpassed by any of the new introductions in freedom of growth, productivity, length of stem and size of bloom.

The planting of the lawns of the Hamilton Watch Co. is under the care of Levi Long, gardener. H. K. R.

The Market.

The market was flooded with gladioli all last week. Asters are not quite so good as they were a week ago. Carnations are small and of poor quality; there is little demand for them. Roses are showing the effects of the warm, dry weather. Columbia roses are the favorites.

store. Huge displays were arranged in the windows and several long tables filled with displays were set along the center of the store. Harry Davis had about forty vases, among which were the varieties, Marshal Foch, Diplomat, Queen Esther, Murielle, Golden Wedding, Majestic, American Beauty and Duke of Wellington. C. J. McCarthy had ten vases, showing Peace, Panama, Halley, Schwaben, Niagara, Prince of Wales and others. George Boucher displayed about forty vases, showing Mrs. Dr. Norton, Pendleton, Edith Cavell, General Pershing, Francis King, Herada, Liebesfeuer, Panama and others. Schum Bros. also had a fine display.

A fine summer display of lavender gladioli, arranged in vases about a fountain banked with physostegia, was seen at the place of J. B. Keller Sons last week.

E. C. A.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Business in the sale of flowers was at zero here last week, owing to the oversupply on the market. Gladioli are the principal flowers on the market. These have seen their best days, however. From now on much improvement in the market is looked for. Asters of better quality are making their appearance. The demand for decorative flowers is negligible.

The premium winners at the Worcester show last week were numerous and the exhibits were fine.

The Quarry Floral Co. will open a new flower store in one of the largest grocery stores in the city in the near future.

dow. When prosperity arrived, we shared it together, giving credit where it was due. Since we are both readers of The Review, we are equally well informed on matters pertaining to the business.'' The silver wedding of our esteemed confreres occurred August 17 and was celebrated by a large circle of relatives and friends, who gave visible expression of good wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Hannell both take an active interest in the business, assisted by their sons, John and Samuel. A third generation has appeared to perpetuate, possibly, the line of expert plantsmen.

W. M.

TERRE HAUTE, IND.

Local business was erratic last week with most of the trade. Outside stock shows the need of rain. There were some good gladioli to be had. Roses were plentiful at $2 to $8 per hundred.

W. H. Cline has finished his new store, and has opened for business with a fine line of pot plants. Cut flowers will be added soon. The greenhouse in the rear of the store is in fine shape. The store is located at 1622 North Ninth street.

The credit men of Terre Haute spent their annual picnic at Parker's dahlia farm. Several hours were spent looking at the wonderful cannas, gladioli and dahlias, which are in fine shape at this place.

Heinl & Weber have finished glazing their new carnation house.

The J. W. Davis Co. has added palms to its list of plants.

repair work on six of their greenhouses. The firm reports a good business.

Stover's Flower Shop was busy last week with funeral work, together with two wedding decorations. M. C. R.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

There has been little change in the market here since last week. Large quantities of asters and gladioli continue to pour into the market. The demand, however, is exceedingly good. Nevertheless, the supply is so great that a great surplus is left every day.

Roses are arriving in fairly good shape for this time of the year. There are still a few good carnations, which move out daily. Plenty of outdoor flowers are seen, but the demand is limited.

Various Notes.

W. W. Bortz, of Greensburg, was a visitor in the city last week. He reported business in Greensburg is fairly good. He made known that he is building a new residence.

DeForest Ludwig, of the E. C. Ludwig Floral Co., is spending the balance of the summer at Bells camp, situated in the mountains in McKean county.

John Murchie and family, of Sharon, Pa., spent a day among the wholesalers last week. Mr. Murchie reports business as good for the midsummer season.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is distributing among its customers and friends a new fall catalogue, announcing the firm's twenty-fourth anniversary.

John Keil and family, of East Liverpool, O., spent a day among the florists last week.

The McCallum Co. was cleaning house last week.

Mrs. J. W. Golden, daughter of the late Charles Peterson, East Liverpool, O., was a visitor in the city and reported that Mr. Golden has purchased the store formerly owned by the Charles Peterson Co., of which Mr. Golden has been manager for several years. The business

CONFERENCE ON LIMING SOIL.

A conference under the auspices of the American Society of Agronomy will be held at the University of Tennessee experiment station, September 11 to 13, to review the present status of the science and practice of liming in relation to soil improvement and crop production, and to inspect the equipment of the Tennessee station for investigating those problems.

This conference is the outgrowth of the letter sent out by President Morgan, of the University of Tennessee, the latter part of May, pointing out the wide importance of the practice of liming, and emphasizing the rapid development in the scientific aspects of this field in recent years, and their ramifications in many directions, which combine to make highly desirable a conference of those concerned with these problems. The large amount of energy being put into that subject by the Tennessee agricultural experiment station and by the many other stations and the benefits of joint discussion by all agronomic workers in the liming field should make such a national conference at this time particularly worth while. A number of papers are scheduled on the program on phases of liming likely to be of much interest.

RODGERS' NEW STORE.

Opening of the new J. W. Rodgers flower shop at 126 East Third street, Dayton, O., October 20, will mark a great step in the progress of the florists' business at Dayton.

Mr. Rodgers' business has grown too large for his present room at 4 South Jefferson street. The new Third street place will be one of the largest flower shops in Ohio. The shop will have a frontage of twenty-four feet and a depth of 140 feet, with a 24-foot mezzanine

Buy Another Book Today

Many of the most successful business men in the trade had little schooling—but they practically all are readers—they read The Review each week and they buy books frequently. Such men are self-educated—theirs is knowledge gleaned by reading.

It is the mission of The Review to assist its subscribers in every way to improve their knowledge of the trade and their knowledge in other fields of human interest. As a measure of co-operation The Review has added to its services to subscribers a book purchasing service. This department, of course, specializes on books pertaining to the business of florists, nurserymen and seedsmen, but in addition will secure for subscribers, without charge for its service, any book they want, of any nature.

If you want a book of any given title, The Review will get it for you. Or if you want a book on any certain subject, The Review will send you the titles, with prices, of all the books on that subject.

Look over the list in the appended coupon. Most of these are standard books by well known authors. Order the one which seems, from its title, most nearly to concern your special interests. When you have read it carefully, order another.

Put a cross opposite the books you want. Clip the coupon and send it to us with a check to cover cost. Books will be forwarded, postpaid, without delay.

Albany, N. Y.—The second annual flower show of the Albany Rotary Club was held August 11, at the Hotel Ten Eyck. The show was viewed by many Albanians, after which the flowers were sent to the various hospitals. The silver cup was won by C. Edward Jones, superintendent of schools of Albany, with a huge exhibit of wild flowers. The judges of the show were Louis Menand and E. P. Tracey, of Albany, and J. S. Horton, of Watervliet.

The Market.

The market is in a more stable condition than was the case last week; it is not so glutted and prices are more normal. Considering the season, the demand has been fairly good.

Roses are a little more in evidence, at prices ranging from $4 to $25 per hundred. A few carnations are peeping into the market, but as yet these are just a limited number of stragglers.

Gladioli, which have been so numerous, have decreased somewhat in supply. The price has been holding better at $4 to $6 per hundred.

Better asters are appearing. The poorer grades, which had previously been the only available ones, are still to be had in large supply and are sold cheap. Good stock, however, brings good prices.

Almost all lilies are scarce; Easter varieties are especially so.

Other available flowers include delphiniums, buddleia, gaillardias and zinnias.

Potted ferns have been in demand for display windows during the torrid weather.

Various Notes.

O. E. Steinkamp is the proud father of a new baby girl.

Cris and Bertha Elsner have bought their father's range and will now be in business at that place. They will grow a general line of stock.

Because the intense heat has caused the drooping of cut flowers in their windows, local florists have resorted to plants, pottery and artificial decorations. Some of these have been exceedingly attractive.

Harry Dietz, assistant state entomologist, is of the opinion that the amateur show of the Farmers' Trust Co. will be a big feature every year, judging from the enthusiasm with which it was received. Mr. Dietz was one of the prize-winners at this exhibit.

Bertermann Bros. Co. has an attractive display window.

John Rieman has an attractive window of ferns, palms and begonias.

Greene's Flower Shop has some attractive pottery, behind which are staged painted grasses, palms and ferns.

Pahud Bros. Co. is cutting some excellent zinnias, grown under the Skinner system. E. E. T.

George Buescher is entering the trade. Mr. Buescher was formerly a gardener. He has now about 10,000 square feet of glass and is devoting all of this space and his attention to the production of cut flowers and plants.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

TO CHRISTEN THOMAS ROSE.

The Portland Rose Society and the Royal Rosarians of Portland are arranging details for an impressive ceremony to take place at the time of the meeting of the general convention of the Episcopal church in September. The new climbing rose then will formally receive its name, Mrs. George C. Thomas.

This new rose, which was shown in the 1920 Rose Annual, is the result of ten years of effort by Captain George Thomas, of Philadelphia, to produce an everblooming climbing rose, and its record under the Portland test evidences his success. The new rose, planted in the International Rose Test Gardens, Portland, bloomed from May until October, producing during that period over 400 blooms, and scored the highest of all roses tested in 1921.

The time of the naming of the new rose was set for this date instead of during Portland's rose festival, as has been customary in like cases, because of the fact that Captain Thomas' father was for many years the treasurer of the national Episcopal church organization, and his mother, for whom the rose is named, has been one of the country's largest contributors to the work of the Episcopal church.

At the time of the ceremony, which is scheduled to take place in the Auditorium, at Portland, Saturday evening, September 16, Captain Thomas will be presented with the gold medal of the city of Portland for the best new climbing rose and the silver trophy of the Portland Rose Society for the best new rose produced by an amateur.

As a special feature attending this ceremony, the Royal Rosarians will knight several prominent rose growers, who will be in the city at that time as delegates to the general convention of the Episcopal church.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Wholesalers and retailers alike reported business as good last week. Looking back over the summer, which is nearly over, it is found that, as far as retail trade is concerned, business has been up to or a little above the average, while wholesalers, as a rule, have not maintained their position. This may possibly be accounted for by the fact that much of the stock shipped goes beyond the "white spot," as it is termed on business maps, and of which Los Angeles is the center. There have been times when stock was overplentiful, but at no time since May has there been anything like a glut, while good stock has never gone looking for a purchaser. It is the mediocre or poor stock that does not sell. Regarding quantity and quality of flowers, conditions are just about the same as reported the previous week, except as noted above.

Various Notes.

An interesting letter from J. Dieterich, who has spent considerable time in Switzerland and Germany, and some views of his native town came to the writer last week, showing that Mr. Dieterich has been having a pleasant time. He says that many changes have come over his old home in the twenty years he has been away from it. He intends to visit Stuttgart, where he worked as a young man, and also to visit other towns before he returns to America. He is intending to sail August 31, arriving in New York about September 12; from there he will come home by easy stages. He also speaks of a pleasant visit he had with Paul Staiger's father and, doubtless, Mr. Staiger, who also has been in Los Angeles for many years, will be looking for Mr. Dieterich's return with interest.

A. Knopf has returned to his place with the Redondo Floral Co. and last week F. Reymond started on his vacation.

Business is good at Wright's Flower Shop. N. Benaphyl returned from his automobile trip last week. He reports a good time at San Diego and Santa Barbara.

Oscar Schneider, of Purdie & Co., has returned from Camp Boldy. Mr. Purdie says that he is too busy to get away for more than a day at a time.

A letter to J. Gorini from Angelo Tassano, in Italy, shows that Mr. Tassano and his wife and children are all enjoying their trip in the home country.

E. Gill, of Berkeley, was a visitor last week.

John Gordon, manager of Darling's Shop, is in Catalina for a few days.

Roy F. Wilcox was elected a director at the S. A. F. convention at Kansas City last week.

Some exceptionally fine asters and rubrum lilies were noted at the store of S. Murata & Co., where the shipping staff is busy all the time. R. Overstreet has returned from his vacation.

Looking well and feeling fit, Manager Williamson, of the city store of Walter Armacost & Co., has returned after his vacation, spent in the north and at Catalina. Although he says he is not superstitious, Mr. Williamson lays some of the good luck of the trip to gathering a 4-leaf clover near a gasoline station when starting out.

Speaking of the last summer, George Hall says the firm has not had a really dull week all through and he is well satisfied.
